	2020-04-27 11:10:55	Gauteng		No I do not	The continued consumption of meat (the flesh of animal corpses) reflects a moral failure of "modern" humans on a colossal, institutionalized and endemic scale. The fact that this list contains animals considered to be endangered reveals a complete absence of intellectual and moral consideration. Food security - the new buzzword of NGO's and governments who have, as can be predicted, spent more time enriching themselves and their families and friends than addressing in a mature, sensible and responsible manner issues of the day - would be better addressed if more people ate less meat, not more, or a greater variety of meat. The real reason for this list, as it stands, is to profit from exporting meat to other countries in exchange for foreign currency and for political favour.	Mathew

	2020-04-27 10:46:19	Gauteng		No I do not	What is the real intention behind this new list? Is it to increase income for the country by the increased export of domestic and wild animals? I object to both. Our wildlife should be protected. The situation regarding some animals on the list (rhino, giraffe, etc.) is already of great concern e.g.rhino poaching. There is no guarantee that animals exported alive will be properly treated on voyage or on arrival at the destination: refer the horrendous conditions suffered by sheep exported from Australia to the Middle East that came to light 2 years ago. There seems to be no regard for the need to maintain vital biodiversity. Our animals are not items to be sold off or killed and treated as items of trade.	Cynthia

There is so much evidence of the negative effects of meat in your diet. Further, many of these animals are the very thing that will build our tourism economy again, should we not be protecting them, our heritage, and educate people on the importance of protecting them. Furthermore, so many of the diseases we have faced and currently facing originated from animals. Is it not time to change our ways, our outlook and do what is best for our health, our children, nature and the planet?	Irene

I regard the senseless killing of these Animals as cruel and brutal, perpertrated by the insane to satisfy their greed. I will never understand the hearts and minds of individuals involved in such brutality. Humans have a deep seeded sense of self preservation and we consider our lives to be precious, these animals want to live as much as we do. My heart goes out to these creatures who are not able to speak nor fend for themselves. They are forced into these deplorable conditions and they have no voice. I am that voice speaking out on their behalf! I am hoping that all of this will come to an END for the sake of our beautiful animals. 	2020-04-27 08:04:18	Gauteng		No I do not	It is an irrational decision. Limiting or prohibiting the slaughter of wild animals and endangered was done for a good reason. Amongst other things it protects our wildlife and natural resources, protects us from disease, discourages poaching and creates opportunities for sustainable income from ecological tourism activities. Extending the list of animals allowed for slaughter will create and international demand for these animals and hence result in an unprecedented increase in poaching. The country will have to invest billions of Rands more to protect these species and its nationals parks from attacks. There is no economic or logical reason for this.	Walter

We as the inhabitants of this earth have taken full advantage of this beautiful place we call home and the earth is tired. It needs to teach us all a lesson because of the millions of years of abuse and sadness it has had to endure, caused by Mankind. Rather protect, love and care for each living being on it, instead of kill every living animal that was put here, to live with us in harmony. What this Virus has taught me is, just like that, money, fame, power and beauty are worthless. Mother nature's message to us all " You are not necessary. The earth, water and sky without you are fine. When you come back, remember that you are my guests, NOT my Masters" STOP KILLING OR SENDING OUR ANIMALS away to be KILLED in other countries. 	2020-04-27 07:07:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Becoming a 2nd China is the aim of this corrupt, murderous, greedy and useless government!!! NOT what thinking, intelligent, compassionate, educated and evolved South Africans want!!! It is precisely THIS type of mentality which has made China and all other barbaric countries the most hated nations in the world, but the ANC don't give a shit, they're just interested in filling their bottomless black pits of greed! STOP murdering our farmers and let them produce food for your masses - and STOP encouraging mass extinction of all domestic and other wildlife!! This government don't give a damn about the future, their only concern is to feed the current growing masses who are breeding out yet more starving mouths! Disgusting, revolting and EVIL decision!! 	2020-04-26 21:15:38	Gauteng		No I do not	This has to be contrary to SA Govt policy in terms of game conservation, tourism, San Parks acts and regulations etc and is therefore totally unconstitutional. What is she thinking; has she even consulted with her colleagues? Or, are they all focused on power; ie making illegal 'laws' under Covid19 powers (that don't exist) to show how 'strong' they are i. e. Trying to match the illegal nonsense started by Bheki 'Jimmy Kruger' Cele, who is intolerant of anyone who doesn't agree with his ideas; no compassion for the citizens of SA at all, only interested in his arrogant 'power'. 	2020-04-26 19:10:27	Gauteng		No I do not	It is clear to me that this draft amendments to the list was not compiled scientifically and was not based on thorough research but aims to merely open up many wild-life species as an open slaughter market-place without any convincing reasons. Rare species like the Roan Antelope, Grey Rhebuck, and Rhinoceros speaks to this fact. Please do not endanger our wildlife any further than it is already facing (considering the various battle fields which include poaching and many more, ...) and save our wild-life heritage for future generation and consider what truly makes Africa unique..... 	2020-04-26 18:02:50	Gauteng		No I do not	No person including ministers should be given he unfettered powers mooted in this act and /or in the proposed amendments. Any and all slaughtering of animals either wild or tame for gain for human consumption must be subjected to regulatory safety and health approval . Where animals are bred for slaughter the breeding environment must be approved, the number expected to be bred and slaughtered and or bred and kept or sold must be approved against the total population of that animal in the country or world. Where animals are diseased or not properly cared for and have to be put down it must be reported and investigated where this is over an established threshold. all and every exception permitted must be reported on at least annual basis and be subjected to parliamentary approval . A blanket approval can be approved for persons raising or breeding of animals for personal use.	ross

	2020-04-26 17:10:38	Gauteng		No I do not	No, No and NO!!! Why are there wild animals on this list? Is this to appease the ANC's Chinese masters so they can continue raping our country of its wildlife, but legally? You can take off horses, donkeys, mules, swans, geese and ducks off the list too, as well as peacocks. From my own point of view, NO animals should be on this list and we shouldn't even be having this debate. The current ANC speaker of the house has a pending court case for animal abuse against her, so what chance does any appeal for animal welfare is there with the current government firmly entrenched, seriously? WHAT IS WRONG WITH THIS GOVERNMENT? IS NOTHING SACRED ANY MORE? OUR ANIMALS ARE NOT UP FOR SALE.	Wendy

					I do not support the amendment of this act. Our wildlife as we know it, will be gone in the wink of an eye. The near extinct species will be gone immediately. What are you doing? Firstly with the amendment of this act, threatened wildlife will become extinct in the wink of an eye. People can't just eat everything they see, some things need to be preserved. Especially near extinct animals like Rhino, elephant, giraffe and other wild animals on the list. I would actually burn an elephant or other near extinct animal if it needs to be killed for one or other reason. Never make those available for slaughter, meat or biltong. There aren't many left. Secondly the tourism industry will be wiped out when near extinct wildlife is lost by an irresponsible decision like putting threatened wildlife species on the list. Jobs in both the wildlife sector and tourism will be lost when the amendment is changed. Tourism revenue includes the revenue from places like hotels or guesthouses where tourists will be staying, eating, cars they will be travelling with, guides, etc. A lot of tax will be lost to government. When the tourist attraction and scarce wildlife in SA are wiped out and the tourism industry is non existent, many people would have lost their jobs, huge revenue to the country coffers would be lost... There will be less money to pay grants, schools, hospitals and other expenses that is needed in SA. There will be more suffering. After Moody's decision to rate SA junk, I would rather encourage preservation of near extinct species in SA. This will be our lifeline in future. Tourism will be an important industry because with the way the Rand is going to fall, SA will be a bargain to visit and a good destination for overseas visitors. Thirdly, to include all animals on such a list for meat slaughter and consumption, will bring a huge imbalance in nature as we know it. Animals, even snakes have a purpose in nature, If snakes don't catch rats and mice, you will start getting plagues of a different nature in our country. Don't open our country to that please . Think before you just change acts. People may be bored in office or try to show they are working... Rather change the act to bring in more protection for animals on the near extinct list. What are you thinking? Are you thinking of the consequences of the change in such an act at all if you include threatened wildlife? THINK before you do!!!!!! First think about the consequences before you start writing amendments to acts that should have been left untouched. We have fought for years to stop poachers and the Chinese stealing our heritage. Our wildlife needs to be protected. Rather create a new draft on the protection of our wildlife. The list on animals that could be eaten should include things like duck, cattle, sheep, etc. Even deer that is over populated can be considered at most. These are animals normal people would eat. Animals that can be bred effortlessly. Not our threatened wildlife. NO, NO, NO TO THE CHANGES PROPOSED!!!! This such an irresponsible thought, even. Who is sitting behind this? If the Chinese is giving someone a bribe to get this amendment changed so they can dive into our wildlife, it should be brought to the light immediately. They will kill everything. They take and there will be nothing of a proud SA left. They never give back. They just take. Eating bats and snakes and anything else belong to the Chinese culture. And those carry serious sicknesses with them. Be wise please. We are now fighting COVID 19. A disaster to our country's economy. Don't open our country to what the Chinese are doing. Unless you want to participate in wiping out our citizens as well by strange sicknesses, and by allowing the sicknesses that are accompanied with just eating everything people can lay their hands on. There will be new sicknesses in our country. And when the last elephant and rhino are slaughtered, and we have eaten all there is to eat that people can lay their hands on, there might be famine to round all off. Go and have a look higher up in some parts of Africa like Somalia where they have eaten all the wild animals and all they can lay their hands on. They have to eat the bark of trees to stay alive. Is that your vision for South Africa, or do you want our country to be blessed with over abounding and healthy wild life, and all the economic and financial blessings our country has enjoyed as a result of that. Know that you have the potential to be the architect of above scenario when you start including everything that can be slaughtered on your list without taking any of the above consequences into consideration. Thank you.

					Human life on planet earth will never be the same again because of the SARS Cov 2 virus. and scientific evidence suggests it is a virus found in wild animals that we as humans were not even aware of. By adding wild animals, bush meat to meat that can be sold for slaughter and human consumption you will be opening humans to ever more horrific viruses that we are currently not aware of. Every horrific virus humans have had to deal with in the past 40 years has had animal origins. AIDS, Swine Flu, SARS, MERS, SARS Cov 2. These viruses are a direct result of the abominable way humans have dealt with wild animals and farm animals. If you add bush meat to the meat that can be sold for slaughter & consumption the viral diseases you will unleash on humanity will make SARS Cov 2 look like a tea party in comparison. Wild animals belong in the wild. Much of their habitats have been already been destroyed by humans. They should be protected not added as a food source. They have social bonds and structures and emotions just as humans do and have intrinsic value as do humans. From a human health and moral perspective such addition is unacceptable in a civilized democracy. This world belongs to wild animals as much as it belongs to humans. Humans should be acting as the custodians of planet earth, its wild creatures and their habitats. We have destroyed, tortured and murdered enough of what is wild and beautiful on this planet. My suggestion; teach people to be vegetarians and vegans and we won't have the obesity, high blood pressure and cardio vascular epidemics we have in this country, which costs all South Africans an untold fortune that could be better spent on planting vegetable sources of protein to feed the nation. Time to change to a better way of life for all. Remember what a great man once said " do unto others as you would have done unto you " And what could be more other than a wild animal

	2020-04-26 15:22:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered Species which are NOT FARMABLE USING ACCEPTED HUSBANDRY METHODS to sustain a demand, should never be allowed on any meat consumption list. The excuse of poached Rihno or other animal meat going to waste is a poor one. Already there is a demand for a rihno horn due to some Chinese falicy that it improves sexual abilities. Allow its meat for consumption and or export and someone somewhere will increase the falicy to include the whole animal further increasing demand, poaching and ultimatly their extinction while further tying the hands of the limited resources trying to protect and prosecute current poaching offenders. It is JUST for money, a thing invented by the human animal, the only animal over poulated and out of balance with the eco-system. Perhaps laws should be made on the opposite end of disgusting acts, allowing the culling of the human being to weed the weak, needy and non contributers out from between the strong and upstanding contributers to society. And process their flesh for consumption. It would keep population in check, reduce the strain on resources needed to keep the low lifes fed, including polution, health, crime and several other required facets. It would also align concensus and same thinking allowing advancements in tech, reducing wars, and obstruction to progress without being skewed by the uneducated or lesser mans opinion, which is currently the easiest way to buy or win any election, blind with propaganda and promises while never consider the truth or fundimetals of the topic at hand. I say eat them instead. If humans are very close to pigs flesh wise, should taste like bacon right? Or, if not human eating human feed those lesser humans to the lions, tigers and and other predators as food while breading those animals in captivity for human consumtion, close the loop. Apalled yet? Should be, same thing gos with eating the flesh of any animal not able to be farmed in abundance numb nuts!	David

	2020-04-26 14:21:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I most certainly do not support adding wild or indigenous animals to the list of animals that can be farmed for meat. While buck are often culled and the meat distributed - if formally farmedfor that there would have to be very strict regulations and measures in place to ensure compliance. Too many animals suffer through bad management and animals that are not for domestic use cancause widespread disease among humans if not hygienically and humanely kept. There is too much abuse already as shown by lions kept to be farmed for their bones.	doreen

	2020-04-26 14:11:29	Gauteng		No I do not	No threatened animal species should ever be on a list that allows for their consumption locally or internationally. This amendment would not protect our wildlife. In light of the drastically reduced numbers of pangolin, rhino & other endangered species due to consumption by individuals in international markets, everything possible should be done to protect them, further to that with the outbreak of Covid-18, SARS & MERS prior to that, we should not in any way be enabling wet markets, exotic animal export or import! If nothing else, it greatly affects our tourism industry because we run the risk of wiping out the big 5. We cannot allow the continued trade of our wildlife.	Elizabeth
	2020-04-26 14:11:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The old list was sufficient. No exotic wildlife including birds fish and reptiles should be included, other than was already approved. Rhino should not be consumed and also no donkeys, mules or zebras. Wildlife should be left alone, think of how Covid-19 started through pangolin consumption. Antelope on the old list is fine.	CHRISTOF

	2020-04-26 13:56:42	Gauteng		No I do not	It is not necessary to add animals that are critically endangered to this list - protein can be sourced from numerous other sources and animal protein should NEVER be sourced from endangered species. Also, the world is currently under lockdown because of a virulent disease that is , at least in part, suspected of originating from the consumption of wild animals	Lee

	2020-04-26 13:50:42	Gauteng		No I do not	ALL wild animals should be excluded. Surely the Covid-19 epidemic has shown that wild animals of any description should NOT be included in any ''meat'' list. 	2020-04-26 13:46:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Your announcement and exceptance that Corona virus is tansmittend by wild animals in South Africa is irrational and irresponsible Game farming in South Africa is an essential practice for game conservation an plays an intregal part for the economy of the country	Louis
	2020-04-26 13:43:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Once this legislation goes through it will never be amended and poaching will surely increase in this country. This can only be to the detriment of animals in South Africa. It should not happen!	Anthony

	2020-04-26 13:25:29	Gauteng		No I do not	Emerging farmers will benefit from a much reduced list of game animals as there will be less competition in the market place. Very few emerging farmers are engaged in game farming. The market for game meat is in any case very selective and as such mitigates against commercial poaching. Is there any point in opening up further abuse of our wildlife resources?	Deryck

	2020-04-26 13:21:58	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absurd to list threatened animals as suitable for transport for the enjoyment of diners who like to eat exotic game meat. It is also very odd to find animals on the list that do not exist in South Africa - kangaroos? Tibetan antelopes? Is this an international list that was simply dropped wholesale into the amendment?	Barbara
	2020-04-26 13:20:17	Gauteng		No I do not	It seems that we as humans just don't learn. Hopefully after Covid-19 we will leave exotic and almost extinct animals from the list. God has provived more than enough to choose from to exhort to this. Rhinoceros ? Serious ? We are trying to save the spesies and SA goverment puts it on a list to be consumed. Ridiculous.	Maré

	2020-04-26 13:05:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Over the last 60/70 years, successive governments have systematically raped the natural resources of our land. The impact has gradually crept up on us and many South Africans fail to see the cumulative impact of policies that are reducing our country to a waste land. Examples include: dwindling fish and crustation stocks; the quality of water in our rivers and dams; the quality of our air; unregulated mining; and the mountains of litter and garbage that deface our country. The same can be said for wild life, where in our lives, we could see hundreds of animals, birds and insect and plant species, pushed to the brink of extinction. Is this the legacy we want to leave to the generations that follow us? I do not believe so and it is time all South Africans prioritize the good of our country before their personal agendas. For the sake of brevity, I refrain from my providing my opinions on animal cruelty and animal rights. Some of our MPs might find those a little pointed.	mike
	2020-04-26 13:03:25	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support this suggested policy and strongly suggest that the animals that are on the newly suggested list be disregarded.	Reon

	2020-04-26 13:02:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly we need to protect all wildlife, there is not much left. Endandered animals should never be considered as food. Secondly Covid19 has taught us that if we eat animals that are not domestic animals raised for food we are in great danger of creating further viruses.	Madelein
	2020-04-26 13:01:42	Gauteng		No I do not	The individual who has brought this appalling and absolutely shameful act into possibility should hang their head in shame. The wild animals are in our care and we should be protecting them as much as possible. By doing this unspeakable act you are giving free reign to the unscrupulous traders and poachers to continue their cruelty. Have you not learnt from the virus evolving from animal slaughter.	Margaret
	2020-04-26 13:01:29	Gauteng		No I do not	I am sick and tired of Asian countries particularly decimating our wild life. South Africa must BAN all export of our precious wild life with immediate effect. Just look at the world economy now because a wet market in China sold pangolin meat. ENOUGH IS ENOUGH!	Lindsay
	2020-04-26 12:59:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Rhinos are on the brink of extinction as it is already....rather protect them even more....there are animals that can be eaten, cows, pigs, sheep and game (meaning antilope and buck). 	2020-04-26 12:39:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the proposed extended list. Wildlife is an important aspect of SA'S heritage, and for tourism. We must maintain the biodiversity to protect biomes and the environs. We need to develop agriculture and conventional animal husbandry for food sources, and set aside cultural differences for the sustainability of precious wildlife specious. A part of that is reducing human impact by limiting human population growth.... rather we should educate people about protecting our environments.	Anthony

	2020-04-26 12:11:24	Gauteng		No I do not	How can our minister of the Meat safety Act even consider to add South Africa's National Heritage of beautiful animals and to add some of our most already endangered species of animals to the act of animals to be slaughtered for meat. What kind of HERITAGE would we leave to future generations and our children if they will only be able to see these beautiful creatures in books? NO NO! Please rather remove the already endangered species from the present list and leave the non endangered on the list as it has been for many years.	Althea

	2020-04-26 12:03:26	Gauteng		No I do not	It is ridiculous to allow endangered species on the list. We have enough domesticated food animals already. Leave our heritage alone!!! Zebra, giraffe, rhinos, elephants etc. belong in the wild!!! Not on people's plates!!!	Anna-Marie
	2020-04-26 12:03:20	Gauteng		No I do not	This will decimate the wildlife that tourists from all over the world come to see and it will thus also destroy tourism in South Africa. Any reasonable thinking person will see that this law should be scrapped before it even comes before any public hearings as it makes a mockery of our law-makers.	Richard
	2020-04-26 12:01:16	Gauteng		No I do not	These animals are precious to our future. Provide tourists visiting, which in turn provides jobs for our people. The decimation of animal life forests and natural ecology is a great danger to humans. We are in the midst of a epidemic caused by eating animals which are not for consumption. 	2020-04-26 11:48:01	Gauteng		No I do not	There are animals that are safe to consume because they are bred for eating like sheep, and cows and springbok etc. The there are animals who roam freely and are nearing extinction. Animals who are not farmed and bred for consumption , should not be allowed to be hunted and killed as they then WILL become extinct . Once that happens , it cannot be turned around. Some animals are also not safe to eat as the Corona Virus taught us . Please be sensible and review this list. Elephants, Rhinoceros, Hippopotamus, , Horse ,donkey, dog / canine, cat/feline etc should not be on the list for consumption	Steve

	2020-04-26 11:41:14	Gauteng		No I do not	To Minister T Didiza, This draft amendment is TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE..... The extended list of animals is not ALL relevant to South Africa... Many of these animals on your extended list are all endangered because of hunting and poaching & should be removed from this list. Leave the Meat Safety Act to include Beef, Sheep, Goats, Pigs, Chicken & fish. ABSOLUTELY NO Need to include endangered animals. Even better, stick to vegetables & fruit.	Mags
	2020-04-26 11:39:27	Gauteng		No I do not	A rhino on a slaughter list? This is depravity. Rather keep all these wild animals alive and generate billions in Tourist money. It also creates many local jobs by keeping these animals alive. Slaughter them and you'll eat for a year. And then? What are you going to eat when all the wild animals are gone. Think before you sign this Madam Minister.	Mario

	2020-04-26 11:36:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Not all meat wat about exporting og and cat meat to China include bat to . No import from China please	Freddie
	2020-04-26 11:31:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Just looking at the cut-a-paste nature of the list (some very exotic stuff for Africa) I doub't if any real scientific backup for such ammendment excists. Sustainability is the key and eating animals can secure their survival, but is must be carefully managed. Just openinig the doors can lead to a "rest of africa" scenario, where animals are eaten to extintction , if not in well maintained reserves.	Wietz

	2020-04-26 11:31:06	Gauteng		No I do not	I absolutely DO NOT agree with the slaughter of any wild and endangered animals. The old list was sufficient and MUST NOT change to include any other animals. What is the reasoning behind this change? I really do not understand how the government came about to initiate such an insane idea. We are supposed to preserve our wildlife and conservation. Totally ridiculous idea.	Rina
	2020-04-26 11:28:59	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot see the need to change the PRESENT List in any way at all. Many of OUR ENDANGERED LIST OF ANIMALS CANNOT BE ALLOWED TO BE SLAUGHTERED At WILL. This will very soon lead to the demise of OUR NATIONAL HERITAGE OF WILD ANIMALS AND WILL BE A GRAVE MISTAKE AND INJUSTICE TO FUTURE GENERATIONS WHO WILL NOT BE ABLE SEE ALL THESE ANMALS EXCEPT IN BOOKS! IS THIS WHAT WE WANT FOR OUR CHILDREN? PLEASE RETAIN THE PRESENT LIST OF ANIMALS ON THE MEAT SAFETY HEALTH BILL WHICH HAS BEEN IN PLACE FOR MANY YEARS AND HAS BEEN CAREFULLY CONSIDERED AND CONTROLLED.	Althea

	2020-04-26 11:17:44	Gauteng		No I do not	I would have thought that the recent experiences of MRS, Ebola and now Covid 19, all of which have apparently come from eating "exotic" animals would have been enough to ban the consumption of these and other non domesticated and rarely eaten species. How anyone can justify wanting to hunt, slaughter and eat these species defies logic.	steve
	2020-04-26 11:17:27	Gauteng		No I do not	I would like to hear what is the government's reasoning behind this. I consider this to be a crime against nature. It is insane to try and kill anything that moves, especially endangered species. Stop this madness	Hendrik W
	2020-04-26 11:15:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not condone the killing of any animal, net even those bred for human consumption. Have we not learnt anything from where we currently find ourselves. In case you were hiding under a rock CORONAVIRUS / COVID19. Brought about through human consumption of wild animals.	Petrus
	2020-04-26 11:12:59	Gauteng		No I do not	I dont think they should be on the list but rather banned from slaughter for human consumption	SHEELAGH
	2020-04-26 11:12:53	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no feasible reason why meat from any threatened species, indigenious animal, birds, reptiles or fish need to be consumed when there is more than enough available already.	Carol-Marie
	2020-04-26 11:12:17	Gauteng		No I do not	I absolutely agree that the slaughtering & trading of wildlife including dogs should be banned.	Trish

	2020-04-26 11:11:54	Gauteng		No I do not	It amazes me how the world, stops caring about where the source of a product comes from, and normally it's the wealthy, looking to satisfy their boredom with life. It is also the greed of humans to make a fast buck, at the expense of another life form and its like sacrificing our heritage, selling out, for what our country is known for. Africa is unique, lets keep it that way. We are known for our animals, not for the cruelty of butchering them.	HM

	2020-04-26 10:57:44	Gauteng		No I do not	interesting that this discussion even opens up mid Covid 19. is it not obvious that this pandemic is caused by the trade & consumption of wild & farmed animals . similarly previous epidemics with the same cause. this is a direct danger to people on a mass scale. also very destructive to reduce wildlife populations. tourism is a much more powerful & sustainable source of income. tourism is based on wild animals living in the wild.	jason
	2020-04-26 10:54:48	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot be putting these animals at risk. That’s being inconsiderate	Thasmiri
	2020-04-26 10:54:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the slaugter of wildlife for meat consumption purposes in South Africa. Wild animals carry many zoonotic diseases which can be transmitted to humans. The current global Corona virus crisis was braught on by the slaughter of wildlife in a wetmarket in China for meat for human consumption. The damage to the world's economy and to human lives lost due to this kind of disease causing a pandemic is symply an unacceptable risk that society cannot afford to pay. Additionally the added pressure of that consumption of meat or for traditional medicine puts onto wildlife populations is unsustainable and driving species to extinction. Please do not extend the list of wild animals for slaughter in South Africa and INSTEAD consider shortening it or banning wildlife slaughter and wetmarkets in SA. We the people deserve to live in a better, safer future allongside conserved wildlife populations. There is no excuse to allow this to continue anymore!	Edith
	2020-04-26 10:51:57	Gauteng		No I do not	No endangered species should be included for human consumption. The existing consumption of domestic poultry, meat and fish should remain. If however, any of the current animals being consumed are endangered, these should be removed from the list for consumption immediately. We have an obligation as humans to sustain wildlife on the planet for future generations.	Roger

	2020-04-26 10:43:04	Gauteng		No I do not	We as humans eat far too much meat as it is. Cattle and chicken are grazing on arable farm land and food is grown for them on land capable of producing food for humans. That’s the best conditions. In most cases chicken and cattle are made to cannibalize on their own by being fed processed remains of their own and remains of meat products that they should never eat. To make matters worse we now want to slaughter our wild life as well. Really what type of meat addicted monsters have we become! May be we should learn to leave space for nature instead of consuming everything around us like a swarm of locusts!	Caroline

	2020-04-26 10:40:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I oppose the draft by government. Endangered species, the 'big 5' and any species considered to be sensitive to the environment should be amended from the proposal. What impact will the vast removal of these animals have on our environment? There needs to be more studies (by various reputable professionals) on this subject. The very fact that this is being considered, is shocking in light of what is happening to the world at the moment because of wild meat trade. A great lesson can be learnt from Wuhan: don't mess with nature, stick to domesticated animal meat trade.	Damian

	2020-04-26 10:35:48	Gauteng		No I do not	There is a very non-specific provision that reads: "applies to all other animals ..... slaughtered for human and animal consumption" This allows carte blanche for the use of species such as dogs etc to be exploited as "pet food". This opens the door for further abuse of species such as lions. In the light of the COVID-19 outbreak, this is folly. In addition there is a huge lack of resources to police ethical practices. 	2020-04-26 10:32:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I do NOT agree with this draft amendment!! Many of the animals on the list are endangered species eg the rhino. 	2020-04-26 09:41:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals are being kept safe in the zoo and oceanaroums for decades to keep safe. Humans hunt without licences and with licences. I understand on farms where they thin out the herds and schools and groups of animals to not over populate and make the farm go into degradation. If the act goes on,and the disrepute of the world is not heard and things are not being put in place. Not only will South Africa lose, but so will the whole world. We cannot survive a wane and deterioration of our wild as it it not up to standard. Not our standard, but the standard of nature where symbiotic collaborations between us humans is key, but even more important, a wild ie. Nature where humans are not involved. We cannot say we are the intalligent species if all we do by killing unnecessarily and mess with habitats and other symbiotic enviroments which are there to keep us alive. By killing nature in turn we are killing ourselves. 	2020-04-26 08:53:14	Gauteng		No I do not	destroying wildlife from their natural habitat, impacts the eco system, (please see the wolf story in one of America's nature reserves) and ultimately the area, region, country, continent and the planet. the old list is acceptable, as most of the species can recover from controlled slaughtering, the new proposed list is an encouragement to kill anything that moves, more poaching and illegal trade. Then there is covid-19, do we not learn from this???? once the wildlife has gone, what next? cannibalism?	Tina

	2020-04-26 08:11:47	Gauteng		No I do not	In policy shaping we should consider: 1. Do we support farming and the produce of farmers who supply our ever increasing markets enough? SA can rather look for market to export by using the normal species that we are used to farm with. 2. By starting to extinguish our exotic wildlife we open ourselves to slaughter that which is precious to our country, drawing many tourist to SA. To preserve and protect. 3. Is SA driven by China and more of their people living here? Do we move in the direction of their consumption of almost every species on earth? Rather promote the conservation of wildlife as much as possible!!! 4. How many exotic animals can you produce iso normal chickens (for example) in the same space of farming land?. To slaughter elephants and rhinos for consumption is unthinkable. 5. 	2020-04-26 05:40:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Our game species need be protected and not considered as farm animals that can be slaughtered. Protect our game at all costs in order to maintain the value for hunting purposes only. The proposed list will lower the value of our game in SA in such a way that the country will also suffer by loss of income through tourism and the hunting industry. Please manage our valuable wildlife in such a way that we protect the value and ensure that future generations in our country and abroad can enjoy them through responsible hunting and tourism activities only. I therefore do not support the proposed list of animals for slaughtering purposes.	Christo

Or will us be like China... Our wildlife is our heritage to be protected. Look what has happened to our donkey population - their skins have been shipped to China to satisfy their inexhaustible appetite for so-called traditional cures. South Africa has been blessed with these beautiful and varied wildlife species - please, please do not threaten them by sending them to dubious importers - let them roam free for our continued pleasure! 	2020-04-26 01:31:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Has no one taken in that eating wildlife is a sin and extremely dangerous in the first place and that our wildlife is this country's greatest natural possession. We need to treasure our animals and not kill them for any reason. Tourists flock here for their love of animals which is wonderful source of valuable income to SA. If they are aware that this country is slaughtering wildlife they definitely will not give their support to tourism and will blacklist this country. South Africans who support the nature parks here will launch a huge protest and will create a lot of negativity towards this cruel and unnecessary practice DO NOT KILL OUR WILDLIFE PLEASE.	Denise
	2020-04-26 00:39:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely NOT. How can this possibly be considered? To slaughter and/or consume our incredible wildlife, already endangered, would be an outrageous crime. (Ms) T. Didiza should be exported to Wuhan.	Jackie

	2020-04-25 22:07:37	Gauteng		No I do not	We already have so many species of an impala on the endangered list . Each animal plays a critical role in the eco system. By allowing this, we will ruin nature in its entirety. There is also the existing problem with poachers and inhumane slaughtering of animals . This will just legalize the current crimes that is affecting our country, our children's heritage, game and nature reserves , and life . Imagine having no animals left except in the museums or maybe a zoo. Lastly also bear in mind that this will open doors for these animals to be sold illegally , increase in crime , impact on tourist industry if there are no proper game reserves left. South Africa has always taken pride in the fact that its a beautiful country with beautiful animals . Our tourist industry will be affected by this . And I can add many more reasons , but I think I made some valid points	Sonette

	2020-04-25 21:34:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Why are you as a Government Member advocating the extinction of all of our wildlife? Not for a minute can you expect poaching not to increase dramatically if this is passed. Wildlife is much more valuable alive for the tourist industry. Are you aware that C19 has allegedly come from the consumption of wild meat? Unless this is disproven then you stand the risk of repeating the current scenario of a World Wide virus outbreak of worse. Concentrate on humans consuming what the Good Lord intended us to to consume	Dave
	2020-04-25 21:34:19	Gauteng		No I do not	This is not only irresponsible, but also dangerous to eat all manner of wild animals. We should protect our wildlife for future generations, not devour them.	Hanli
	2020-04-25 21:31:50	Gauteng		No I do not	What is happening here? Why this draft.? Is our government not satisfied with the slaughter of enough of the animals already??? What about protection of game?? Is meat becoming an idol in the stomachs of the people of this country. Do they not have enough BLOOD? I AM APPALLED at the desire to open the slaughter of even more animals!! NO! NO! NO! Stop this! It cannot happen. As it is the butcheries are not humane. They are not watched over. It is horrific. Are you turning the way of the Chinese? Do you want to eat cats and dogs too? There is enough killing - of our precious animals, and what about our children ? Will they only view pictures, photographs, ad carvings of animals? Should be not teach our children to treat these creatures humanely and to enjoy watching them in the Game Reserves - what joy they bring! Stop this! And stop the inhumane way these creatures are transported, killed and hunted down. May every South African call out NO! to this draft! We should rather reduce the number of animals on the first list!!	Glenys

	2020-04-25 21:09:16	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa's animals are part of our heritage. We should be good stewards for the generations that follow us. How can we be planning to slaughter and /or export any threatened or endangered species? The slaughter and consumption of wild animals seems to have led to the current coronavirus crisis. This is called the 'law of unintended consequences'. Allowing for the sale of more exotic animals and birds may have more unintended consequences. Please do not allow this law to be passed in order to protect our wildlife.	Miriam

	2020-04-25 20:36:10	Gauteng		No I do not	I am appalled to read of this proposal and strongly opposed to it being implemented. How can it even be considered when so many people have spent time and energy, not to mention many millions of Rands/dollars spent, trying to protect the most vulnerable animals on the planet. Have all our "save our Rhino" efforts and projects been in vain? Have these people lost their senses? There is absolutely NO NEED for any endangered or even remotely endangered species to be added to this list. I agree with those that maintain that the previous list was more than adequate. NOBODY HAS THE NEED TO EAT ANY RHINO OR PORCUPINE MEAT, OR FOR THAT MATTER ANY ENDANGERED SPECIS MEAT! The Government should rather spend this time, energy and Tax Payer's precious money supporting the maintaining the sustainable farming that already takes place. Minister Didiza ought hang her head in shame merely because she has allowed this draft proposal to be drawn up in the first place!	George

					This proposed amendment to the Meat Safety Act is unconscionable and ill conceived especially at this time while the world battles a global pandemic directly caused by the consumption of wild animals! It is also interesting to note the date of this attempt to slip the amendment past the public (late February 2020) while the public's attention has been focused elsewhere with battling of the devastating effects of Coronavirus which has been ongoing since January 2020. The world has already faced numerous viral outbreaks and epidemics in the past two decades which have been directly caused by the transfer of viruses from wild animals to humans as we further encroach on their habitat and come into greater proximity with them. Such epidemics have included SARS (Covid-1), MERS, H1N1 (swine flu), Ebola and now Covid-19. Perhaps you do not read the news but even if you do not you should should take guidance from experts before issuing such an outrageous amendment. Why on earth would you be advocating the slaughter and human consumption of wild animals including porcupines, hippo, elephant and of all animals rhino (which are critically endangered)? South Africa has established a good system of wildlife conservation which drives much of South Africa's tourism which contributes to a large percentage of the country's GDP and foreign revenue. This ill-conceived amendment will also jeopardize this. Apart from the dangers of animal to human transmission of viruses, the sale of bushmeat, especially large animals that cannot humanely be slaughtered, is unconscionable. I am nothing short of disgusted by this sneaky attempt to undermine years of wild animal conservation and am hoping that the public and other members of Parliament will be wise enough to see the damage that this amendment can cause.

	2020-04-25 17:38:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Domestic animals are bred for this purpose. Wildlife should remain wild and untouched, but culled as herds that cannot be moved get too large, and the control sale of the produce should be governed too. Wildlife such as Rhino, giraffe are too few in numbers to survive extinction should hunting be opened to killing these species. When they are gone, they are gone. What brings them back. They all play a role in the ecosystem. Removing them will unbalance nature and cause havoc. Soon we will be just people on the planet without rivers, wild animals, and natural habitat. Just buildings, streets, and concrete and glass. With highways inbetween.	Thomas

Especially the consumption of veison which we have consumed for many years is a far more healthy option than meat, be it poulrty, beef or pork from mass production facilities like feed kraals etc. I have the feeling that this is jumpimg to conclusions with unsubstantiated evidence in totally different circumstances than the WUHAN market where the virus originated. 	2020-04-25 13:53:45	Gauteng		No I do not	This is so crazy. Is this not how the world got into the Corona Virus mess through wet marketing? Our wild life and domestic animal life is precious to this country. Clearly it is not to the man/men who dreamed of this idea. Clearly lock-down has gotten to him/them. What about in years to come? Our grandchildren, their children? No parks, no wild life. 'What is a giraffe (whatever) Granny?' What do South Africans gain other than financial greed for the few, when all that we have has been slaughtered / eaten / exported? Once this is allowed, how does one apply the broken window policy to it, to control it? We could/would never go back say, 'we made a mistake' and attempt to reverse this bad decision. How would we ever regain what we have now? We have seen too many bad/crazy/ greedy ideas that are now out of control and cannot be reversed, at the general citizens' of South Africa's expense. Its time South Africa looked after and learns to appreciate its assets and not continuously sell/dispose of them, for the sake of money and greed, that benefits few of this country. I trust our views are clearly understood on this idea. This is a definite NO!	Ian and Cheryl

	2020-04-25 13:46:42	Gauteng		No I do not	As a South African I find this sickening and heartbreaking that this would even be considered, slaughtering of our wild animals and birds for consumption, import, export and sale. This is our heritage and a love for our animals and environment should be encouraged and people educated on preserving and caring for our wildlife. Many of these species are endangered and if this amendment is passed other species could soon become endangered and even extinct. Many animals are already on the brink of extinction. This would increase poaching and create a free for all to abuse. South Africa is very blessed to have the beautiful variety of animals, birds and fish. We should be safegaurding, protecting and preserving them. This would lead to more animals being mistreated and abused for people's greed. I find this appalling.	Joan

South Africa has the greatest capability and opportunity of being the Best Destination to visit BECAUSE OF OUR WILDLIFE.... Tell her to take a Pill and gather her wits. 	2020-04-25 13:02:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Minister Didiza, It is my feeling that this list will put further extinction pressure on species that are critical to our own survival as a species. I urge you to reconsider these drastic changes to the way that farming in general is done in South Africa, to the damage that an already overstressed tourism industry in South Africa will necessarily also have to endure should our own critically endangered resources be offered for sale to a rapacious market. Please also consider the fact that as a country, we are signatories to CITES, an international convention on the trade and protection of endangered species. Can we, in good conscience, as Fellow South Africans, allow you to get away with what seems to be a contradiction to our willing compliance to international convention? Please reconsider.	Nicolene

	2020-04-25 12:08:21	Gauteng		No I do not	I think if our current situation with the COVID-19 pandemic has taught us anything, it's that wild animals should be left alone in their natural habitats with minimal contact or disturbance from humans. Domesticated animals provide a sufficient source to satisfy consumer needs. Perhaps the act should focus on implementing stricter regulations on commercial farms and the quality of living of the animals that are kept in these circumstances, not increase a list that endangers not only the animals but their impact on tourism and the economy. It is so irrational that it smacks of state capture type lobbying from nations which are known for their disdain for African wildlife conservation and an insatiable demand for the meat and products derived from our wildlife. Our wildlife is the only thing that differentiates Africa from the rest of the world. This insane rush to destroy the planet must be stopped. When our wildlife is wiped out - whose next? 	2020-04-25 11:35:44	Gauteng		No I do not	The new list of animals is absolutely unacceptable. There are 60 new species over and above what is already on the old list. To place these often endangered animals on a list where these animals may be slaughtered for food for human consumption is beyond comprehension. It is catering for the tastes of nations where terrible diseases originating from such consumption of animals has caused untold misery and chaos as in the current state of the world with Covid-19. It is giving license to destroy our natural wildlife with no accountability.	Janet

	2020-04-25 11:15:58	Gauteng		No I do not	We have already decimated our animal population, our most precious commodity. Animals have as many rights as humans and it is ABSOLUTELY UNNECESSARY to eat wild meat of any kind. We need to protect our natural animal population as vehemently as possible. We cannot continue to destruct nature without eventually impacting our lives as well. PLEASE PLEASE STOP THIS MADNESS. China's insatiable demand for natural elements and animal meat has to end. The entire civilized world needs to vehemently petition against China's wild meet consumption and wet markets, and impost the strongest sanctions against all killing and eating of wild animals. A country's level of advancement is judged on how it treats its animals. Animals lives need to be treated with as much dignity as humans. Our natural world is our future survival.	Merilyn

	2020-04-25 10:23:43	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the slaughter of these wild animals, endangered or not. Many of these animals, such as the elephant and rhino, were not meant for human consumption, especially not to the allowable scale this updated ammendment is permitting. South Africa's ecosystem is fragile as is, due to lack of care from the government and citizens, and so allowing for the consumption of the wider range of wildlife can only do excessively more harm to South Africa's ecosystem than benefitting it. Allowing this update to the ammendment will not only affect the ecosystem but also affect the valuable tourism South Africa needs as the lack of listed wildlife, listed in the updated ammendment, will drive more people aways from wanting to come travel to and spend money in Africa.	Diego

There has been enough decimation by poaching, indiscriminate slaughter by the uncaring and unthinking as it is. Surely they can't be that dense as to pass a destructive law like this. Or can they? 	2020-04-25 10:13:56	Gauteng		No I do not	Slaughtering endangered and tourist attraction wildlife for export is NOT OKAY! It will increase poaching and even more funds would need to be raised to fight poachers, in a country with an already devastated economy, at junk status and now in national disaster. Where would the money come from? - tax payers are already being taxed to the hilt and recent president's address also advised PAYE to be raised again and more and more are going to be unemployed due to the lockdown so where would the funds come from? The tax payers cannot be continuously hit for funds. Billions have been poured into Eskom and SAA in bail outs and would have far better been put to use for the lockdown solidarity fund but instead good money was thrown away in an effort to save a failing air line. The endangered wildlife is South Africa's legacy to our descendants that we should look after and all wildlife in South Africa, especially the big five, are absolute tourist attractions once the lockdown has reached level 1 and past that. and are an important part of the eco system and keeping the balance. Should the amendment go ahead it would mean that South Africans have learnt NOTHING from the COVID-19 pandemic which is a HUGE result of people abusing animals and being allowed to slaughter any animal, reptile or fish for consumption/sale. There is already so much illegal meat sales from bush meat and even dogs being eaten. (Even in South Africa). This would just be opening the door to yet another eco disaster.	Tammy
	2020-04-25 10:13:32	Gauteng		No I do not	As made blatantly clear, the consumption of unusual animals opens the door to new diseases and afflictions. It would also tarnish the cultural inheritance of all south Africans ;our wildlife is a symbol of our country. It should be protected with pride. Why risk all these virtues when our current livestock is both safe and sustainable.	August

	2020-04-25 10:12:46	Gauteng		No I do not	Why do we need more species to be killed for the selfish desires of poachers. We need to protect nature not destroy it.	Meryna
	2020-04-25 10:12:33	Gauteng		No I do not	It has been proven that meat is not necessary in a human beings diet. The time, energy and money should be used to cultivate and educate around a plant based diet, where we find every nutrient needed for a healthy mind and body, whilst saving our minimal water supply and the extended space needed for animal farming. The unnecessary killing of our beautiful wildlife and all animals is nothing but savage and barbaric. Africa has a heart beat and an energy that can't be felt anywhere else on earth. We feel this through our people, majestic animals and the land itself. Why regress in our growth and our path? Why would we even consider lessening ourselves, making it acceptable to be no more than the savage nations we watch in broken hearted disgust as they inflict pain and suffering on all species for their own bloated greed, ignorance and vast stupidity!	Zia
	2020-04-25 10:11:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Please take note that the Bible gives you clear indication what animals we as Christians may eat. Do you want to extinct all our wild life? Why do you always want to change things. Have you not seen what the Corona virus is doing to us humans? Just because people think they can eat and kill anything and destroy God's environment and His animals. It is time SA goes back to God's guidelines as SA is predominantly a Christian country. Think carefully about this and ask God for guidance.	Arina

	2020-04-25 10:09:25	Gauteng		No I do not	We should be shortening that list not extending it. We need to protect our wildlife not exploit it. Also, more exposure to animals, especially in that capacity, increases our risk of suffering more pandemics.	Roger
	2020-04-25 10:09:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Covid-19 is a direct result of humans consuming wild animal meat. The amendment could result in another pandemic outbreak with massive Loss of human life. The way in which animals are treated and slaughtered is extremely cruel and as a country we need to protect our wild life otherwise it will disappear which will result in a massive loss of of income for the country. We must not go down this road for the sake of our children's future.	Brian

This amendment makes absolutely no sense to me in a time when we are supposed to be striving to protect our animals AND our people from the many dangers that come with eating wild animals. 	2020-04-25 09:13:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals should be treated with respect. Endangered animals should be treated with the required circumspection to preserve and nurture for future generations. We do not have to consume every thing!! We do not have to destroy everything!! This planet and its creatures are lent to us. We are just passing through while wreaking havoc as we go. The slaughter & consumption of animals should be strictly governed and monitored. We should not be allowed to treat them as a commodity we can do with as we like. If you want to do something constructive, tighten up the way we are allowed to slaughter animals. You will then have to follow through and ensure compliance. Something else you (this government) are not good at.	Roland

	2020-04-25 09:10:58	Gauteng		No I do not	It is important that South Africa revises its animal disease and animal welfare legislation to a more modern kind of legislation. South Africa should not use meat legislation to patch outdated animal welfare, animal conservation and animal disease legislation. Government needs to improve legislation in animal welfare. Regarding the type of animals people want to eat, there is a lot to consider as people eat anything when they are hungry. I would prefer that South Africa decreased the kind of animals that can be slaughtered for consumption. Any other animal may not legally be consumed or slaughtered. This will obviously stifle creativity and niche markets but I think it is better for the sake of animals and our progression as a society.	Margaret

The sale of wild life and hunting is a form of income for a lot of farmers. As it is the international revenue will be lost due to our borders being clksed to international tourists. The wild life industry is thriving business just like all the other businesses in Siuth Africa. There is no clear medical study that proves inconclusively that wild life meat is directly responsible for the virus it is pure speculation.	Mark
	2020-04-25 08:26:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Why is there a need to increase the list of animals for slaughter? The existing list includes all commonly eaten animals and a few more exotic ones, but it is sufficient. The new list includes animals whose survival as a species is already threatened such as roan and sable antelopes, hirolas (not even native in SA), or rhinos. Other animals such as the Himalayan Tahr hardly exist in South Africa and the few wild ones are invasive and have been mostly culled. Why introduce non-native animal species to be breed for slaughter to SA that might escape and cause damage to our own flora and fauna? Why allow the slaughter and trade with animals that were not breed in South Africa? This would only cause more harm to the aminals, pose a potential threat to our own delicate and unique environment, and there is a sufficient variety of meat already available.	Jacqueline

	2020-04-25 08:14:15	Gauteng		No I do not	First of i could not download the act or the ammendment of. In the best of my understanding baning game meet for commercial use sounds wrong. Were is this move coming from I smell a Chinese behind this. SA had never a outbrack of some sort of animal to human disease. Game farming and hunting of game was proven to be a good economic and biodiverse management system. The use of game meat is also proven to be healthier then some cattle and sheep products. The only game meat that should be band for use is carnivores animals (lion,crocodile,jackal and leopard ect) for what ever use possibility and or endangered species (elephant, rino) I believe the way we processes the meat is were the real problem comes in it would not matter what meat it is.(game,catle) I realy think the illegal street meat processing should be looked at and more regulated. Hunting of game and the use of game meat was also never a problem in SA but the real problem in SA is the implementation and policing of the laws.	Johan
	2020-04-25 08:13:47	Gauteng		No I do not	This will lead to full scale slaughter of our wildlife. Poaching is already out of control, now it will escalate further!!	Sonja
	2020-04-25 08:12:42	Gauteng		No I do not	This is the most ridiculous proposal I have ever heard. It is driven by uninformed opinions and smacks of sensationalism, wildlife products are the healthiest form of meat available to us. The hunting and game farming industries provide value to wild life, and that value is the only option that exists to ensure their long term sustainability. The second that the wild animals on the farms lose their value that land will be turned into agricultural land and our diversity and habitat of wild life will be lost forever. Let sense prevail	Greg

	2020-04-25 08:05:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we still not realized how cruel we actually are to kill and eat animals? Why is there such a great portion of the world population turning to a vegetarian or vegan diet? Why the amendment of the act? For materialistic gain? Have we not learnt from the Chinese wet market dilemma that we are meant to respect all life, animals included? NO and NO again to the amendment of the Meat Safety Act. Time has arrived for us to grasp, because of the corona virus; that all life is sacred, that the hunger for material gain by exploiting animals, will lead to our own extinction.	Mariette

					I don't usually share much, but this is important! The list of animals for slaughter and export, will be increased soon and will include endangered and domesticated animals. It comes at a time when there's a call for the UN to ban wet markets. Please either send this email to government... or do it on the website below - this is NOT a petition; the government has asked for public opinion. EMAIL: VPH@daff.gov.za SUBJECT: Department of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development - Meat Safety Act ---------- Attention: Dr M. Molefe Dear Dr Molefe, I, Garth), take note of the proposed amendments to the Schedule of the Meat Safety Act 2000 (Act No 40 of 2000). I am concerned that the consequence of the amendment will be an increase in the industrial factory farming of wild animals and other domesticated animals, including animals who have not been subjected to the horrendous conditions at factory farms and feedlots. In order to demonstrate its goodwill, and in the light of the COVID-19 outbreak and other diseases such as SARS and Mad Cow Disease, the South African government must commit itself publicly to the reduction of factory farming and not to the increase of this horrendous practice. I KNOW WE ARE SHORT OF MONEY BECAUSE OF COVID 19, BUT MUST THE ENTIRE SA BE RAPED AND BEREFT OF ANIMALS. AS IT IS THE RHINO IS ON THE DANGER OF EXTINCTION LIST. THE WILD DOG IS SCARCE AND NOT FOUND IN ALL REGIONS OF SA. I WOULD BE VERY INTERESTED IN KNOWING EXACTLY WHO IS GOING TO POCKET THE MONEY FOR THESE ANIMALS. I DISAGREE WITH ALL MY MIGHT. SA DOES NOT HAVE TO PARTICIPATE IN THIS RUBBISH. FIRST OF ALL, IT WILL AFFECT TOURISM IF WE NO LONGER HAVE ANIMALS. AFRICA HAS ANIMALS THAT OTHER PARTS OF THE PLANET DO NOT HAVE. PLEASE PEOPLE, DO NOT ALLOW GREED AND DISRESPECT FOR NATURE AND FOR THE PEOPLE OF SA TO PUSH YOU INTO MAKING RIDICULOUS DECISIONS. EXACTLY WHO IS PLANNING ON USING THE PROCEEDS/ MONEY EARNED FROM THIS "RAPING OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES" PROCESS. FOR WHAT CAUSE WILL THE MONEY BE USED AND BY WHOM? LEAVE THE ANIMALS ALONE. SA DOES NOT HAVE TO PARTICIPATE. AN END TO CORRUPTION WILL ERADICATE DEBT AND PUT SA BACK WHERE IT BELONGS. DO NOT ADD RAPE OF THE LAND'S ANIMALS TO CORRUPTION AND FRAUD. PLEASE !	ENGELA

APART FROM BUCK AND PROBABLY ZEBRA THE KILLING OF WILD ANIMALS ISN'T A CULTURAL THING, SO WHY, WHY IS IT NOW NECESSARY TO ALLOW THIS TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE CHANGE OF LEGILATION? EVERY SOUTH AFRICAN SHOULD CONSIDER IT AN HONOUR AND PRIVILEGE TO HAVE THIS VAST ARRAY OF MAGNIFICENT WILD ANIMALS WHICH TOURIST PAY TO COME AND SEE BOASTING OUR MUCH NEEDED REVENUE. THIS IS TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE AND I AM VERY DISAPPOINTED THAT ANYONE COULD EVEN CONSIDER THIS AMENDMENT.	Janeen

I hold that the more helpless a creature the more entitled it is to protection by man from the cruelty of humankind." Mahatma Ghandi This is how China started out and look at their sickening animal markets now - this ammendment will be a sign of the country's regression and godless behaviour. We are meant to be stewards of all that we have. Where does our cruelty, disrespect for life, greed and consumption end? Killing a mammal the size of a elephant is not like killing an ant! I'm sorry but I feel this will lead to great regret. Personally I would happily ban all types of slaughter, it's savagery because it's never humane enough.	Cheryl

	2020-04-24 21:39:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Human beings are renown for getting into the sale of things for financial reasons and ignoring the moral and ethical reasons. It's time to find a win win solution for every living being on this planet. Humans are put in charge of the care of the planet, one of the responsibilities of being at the top of the food chain, not to destroy or take greedily from it but to better it for future generations of all living beings. 	2020-04-24 19:28:00	Gauteng		No I do not	This is/would be absolutely unacceptable, barbaric even. What kind of civilized society would even consider such an amendment. I pray that we never see a day that endangered animals are subject to such shortsighted law making. Protect and value what is uniquely ours as Africa.	Grant
	2020-04-24 19:27:42	Gauteng		No I do not	This is another decision as direct result of a mismanaged agricultural system that will ensure there will not be enough food produced in SA. Instead of quick fixes and always taking the easy way out fix what is wrong- get agriculture back at the level it belongs and we will not have to slaughter animals not fit for consumption or meant for human consumption. There are better solutions.	Phillip

	2020-04-24 19:26:14	Gauteng		No I do not	The draft amendments should only permit formal slaughter of farmed species. Wild or not. The blanket inclusion without conditionality beyond that some species may be subject to conservation regulation will allow and encourage the irresponsible hunting and trapping of these species, as one of the few deterrents is that attempting to sell the meat of one of these species is likely to result in prosecution. This limits the commercial value of these species. Without enabling legislation to permit the husbandry, and to constrain the sale for slaughter to these sustainably farmed animals, this legislation is flawed and should not be enacted.	Bruce

	2020-04-24 19:19:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Why does South Africa always want to be part of the problem and not the solution? Why does SA want to adopt policies that have failed globally? In the midst of the current pandemic, caused as a result of eating animals we should not be eating, I cannot understand anyone who would support this. One would hope after this pandemic, humans would look at how they live their life, and what we could do differently in the future. This proposed amendment is appalling and quite frankly mind blowing. Many of these are already endangered and under continuous pressure by human encroachment and habitat destruction. Just imagine that we allow this unique and irreplaceable resource to be destroyed, with only barren countryside to show to our people and the would be tourists. How would you feel if your life was put in danger by thoughtless legislation that is of no lasting benefit to our country. We have three choices 1. Allow all of our wildlife to be destroyed for ever 2. To manage our wildlife responsibly 3. To use our wildlife assets as a source of revenue through tourism, a source of job creation for our many unemployed and a beacon of hope for the future of our beautiful country. 	2020-04-24 18:34:04	Gauteng		No I do not	This is rediculous. Our Wildlife is sacred. The Poachers have already decimated our Rhino population. There is enough cattle, sheep, goats, pigs, and chickens for SA consumption. Why export our foods to other countries? Our oceans are being poached by other countries as well. Now some Minister of Agriculture who knows nothing about protecting our countries enviroment wants to slaughter and sell our wildlife. No way should this ever be entertained by Government. 	2020-04-24 18:05:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is precious - not just because it encourages tourism, which is a viral part of our economy that has helped uplift many impoverished people. We should also all be socially conscious and realise all south africans have a responsibility to preserve our natural heritage. By allowing the slaughter of these animals, many of whom are endangered, we put them even more at risk. How will this help protect them? Additionally, in a time where each and every South African is DIRECTLY affected by a virus that came from an animal, we should be careful about encouraging consumption of even more animals that could potentially put us at risk. 	2020-04-24 17:48:44	Gauteng		No I do not	It is of the absolute crucial, not only for S. A. as it is, but also for future generations, to preserve our heritage as far as all living creatures are concerned. We all should know which animals are to be bred for slaughter purposes. Most of the animals and birds are bred and kept in the most inhumane manner. I challange our Minister to do a physical unexpected visit to any of these "farms" to have an informed opinion. Who on earth wants to eat the animals/birds/ reptiles on the list? Just take into consideration for a minute of the cruelty of the slaughter or transport of these living creatures . We as humans have been given the responsibilty to have stewardship over them. Please I pray, leave our animals to be .	Hendrina

	2020-04-24 17:32:54	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposal puts South Africa firmly into the category of PRIMITIVE and BACKWARD African countries that gives our continent, Africa, an unfortunate reputation. It will terribly hurt tourism as the perception of our determination to promote the preservation of our wildlife is a major aspect of the Tourism Industry - TO BE ABLE TO SHOW OUR WILDLIFE AS IT EXISTS, TO BE ABLE TO HAVE WHAT OTHERS DON'T...EVER - SPACE, NATURE, WONDER AND THE UNIQUENESS OF OUR MAJESTIC LANDSCAPE WITH EVERYTHING THAT BELONGS TO IT AND TO OUR PEOPLE!!!!! I am sure this proposal is a sick joke - can only be !!!! We are the cradle of humankind, we must respect and protect what we have received from the power above and our ancestors that make us unique and great people. Please, kindly, intelligently let's not destroy the unique legacy we have got, NEVER, NEVER! Does it make any sense, unless there are hidden plans and conspiracy against our Nation for many millions to be given in exchange for our territory, land and history? Could be .....who knows? Another race, another nation taking over....swifltly... our freedom and uniqueness? Is'nt Corona Virus enough? Please leave and protect wild animals in nature where they belong, we have inherited them, we are their keepers for future generations.	Leonor

The time has come to stand up as a nation and say 'NO'!!! Enough is enough. We do not agree with the proposed changes to the policy.	Tania

	2020-04-24 17:07:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly - there are many hundreds of game farms/farmers in SA. The game industry in a multi-billion Rand industry and provides employment for thousands of people. Out game meat is even exported providing valuable foreign income to SA. Secondly the Game Industry ensures that out natural heritage of fauna (and consequently also flora) is maintained and thrives. Without the game farmers the game would disappear. Thirdly you would, by banning professional and ethical game-hunting, encourage poor people to scavenge our natural heritage with snares/traps and hunting-dog packs. In short - you will never prevent unethical and illegal game-poaching. The Game Industry has thousands of peripheral businesses such as firearm shops, training, hide-caping. This industry supports tertiary education in game-conservation and professional hunting. I repeat without the industry of game-meat, the game industry and the associated tourism will disappear! The ministers motives are less than clear and appears to lack any credible insight!	Robert

	2020-04-24 16:58:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Minister. I am an African and since my earliest years have cringed at the slaughter of wild animals, usually by poachers. This practice has made my flesh crawl and caused me to be embarrassed to be African. What a shame upon our people. Culling wild animals is different and should be considered under a different heading. Killing animals for sport or in order to protect ourselves should be carefully monitored. But organised slaughter of wild animals to supply a saturated market with meat should be strictly prohibited; in fact one of the best ways to meaningfully slow down global warming is for everyone to become vegetarian. Stop the eating of meat and breeding of animals for meat. Oh shame on you if you go ahead and contribute to yet more slaughter of our greatest tourist attraction.	Martin

	2020-04-24 16:57:06	Gauteng		No I do not	There is an international pandemic due to people in China eating weird and wonderful aninals, now we want to approve that in South Africa? Why on earth do you want to approve the slaughtering for meat of Rhinos, a protected species?	Heinu
	2020-04-24 16:56:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife threatened with extinction or any wild should not be treated or traded like this.	Gavin
	2020-04-24 16:56:15	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do not support the killing of anymore of our different animal species. I'm also worried about more different viruses contaminating the human population by our creed to consume any animal. Shocking I'm definitely against it!	Gail
	2020-04-24 16:56:07	Gauteng		No I do not	I am in opposition to many of the species which have been added to the list. Already it is so difficult to find and see many of the species on the list. I am vehemently against the proposal and many of the listed animals should be removed instead. South Africa is destroying its wildlife heritage instead of using it to promote the country and draw tourists to SA. If we aren't a going to protect our wildlife places like the US and Australia will start preserving African animals in their countries and will be able to make revenue from it.	Dianne

	2020-04-24 16:55:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not believe that endangered species and species that we should be protecting, as part of our national heritage, should be added to a list of species to be slaughtered. There is no need for highly endangered species such as Rhinos and Elephants, to be on this list. We need to keep South African animals protected, in South Africa, and not allow exploitation by foreigners and different cultures, especially for profit. There is no evidence to suggest that hunting or allowing the killing and exploitation of animals contributes to local communities or to conservation. I do not agree that this list should be extended. 	2020-04-24 16:46:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Once again there is evidence of lunatics at the helm. Tourism is one of the main life giving industries in our fragile economy. Now you want to allow the killing of the very animals which people from all over the world pay lots of money to come and see. No thought has been given to this revision. What sound reasoning is there to the change from the old list to the new one being proposed? No doubt corruption of those inn power is behind this latest move. This list should be treated they way it serves to be, with utter contempt and should be dismissed.	Godfrey

	2020-04-24 16:38:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Why would South Africa even consider following the China norm of allowing the consumption of almost every species known to mankind . Corona virus and its devastating death toll globally should provide more than enough info (dangers of eating wild meat)for the minister to veto this proposed change . In addition as a country we are struggling to contain the poaching problem and this ridiculous proposal will merely make the matter worse . To allow the slaughtering of animals such as Rhino,Sable,Roan,Giraffe,Elephant etc is simply beyond comprehension . The current list is already more than necessary and must not be changed at . The usual animals that are currently farmed for human consumption is more than adequate to feed us without adding a whole lot of endangered species to the list . I am therefore vehemently opposed to any suggestion of increasing the current list - it should be shortened if anything . Can only assume pressure groups are trying to broaden the net to make money out of this proposal .	Carol

	2020-04-24 16:30:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Do not extend the list of animals that can be killed for human consumption! In fact I want all animal agriculture to be stopped immediately. All major infectious diseases come from animal-human interfaces and this must stop. COVID-19, swine flu, avian flu, HIV and the Spanish flu which killed 50 million people all came from animals. The same can be said for simpler diseases like chicken pox and measles. This is costing South Africans our money, our health, our climate and livelyhoods. Remember that in 2018 Listeriosis killed 218 people. Many of those were kids who were force fed sausage and polony. This disease ridden product of meat should be banned. No animals must be killed, and South Africans must be protected. Should we not take steps to shut down this industry that is attacking South Africans the next pandemic won't just cripple us it will destroy us.	Jayendren

	2020-04-24 16:24:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I totally disagree with the slaughter of our Precious Wildlife to be slaughtered for consumption purposes . These rare and magnificent creatures are endemic to South Africa and form one of the major tourist attractions for overseas travelers visiting South Africa for holidays. In addition to poaching which threatens the extinction of many wild life species we now have to contend with an appetite for exotic species to either meet the demand for medicinal / or depraved appetites of a certain foreign nation. 	2020-04-24 15:54:56	Gauteng		No I do not	It's absolutely ridiculous to add endangered species of animals to a list of animals that may be slaughtered. It's idiotic to imagine that we have the right to deny our offspring to right to enjoy these animals our Lord God Jesus Christ created to please them. You will do this at your own peril and I can assure you that you will be answerable to the Most High God - the HIGHEST OF ALL GODS for your actions in this regard. I am not only saying this in religious regard. It's IMMORAL and ILLEGAL to STEAL our children's future from them. Man may think himself to be in a position of power over the world at this fleeting moment in time .... but there is a far GREATER COURT THAT EACH INDIVIDUAL WILL APPEAR BEFORE AND BE HELD ACCOUNTABLE. We cannot keep having lots of children in an irresponsible manner and then simply deplete all available resources. Where will it end? What type of mentality is at work when we simply destroy all that remains for the same of feeding people who simply keep having children but can't even afford them? And then destroy all God's animals for the purpose of feeding them?	Paul

	2020-04-24 15:24:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I fail to understand why every single aspect and of the environment and every single precious creature created by God on this planet and in this country has to be cruelly and brutally destroyed and exploited by senseless acts like this. People do not need to eat everything that lives and breathes. All countries have their own wildlife and food production situations.. What should be amended is the way God's creatures are treated in every aspect of their use in providing food/clothing for mankind. When and why did animal husbandry become such a cruel and abusive situation? All aspects from abbatoirs to transport ships, meat, dairy and egg production, as well as clothing production are accompanied by cruelty and abuse of animals. They arrive at destinations sick and dead after dreadful suffering. Who makes a profit from cargoes like this? Mankind is surely able to do better than this , but chooses not to. Stop it!	Margaret

	2020-04-24 15:12:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Please leave the wild animals, horses, donkeys off this list. Actually only include cattle and chicken. The rest, leave them alone. 	2020-04-24 15:11:26	Gauteng		No I do not	While it may be good to be open up consumption of animals to include new types to help disadvantaged communities get food on the table, exposing threatened wildlife and fragile species whose populations are not padded by farming is a step in the wrong direction. Even though it is stated that threatened animals would only be used for consumption within conservation parameters, this would be difficult to enforce, meaning the amendment opens threatened species up for abuses. This proposal should not be endorsed.	Paul

	2020-04-24 15:08:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Humans should not be eating meat in the first place. All species are part of this earth and all should be treated equally. Who gave humans the right to kill other species. The current pandemic we are facing is a lesson in point. One theory is that a human ate a snake or bat and the corona virus was created. Being in lock-down for about 35 days should have taught us many things and one of them should be to appreciate the earth and respect all species. It is time humans change their attitude and behavior for the betterment of the world at large.	Loshnee

	2020-04-24 15:00:17	Gauteng		No I do not	This is how Covid started. Farmers should be supported to produce conventional protein sources. Instead of allowing the slaughter of wild as well as exotic animals as a protein source. We as South Africa are known for our preservation of Wildlife. Most of our tourism depends on this perception and the beauty and diversity of our wild animals in their natural habits. Why slaughter these beautiful animals and create a negative connotation to South Africa and the toilurism industry. We should stand united and protect our wildlife heritage. Not eat everything that moves.	Louise

	2020-04-24 14:38:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife is the heritage of all South Africans. Tourism is essential to the economic welfare of the country and its people. Tourists spend a huge amount of money visiting our reserves to see our wildlife. The whole economy benefits from their spending. Tourism and conservation provide work for thousands of people. The spread and effects of Covid-19 through the eating of wild meat should be a warning not to eat meat that has not been carefully farmed under health and humane regulations. 	2020-04-24 14:30:22	Gauteng		No I do not	I think this is totally uncalled for!!! I would think the president owning a game farm would have more respect for wild life. We have cows, goats , pigs and sheep is that not enough!! I do not support killing of any wild animals for consumption or sport. In the event that culling is necessary it could be done for perhaps buck or Wildebeest but most wild animals live in packs or groups and it is totally unacceptable to kill these animals . Elephant for example suffer psychological and emotional distress if part of the herd is killed. Animals can be relocated instead of being culled. Is it not enough that the Chinese have no respect for animals. God provided certain animals for food their sacrifice is enough. Shows you who the savages really are -Humans. As an African country we should be protecting all wildlife and domesticated animals. This is an atrocity. I am at this moment ashamed to be a South African. Be a human and not a savage or glutton ,eat what you may need and there is no necessity to be eating horse, elephant, porcupine etc. I do not support this at all!	Mandi

	2020-04-24 14:25:00	Gauteng		No I do not	WE WANT GOD TO SHOW US MERCY BUT WE WANT TO SLAUGHTER GODS ANIMAL CHILDREN FOR PROFIT AND GREED. JESUS SAID ' WHAT YE DO UNTO THE LEAST OF ME- YE DO UNTO ME". HE WAS NOT ONLY TALKING ABOUT HUMAN BEINGS BUT ALL FORMS OF LIFE CREATED BY GOD.	JENNY
	2020-04-24 14:24:57	Gauteng		No I do not	the Old List suffice - why kill endangered species to satisfy human hunger when there is other options	Juan
	2020-04-24 14:22:47	Gauteng		No I do not	By including the consumption and slaughter of other than farmed animals, will cause chaotic eradication of wild life as we already experiencing, and as the world is suffering as part of the Corona COVID 19 virus. With domesticated animals it can be controlled as you must have stock available. Wild life is not controllable and therefore uncontrolled slaughtering will cause more species to become extinct.	IZAK

	2020-04-24 14:21:23	Gauteng		No I do not	If China has finally had the sense to outlaw the killing and consumption of exotic animals and wild life why on earth would we sudden;y think it's a good idea?!!?!?!?!? Surely we're opening ourselves up for the same Covid type illnesses if we suddenly start lawfully allowing the consumption of these creatures! Human illness aside, what gives us the right to slaughter animals that are already considered endangered such as the rhino. IT goes completely against the intention of protecting them. This has to be the worst amendment I have seen put forward in some time!!!! Please DO NOT proceed!	Donna
	2020-04-24 14:21:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Do not slaughter our wildlife.	Vernon
	2020-04-24 14:20:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Shocking, that's what I have to say. How could the thought even enter their heads to extend the list? Our beautiful country is already being destroyed by poachers and hair-brained schemes like this all for the sake of money. The animals here are what makes our country noticeable and what tourists expect to see when they visit Game Reserves, etc. I would like my grandchildren to grow up not only reading about what once was, but actually seeing these beautiful creatures. They should be protected not destroyed!	Tania

	2020-04-24 14:18:30	Gauteng		No I do not	why should our wild life suffer the consequences of the dangers of the current situation we are in. This will lead to reckless slaughtering of our natural resources all in the name of feeding populaces who will not take care of themselves	Caroline

	2020-04-24 14:11:07	Gauteng		No I do not	I personally think or feel that the minister is crazy. How many endangered species are on that amended list that she wants to publish??? So thinks or feels that it's ok for us as humans to kill and slaughter any animal we come across, and to eat whichever animal we want. So what is going to happen or what are we going to eat when there are no more animals left??? What then??? Are we going to start eating each other??? I SAY NO.....!!!!! THE BILL MUST NOT BE AMENDED.....!!!!! PROTECT OUR ANIMALS AND SAVE NATURE AND THE WORLD ? FOR OUR CHILDREN.....!!!!!	Cobus

	2020-04-24 14:11:01	Gauteng		No I do not	There is only one thing to say to this. Are they stark raving mad? We have a viral pandemic brought about by the consumption of wildlife that we should not be eating and they want to change legislation to INCREASE the number of wild animals to be classified as meat for consumption? Have we learned nothing?	Craig

	2020-04-24 14:02:35	Gauteng		No I do not	I am not in support of any of the wildlife and animals listed on the proposed bill. I am disgusted that while the world is facing coronavirus - with purported links to Wuhan wildlife market- this virus is from a bat. Regardless of your preference for diet - domestic meat production suffices this need for people across the world. The endangered species on the list are included to satisfy which country that enjoys wildlife delicacies??!! Stop pillaging South Africa and our wildlife to settle economic debts. These animals are the legacy rights for all future generations to enjoy - not the select few in the world who simply want to lick their plates clean & pronounce their increased vitality from delicacies from Africa. We are to protect not eat everything into extinction. There is enough food for all to eat if we just stop killing the farmers!	Jeannette
	2020-04-24 13:53:59	Gauteng		No I do not	This opens the door to further decimation of our wildlife. We need our wildlife as an important income generating feature of our country. There are animal cruelty issues to consider as there are species listed for whom the usual methods of slaughter would not work. This opens up the process to gross levels of cruelty to a number of animal species.	Guin

	2020-04-24 13:53:29	Gauteng		No I do not	SA wild life must at all cost be protected. There is enough meat arround to eat. This is not Wuhan. Get it together!	Jan
	2020-04-24 13:53:16	Gauteng		No I do not	The animals that are allowed to be slaughtered and sold, exported, imported etc. must be altered to exclude engdangered species and wild animals. Wild animals should be handled completely separately and handled under a different legislation and licensing permit. Can't just mix the two (domestic and wild) together. Countries are battling to stop poaching of wild animals but now they want to allow for their slaughter, consumption and export. Looks like some people (privileged) are looking to sell Rhino and Elephant horns that will obviously be available "legally". This is a disgrace and must be stopped.	Roy
	2020-04-24 13:52:56	Gauteng		No I do not	It will just add to the already unnecessary slaughter of wild animals. They should ban hunting and slaughter of wild animals.	Adele

	2020-04-24 13:50:45	Gauteng		No I do not	For God's sake, the virus was caused by cruelty to animals. Preserve our wildlife for generations to come. It belongs to the people. 	2020-04-24 13:46:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Why would South Africa increase the reason for coronovirisues and other viruses all over the world. It's time to lead by ending the sale of meat, the abuse of animals and risking the health of our people.	Jo
	2020-04-24 13:45:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I disaprove of the slaughter of wild animals for meat consumption in total, this is a disgrace to even contemplate the matter. Isn't the eating of wild animals the reason for the Corona Virus starting in China when will people learn the lesson. No No No !	Anne
	2020-04-24 13:45:35	Gauteng		No I do not	We are not China - how on earth can we even consider eating our beloved, and in some instances bordering on endangered, wildlife. What a sad state of affairs that SA is even willing to consider something like this. Meat, in general, is not a required food source, so to even start thinking about extending the classification past the usual sources, is quite barbaric and ignorant. Shame on you Ms Didiza and the SA Government for even considering something like this!	Michelle

I do not agree with slaughtering of animals that are going extinct, wild animals and reptiles.	Yamkela
	2020-04-24 13:24:41	Gauteng		No I do not	There is adequate existing meat categories to eat. If these species are legalised as food, all of us are at risk of causing the extinction of some or all species . The legalization will also increase poaching, which will increase running costs of those who own and operate farms or lodges. It is not necessary to legalise any more meats.	Heidi

	2020-04-24 13:16:45	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do not support this draft amendment. We are the custodians of the wildlife on the African continent and, in the last 25 years, have done an absolutely appalling job. Why would you even consider thinking about this? We have enough domestic animals for human consumption. Protect the wildlife for future generations!!!	Anna

	2020-04-24 13:15:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Why does one want to slaughter wild animals,never mind endangered species,when,on the other hand people are trying to save the wild species.Live and let live.the world has already seen the devastation brought about by Jungle meat, wild animals e.g.Bats etc.,This is crazy and should not even be debayed but thrown out.	John
	2020-04-24 13:15:26	Gauteng		No I do not	No animal which is considered endangered should be included on this list i.e. these animals should be fully protected from any form of exploitation for food. If the Coronavirus incidents (including the current pandemic) have taught the human race anything, it is that animal husbandry and the proper farming and slaughter of animals needs to be very strictly controlled. A careful and full, scientifically-based review is required to ensure that no practices in the slaughter of animals (including hunting) create the dangers of animal to human transmission of viruses. Before extending such lists, a step back should be taken to perform such an analysis.	Nigel

	2020-04-24 13:13:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I find it completely irresponsible to have Rhinos on this list. They are on the brink of extinction with many people fighting tooth and nail to keep them from the international market. I also cannot see why elephants and hippos should be on this list either. We are selling all our minerals and best produce to countries overseas. I see no reason why our best and most emotionally intelligent animals need to make that list as well. We need to draw the line somewhere.	Nina-Kate

	2020-04-24 13:12:54	Gauteng		No I do not	We should be preserving our wildlife, not killing it. It is totally unacceptable in the light of Covid 19 to slaughter any wildlife and threatened species should definitely NOT be included. Has this minister lost her marbles? I think she is one tea bag short of a full pot!	Sophie
	2020-04-24 13:12:50	Gauteng		No I do not	We have enough domestic animals. Our country should start focusing on promoting more plant based eating/diet. What will be on the list next? Dogs and cats?	Kagiso

	2020-04-24 13:12:12	Gauteng		No I do not	There are limited wild animals resources available locally and worldwide. Many species are being added to the extinction list daily. If this is the best we can come up with as a short term solution then we are in more trouble than initially realised. China's COVID | Corona virus example is the very reason why this should NEVER be allowed!!	Sandy
	2020-04-24 13:11:58	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree to the new list of additional species whatsoever! Humans are already consuming many of these species illegally. If anything, measures should be increased to stop the onslaught. This act is purely to placate the appetite of Asian countries for outlandish and exotic delicacies. Meanwhile our game suffers. 	2020-04-24 13:09:11	Gauteng		No I do not	None of the animals that is becoming extinct or is endangered should be on this list. Why did the minister put these animals any way on this list. Does she not understand what endanger or extinction means? Please let us keep to the animals that is breed for there meat and leave the rest alone. Or is this to satisfy the Chinese appetites.	Gary
	2020-04-24 13:08:34	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly meat consumption should be cut down so no need for extra animals to added to list. The added animals are wild, how can you round them up for export etc. There is nothing humane in this and not necessary. Come guys... We should be better humans than this. When will you accept that animals are beings just like this, with feelings and have as much place on earth as us. Why do you want to treat them like this... Again for money..... 	2020-04-24 13:03:52	Gauteng		No I do not	It's totally unacceptable that Rhinoceros, Elephant & Giraffe is on this list. Its actually CRAZY & saddens me deeply.	Venita Georgine
	2020-04-24 13:03:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I don't agree at all. There is no need to kill wild animals for food. If you stop murdering real farmers the farmers who know how to farm then you don't need to start adopting a Chinese way of life by eating any kind of animal Stop adopting Chinese modes of living. Be a real South African. This is a nonsense idea for food and will create alot of diseases that South Africa does not have knowledge on how to deal with.	L

	2020-04-24 12:59:21	Gauteng		No I do not	It is not on at all. Buffali, Elephants that have been culled in the KNP, was slaughtered and biltong etc. was made of the meat, which provided additional income. The slaughtering of Giraffe, reptiles etc. cannot be allowed, as most of them are on the endangered sppecies list. COVID 19 came about after slaughtering of pangolins in China. So please reconsider the list. Stay away from exotic bird, animals and reptiles.	Leon

	2020-04-24 12:58:24	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely disgusting to eat an animal that is an endangered species. 	2020-04-24 12:53:36	Gauteng		No I do not	This list of animals includes many that are endagered species. With all due respect, I must question who provided the Minister with this list. Firstly, endangered species are protected and people have indeed given their lives to protect these eg Rinos, Elephants etc. All the wild animals on the list form part of our NMational Heritage and are protected in many game reserves across South Africa. Farming these animals for slaughter seems to mer to be totally against the spirit of protection. Finally, the Corona Virus pandemic currently sweeping the world seems to have arisen through the consumption of wild animals. I totally reject this proposed update to the meat safety act.	Fernando
	2020-04-24 12:52:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Why? Why would you need to kill the very nature Africa is so well known for. No where in the world has our exceptional wildlife. Kill our wildlife and face a doomed future . By amending the bill to include wildlife will destroy the country and the world. The chain of events that will take place as these animals are slaughtered will create irreparable danger for us all now and for our children's future. Each animal benefits us in ways we will only come to understand much later, let's not regret our choices and safeguard our future and our precious wildlife. Money can not buy them back once they are gone.	Nicole

	2020-04-24 12:46:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I think humans should minimize what meat we eat. If anything, it should be limited to the previous list, excluding pigs and wild carnivores. It should definitely not include any threatened species of any kind.	Cheryl

	2020-04-24 12:44:57	Gauteng		No I do not	It is insanity to add most of these animals because the moment you do the sale and consumption of (previously) protected animals will be allowed in the supermarket. 	2020-04-24 12:43:56	Gauteng		No I do not	No endangered species of any kind should be listed for human slaughter or consumption. 	2020-04-24 12:37:26	Gauteng		No I do not	South African wild life needs to be protected. The corona virus epidemic is proof that wild animals can transmit illness to humans. 	2020-04-24 12:35:52	Gauteng		No I do not	the idea of extending the slaughter of animals to include threatened species runs counter to what is needed for tourism in the future, and counter to what we have learned form the Corona virus, which is that it is dangerous to our species to keep and slaughter all kinds of animals. this has been borne out by previous viruses which have arisen because of animal-human transmission which nobody anticipated. 	2020-04-24 12:34:55	Gauteng		No I do not	I dont see the necessity for wild animals to be included in a slaughter list - there are plenty of domestic animals available for meat-eating humans. 	2020-04-24 12:34:39	Gauteng		No I do not	There might be a case for clarifying some of the names and definitions for the export of meat cultivated for human consumption under controlled conditions, but there is no sense in extending the reach to include animals that are not native to South Africa, and other endangered species and some native species not on the present list . We should be discouraging the trade in wild meat in principle if we have learned anything from the outbreaks of diseases which have been transmitted from animals to humans.	Denis

	2020-04-24 12:19:58	Gauteng		No I do not	No endangered species like Rhino and animals such as Elephant and scarce small antelope like Suni (or Soenie) should be included. In fact because of the Covid 19 pandemic and which had its origin at a wet meat market in China where wild animals an d meat of wild animals were traded, this entire list should be reviewed urgently. Any legislation that promotes selling of elephant meat and ivory and rhino should be strictly prohibited. The culling of elephants should only be done on strictly controlled permits by SANPARKS in order to reduce numbers where large herds damage to the fauna. I such exceptions the meat must be given to poor communities and the ivory retained by SANPARKS for the manufacturing in SA of ivory products for the benefit of SA	Albert

	2020-04-24 12:19:42	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly I am at a loss of words that someone can even think of changing the Act to include some of the animals as referred to in the proposed ACT, animals such as Rhino, Hippo etc is part of our heritage. There is enough of the current animals as stipulated in the current Act to feed all, secondly we are currently losing loved ones due to the current Covert 19 now they want to include more animals that are on the danger list that may have additional diseases. I am against the change and find it pathetic that people could even think of adding more animals.	Desmond

So now we are pushing Covid-19 Infections. The only thing we should be doing regarding endangered animals is protecting them and our rich heritage. No endangered species should be on this list. Where culling us necessary then this should be done responsibly. Our wildlife is dwindling, with humans encroaching on their space, without us having to start hunting them for our profit. Nature is groaning because of our gluttony and greed. There will be nothing left for future generations if we continue on this route. Viral contamination comes from a large extent from animals especially Wild animals. How on earth?.. is this for real? .. Destruction all around .. People, Economies and Animals.. 	2020-04-24 11:59:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Then I'm gonna start with a human trafficking business as it's the only specie that somehow has a choice in being exported and I will fight to make it legal. What these lot are doing is basically slavery for money of other species, including threatened species. You can see the chinese ccp has a foothold in SA as their rules shifted to our country. So I will start the slave trade again because the human specie has a selfish tendency to support destruction, violence and a false sense of importance on this planet which does not take other living beings in concideration. You can call be a tree/bunny hugger, but I stand for right of life for other living beings on this planet, but not human life.	Koos
	2020-04-24 11:58:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Dr Molefe I, Alani Keiser, take note of the proposed amendments to the Schedule of the Meat Safety Act 2000 (Act No 40 of 2000). I am concerned that the consequence of the amendment will be an increase in the industrial factory farming of wild animals and other domesticated animals, including animals who have not been subjected to the horrendous conditions at factory farms and feedlots. In order to demonstrate its goodwill, and in the light of the COVID-19 outbreak and other diseases such as SARS and Mad Cow Disease, the South African government must commit itself publicly to the reduction of factory farming and not to the increase of this horrendous practice. Sincerely, Alani Keiser	Alani

	2020-04-24 11:56:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Did they not learn from Covid 19. Why open these animals, of which a lot are endangered, for slaughtering and consuption. They will probly use shortage of food / meat and dire economy as excuse. Look after our farmers instead. What will be left of our wildlife and tourism?	Suzette
	2020-04-24 11:56:07	Gauteng		No I do not	Adding endangered animals to the list of legal consumption could possibly increase the illegal poaching as the meet and items can be sold (laundered) through legal channels. This will increase the risk of endangering other species and/or increase the risk unsafe and unethical acquisition of meats as described by the new proposed list. Having a unnecessary long list of different species (even species not native to South Africa) could lead to the illegal smuggling of these animals for the purpose of skipping other laws in other countries. Adding so many additional animals can also lead to unsafe meat consumption. A specific NEED must first be shown why all these additional animals need to be considered for the act. As this seems to be a ploy only to satisfy some parties for their own gain, rather than true gain for the people (and animals) of South Africa.	Christoff
	2020-04-24 11:55:09	Gauteng		No I do not	The proposed list is too wide. The list should not include animals that can't be sustainably and commercially farmed. The expanded list will become an excuse to justify poaching and people being entitled to hunt and eat our country's natural resources.	Andreas
	2020-04-24 11:54:41	Gauteng		No I do not	The existing list of animals is already unacceptable. How can anyone think that adding these new ones is feasible. It is our duty to be custodians of the amazing creatures we have on this planet and as most of the people who would be eating these are already overfed and not doing it out of starvation, it is appalling. Would we vote for this if there was a human on this list? What a legacy we leave, how very sad.	Lynda

	2020-04-24 11:48:46	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft is ridicules.. The species must be grouped and each groupe must be separately handled. I see you forgot to list 'europeans', but included 'blue bulls' ? Why?	Louis

	2020-04-24 11:47:33	Gauteng		No I do not	The international community will judge South Africa if it takes this route. Are we sure that China is not behind this intended amendment. As South Africa is becoming increasingly more indebted to them, they expect payment in some form or other. Please act as the carers of the environment and not users only only.	Susan
	2020-04-24 11:47:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Has South Africa gone mad? We have the devastating Covid-19 virus that CAME from wild game and now we want to export or allow people to buy wild game. Are we mad? No I definitely DO NOT support this. How can we possibly add endangered species such as the Rhino to the list in the first place? a) The virus and it's terrible consequences and b) our endangered species will be even MORE at risk..... 	2020-04-24 11:42:00	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Minister, would you please go and have a look at our country, but do it by walking around in all our province's..... Then you wil realize that our beautiful land and her animals is dying by our hands. Why do we want to deny our children's children the beauty to see it as well. Take a stand, be the one who care to take care of God's work and His task to us to protect and care for it..... Be the one..... Stop the slaughter	Derick
	2020-04-24 11:41:30	Gauteng		No I do not	WHERE were you the last few months.. did you not see what happened because of China's eating reptiles and weird animals?? Also do you not want your children to ever see a rhino with their own 2 eyes?? I cannot believe the things you even consider..	Sunette
	2020-04-24 11:41:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The act needs to have a holistic and balanced view that must be informed by sustainable development. As an example, our rhinos are being slaughtered to the point of extinction. Unilateral inclusion of rhinos into this list is effectively irresponsible. There needs to be specific guidelines, even to the level of the specific species group or even the specific species (e.g. rhino).	Obakeng
	2020-04-24 11:41:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave our wuld animals alone. Especially those on the endangered list.	Gail
	2020-04-24 11:40:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Critically endangered, endangered, and threatened animals should not be considered as food sources. There is just no need for this. The list is excessive and inhumane.	Sabrina
	2020-04-24 11:40:04	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the hunting or export of our wild life heritage. All game, flora & fauna is now endangered. There is a growing crises particularly with Rhino, Pangolin, Elephants, Lion, Tortoises and a number of Antelope. This all started with a relaxed approach to culling & hunting. I would also suggest a green card to visit regional game reserves for local citizens & an environmental daily tax for foreign overseas visitors to our game parks as is done in other countries.	dudley

	2020-04-24 11:36:32	Gauteng		No I do not	Unethical, irresponsible, and utterly ridiculous! As humans who have already wrought so much havoc on this earth, we should be the ones protecting the fauna and flora as much as we possibly can! Not allow this sort of idiocy. And for what? Money? Greed? We're all a part of this earth, and we all need these animals to continue surviving. Each ecosystem is highly important. We can't go messing things up even more. These animals are protected for a reason. Let's keep it that way.	Alex
	2020-04-24 11:35:32	Gauteng		No I do not	The link between animal borne diseases that can be transmitted to humans is currently being investigated. Slaughtering wildlife is inviting the risk of having diseases jump species. Not only are these animals our national treasures and a source of income for tourism, but they need to be treated with cautious respect.	Lynne

	2020-04-24 11:33:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Unthinkable! Why introduce this ? Another easy route for easy, rotten monetary profit at the expense of precious animals that have more worth than tantalizing someone’s tastebuds and slithery pockets.	Jann

	2020-04-24 11:33:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife is far more valuable alive than dead!! Domestic animals bred for consumption are acceptable under Strict control. Tourism is one of the few attractions to South Africa, we have to protect wildlife for this reason. The future of our children depend on us. Eating wildlife will be catastrophic for the future, our children and our country as a whole.	Kerry
	2020-04-24 11:33:09	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that this amendment should ever have been conceived . There is no possible good cause for slaughtering our wildlife	John
	2020-04-24 11:31:34	Gauteng		No I do not	This will make our animals extinct. I do not agree with the new list at all. For example there is not much meat on a duiker.	Linda
	2020-04-24 11:31:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I am completely against the amendment to this act as I do not see it as necessary to incorporate more animals into the list, we have a sufficient supply of meat from cattle, sheep, goats, chickens and pigs already, and do NOT need to add threatened or endangered species to the list! Please leave some of the beautiful and rare animals we still have left alone for future generations to enjoy and appreciate. Not all loving creatures have to be food, our planet and its ecosystems are suffering enough as it is!	Kim
	2020-04-24 11:31:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly disagree with this proposed amendment. Total madness, leave our wildlife alone, it is generating massive income towards the South African economy.	Willem
	2020-04-24 11:31:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife meat export will contribute to extinction of our precious wildlife in South Africa.	Christa

	2020-04-24 11:30:57	Gauteng		No I do not	I believe there are enough alternatives available to sustainably feed the nation with the species we have utelised until now. If legislation are further "sharpened" to see to the anti-poaching law of both animal, bird and marine species, and more projects are put in place nationally to optimalise the safe breeding and distribution of said entities, it should be lucrative and sustainable. The slaughter of wild life species should never be done where re-location or trans-location is at all possible. Should there be no other option in the "culling" process of said animals, the meat and by-products should ONLY be utelised for local (South African) population feeding schemes and or funding (sale of ivory for instance) as we have an enormous need and we have to look after our own people first. Export of these should be abolished totally as it is solely a monetary consideration if it is done - seen in the light of DIRE NEED in our own country.	A
	2020-04-24 11:30:23	Gauteng		No I do not	As usual we have a suggestion from a government which does not have the foggiest idea as to what the net result will be if this becomes law. It will lead to the extinction of many wild animals, birds and reptiles. It will be legalised poaching.The wild animals are our heritage and the heritage of generations to come.	Cedric
	2020-04-24 11:30:21	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do not agree with this proposed legislation. Certainly by the very nature of the word "threatened" species/animals/game, one clearly understands protected, in this instance both words have the same meaning. Thank you for this opportunity.	Gregg
	2020-04-24 11:29:32	Gauteng		No I do not	this opens up horrific possibilities for over exploitation and greed overwhelming environmental concerns and protection of species. Controls on wildlife exploitation are there for good reason.	Cinda

	2020-04-24 11:17:55	Gauteng		No I do not	The number of animals on the endangered list is a shame to humanity. Man is the guardian of animals but instead man has decimated species for monetary gain. Wildlife should be preserved to support communities, and should not be destroyed because of communities, whether small local communities or large global economic communities.	Michelle
	2020-04-24 11:17:00	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the notion that we wantonly allow for the slaughter for food of animals designated as wildlife and endangered through human propagated policy instruments drafted by people without adequate knowledge of the broader impact on the ecosystems in our continent. We cannot continue to be supportive of the destruction of animal life because of greed and inability of governments to sustain its populations with adequate socio-economic programmes that have been destroyed by greed and corruption. It is a ridiculous notion to even have elephants and rhinoceros on this list given the cycles of near extinction levels we have subjected these animals to through our overpopulation and infestation by humans on the entire landscape of a shred planet! stick to your meat eating habits by limiting it to farmed for food animals. 	2020-04-24 11:10:39	Gauteng		No I do not	How can you include endangered animals that South Africa has tried so hard for decades to protect? They are our nation's pride and joy, e.g rhinoceros, giraffe. Do you want to look like greedy and incompetent fools internationally once this news is out to the world's media and global public? Kindly revise your list to include ONLY the BARE ESSENTIALS of animal slaughter. We should be moving AWAY from meat based diets, anyway. We must evolve as a species with compassion on animals, not degenerate into cave-dwellers.	Marianne

	2020-04-24 10:53:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered animals should not be on this list	Sham
	2020-04-24 10:53:51	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with this proposal as it would decimate our wild animals and we do not need any more types of meat as we have plenty of meat in pork beef and mutton. It would give poachers more excuses to hunt and kill our game. Our game is a reason we have do many tourists who pay large atmount to see them and spend dollars . Our country is the only one in the world that has these animals you wish to kill.	Patricia
	2020-04-24 10:53:17	Gauteng		No I do not		Desmond
	2020-04-24 10:52:16	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do NOT support this because some of the animals on that list are on the protected list as well which means that they cannot be killed	Sheldon
	2020-04-24 10:51:58	Gauteng		No I do not		Estie Munro
	2020-04-24 10:51:15	Gauteng		No I do not	I don't understand why endangered species are being added to the list when we need to look at the impact humans have	Nomsa
	2020-04-24 10:50:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Some of the animals on the list are already endangered - you have to be an animal yourself to slaughter Rhino, Hippo and Elephant just to mention a few.	Imelda
	2020-04-24 10:50:45	Gauteng		No I do not		Natasha
	2020-04-24 10:50:30	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this act all about money. For who's pockets. How can animals that is endangered already, be slaughtered for someone's greed.	Bets
	2020-04-24 10:49:22	Gauteng		No I do not	How can somebody in a position of power even consider this? Surely there is money in it for somebody? Please remove this minister, and all the advisors, as they cannot think!	Jan
	2020-04-24 10:49:10	Gauteng		No I do not	The mixing of wild meat and domesticated meat has caused Covid-19! We should stop such practices and meat consumption fully.	Vinesh
	2020-04-24 10:47:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Why include endangered animals?! Why include the big 5?! This list is a reflection of human greed.	Manon
	2020-04-24 10:47:18	Gauteng		No I do not		Cassandra
	2020-04-24 10:47:15	Gauteng		No I do not	This act will allow for the wholesale slaughter of our game animals, and the proceeds will obviously pass to a select few - the man in the street will see no benefit! Furthermore, it will open the floodgates for poaching of game, we cannot even control the slaughter of Rhino's, how will we ever control such a mess? Even the thought of it makes me sick! I must point out that I am not against hunting, (I am NOT a hunter) as this is a well-controlled exercise, which benefits our country and brings in many tourists, but such an act will make this killing of game uncontrolable. Much of the revenue generated by hunting goes back into conservation, but if this is allowed, there will soon be no more conservation necessary. And what will we do when all the animals are gone? will you cry about the dwindling number of tourists, will you cry about the lack of revenue? It will then be too late. This is very short-sighted, and only designed to benefit the elite!	Rainer
	2020-04-24 10:46:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I would like my children and grandchildren to be able to get to see these animals. There is no need to add new animals to the list.	Trevor

	2020-04-24 10:43:39	Gauteng		No I do not	Why in Gods name would you want to export threatened wildlife in the first place? Who is looting or going to steal money again for that is the only reason this will be pushed thru!	Drikus
	2020-04-24 10:43:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we going to end up like China with their wet markets???? LEAVE OUR WILDLIFE ALONE!!	Judy

	2020-04-24 10:42:55	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no need to start consuming (looting) the country's wildlife. If anything, more should be done to preserve it. It's time to show that you actually do love this country. Rather stop the dumping of cheap meat from other countries (prevent the outflow of our capital) and invest in our own meat producers (job creation).	Christo
	2020-04-24 10:42:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wild life is diminished constantly through poaching and other such activities (lion bones for example) These magnificent creatures are threatened with extinction due to man's greed. Allowing them to abused as envisaged in this act is a huge mistake.	Simon

	2020-04-24 10:41:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Do we really have to exploit our South African heritage in such a disgusting way? This is preparing a menu for abuse by SA's new owners, the Chinese.	Petro

	2020-04-24 10:41:04	Gauteng		No I do not	why is this to change, what is the reasons if to export and is due to help keep numbers down then it should be able to happen with triple checks in place so no abuse with animals been moved for profit	donald
	2020-04-24 10:40:11	Gauteng		No I do not	We should most definitely limit what we eat from the animal kingdom, and be eating less meat wherever possible and from fewer species. Let's live gently on this earth and treat the other species with respect. Nature has shown us what can happen when we don't!	Letitia
	2020-04-24 10:39:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I expect more of this minister. She should know better.	Vanessa

	2020-04-24 10:39:11	Gauteng		No I do not	The concerns depicted in relation to this amendment to the act are valid. These amendments should not be made. The abuse of animals in the interest of Man's diet are grotesque as they are. If anything, move's toward eliminating animals from this list should be made.	Victor
	2020-04-24 10:39:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals are sentient beings and should not be killed for food.	Marguerite
	2020-04-24 10:39:07	Gauteng		No I do not		Wendy
	2020-04-24 10:39:01	Gauteng		No I do not	There is more than enough domesticated animals for human consumption. There are obviously game that is bred for hunting which there is an abundance in. Really, this list is a joke.	Bradley
	2020-04-24 10:38:58	Gauteng		No I do not	Covid-19. Hello!!!!!. Did you not learn something from this. Save our wild live . Protect our animals!!!!	Sonja

	2020-04-24 10:38:14	Gauteng		No I do not	What is going to happen to all our wild life if this goes ahead, really !!!!	Felicity
	2020-04-24 10:38:08	Gauteng		No I do not	To include animals currently on the endangered wildlife species, or any that are close to endangerment is short-sighted and cannot be considered as a viable option to build South-Africa's already crippled economy. Think - South African representatives - you are appointed FOR the people of South Africa, not to REAP from the people of South Africa! When you are acting in this manner, depleting our country's resources - that is exactly what you're doing, acting for your own selfish reasons - indicating that you're not the right person to represent the people of this country. Keep the old list as it is and remove all newly added species - period!	amandah

	2020-04-24 10:34:49	Gauteng		No I do not	I would hope that this is a proposal that was put together before the effects of the Corona Virus was felt internationally. If not, it is incredibly irresponsible to include any wildlife on this list. We have learned through history and the SARS, MERS and Corona Virus that hunting and eating of wild life is how these diseases jump from animal to human. We can certainly not risk any further possibilities.	Kim
	2020-04-24 10:34:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Hasn't anyone learnt anything in the last 4 months!!! Or, are we just making it easy for the Chinese??	Norma
	2020-04-24 10:34:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Certain animals on the list are endangered and this will open the market for the total annihilation of the species.	Anwar
	2020-04-24 10:33:36	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no good reason to eat our wildlife. They should be protected! Rhinos especially are endangered and along with elephants are being poached to extinction. Allowing all these animals to be consumed will just mean more cruel treatment of these beautiful, innocent animals. Far more income can be generated from tourism, people love coming to see the wild life roaming free. Sustainable farming of fruit and vegetables will use less land and water and emit less carbon, it's healthier, will create jobs and feed the masses. Look at what happened in China, where no living creature is safe from consumption. PLEASE don't do this to our wildlife.	Hedda

	2020-04-24 10:29:46	Gauteng		No I do not	The old list is sufficient tak8ng into consideration the dietary requirements of the indigenous people of this country and the majority of its current citizens. Furthermore the inclusion of endangered species like the Rhino is totally unacceptable and counterproductive to every effort that has been done to protect these species.	Simpiwe
	2020-04-24 10:29:29	Gauteng		No I do not	All endangered species, including other precious wild life in SA must be removed from the list - this is absurd. We have thousands of visitors from foreign countries who specially come here to see our wildlife.	Jacqueline

	2020-04-24 10:27:58	Gauteng		No I do not	Too many diseases pass from animals to humans. We have sufficient meat products through traditional farm animals. The world is full of abatoirs and other horrors. Have we not learned yet from the so called wet markets etc in Asian countries. Absolutely no!!	ruth
	2020-04-24 10:26:58	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learned anything from the crisis emanating in China with animal-to-human viruses threatening the continued existence of humanity? There can be no possible reason to amend the list to include wild animal species, except for the inability of the government to properly plan and implement proper processes to feed the population. This is a barbaric amendment - so as to threaten the continued existence of endangered animal species current endangered.	Adriaan
	2020-04-24 10:26:43	Gauteng		No I do not	I don't agree with slaughtering rhino giraffe etc for food, its inhumane .... there other ways of feeding the human being and not by killing the wildlife - leave the wildlife alone	ANA PAULA

	2020-04-24 10:24:57	Gauteng		No I do not	No endangered or at risk animals or animals with high risk of passing disease/viruses should be included in this act. 	2020-04-24 10:23:08	Gauteng		No I do not	These animals are not made to be eaten ! Some are pets, are you really going to eat your own pet !? People are going to be very unhappy and sad and or die if their therapeutic animal gets eaten !	Talitha
	2020-04-24 10:23:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is our children's heritage and the source of a large income via the tourism industry. 	2020-04-24 10:22:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife should be protected and not slaughtered. Disgusting to think that in these times there could even be a debate about it. Will people never learn. Look what happened in Wuhan China. Thousands of people have lost their lives because people want to eat wild animals. Leave wild animals alone. They should be protected. There are enough farmers out there that can supply meat. Stop this madness.	Mercia
	2020-04-24 10:22:22	Gauteng		No I do not	There is only one emphatically answer, NO, I DO NOT AGREE. It is madness and contradicting to think that we need to create jobs, and yet with such foolish ideas, idiots such as this government minister is taking away the opportunity to continue to employ even more people in the hospitality/tourism industry, among many other negative ripple effects due to happen if government goes ahead with such ludicrous ideas. 	2020-04-24 10:14:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Nothwithstanding the fact that the Corona virus has been positively linked to the consumption of wild animals and is, without doubt, one of the biggest challenges currently facing the human race, a huge portion of our countries income is based on tourism, people coming to our beautiful country to see our wildlife, roaming free in our many game parks. Allowing wild animals to be included on this list is purely to allow the already disgustingly greedy and power hungry "powers that be" an open licence to make more money at the expense of the wildlife that we should be protecting.	Carolyn

	2020-04-24 10:10:28	Gauteng		No I do not	its ridiculous to eat the wildlife that attracts lots of tourists to South Africa . The next step is the legalizing of poaching . Is It ?	Klaus
	2020-04-24 10:10:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Allowing threatened world species to be imported and threatened South African species and exported for human or animal consumption is counter productive to world conservation efforts. We should be tightening regulation around the sale and consumption of threatened species. Also it is an invitation for diseases and viruses to enter the country particularly because our controls on such trade is dismal. We need to be a world class country, leading in the first class protection of our citizens and our valuable fauna. Minister you and the rest of your comrades in government have only one objective and that is to enrich yourselves at the expense of the citizens and animals of this country.	Alf

	2020-04-24 10:10:08	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a very ill conceived and totally inappropriate addition to the list of animals for consumption. As we have now being demonstrated, the Corona virus (and others past and future) came from consumption of animals (birds, reptiles and the like). In addition, animals on the endangered list is also now added to this list. This amendment is purely for the profit of the ruthless and greedy and will result in the destruction of our ecosystem. It is absolutely the most ridiculous idea that anyone could have ever come up with and no right minded person can ever support this.	Deon

	2020-04-24 10:08:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Normal meat market is fine as is. do not extend to multiple animal fauna as this will push certain diseases into circulation. Corona started with a bat.	Robin

	2020-04-24 10:07:24	Gauteng		No I do not	Is the idea to start breeding small threatened antelope in captivity for the purpose of providing meat? This is not clear. I cannot imagine how without breeding in captivity, these species would have a chance of survival. The fact is that big species like rhino have been bred in captivity for a long time, and although threatened, are culled as there is no choice when a situation presents itself where you have too many bulls, for example, and selling becomes difficult as security is hugely expensive. I understand that in this case their meat could be a good utilisation of the animal, even if the status is threatened. I just don't see how a blanket approach re all animals could be useful?	Hanlie
	2020-04-24 10:06:56	Gauteng		No I do not	It should be stated CLEARLY that it needs to include that animals for slaughter need to be in a recognized farming environment which should follow strict and sustainable conservation regulations....this to avoid poaching of threatened wildlife. Wildlife needs to be protected in order to avoid extinction.	Cristina

	2020-04-24 10:04:49	Gauteng		No I do not	The honorable minister is, clearly, not qualified to manage such an important portfolio such as DALRRD. The quality of her formal qualification/S are questionable. She "borrowed" this list from somewhere abroad - not applicable to SA or even Africa. Although we are part of the BRIX Countries we don't have to lower ourselves to there standards by not focusing on our own environment by including endangered species in contrast to Int. all. international sentiment. This amendment is probably also contrasting with other current acts. She must do her homework and go back to the drawing board and read this BS before promulgation it. Government departments cannot afford any more litigation because of sloppy work. This is not what we pay them for. Conserve, plan, manage and feed. Maintain this balance bearing intellect in mind and not supply proof of brainless and idiotic, simplified legislation.	Leon
	2020-04-24 10:04:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I completely disagree with this amendment. It is taking us back 60 odd years and threatens species survival. Stop being bossed around by the Chinese.	Craig

	2020-04-24 10:03:10	Gauteng		No I do not	This is the most idiotic idea ever. What are these people smoking that think such bullshit. There are far too many people on the planet to begin with, first solve that issue before looking at killing the animals that bring tourism to the country. Why don't they rather eat each other :(	Charlotte
	2020-04-24 10:02:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Dit is absoluut absurd! Waar ons aan die een kant hard werk om ons wild, en veral dié op die lys van diere wat besig is om uit te sterf, om ons wild te beskerm, wil die Minister dit nou alles op 'n skinkbord prysgee! 	2020-04-24 09:55:52	Gauteng		No I do not	We are supposedly a civilized country who does not eat their pets or wild animals, especially those on the endangered list. There are animals on the old list which should not be there so I definitely do not support the new, much bigger list. This appears to be targeted at the Chinese Market specifically and as we have seen, eating wild animals can have disastrous results. It is widely believed that covin 19 originated from eating bat's. In an age when all civilized countries have realized the benefits in preserving our wild life what on earth has driven the department of agriculture to come up with this insane idea? Please, we have to stop this insanity and should rather be looking at reducing the list, not increasing it. A lot of the animals on the list are purely to pander to the exotic fantasies of over rich and utterly selfish individuals who believe that eating exotic animals increases their labido, which is totally fake. 	2020-04-24 09:55:02	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment will be highly detrimental to indigenous South African species. Our wildlife conservation officers are already under equipped to deal with the threat of extinction of many indigenous species. To allow a 'free for all' policy is counterproductive and will affect many communities who rely on eco tourism to live. Please do not kill our economy by allowing this amendment.	Elaine

	2020-04-24 09:43:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Enough domesic animals are slaughtered every single day. in the light of the many threats wildlife is facing from our oever growing human population it makes absolutely no sens e to add threatened wildlife to the list of animals for consumption. i have no idea why government would even consider this action unless it is for some illicit activity like wildlife trafficking lion bones, tiger bones or even more rhino horn. you are supposed to protect the country and its resources but at every step you demobnstrate to the public that all you are interested in is money . animal life is cheap in south africa that is why we will never truly prosper as a country, all life has a right to live and if you disregard this you will fall, i hope sooner rather than later. 	2020-04-24 09:42:34	Gauteng		No I do not	It is extraordinary that in a time such as the one we are in, which has been caused by a virus 'jumping' from wild animals taken as meat and slaughtered, the state is considering extending the list of wild animals to be used as food. Furthermore, this time had shown us how badly we have polluted the world we live in affecting the entire biosphere and driving wildlife to the most inhospitable parts of the world where they often remain threatened by man-made changes to the natural environment. I would suggest that the present list be reduced, and that the state be encouraged to initiate a drive where it discourages the eating of fish, wild animals and wild birds. A reduction in meat consumption will not only be good for planetary health, it will be good for human health as well.	Elizabeth

	2020-04-24 09:41:46	Gauteng		No I do not	This new list is to say the list absolutely crazy. The Minister cannot be serious. If she is this country is doomed. It is bad enough to deal with covid-19. will the slaughter of these animals needed to feed our unemployed population is there not a risk in eating bush meat?	Serge

	2020-04-24 09:41:42	Gauteng		No I do not	In view of the links that have been discovered between eating the meat of animals that have NOT been domesticated (75% or more of the species in this ridiculous List), also know as WILD animals and the Coronavirus (Covid19) global outbreak, and other virus epidemics , such as Ebola, this Act will be violently opposed by all countries that have suffered during the Covid19 Pandemic, South Africa included. It is also illegal to hunt or poach or eat species that are endangered, such as rhino, elephant, lion, leopard, etc. On the news today, Australia is calling for the G8 to close down the Wildlife markets in China and other Far Eastern countries. If this bill is proposed and passed, then South Africa will once again become the pariah of the world. We will be held responsible for any future vital epidemics. Imagine exporting precious Wildlife which has the potential to infect the whole world (e.g. Covid19) if you EAT the animals - we will be the laughing stock of the world and all the bonus points won during this dreadful lockdown will be wasted. I would suggest sending a copy of this draft amendment of theSA Meat Safety Act to the Australian Prime Minister for comment. The tourist trade which employed thousands, if not millions of South Africans, is damaged enough, don't add to the devastation by publishing this mindless amendment. Think further than the moment and preserve our Wildlife Heritage. It will earn our country more money and respect, than having a sordid "quicky" with countries like China, Vietnam, North and South Korea, who will ultimately rape Africa and replace the indiginous people with their own nationals. 	2020-04-24 09:37:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Does gov't really have nothing better to do at this time?? I would love to know which schmuck decided to table this! Surely there are people in power who can shut these ridiculous "law/life altering" changes down before they even reach this stage?!! They are not God. Why is it that they wake up one morning, with a 'lightbulb' preposterous idea to change things, and then get the gov't to support such an idea. Is the lockdown so boring that you can't find a more productive way to pass time?? Why would we want to further threaten endangered species?? We draw tourists to our natural wildlife and now you want to threaten that income as well, not to mention what hypocrites we are for even considering slaughtering our endangered species. COVID-19 has shown the dangers attached to eating wild animals so why is this even being entertained?? If anything, this is opening doors to further animal abuse! Stop destroying our country!!! A HUGE NO!!!!	CHANDRIKA

	2020-04-24 09:34:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Meat consumption is one of the main causes of global warming, global pandemics, diseases and so much more. Animal agriculture is not only killing the precious creatures that God created - NOT for the purposes of being slaughtered and cruelly treated but to TEACH US about compassion, respect and oneness and love. On top of that it is killing the earth too in addition to all the other ways we are exploiting this planet! People who consume meat have a higher chance of heart diseases, strokes, cancer, the list is endless. Not to mention that animal agriculture is EXTREMELY cruel and inhumane. And how does it even make sense that rhino's are part of this list when they are so endangered? This is ridiculous and unacceptable.	Petrae

To add protective and near-extinct animals to that list doesn't make sense at all. This will open the door further for poaching and illegal trading.	Wiekus

	2020-04-24 09:23:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Totally and utterly despicable legislatory inclusion! The sheer unforgiving nature of this is a worry and concern. These animals are more than money they help keep our ecosystem alive and prospering (despite the terrible impact suffered over the last decade) and they create an attraction for tourism which is worth far more than horns and tusks!	Adam

	2020-04-24 09:21:24	Gauteng		No I do not	In a country that is dependent on tourism, this bill will have a major downstream effect on our wildlife and therefore on the livelihoods dependent on tourism. Adding endangered wildlife to this list speaks of the greed of the few at the expense of the vulnerable, and I am whole heartedly opposed to such profiteering and abuse.	Isabella
	2020-04-24 09:21:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Why change the Amendment Act if our country already has the best meat i.e. cows, sheep, goats, chicken and fish! 	2020-04-24 09:20:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Our animals are our pride. We must stop interfering in animal's lives. We are the worst animals (mammals) and cruelest of all. 	2020-04-24 09:19:38	Gauteng		No I do not	We should really not change our legislation to allow for the slaughter of threatened species. We have now seen how the slaughter of exotic animals has led to the most feared outbreak of disease in our lifetime and we need to emphatically say NO to any possibility where we can potentially unleash another virus. We have seen Ebola in West Africa as a result of the bush meat trade and amending our legislation regarding the sale of threatened and exotic species should be wiped off the table once and for all. Allowing the exploitation of wild and endangered species would be ecological suicide, and the very opposite direction of where we as a country allowing the exploitation of wild and endangered species would be ecological suicide, and the very opposite direction of where we as a country, and world, are needing to head right now This policy should be VERY carefully policed. There will be unscrupulous dealings. Also our wildlife is iconic, representing Africa and experiences which cannot be replicated elsewhere. Should they be reduced to the same category as domesticated animals? There should be no endangered species on the list. This change to the list as an example, simply allows the continuation of illegal Rhino horn sale as you now export the entire animal. Encourages wide scale theft. This draft bill does not demonstrate respect for what we leave behind.	Fanie

	2020-04-24 09:08:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Until we, as humans in general, realise that violence towards and dominance over others will NEVER result in a peaceful country nor world, we will always be at war, literally and figuratively. Let's stop pointing the finger at China. Eating the flesh of any living being - any animal - exotic, endangered, captive, free, 'bred for the bullet', 'bred for consumption' or not is the same act. We can't justify our way around that. If we're eating the flesh of another, we're eating the flesh of another. It really is that black and white. What makes one life more valuable than another? Sure, extinction is a real threat but how does this justify killing one and protecting another?	Petra

	2020-04-24 08:55:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Sir / Madam I implore you to reconsider the proposed draft amendment to the Meat Safety Act , some of the wildlife listed there are species that are endangered and this amendment will only further push them to the brink. Plus if everything on that list are slaughtered indiscriminately they will also become endangered. These are wild animals not domesticated I do not see any benefit from adding these to the list, don't we have enough domestic livestock to service the needs of the South African meat eating population, there is when in season game meat available antelope species but this is on a small scale and I doubt that any of this is exported and is solely for the South African market when I see export that immediately gets alarm bells ringing is this happening because the export of the meat will be going to CHINA! I am sure the tourism industry would prefer the species to be enjoyed by all peoples visiting South Africa plus all South Africans which contributes to a big part of the economy. Please reconsider your amendment. Regards Stewart Edmunds	Stewart

	2020-04-24 08:51:59	Gauteng		No I do not	I want to voice my strongest opposition to extend the list of animals AT ALL. What should be considered by the honourable minister and her advisors is how HUMANE the existing list of animals are treated at abatoirs and during their transportation to abatoirs. These are the areas that need urgent attention and laws and amendments to protect the RIGHTS OF ANIMALS. “The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.” To extend that list to include even ENDANGERED SPECIES is nothing short of absolute EVIL. 	2020-04-24 08:46:03	Gauteng		No I do not	That this has even been contemplated is unconscionable . The actions proposed are an open door to abuse, which will take place, as history of the country's inability to monitor and impose regulations has proven. More importantly , South Africa is one of the last bastions of these wild animals and their value to the economy as a tourist destination is priceless. Furthermore the destruction of species has a direct adverse effect on the sustainability of the ecological health of the country by virtue of its natural fauna and flora diversity, which is critically necessary for survival. The focus should not be on this destructive policy, but should rather concentrate on restoring their natural habitat, which has been destroyed for purposes that are adversely affecting the biome and the structure of the natural order that regulates climate, water and the myriad of insect life essential for our survival on the planet. It is destructive in the extreme and an indication of man's greed in destroying everything in the way of the pursuit of power and profit.	Frank

Given that strict oversight and enforcement of limits is unlikely I do not support this change as I think it has the potential to fuel even more poaching and destruction of our natural resources. Also in this time of Covid-19 we should be limiting the use of bush meat and certainly the export of it.	Brian
	2020-04-24 08:43:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave our wild animals alone, they are not meant for human consumption. Surely this covid 19 has taught the world this lesson	Marlene

	2020-04-24 08:43:22	Gauteng		No I do not	As a hunter myself I cannot agree with the proposed amendments. Hunting places a value on animals allowing farmers to effectively breed and concerve these animals and the model works as is. But when we are placing threatened species on the list it stops making sense. Some of these species will not survive long with this legislation. They are simply just to difficult to manage by the ordinary game farmer to ensure we concerve large numbers. Not to mention the list additions of small animals, they are very vunerable and not managed like antelope species or easily managable. This legislations seems to come from money lust that in turn makes us look blood thirsty as it seems anything thats breathing is up for hunting.	Pierre
	2020-04-24 08:43:16	Gauteng		No I do not	Why do we need to eat our endangered animals. Are cows, sheep, pork, chickens not enough. We are ruining the world quite enough, please leave something for future generations	Annette

	2020-04-24 08:38:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Messing with wildlife at Wu han China is the reason we are having the Covid19 contagion. It was a way that nature fought humanity for taking over everything. If we eat endangered species that we purport to protect our actions of conservation will be pointless. If we can't protect wildlife we must just leave it be. We have taken over their habitat and now their lives. Let us learn from our mistakes and leave the dwindling Ecosystem alone or else humanity and the earth will pay a heavy price.	Fiona

	2020-04-24 08:32:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Some of the animals are not even found in South Africa. The minister must first compile a list appropriate to South Africa that we can deliberate on or in short, remove those animals that we do not have and even specified that they exist in other continents or countries like USA. Secondly, remove those animals that are at danger of existence like rhinos. Did the minister consult virologists about the reptiles and other animals for human consumption? If, yes, it must be declared in this document with specifications of those reptiles and animals names. We do not want to see another Virus pandemic like covid-19.	Khoboso

	2020-04-24 08:26:02	Gauteng		No I do not	No i do not support this as this like the illegal poching will increase the kill rate and desimate the population of our wild life. It would also mean that everything we have been trying to protect will have been in vain. We as humans do not totally grasp the implications of or actions and the consequences of them. Yes everything has it place and we as humans are destroying the very place we live in by removing damaging and poluting the earth not only do we do this in so called reasoning but we do it on a long term which impacts back on us in the end. i will be disturbing the ecoblalance of nature by removing said pieces from the wild. Have we as humans not done enough damage already. Take Zambia Not wildlife left , Take Zimbabwe wildlife numbers are dropping now South Africa Why? and for what reason can you come up with that would justify your move? Humans out number animals except insects and we want to kill them off so we can surieve really ? when will we as humans understand that unless we do something about us as humans we end up with nothing. 	2020-04-24 08:25:38	Gauteng		No I do not	In this time of Disease that is being spread by the consumption of wild animals it is a very stupid amendment to make - most countries including China are making a reverse decision to ban the sale, export and import of wild animals. In addition, it is uncivilised and irresponsible of our government to allow the cruelty and treatment of our animals in a time when we should all be becoming more advanced in our thinking and preservation of our wildlife that in addition attracts tourism from all over the world. Let us not give our sacred heritage into the arms of others.	Karen

Arno
	2020-04-24 08:23:38	Gauteng		No I do not	If the current pandemic has taught us anything is that we should reduce our reliance and consumption of animals and not increase it. 	2020-04-24 08:00:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Definitely not. We are currently having a battle trying to stop poaching of some of these animals and now they want to legalize this!!!! Has there been any thought put into this idea, I think not. Remove ALL endangered species as well as the wild life because it will just be a matter of days before everything is slaughtered just for the monetary gain. South Africa, and Africa for that matter, is a mecca of wild life which attracts thousands of tourists which generates money for the country as well. Why does the government not consider opening additional Game reserves where the animals can roam naturally and this will also create additional jobs. Please rather create a debate platform we things like this can be discussed and ideas formed constructively. I know that at some stage over population of certain species could be a concern but then, and only then we can think of the best way of limiting the growth. I would gladly like to be involved in such planning and development.	Johan
	2020-04-24 07:59:59	Gauteng		No I do not	It is truly unbelievable that this amendment should include endangered species. We spend a lot of money trying to protect our vulnerable wildlife, why on earth would you want to give the poachers a free pass.	Kay

	2020-04-24 07:57:41	Gauteng		No I do not	No, I do not in any way support the extension of animals allowed to be tortured and killed for human consumption. It is fairly simple for everyone with even a small window to allow light in to grow food to eat, and people with large gardens can use those gardens to grow food rather than wasteful expanses of lawns. Please stop allowing people further permission to kill animals. It is possible to survive on a diet that does not contain meat. No please do not allow this.	Ivy
	2020-04-24 07:57:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Are you crazy, have you learned nothing from Covid 19? Stop eating everything that moves. You are killing our unique animals, affecting the tourism industry, aren't there enough chickens to eat? You are promoting more chinese to come into the country to kill our rhino and elephant.	Maritza
	2020-04-24 07:57:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Given the outbreak of Covid 19 virus, which originated from wild animals, as did Ebola in West Africa, I think a lesson is to be learnt that wild are not fit for consumption. Also, it opens up the door to mass poaching and slaughter of our natural resources. So no, do not allow this bill to pass.	Michèle

	2020-04-24 07:48:43	Gauteng		No I do not	It is impossible to control the bushmeat trade that is raiding Africa of its valuable resources if you allow slaughtering of the animals. A huge amount of bushmeat (all wild aimals) are already leaving the continent to the East. If we were stricter on this, we could have prevented the spread of this dreaded COVID19. Keep wild animals where they need to be, wild!! We can earn much much more by allow photographers to see animals in their natural habitat . Eco tourism can create much more sustainable jobs. 	2020-04-24 07:30:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The health of our planet (humans included) relies heavily on protecting and respecting our biodiversity which could be severely compromised by any reduction in species. This is a short sighted self serving decision made by a few that will have dire consequences for possibly the whole world. It will further commercialise the uniqueness of Africa that will eventually implode and destroy the very unique and important product that forms an essential part of the African economic possibilities. . If the rationale was that the world needs more varieties of meat it boggles the mind !!! If the rationale is that it would create more revenue for a few in South Africa it boggles the mind even more. If the rationale is that it will stop poaching it boggles the mind even more as we will be moving further and further away from being responsible and accountable self appointed custodians of what this part of the planet that we are occupying is offering us. Sadly this new list is a possible powderkeg that might blow up in our faces sooner than we think.	Nelie
	2020-04-24 07:29:49	Gauteng		No I do not	If this is " FREEDOM" as it is called I think that some individuals in power should take a close look at what they are doing with their freedom. 	2020-04-24 07:29:27	Gauteng		No I do not	The term 'Protected' implies that additional measures are required to ensure their survival, and not additional exploitation. If such meat is sold, do it locally, ensuring that locals benefit by its consumption or direct sale to visiting tourists. Export not as easily controlled, so use laws to make our control easier, not more difficult.	Lodewyk
	2020-04-24 07:29:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Not sure exactly why this has not been thought out, planned or understood by government. 	2020-04-24 07:24:16	Gauteng		No I do not	Hi there, first things first. What informed the proposal by the government to add to the list of animals to be slaughtered, in particular wildlife. I understand the perspectives of gaming particularly by white people... What are the reasons behind that proposal?	Green

	2020-04-24 07:19:45	Gauteng		No I do not	Ho w is it possible that you include critically endangered animals on the list. Animals of Africa draw many tourists and the tourism industry creates many jobs. Every time you allow the slaughtering of endangered animals you diminish a vital gene pool. South African wildlife, especially endangered species like Rhino, Elephant, Whales, Dolphine, Sharks and many other smaller species of all kinds including reptiles and fish should enjoy protection. It seems like South Africa and everything in it is for sale to the highest bidder. I'm sure corruption plays a huge role here and is a serious threat to our wildlife that the country has been blessed with. This amendment allows for virtually any animal to be slaughtered and is totally unacceptable as it opened to abuse by corrupt officials and the like. Certain foreign countries will go all out to rape this beautiful country of its wildlife, the greatest threat is from the east and they have a huge and worrisome foothold and influence in Africa . Africa and it's wildlife should never be for sale	Rosemary
	2020-04-24 07:19:21	Gauteng		No I do not	We can't even control Rhino poaching, with this new list all game farms will be targeted and animals destroyed. This is reckless and wrong in so many places.	phillip

	2020-04-24 07:12:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Please do not do this. Di not approve all these animals. So many animals in this country and the world have become extinct because of ruthless slaughtering, killing & hunting of animals. We cannot let this continue! If all these animals have been slaughtered where are you going to find others to replace them with? Are we going to go the route of China and start eating people, babies or corpses?	Irene

	2020-04-24 07:11:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Farm with sheep goats pigs and cattle they should provide enough meat. Do not kill the few game that is left. God is not happy with the world greed ...that is why He allows Corona to happen.	Lynette
	2020-04-24 07:11:07	Gauteng		No I do not	No, no, no! We are living the consequences at this moment of people cosuming wildlife with the outbreak of COVID-19! Farm more cattle and sheep...tried and tested...not causing funny virusses. Protect our wildlife, please!! We will only see our precious indiginous and endangered wildlife in a zoo if this new list is approved.	Deline
	2020-04-24 07:10:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth is a rhino and elephant etc on this list. Is it because our government had got to close to the Chinese ?	Cynthia

	2020-04-24 07:06:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Domestic / farmed animals which include cattle, goat, sheep, pigs and chickens are MORE than adequate meat for SA and its people. We are NOT Chinese and do NOT want to slaughter our wildlife. Absolutely insane and idiotic to contemplate putting giraffe, elephant and other wild animals on the approved South African menu. SHOCKING actually with far reaching negative results. This amendment must be stopped at all cost!!!!!	Beth

	2020-04-24 07:02:07	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support it at all as it makes a mockery of nature conservation. I would agree if they include the Honorable Minister and his ANC compatriots to the list!	Ernie.

	2020-04-24 07:00:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Already we have a list of Amin's to consume why add more? Especially animals like the Rhino. We are making the situation to be dire in this aspect. Come 2030 we will be teaching our grand children about Rhino's like we reading about dinosaurs.... it is wrong. Are we not in hindsight Saying we are allowing the sale of the Rhino horn? If you sell and allow the meat to be consumed why would you not sell other part of it? I AM TOTALY AGAINST IT..... PERIOD.	Bernice
	2020-04-24 06:59:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learnt anything during this Covid-19 global pandemic? Humans need to wake up fast. We need to stop abusing our environment and protect the natural world. We need to as a matter of urgency consume less of all natural resources. The consumption of wild meat is the cause of this global crisis. While I understand people need to eat we definitely don't need to eat wild animals and we certainly don't need to start farming them for slaughter. Really ? Rhino on the list for slaughter? Please. Please let the earth heal as it is starting to now that humans are forced into lockdown.	Voula

	2020-04-24 06:56:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Has Covid-19 taught us nothing? We are guests on this planet, exploiting this country's natural resources amounts to yet another example of human greed . Especially when many of these species are already endangered by our actions.	Chrissie
	2020-04-24 06:56:05	Gauteng		No I do not	How the government can even consider the slaughter of some of our endangered species for meat is scandalous and short-sighted. Do not go down the same road as China.	Una
	2020-04-24 06:56:04	Gauteng		No I do not	How ridiculous. Why support something so stupid? Wild animals belong in the wild and are not fit for human consumption. This could also open up to diseases such as MERS and SARS and now CORONA. Why be so stupid? Have we not learnt from the past mistakes? STOP THD KILLING OF WILD ANIMALS!!!	Michelle

	2020-04-24 06:53:35	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa earns a huge amount of revenue showcasing our wildlife to the rest of the world. Our wildlife needs to be protected and this bill will pave the way to murder, export and general exploitation of our wildlife.	Roberta
	2020-04-24 06:53:31	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaugher of protected species should not be on an allowed list. This gives a legal route to the poachers. Culling in a different matter all together and is normally a a last reort. We are not china and should not open up this type wof thing like chona . rather lumit our human breeding so less food is required .	KEVIN
	2020-04-24 06:53:03	Gauteng		No I do not	The proposed amendment is ill conceived and ill informed. It will put many more animals in danger of being exploited and at risk of suffering. 	2020-04-24 06:34:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Good Day, How can we allow our wildlife in the air, on land, and in all the waters to be butchered?? Doesn't the Bible clearly stipulate that everything on Earth is given to man to preserve, not destroy it?? A lot of those animals are already on the local and international endangered lists, and now a minister wants to play God and destroy that which is left that we are supposed to preserve for future generations!! I am prepared to do further research on International Conservation, to get this amendment with all the power that can be used. I am even prepared to start a petition, with some assistance, if necessary to stop this amendment dead in its tracks. Kind Regards Bart Nuyts	Bart
	2020-04-24 06:34:22	Gauteng		No I do not	The world is crying out against this in light of Covid 19. To even think of amending regulations to support this is unthinkable. Besides why would we want to slaughter our national heritage. This is totally wrong on so many levels!!!!!!!	Diane

	2020-04-24 06:15:04	Gauteng		No I do not	Every major disease outbreak in recent history has resulted from human contact with animals. Almost every case originating from an animal commonly slaughtered. It is this occurrence of diseases transferring between species that have not only lead to significant death in the past but which have resulted in the COVID 19 epidemic. Expanding this list in the wake of a global pandemic, with no evidence that the virus was instead created in a lab, is grossly irresponsible and possibly negligent of the health of not only South African citizens, but those residing outside the country as well. The inclusion of threatened species is not only counterproductive to conservation efforts, but expands the potential “surface area” by which new diseases may be introduced to humans.	Joseph
	2020-04-24 06:13:39	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot have our endangered species slaughtered for meat. There is enough meat available without including them. Encourage farming with chicken, sheep & cows - it is also an opportunity for job creation.	Valerie

	2020-04-24 06:10:47	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with this list. I believe that, as South Africans, we have been blessed with a wonderfully beautiful and varied country and creatures. We are custodians of all these creatures and it is our duty as such to do everything in our power to preserve this heritage for the generations to follow. We cannot and must not allow our natural wildlife to be destroyed and plundered... either by those who govern us or from people and nations across the world who seek to do so for their own gain. 	2020-04-24 05:34:14	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa has an exceptional tourism industry with strong potential for further growth and development. Our game farms and national parks is one of the largest attractions, and allowing the meat list to be extended places that under threat. One also does wonder why this will be decriminalised? What does this hope to achieve? We are the custodians of the land, we need to start acting like it, protecting those around us, including wild animals. We need to start taking responsibility. There is absolutely no need to start treating our wild animals like food stock.	Adrie

	2020-04-24 03:29:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Is the useless government that cannot even manage internal corruption now trying to willfully destroy game farming. Many of these animals are already considered endangered and will be wiped out by passing this stupid legislation. 2. Covid 19 is as a result of eating wildlife and you wish to create the possibility of.more wild and exotic disease. Well done Minister, your brains are in your ass	Lior
	2020-04-24 01:21:02	Gauteng		No I do not	It simply makes no sense whatsoever to encourage the bushmeat trade especially of the endangered species when there is enough meat available in the form of cattle, sheep, chicken and pork and even farm bred rabbits. Why deplete already endangered animals for greed? South Africa draws an enormous amount of tourists to see our Majestic animals. It would be the proverbial getting rid of the goose that lays the golden eggs.	Etrecia

	2020-04-24 01:10:21	Gauteng		No I do not	No, I most certainly do not support eating our already under threat wildlife heritage. What could the possible reason be for this? Too cost and labour intensive to police the trade in exotic animals, so by doing this the problem goes away? Support a paymasters habit for an aphrodisiac? Or is it just the insatiable African appetite to make a quick buck off of selling anything and everything, no matter the consequence?	Robert

	2020-04-24 01:05:07	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment is outrageous and barbarous. Wild animals are already in decline, especially rhinos, and I don't understand why such an amendment is even on the table... it will only cause disruption in South Africa's wild live and exponentially increase extinction. There is no proven need for people to consume these threatened species. I cannot express enough how strongly I feel about this!	Daniel
	2020-04-24 01:03:46	Gauteng		No I do not	Our environmental policies should be strengthened, not decimated. Our vulnerable, endangered wildlife should be protected at all cost.	Karin
	2020-04-24 01:02:29	Gauteng		No I do not	Although we have seen hard times, the masses more so, we cannot upend the natural ecosystem. We have bravely spoken out and taken action against poachers, particulary for endangered species. We can absolutely NOT just turn things around and ignore South Africa's plight to stop poaching. We cannot take a stance and then just turn our backs! Remember, nature has a certain agenda of it's own. We should definitely carry on as before (ANTI POACHING); interference with nature and the natural order of the ecosystem WILL affect humans too. Do not dabble with nature, there will be serious repercussions!	Juliana

	2020-04-24 00:01:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Look. I'm a hunter myself, but let's not eat any strange animals. We already have a World Wide pandemic, due to people eating strange meats they too claimed to be exotic. Just don't eat weird meat, although I don't see the problem with fresh hunted giraffe meat. Let's leave that to only the hunters who pay for their kill, instead of mass slaughter as these animals should still be protected. Still, as a hunter, I fear that slaughtering endangered animals for meat, especially fish, is a serious harm against the nature if the demand of that meat stock becomes more and more in demand. Something that I as I hunter as well, do not wish to see. Now think about those who do not hunt or eat meat, how upset they are going to be.	Samantha

	2020-04-23 23:57:49	Gauteng		No I do not	No, this amendment is repugnant. There is no justifiable reason for the slaughter, sale, or export of South Africa's wildlife! Firstly, given the current worldwide pandemic which is decimating global economies, causing unprecedented deaths and suffering, and having been identified as being zoonotic (originating from wildlife in this case), it's entirely illogical to actively allow our wildlife to be subject to inhumane conditions and potentially increase the spread of future diseases like COVID-19. Secondly, it is barbaric to trade our wildlife for a quick buck even more so, endangered species; we should seek to protect them and ensure many generations to come have the same privilege we do but obviously take for granted. Lastly, these animals are sentient beings, we need to respect their rights and prevent their exploitation, suffering, and merciless slaughter. This amendment is unacceptable and I strongly urge Government to take a long look in the mirror and see how we can better protect our planet and all its living beings instead of focusing on short-term gains which inevitably have unintended and disastrous consequences particularly for people who never had a choice in those decisions.	Bronwyn

	2020-04-23 22:36:08	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is morally and ethically reprehensible that the human species has made itself custodians (and bad one`s at that) of domesticated and wildlife animal populations of the world. The consumption of animal flesh has led to ever increasing cruelties inflicted on these animals. As sentient beings that have a consciousness that allows us to rise up above base, crass levels of thinking to a more enlightened, compassionate and empathetic mode of thinking, it is within our power, not only for our own good, but to improve the mentality of our species. Who in the hell do we think we are to take the fate and life of OTHER SENTIENT BEINGS for our own pleasure, knowing fully well that it will induce more cruelty and suffering for these beings. We have the power to consciously prevent this yet our selfishness, moral ineptness and our lack of caring encourage this deranged an unhealthy mentality. We owe it to ourselves as thinking individuals and as members of a species to strongly condemn this amendment and should rather think of an alternative to our gross consumption habits and lifestyles that will not impact cruelly on other sentient beings. I abhor this proposed amendment in the strongest possible way!!!!!!!!	Alan

	2020-04-23 22:13:40	Gauteng		No I do not	The state of the world is already bad enough with global warming - a part of this is the production & consumption of meat, all different types of meat, even cattle bred for food - there are too many of them and that is contributing to global warming. People should be encouraged to eat less meat, not more - for the health of our planet and the health of our own bodies (refer to China and viruses such as SARS and Avian flu. The origin of COVID is still hazy but Wuhan has what are known as "wet markets" which are barbaric at best, never mind unhygienic). Animals bordering on extinction should not even be suggested as food - in this category are rhino, giraffe and more. Please SA Govt, do the right thing here, do not encourage people to eat more meat. Please protect our wildlife (and the gamerangers who protect them too). Please!	Louise

	2020-04-23 21:57:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I most certainly do not agree with this amendment. South Africa's spectacular wildlife is It's heritage, one of it's main tourist attractions and greatest assets. We should be conserving it not allowing it to be killed for food except for very controlled culling. It makes a farce of all the efforts to save Rhinos, Elephants and other animals from being poached. So many beautiful wild animals have become extinct over the years because of humans eating them. Let us not open a door that could eventually lead to that. We are in the middle of a world pandemic which I believe was started by people eating wild animals which should not be consumed by humans.	Elizabeth
	2020-04-23 21:56:44	Gauteng		No I do not	It is totally unacceptable to add these animals to the list at any time, and especially at the time of a global pandemic which probably had its origins in the consumption of animals.	Glynnis

STOP SELLING / EATING OUR WILD ANIMALS- there are enough domesticated ones which can be farmed for consumption!!!! What was wrong with the old list??? There are more than enough types of animals on that list. Can we not focus on more important things like contraception amongst our local population to curb population growth as we can't feed / clothe / educate / house everyone ????? Can we not put more effort into bringing perpetrators of corruption to jail and getting that money back???? Can we not put more put more people with eyes like hawks to watch the distribution of the R500 billion CoVid Relief money as so much of that is being stolen blatantly already - the R1200 ANC food parcels refer - they are Apparently only worth R 400 !!!! 	2020-04-23 21:29:47	Gauteng		No I do not	The only way to secure the future of any specie of plant, animal, fish or organism is to manage it. Poaching exists because of a lack thereof. We as a nation have to preserve this resource to the best of our ability, in order to secure their future. This can only be done by competent management. This meat also provides us with pure edible proteins, something that the commercial farmers of livestock can not guarantee, as most animals are treated with growth hormones and vacines. We refuse to be treated like this. Your restrictions only prove one thing, you want to manage people, not preserve life. Leave the game meat industry alone please? The suppliers have it under control, you do not need to interfere with something that works, only to end up destroying it. Please get perspective and focus on promoting activities like ethical hunting practices, this will help the animals and industry tremendously. Thank you.	Julian

	2020-04-23 21:27:44	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no reason to include endangered species on this list. It is suspicious that they are there at all, and I wonder who is trying to make money out of this? It is time to behave much more fairly to the creatures we share this planet with and stop treating them like commodities. We have just seen a worldwide pandemic from zoonosis, why on earth are we encroaching further on wildlife.	Michele
	2020-04-23 21:27:40	Gauteng		No I do not	This will allow for poaching and will mean the end of our tourism industry. If you consider how little animals are left in other African countries. 	2020-04-23 21:25:37	Gauteng		No I do not	The old list was very comprehensive. There is absolutely no reason to include species that are already struggling to survive on the list and it is criminal to put endangered species such as Rhino and Giraffe on such a list. Humankind does not need to destroy everything. Rather protect more species and stop pandering to the sick practices that abound in the east.	Lesley
	2020-04-23 21:25:33	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely insane to add threatened species to this list. The Rhino a Elephant is already hunted for their horns and this gives these criminals license to do more harm.	Schalk
	2020-04-23 21:24:58	Gauteng		No I do not	It is not necessary to increase the country's meat consumption as we can yield sufficient protein from plant alternatives without endangering and killing more animals. We cannot afford to damage our ecosystems even further.	Christine

	2020-04-23 21:05:56	Gauteng		No I do not	We are primed now to learn from mistakes and not make them again. In light of the catastrophic effects of the current Covid19 pandemic traced back directly to the consumption of exotic meats it is astounding that this is even under consideration. Allowing this to be passed into law as it stands now will make a mockery of the universally applauded efforts our Government took in fighting the corona virus. 	2020-04-23 20:31:45	Gauteng		No I do not	No wildlife should be farmed. That is why we have domestic livestock. Is this Africa or China? Should we not learn from the greed of such countries. Are we governed by China,? Are we becoming slaves to China's rule? Soon Africa will be dictated criminals and communists! Stop allowing China to dictate and destroy the fine quality that makes Africa special, its wildlife and culture!	Anthony

	2020-04-23 20:31:22	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absurd to include these animals Totally unacceptable!!	Vernon
	2020-04-23 20:31:02	Gauteng		No I do not	This is so incredible wrong. I am sickened by the idea that the consumption of these incredible and ENDANGERED animals is be considered.	Lauren

	2020-04-23 20:29:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth would the Minister do such a thing. I thought she would be concerned about wildlife and especially endangered species. Are we to now become like the Chinese? Eating any creature that Moves?	Prashant
	2020-04-23 20:29:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learned anything from COVID-19? What absolute stupidity to even suggest such an amendment or is this for the benefit of the Chinese once again, who have you, the Government, in their pockets?	Deidre
	2020-04-23 20:29:31	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot go on sending wild animals overseas for any reason what so ever, e.g pangolin. We also consume too much animal protein. We do not need to consume wild animal protein, nor to put wild animals in zoos, the animals benefit nothing nor do humans - a walk thro' the zoo, "Oh, it is cute or it is big! ect is forgotten on the way home, but the animal is still caged up in the zoo. LET THEM ALL FREE TO L IVE THEIR LIVES AS GOD INTENDED.	MORAG

						I wonder how we may learn as a community to preserve life, I believe, the coronovirus has created a magnificent opportunity to re evaluate the sacred aspect of life and any new policy would need to feel ER new learning about sacred life, preservation and respect for our planet at all levels. Please, be mindful, really really mindful when shaping new policy, please don't fall back on old ways of thinking, let's show the world how we have learnt from this experience and grown as a humanity,

	2020-04-23 20:12:34	Gauteng		No I do not	I am absolutely appalled! This is horrifying. What kind of country will we become? One that has no appreciation of the beauty of the world's wildlife. What little is left after hunting and poaching will disappear. I am against this in every possible way. This is barbaric. One would think that having reached the 21st Century, we would have advanced sufficiently enough that this kind of proposal wouldn't be considered at all. God help us. We go from worse to unspeakable in South Africa.	Jane

	2020-04-23 20:06:47	Gauteng		No I do not	We are busy working through Covid-19 learning how badly we as humans have damaged the planet and secondly how eating animals that are not meant for consumption has caused the world pandemic, we should rather be more specific with the list of animals and Start breeding programs for animals that are deemed consumable? Rare or exotic animals should be spared so the planet is saved from extinction.	Sean

	2020-04-23 19:17:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Government have a delegated obligation to look after the country and its people, this includes the protection and management of indigenous species, as part of the UN it should also stand in line with all efforts to protect the environment and its most vulnerable components, such as wild life and endangered animals, even if those animals are from another region the country should have a "no sale no buy no import" stance to discourage the exploitation of endangered animals around the world. I do not agree with the extended list, I believe it should be submitted to the WWF and local environmental specialists in the field of these animals and only upon consensus of these bodies and within the strict guidelines of their guidance should any wild animal be added to the list. I ask that this draft be scrapped and only revised at such a time as public and specialists can personally be invited and attend the compilation of a new draft that satisfies our directive as a country to look after our environment, flaura and fauna, wild and domestic. also I appose this draft in light of the recent highlighted risk of trading in wild meats, the exotic meat markets are still suspected as the origin of the current COVID 19 pandemic and in light of this the country should tread carefully in introducing new import export trade and consumption of exotic or wild meats, especially when those where before prohibited or protected. we have no need to create a list of new exotic or wild animals, there are enough options in which the government should rather invest its interests to see that enough is made available. I appose the draft and request that it be scrapped, I ask that a formal sitting be held with leaders of international WWF (since this law involves the import of meats and animals from other countries) and also local hunting and wild meat industry leaders as well as local wildlife and endangered animal sector leaders and in conjunction with them a new draft be drawn up and made available for comment. Sarah No I do not	Marilie
	2020-04-23 19:16:26	Gauteng		No I do not	I absolutely do not support killing and consuming animals that are already threatened! How can the government even contemplate this when our wildlife is what draws so many people here and the thriving tourism industry because of this. 	2020-04-23 18:59:40	Gauteng		No I do not	This is the most ridiculous proposal - It smacks of corrupt officials looking to their own interests! Wildlife, particularly endangered species and iconic "African" species should not form part of this project at all , ever, and non-endangered species should not be considered until and unless 1. sustainability is beyond question 2. safety of consumption has been fully investigated and documented 3. guidelines and regulations have been established for the appropriate harvesting, processing and storage of consumable products resulting from these animals. Get a wake-up in government - tourism is far more valuable as a revenue earner than a bit of "bush meat".	Peter

	2020-04-23 18:35:45	Gauteng		No I do not	It is not sensible to allow endangered species or wild animals to become part of this extended list of animals for slaughter and consumption. Have we not yet realized, with Covid 19 VIrus, that wild animals which are not farmed in safe environments are dangerous for human consumption. Furthermore, these animals need protecting for future generation or the world will lose entire species.	Margrit
	2020-04-23 18:35:44	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of endangered species is against international wildlife efforts and totally irresponsible.	Robert

	2020-04-23 18:31:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Can someone please explain to me where the Minister obtained this list of animals, a great many of which do not even exist in South Africa. The list seems idiotic to me and definitely needs to revised to enable a proper sensible decision and comment to be made.	John David

	2020-04-23 18:31:01	Gauteng		No I do not	It is difficult if not impossible to see how the protection of endangered species is compatible with legalisation of the slaughter and consumption of these same endangered species by humans. There is sufficient irreversible damage being done to our environment without enabling further actions likely to lead to extinction of these endangered species. The reasoning for such legislation and the fact that it has reached the public comment stage is quite staggering. Parliament should concern itself with legislation to promote the safety and well-being of the majority of the population, e.g. gender-based violence and the protection of the vulnerable such as children and elderly, rather than wasting time altering perfectly adequate existing legislation.	Grace

	2020-04-23 18:25:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Please leave our endangered animals off your list	Peter
	2020-04-23 18:24:55	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale of meat should be restricted to animals farmed for that purpose. It should expressly exclude threatened species, sharks, turtles, seals, whales, dolphin and all forms of threatened sea-life, reptiles and birds and non- farmed animals including domesticated animals such as cats, dogs, horses, donkeys, particularly in the wake of the Covid-19 virus. In annition, the Meat Safety Act should specify humane and instant forms of slaughter and the standards required for preparation of meat for human consumption. The importation and export of meat that does not comply with the requirements should be disallowed and heavy penalties should apply.	SUE
	2020-04-23 18:24:34	Gauteng		No I do not	Crazy! Why would you do this? Clearly do not understand the beautiful heritage of our nation. People come from all over the world to view our animals bringing huge financial benefit to the nation. Allowing this to pass could unleash a slaughter of note on our animals. Not to mention there are endangered animals on this list! Really! No!	Dorothy
	2020-04-23 18:24:15	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the full list. This opens up all sorts of avenues for poaching and other illegal activities. We should be further protecting our wildlife, it brings so many tourists and opportunities to our country.	Bruce

	2020-04-23 18:02:35	Gauteng		No I do not	Ridiculous, pathetic, stupid, ignorant, inconsiderate, no regard for future generations. Call it what you want. This is the way to end the wildlife of the world and leave NOTHING for the children or future generations. We must preserve what we have or we will not have it. This government has reduced the country from a first world to junk, and now aims to DESTROY what is left. Must we be known to the world a DESTROYERS or as BUILDERS of a nation. This new list of animals is to be BURNT together with all records that there ever was such a list in the first place. Government, keep yourselves busy with things that need attention. This covid virus has shown you that you need to focus on infrastructure establishment, helping the masses to find word and a respectful way of employment, improving the health care for the country and matters that need creative thinking and to be resolved. You can start with appointing 100000 more policemen, 100000 more traffic officers, educating the masses not to litter,training and filling the vacancies in the medical sectors to name a few.	boet

	2020-04-23 18:01:52	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe this is even being considered. You will destroy wildlife in this country and will severely damage South Africa's reputation abroad. 	2020-04-23 17:54:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we going to become like the Eastern countries that will eat everything that moves or like the Africa north of our borders that sell "bush meat" at the side of the road? There are animals on the new list that should be protected and not annihilated. If this bill goes through it will be a "free for all" and we can kiss our wildlife parks like Kruger goodby. Don't make a bad situation worse!! Wholly opposed to the new list. It's madness and hasn't been thought through.	Annette
	2020-04-23 17:54:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Game meat has been consumed for 100's of years with no ill effect whatsoever. There is no scientific evidence whatsoever of any sickness that could come from game meat that comes from well managed game farms	Harry
	2020-04-23 17:53:30	Gauteng		No I do not	I am appalled that some of our endangered animals are included on this list. Any species that is listed on the endangered list should never be allowed to be included on this list. Our wildlife is a precious resource (an tourist attraction) which is dwindling by the day. Everything and anything should be done by the minister to protect our wildlife. They should not be further endangered by making them a target for slaughter.	Tandy

	2020-04-23 17:52:17	Gauteng		No I do not	I oppose the deliberate slaughter, sale and export of the additions that have been made to the list of previously accepted slaughter animals. A suggestion, invest in increasing the farming of the current animals acceptanle for slaughter and expirt. South Africa is recognised for its wild life, this will be like destroying the Amazon rain forests through sheer short-sightedness, and for greed, corruption and personal gain. Adding endagered species will solve no existing problem, it will rather create many more and lead to total extinction of various wildlife species. I strongly oppose this bill	Joni
	2020-04-23 17:51:56	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learned and suffered enough from COVID to now go and eat more animals, wild animals... what will be left of our world! One thing is for sure, there are a few mentally dangerously disturbed people making decisions in this country.	chrisanne

	2020-04-23 17:47:18	Gauteng		No I do not	I wish to oppose any amendment that includes the slaughtering for food of wildlife of this country (South Africa) . There has been enough slaughter of rhinos, elephants and other big game by hunters and poachers and to allow the slaughter of any of our natural wildlife as listed will end up in an imbalanced ecosystem. Where there is proof of any of the listed wildlife being in excess, due to over breeding and these numbers need to be reduced by culling, then a controlled exercise to avoid over culling is essential . There needs to be a very strict control exercised by government in particular over hunters from foreign countries who gain pleasure in the destruction of our wildlife under the pretext of acquiring food. A ban on trophy hunting should be set in place. Let us keep to cattle, sheep, pigs , chickens , duck , and very limited amounts of antelope, especially the larger variety such as hartebeest, gemsbok, kudu, waterbuck , and eland and allow a controlled measure of slaughter of rooibok and springbok to avoid returning to the devastation that took place during the early 19th century reducing huge herds of antelope to a dangerously low number .. I urge that we keep to the list I suggested above primarily .	Ian

	2020-04-23 17:31:24	Gauteng		No I do not	Seriously - how can we even comprehend eating wildlife of any kind. Let alone those on the threatened and endangered list! Have we not just seen and are living the results of living in a world where wildlife is slaughtered and consumed - and now we live with a hectic virus - Covid-19 from zoonosis (an animal to human transmission) and thousands - let me repeat that - THOUSANDS are dying as a direct result of human stupidity! Can South Africa NOT follow the same stupid path! Can we be a shining light of a nation that does NOT add to the problem of dwindling numbers of wildlife!	Susan
	2020-04-23 17:30:02	Gauteng		No I do not	If animals can be farmed like cattle or sheep or chicken, I see no problem. To slaughter wildlife for profit, of course not. When culling takes place due to overpopulation, sale can be accepted. Otherwise, leave the law of nature to prevail and stop feeding the strange apetites of our chinese friends. The need for changing the rules contains the willingness of the chinese to do business in this area in desguise. Please, I see no need to change the rules!!!	Joao
	2020-04-23 17:29:41	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of previously endangered species is stupid and all these should be removed from the list. We are still in lock-down due to the human consumption of endangered wildlife products. Stop this madness now.	Brian

	2020-04-23 17:24:24	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot support this ammendment as I believe it is irresponsible, dangerous and inhumane to continue to consume meat at the levels we do in this country and abroad. Furthermore, putting more kinds of animals to eat will only extend the possibility of new diseases to be transmitted from animal to human like the recent Covid-19 virus and even the SARS virus that caused many deaths some years ago. I also find it somewhat reprehensible that an ammendment calls for more kinds of meat consumption considering what is happening globally with the spread of Covid-19 that possible came from animal meat markets in Wuhan, China. Profit for profits sake at the expense of human and animal life is not a beneficial long term plan for this country or any other for that matter.	Christopher
	2020-04-23 17:22:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Rhino, Elephant, Giraffe and Hippo should not be on the list. There are enough antelope species included to compensate. Breeding wild animals for commercial purposes like consumption ruins those animals' gene pools. I do not support China's practice of eating everything that walks, crawls or slithers and SA's Government should not support China in that regard. I support banning the trade in wildlife altogether.	Roland
	2020-04-23 17:22:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Some animals are meant to be consumed like cows,sheep,fowl, chicken, and the rest are to admired for the roll the play in nature. Nature has its own way to deal with these animals. Don't disturb the balance. Why are there more sheep, chicken, cows, and goats than all the other animals? Because they are meant to be eaten	Fyzal Yusuf
	2020-04-23 17:22:26	Gauteng		No I do not		Nitesh
	2020-04-23 17:22:17	Gauteng		No I do not	One of the major reasons I disapprove of the slaughter of wild animals is that it is vital that this country's wildlife heritage should be preserved for future generations. Our animals are dwindling in number and diversity. Also, it is often non-South Africans who plunder our natural resources with little concern for what rightly belongs to South Africa and its people. I am aware that few people are vegetarians as I am but I would be grateful if animal consumption were greatly reduced and, where it exists, if the breeding and slaughtering were more humanely undertaken. Finally, the slaughter and consumption of non-domestic animals is suspected to be the source of the COVID-19 disaster we are suffering at present. The practice should be discontinued immediately.	Mildred
	2020-04-23 17:21:09	Gauteng		No I do not	We have already lost so much of our wild life. Now we will lose more and future generations will not get to see some species. Furthermore, if the corona virus has taught us anything about eating exotic animals we would be way more selective of what we eat. Who knows what viruses may emerge when eating the flesh of most of the animals on the list.	Derryn

	2020-04-23 17:19:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Has the Government not noted the extent of problems we have in this country against animal cruelty. Poaching, cruelty in the name of medicine, which will never cure anything. The animals slaughtered and exported to underhanded countries that suffer for greed! Did Corona not teach our government anything. Wake up we no longer live in the dark ages where we could have been excused because we were ignorant, OR are we still ignorant!	Janis
	2020-04-23 17:18:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I am a meat eater but find it terrible that this list wants to include Rhino, Hippo, Giraffe etc. Please NO, surely there is more money to be made in tourism than slaughter. I guess this is a directive from China... seeing as they will soon own Africa.	Kevin

	2020-04-23 17:17:51	Gauteng		No I do not	It defies credulity that (especially our) endangered species are being put up for "legalised" slaughter when billions of rands are being invested globally to save those same animals from outright destruction by illegal poachers, uncontrolled hunting and plain ole greed and avarice. Rhino? Are you serious? Oribi? you HAVE to be kidding..these timid, gentle antelope... REALLY??? Oh, by the way, you left off baboons, monkeys and cane rats; these prolific breeders and pests could be the start of a huge agricultural sector for exports to china. I'm at a loss for words to describe how appalled I feel right now.	Owen
	2020-04-23 17:16:49	Gauteng		No I do not	I can not agree with the slaughter of animals especially endangered species to feed humans and animals. It takes more effort agriculture and water to bring one animal to maturity or ready for slaughter than it would take to grow vegetables and grass. If we follow Gods plan for our lives and that of our animals we would be able to feed so much more animals and humans in the future	Harold

	2020-04-23 17:16:06	Gauteng		No I do not	The draft amendment and notice gives no indication as to the rational for why the proposal for the list to be extended is being made. Therefore, it is difficult to offer any substantive comment beyond the three points below: 1. I think anyone would be hard-pressed to provide any cogent rationale for why any endangered animal would ever be included on this list. 2. Despite this, it needs to be made explicit that in all cases, the provisions applying to endangered animals always and fully trump those stipulated in the Meat Safety Act. 3. It seems abundantly clear given the current global pandemic and its virological source that the only prudent course of action is to limit, to the fullest extent possible, those animals permitted for slaughter, consumption, sale and export. It appears completely irrational to be expanding such lists.	Dylan

	2020-04-23 17:12:47	Gauteng		No I do not	I really think that is a mistake to include these animals. We need these animals conserved for game watching not for eating. Some of which are already listed as endangered and on the brink of extinction. It seems that Covid19 comes from the indiscriminate slaughter of wildlife. We must learn from that and not create another pandemic. We are destroying our planet by allowing this unscrupulous slaughter of a animals.	Ian
	2020-04-23 17:11:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Slaughtering wild life, even if one tries to control it, through checking abattoirs, will only increase the chances of more viruses, like to corona to jump from animals to humans. Do we really want more corona-like cases? I think not!! Let's prevent the slaughter of wild animals for human consumption. It is better for our own health, not even to mention the extinction of valuable species!	Louise

	2020-04-23 17:09:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe, in this day and age that our wild life is to be decimated to that extent. Live and Alive wild animals bring in a huge amount of business and employment to many, in the local and overseas visitors industry. If so many wildlife are allowed to be killed, what is left for our children and their children. South Africa have enough domestic meat to feed the population. Even parts of China have now banned the killing and eating of wildlife. I am totally against this new draft amendment	Maryanne

Apart from that obligation our punishment for killing and eating wild animals could easily be another pandemic - and it would serve us right. Leave wild animal alone.	Margaret

Then i agree. But for slaughter. Cows, sheep, goats, yes. But best something gets done fast about the killing of white farmers in this country. At the rate that this is taking place, we wont have any white farmers, animals for sale, vegetables to eat, etc. Stop making ridiculous amendments to all the rules that worked well in apartheid. I say no to exporting our wide life for slaughter. Ta boo with that.	Gary
	2020-04-23 16:59:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I think that it is completely irresponsible to allow endangered animals to be slaughtered, they are already at risk, if we allow uncontrolled killing of these animals they will definitely disappear completely. To have elephants and rhinos on the list makes me even more upset, as they are at the top of our conservation list, now we will allow their slaughter for consumption? This bill seriously needs to be revised. Additional to my indifference with regard to endangered animals being slaughtered, I want to plead that live animal exports and imports be stopped and banned. These poor animals are subjected to extremely cruelty when exported from one country to another and this should be stopped immediately.	Aletta

People like you should not be in power, too worried about making money off selling these animals than the care of the animals and let alone all the people that will be affected. 	2020-04-23 16:52:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we learned nothing from the Corona virus pandemic? It is widely believed that this virus and a good few others eg SARS, MERS etc were born due to excessive and close contact between humans and animals, especially wild animals. Surely this is sufficient to ensure we do NOT use a huge variety of animals to feed our global population. I really believe the correct farming methods of long since domesticated animals eg cattle, sheep and goats, as well as a few of the antelope species eg Eland, springbok, are by far the best and safest way to feed humans. We know they are safe due to centuries of breeding, feeding and eating them. There is also a substnatial amount of plant based protein that can be grown for human consumption. Please let us keep to our existing strict laws pertaining to the consumption of our tradtionals "meat" animals to save our population from any and all adverse effects from untoward farming with untested species of animals that could bring about another version of our current virus pandemic.	Diane

	2020-04-23 16:44:37	Gauteng		No I do not	I am totally against the killing of wild animals, especially the animals who are on the extinction list. I cannot believe that with so few left of these endangered animals especially rhino and giraffe that any are being considered for slaughter, human consumption and export. This is very short sighted and pure madness! Money must be involved here, as it says in the Bible: " For the love of money is the root of all kinds of evil. (1 Tim6:10) NLT	Mandy

	2020-04-23 16:29:56	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely disgusting to eat an animal that is an endangered species. The reason we have diseases like COVID is connected to the trade in endangered species and our government now wants to change the law to promote that. I am 100% opposed to the bill.	DIANA

	2020-04-23 16:27:04	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposal is in direct opposition to what the Minister of Tourism is trying to do , i.e. to promote tourism thereby benefiting the SA economy on an annual basis for many years to come. Once the animals are slaughtered, that's it! No more annual income from tourism and only a once-off income from the animals carcasses. The idea is, to be polite, short-sighted, and to be not so polite, idiotic. One wonders how the thinking went to come to such a conclusion.	Alfred

	2020-04-23 16:25:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Its absurd to think that Government approves the "slaughter, import, export" of many threatened species in South Africa. Are they saying that these animals are NOT endangered or threatened? On top of this, we need to confront the issue of live domestic animal exports for food consumption.... Something isn't right here. This draft amendment has not been thought through.	Patricia

	2020-04-23 16:25:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Especially in South Africa, we need to preserve and respect our heritage of wildlife. We neither have the right nor the privilege to deprive wild life their ecosystems and disrupt the finely tuned natural cycle of life. No amount of domestication and breeding will ever stop a planet exploding with people who will not curb the size of their families. We are going to eat out our planet! We are in the process of killing our planet with our effect on climate change; are we now going to consume everything that moves. It is outrageous that such proposed breeding of elephants and rhino and giraffe are even contemplated. I suggest you go and encounter these amazing animals face to face in their own habitat. Then you will leave them alone in awe and admiration. Surely it is time for us to grow up and stop getting a pride in hunting, shooting or slaughtering animals that have graced our planet for longer than we have. Life - cannot be calculated in Rands and cents, greed, and consumption. If we cannot respect and let live our fellow creatures on this planet, are we really better than they are? Or should we rather be replaced by robots? If such breeding is intended to feed the misinformed market of market of traditional medicine; then it is time for moderate societies and science to replace misfounded ideas of virility and the like; this is the 21 st century. Please do not register yourselves as the destroyers or modifiers of the last Of the wildlife that has blessed our land and our heritage. We should not play at being God.	Marianne

	2020-04-23 16:24:25	Gauteng		No I do not	It is completely unacceptable that a number of animals are on this list.. there should be absolutely no endangered species, as a starting point. Is this a hoax ?	Helen

	2020-04-23 16:23:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Please DO NOT approve this bill, it would give even more people a reason to kill and hurt even more of our Wild life. We were renowned for our wildlife conservation, unfortunately canned hunting and poaching has put all of our wildlife and animals at risk, this bill amendment will just tip those scales and we will not be able to stop the extinction of even more of our precious wildlife and animals.	Hiren
	2020-04-23 16:22:45	Gauteng		No I do not	No, absolutely no. Firstly, stop this insane obsession to eat all kinds of animals. Second, in whose sane mind was endangered species added to the list. Surely, this goes without saying? Third, stop the focus on eating more and more meat. Some meat is good, but we need to stop eating as much for health reasons as well as sustainability reasons. The ecological impact of increasing meat farming is stuffing up the ecology! We need more plant based diets (I'm not saying that we must exclude meat!) in order to stop the health impacts directly related to eating meat, especially low-quality meat! Imagine how much the government could save annually on public health spending if meat & sugar could be drastically decreased from diets! These two (plus dairy!) have a HUGE impact on the life-style diseases which lower the immune system as well as cost fortunes to manage the health requirements. Stop this madness.	Ingrid

	2020-04-23 16:21:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Threatened species should NOT BE ALLOWED to be slaughtered? The law must still protect them for future generations. Why can't the government make deals with our farmers to buy meat at good prices and rather support them bringing money back into the economy than allowing people to savagely slaughter endangered species. Just giving people freedom to kill animals will cause our food resources to deplete and there will be wastage. Plan not only for today but for the future!	LINDIE

Sell your own family to the slaughter house. Let's see you enjoy your meal... South African heritage belongs to South African people.. I suppose there is a Kickback to you and your ministers.. I Really hope that what you do turns around and Bites you back. Animals are meant to be free. Not on your Dinner Meal. Go and eat your Gogo and then see what's Right Or Wrong. 	2020-04-23 15:49:47	Gauteng		No I do not	The SA Govt must stop gunning for "easy money" from trying to export exotic meats! That's all this is about - easy money. But at the cost of the Planet's wildlife? I think NOT!!!!	Andrew
	2020-04-23 15:49:45	Gauteng		No I do not	The eating of meat is the cause of poor health all around the world. Save all animals , let them take care of their animal children as you do. Meat eating in general reduces the ability of a man to be compassionate. The courage required to hurt let alone kill another being is huge. After many such acts a person becomes desensitized and care, let alone lead a nation.	Srivas

	2020-04-23 15:40:02	Gauteng		No I do not	It is ludicrous in this time of covid 19 that we in South Africa now wish to slaughter wild and endangered animal species. We know covid 19 was spread from the wet market in Wuhan which was dealing in wild animals. Further we as Africans should be protecting our wild and endangered animals not slaughtering them. The import and export of certain animals (none threatened species) is another matter and in some cases is supported as it provides money to support our threatened species.	Karen

	2020-04-23 15:28:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support this policy shaping document for I am of the belief that there's so much bloodshed in this world and the current COVID-19 pandemic has resulted from the consumption of snakes ,bats and some rodents , so why not halt this senseless slaughter of our animals as Mother Nature has her very own way of maintaining a balance. It could be seen from a few weeks of lockdown measures being in place how rejuvenated the Earth & its creation (plants, insects ,animals , air & water) are looking great without human interference. To backtrack a bit , besides the current pandemic ,we have the "ozone depletion" which has resulted in climate changes that has forced huge glaciers to melt and that with time will cause the sea levels to increase and completely smother low lying countries forever. The above changes have resulted largely due to corporates and development agencies having an insatiable appetite for huge profits by destroying indigenous trees ,plant and animal life and creating concrete jungles instead. We as fellow humans must make a truly concerted effort to refrain from destroying what Mother Nature has created and allow all interested and like-minded groups and individuals the opportunity to rejuvenate this beautiful planet of ours. With the stringent measures in place for the COVID-19 in place as well as the immense amount of work done by the various "Save our Planet ,FSC's and Greenpeace groups" globally , we need to rejuvenate and reinvigorate our planet. I make a strong appeal to all those concerned parties not to proceed with this senseless killings,please.	Rajendra

	2020-04-23 15:27:27	Gauteng		No I do not	The wildlife meat trade has led to transmission of diseases like Ebola virus and Covid-19 from animals to humans. Whoever is even considering this is very ill-informed.	Athalie

We are destroying what wild life we have left!! Enough is enough!!!!!	Brigette
	2020-04-23 15:09:58	Gauteng		No I do not	To whom it may concern:- I, STRONGLY feel that ALL, WILD LIFE SHOULD NOT IN ANY WAY, be SLAUGHTERED , COSUMED, OR EXPORTED in ANY WAY!!! and should only be TRANSPORTED/ MOVED, WHEN it is to SAFE GAURD, OR ENHANCE the breed, OR WHEN THERE IS A PUBLIC DANGER. There are more than enough "Farmed animals" for the consumption of the population as it is !! as in the previous list, and to even contemplate adding to the list is BARBARIC and a BACKWARD STEP and a SHAME THIS COUNTRY cannot afford.	David
	2020-04-23 15:09:57	Gauteng		No I do not	How on earth do you justify putting endangered animals on this list? Laundering and corruption are the order of the day. One knows that wildlife can be very stressed living in captivity. We have enough animals that endure unbelievable cruelty in feedlots , being fed GM mielies to feed an unhealthy population with compromised immune systems from the glycophosphate gene in these mielies. Scientific studies abound proving that this affects the immune system. We could do so much better. South Africa could be a world leader in caring and protecting it's biggest asset - it's flora and fauna. Further, we could create many more jobs with free range reared animals and organic farming. there is enough potential for venison to be available that is kept in the wild and culled in a humane manner. But who is going to police that, I wonder? The ridiculousness of this is seen in putting an antelope on the schedule like a dik dik. Who on earth would rear such a small little animal that is so fearful and the slaughter it? The mind boggles. Look at the disgusting feedlots of wild animals in China. So called abuse of animals just to "lift people out of poverty". What are the principles that we as humans are trying to encourage about the earth? We should be looking at protection, fostering care and working towards a better earth where all creatures are cared and nurtured. And by the way - please do something about the canned lion industry too!	Patricia

	2020-04-23 14:56:02	Gauteng		No I do not	As far as I am concerned, we should rather be CLOSING the slaughtering, butchering and sale outside our National borders. We must increase the policing of our Game reserves and introduce much heavier sentences for poachers. Legal, registered game farmers need to follow strict protocols to qualify for culling and or selling of game live and slaughtered . they and only they may apply for export licences. The only relaxationto the export as proposed above is in an attempt to close the door for buyers who sup[port the poaching.	THOMAS
	2020-04-23 14:55:34	Gauteng		No I do not		George
	2020-04-23 14:55:33	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughtering of animals for consumption should not be allowed for any animal that appears on any of the CITES appendixes (I, II or III). The trade (any of such meat should be strictly prohibited, and export should definitely not be allowed. This will increase the already unbearable strain on our wildlife, which normal regulation cannot even protect under current regulations. The fact that such an amendment is applied for is clear evidence that the government is selling our country to China and is trying to satisfy their insatiable appetite for consuming endangered species. This can not be allowed under any circumstances.	Ivena

	2020-04-23 14:54:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Ms T Didza, Dear Madam, You obviously do NOT have a handle on sort of thing. Why don't you first consult you own Nature Conservation people, and then also other Conservation groups, even the Professional Hunters Association of Southern Africa. These people are on the ground and have a wealth of knowledge concerning this matter. I implore you to follow this direction to save our Wildlife, and stop any further Viruses like Covid 19 hitting our shores. Here I refer to the Chinese. Thank you . Kind regards, MR A F LEWIS.	ANTHONY
	2020-04-23 14:54:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolute madness, do you want to test Yehova and bring down Yehovas anger? Not good .	Johannes
	2020-04-23 14:53:17	Gauteng		No I do not	The government need to appoint laboratory tests as to be well informed about the kind of animals which are safe for human consumption to protect the public from consumption of animals which carry deadly bacteria in their blood stream and if consumed by the public can bring deadly diseases upon themselves. I will be very careful what is served in the butchers before I serve it to my family if this bill is passed. Animals like Porcupine I will definitely keep away from my dish.	Kenny

	2020-04-23 14:52:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is a National Heritage and should not be sold off to anyone. It would be a crime against all all wild animals.	Brian
	2020-04-23 14:52:25	Gauteng		No I do not		Waverley
	2020-04-23 14:52:23	Gauteng		No I do not	If you just take one wild animal that has been added to the list, Rhino, and the efforts to protect and conserve Rhino's in sufficient numbers from poachers, you have to question how this amendment got this far. It's ridiculous.	Roy
	2020-04-23 14:52:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Seems rather counter-productive spend money on resources to fight poaching, but by the same token allow the very same animals to be slaughtered for export. Doesn't make much sense to me. Preserving wildlife and vigorously promoting cost-effective ecotourism would surely serve us better.	Charmaine
	2020-04-23 14:51:14	Gauteng		No I do not	When we have fucking morons shaping this type of legislation it underscores why Africa is such a cockup. As usual, this discussion will be fuelled by greed either by an individual or group of individuals who see an opportunity to kill wildlife for the ivory, horn etc. It has nothing to do with feeding anyone. Put the assholes who suggested it in jail	Lionel
	2020-04-23 14:51:03	Gauteng		No I do not	The use of game meat for consumption has been going on from time in memorial. Hunting game is a right, the main concern is to utilize the whole carcass if possible and not cull just for the sport. As hunting assists the farmer to continue with conservation and adds to the economy of the country,.	William Henry
	2020-04-23 14:50:59	Gauteng		No I do not		Ophelia
	2020-04-23 14:50:13	Gauteng		No I do not	There is absolutely no reason why more than half of the additional animals on this list need to be slaughtered. If the COVID19 has taught us anything, it is that the slaughter of animals is detrimental to human health. It is unnecessary and cruel and will only increase wildlife trade and solicit illegal trading and inhuman animal treatment. STOP THIS!	Nicole

	2020-04-23 14:49:57	Gauteng		No I do not	It’s unacceptable that Numerous animals such as giraffe, rhino, hippo, crocodile, among others, are on the amended list. I will not support this.	Kirsten
	2020-04-23 14:49:52	Gauteng		No I do not	I can see no reason why the list should be expanded. This will allow the indiscriminate killing, slaughter and exploitation of animals and soon species will disappear never to be seen on earth again.	T
	2020-04-23 14:49:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife worldwide has been so depleted and many species are on the brink of extinction. Here, particularly now with poaching on the rise, we depend on our game to bring in tourists who would spend far more that the amount a few carcasses would bring in. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to work out which is more valuable for the country. Nevermind the planet, if you can't think that far.	Jean

	2020-04-23 14:49:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals should be left alone. I know that in some parts of the world they are devoured but I disagree with this! Leave them alone!	Nicholas
	2020-04-23 14:47:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered species should not be on the menu! The list needs to be reduced. PS American buffalo and American bison are the same animal	Alastair
	2020-04-23 14:47:09	Gauteng		No I do not	It is an absolute disgrace that this legislation is being considered during lockdown to control the Coronavirus. And to extend the list of animals, including threatened species, is ridiculous. Have we learnt nothing from the global humanitarian crisis?? The minister should focus on supporting the agricultural sector in order to produce enough food to feed the jobless, helpless and vulnerable part of the population. No to this draft amendment, a thousand times no.	Suzette
	2020-04-23 14:47:04	Gauteng		No I do not	How can the meat safety list now be amended to include more wild life species especially in the light of the origins of the COVID-19 being tied in with the use of wildlife as a food source. All Wild animals should be excluded from this list!!	Suzette
	2020-04-23 14:46:27	Gauteng		No I do not	has this lot lost the plot??????????? can they not see what humans are doing to the world never mind South Africa.. we are loosing our nature day by day, robbing them of their natural environment and life , and now they want to allow us to kill and eat what is left.... really insane. these poor animals do not have a voice to defend themselves,,,, we are their voice. so no. i will never approve of such a thing ever.	leslie
	2020-04-23 14:46:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Only animals that are bred and farmed for human consuption should be allowed.	Nick
	2020-04-23 14:46:14	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion in this list of a number of Critically Endangered Animals is highly problematic. I acknowledge that there is a statement at the end of the schedule which states "This schedule includes animals that may be listed as threatened species in accordance with conservation provisions and therefore their slaughter for human and animal consumption must be inline with the relevant conservation provisions." Where are those provisions? To which provisions specifically is this making reference? Unless we are aware of the provisions to which you allude, we can not hold you accountable. The following animals should NOT be on this list at all for OBVIOUS reasons (you would think): Diceros – Black Rhineceros CRITICALLY ENDANGERED Ceratotherium– White Rhineceros CRITICALLY ENDANGERED Dicerorhinus– Sumatran Rhineceros CRITICALLY ENDANGERED Hippopotamus VULNERABLE Giraffa Giraffe 2 sub species: Kordofan and Nubian - CRITICALLY ENDANGERED (IUCN) 3 sub species: Reticulated, Thornicroft's and West African – ENDANGERED (IUCN) Loxodanta Elephant VULNERABLE Elephas Elephant (Asian) - ENDANGERED Elephas Elephant (Sumatran) CRITICALLY ENDANGERED Crocodylus– Crocodile some are CRITICALLY ENDANGERED Osteolaemus– Crocodile (African Dwarf) VULNERABLE Mercistops – Crocodile (Slender snouted) - CRITICALLY ENDANGERED (IUCN) Then the rather arbitrary statement "This Act also applies to all other species of animals not mentioned above including birds, fish and reptiles that may be slaughtered as food for human and animal consumption." is also of great concern. If at any time we decide to kill mountain gorillas, no problem, we covered it in this statement. Unacceptable. This amendment is allowing for carte blanche with regards to the killing of animals regardless of their endangered status. It is going to promote the killing of various antelope species, some of whom are already vulnerable and some of whom are very localised, putting their very existence at risk. One has to wonder about the inclusion of animals such as the Himalayan Tahr and the Goral both of which are native to the Himalayas, and the Tahr is already at a Near Threatened status. The Hirola, native to Kenya and Somalia, which is CRITICALLY ENDANGERED. The Meat Safety Act regulates the importing and exporting of meat, and this will allow and in fact, encourage the trade in wildlife meats. Please do not make these changes to the Meat Safety Act. There is no need to do so. All animals that are consumed, or should be consumed, are already included on the previous gazetted schedule. Thank you	Arlene

	2020-04-23 14:45:52	Gauteng		No I do not	This is not acceptable. We cannot allow this bill to be passed. How can the minister who is supposed to manage these affairs have such poor judgement? This is absolutely ridiculous and I am DISGUSTED with this proposal. We can't and won't accept this. Remove this minister from her seat.	David
	2020-04-23 14:45:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Do not allow this new change at all!	Rita

	2020-04-23 14:44:25	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree to the draft amendment. How can threatened species be included? This is insane to pass this act. As usual this government has people in charge who do not know what they are doing.	Margaret
	2020-04-23 14:44:19	Gauteng		No I do not	This current pandemic surely is a sombre warning about the cost human kind faces when eating wild animals For this reason I vote against this amendment	Alan
	2020-04-23 14:44:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Why are you changing this legislation? Is it to pander to countries like China so that they can import our wild life? Does Covid-19 not teach us something? Our policy regarding the slaughter of animals for human consumption has served us well for many years - leave it as it is!	Norman

	2020-04-23 14:43:44	Gauteng		No I do not	How can the meat safety list now be amended to include more wild life species especially in the light of the POSSIBLE origins of the covert 19 being tied in with the abusive use of wildlife as a food source. By doing so South Africa becomes a complicit partner of eastern countries, more particularly the Chinese in wildlife trafficking for financial gain, regardless of the harm it can and is causing to people's health and the damage to the ecosystems of the planet. In fact wild animals should be excluded from this list for meat safety.	Christine

	2020-04-23 14:42:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife should be the last resort of commercial human consumption. Our natural habitat and wildlife eco system stands to be destroyed by unnatural interference and and the killing of targeted species, all of whom play an important role in the wilds. Should the need for commercial wildlife meat arise for human consumption, then humane slaughtering and distribution will necessitate regulation and the consumption of the meat partaken by South African citizens before exporting to other countries. Should we continue to abuse the earth and those in it in this vein, we may find ourselves with nothing and nowhere to go in times to come. Least of all, let us not assume that we will not be here to inherit this disaster.	Natalie
	2020-04-23 14:41:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered species cannot be authorised to slaughter. The exportation of these species should be tightly regulated.	Andrea
	2020-04-23 14:41:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Please stop and think before you start to destroy our wild life, our precious rhino, elephants, hippos, porcupines, crocodiles. This is just so barbaric but it doesn't surprise me at all as if their is money involved then morality goes out the window.	Isla

	2020-04-23 14:41:27	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft amendment allows for the slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale of many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe and more. It also includes birds, reptiles and fish. We need to protect these animals now more than ever.	Nichola
	2020-04-23 14:41:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The list must not be extended. The current list should be revised and amended to exclude things like donkey skins, etc being exported.	Stephen
	2020-04-23 14:40:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree to the new list of animals to be added for human consumption. We are currently sitting in the midst of a pandemic thought to have been brought about the ingestion of animals not usually considered fit for human consumption. To eat wildlife, with many of the animals on the endangered list, is shortsighted. The wildlife is part of South Africa's heritage, each animal has a vital role to play in the ecosystem in which, we, as humans, share. To upset that balance will upset the ecological system, releasing new viruses which can cause further pandemics. In addition, it will result in the devastation of the fauna which in turn will increase the effects of global warming. Given the Clovis-19 pandemic,South Africa now needs to look at developing an economy that is environmentally sustainable as well one that does not increase health risks to its population. This bill is ill considered and smacks of disrespect for the people of Africa, cruelty to animals and dangerous environmental practices.	Sandra
	2020-04-23 14:40:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth do they want to allow this,we need to protect our species, hunger is coming they , know it , they stuffed up the food supply chain and now they want to open the door for the killing of the whole planet. NO NO NO	Fransa

	2020-04-23 14:40:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered wild animals should be protected and are not for people to consume. Have we not learnt anything?!	Justin

	2020-04-23 14:38:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Just stop abusing animals in all ways. Look what it did to China. How about becoming an vegan country and letting God's precious animals live the life. They also have a will to live.	Tracey

	2020-04-23 14:37:07	Gauteng		No I do not	If this bill allows for the slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale of many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe etc. then why are we even bothering with the Covid-19 Lockdown? Why bother trying to save anything !!! This just spits in the face of everything we are trying to achieve as a nation - yet another divisive amendment to point out factionalism and classism!	Liam
	2020-04-23 14:36:44	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no need to change the list. It will open up opportunities for criminals to kill endangered species and unlawfully trade with it.	Werner
	2020-04-23 14:36:33	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absoloutly stupid to allow endangered species to be on the list. I cannot believe the ignorance of the person/s that added them the the list.	Roger
	2020-04-23 14:36:29	Gauteng		No I do not	This just opens the floodgates for new Covid-19 type infection to move from animals to humans, besides the canned hunting that this will no doubt encourage.	Toitjie
	2020-04-23 14:36:09	Gauteng		No I do not	We have enough farmed animals to provide meat protein . Stop the distruction, and extinction of wild life.	Edwena

	2020-04-23 14:35:56	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Minister I hereby request you to reconsider your proposal of culling wild and domestic animals. Do think about the future of your children , they may want to become a veterinarian and then don't have animals to heal. Sincerely	Bernard

	2020-04-23 14:34:31	Gauteng		No I do not	The list of animals for slaughtering should not include any animals outside that of plains game.	Abraham
	2020-04-23 14:34:18	Gauteng		No I do not	OUR WILD LIFE SHOULD BE PRESERVED FOR FUTURE GENERATIONS WE HAVE ENOUGH DOMESTICATED CATTLE AND SHEEP FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION WHY DO YOU WANT TO KILL OUR EILD LIFE WE ARE NOT GOING TO FOLLOW THE EXAMPLE OF CHINA AND BY EATING ALL CRAETURES FOLLOW THE GUIDE LINES IN THE BIBLE	Robert
	2020-04-23 14:33:41	Gauteng		No I do not	I am absolutely 100% against any animal being added to this list. I would actually like to see the exact opposite happening, in terms of more animals being taken off the current approved list like horses. Animals are not there for human's to make profit. That is all this is about. Making more money for the right people in the industry.	Joe
	2020-04-23 14:33:14	Gauteng		No I do not	No wild animals reptiles or birds should be included in any list for export or import. It encourages the exploitation of the earth's natural resources.	Heather
	2020-04-23 14:33:13	Gauteng		No I do not	My goodness!!! The rhino is already under threat because of his horn and now they want to slaughter the rhino for meat!!! Definitely not.	Gillian

	2020-04-23 14:33:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Does the ANC want to turn South Africa into a wet market now. Did the Covid-19 crisis not show that it is dangerous to consume any meat that you can find under the sun. And yes, I do realize people are hungry. But if you tamper any further with the ecosystem please note that Coronaviruses will only be the beginning of your problems. Also, what will happen to farmers who is in the meat production industry? Instead of destroying nature to feed the masses, why don't implement sustainable plans with regards to population growth and making the economy accessible to all. Stop taking short cuts to cover up your incompetence. Our wildlife is our royal family, they generate much income for the country. Also, God is watching. He made the government the caretakers of nature. What will be the government's response if He wants to know why so many animals went extinct on their watch.	Nicoleen
	2020-04-23 14:32:17	Gauteng		No I do not		Peter
	2020-04-23 14:31:51	Gauteng		No I do not	I think if we've learnt one lesson from COVID-19 it's to leave our wildlife alone. Rhinos are highly endangered. WTF. And giraffes are going the same way. Why do we need to eat any of these animals anyway when domestic animals are farmed specifically to feed people. These amendments and additions serve to open the door to more poaching, more decimation of wildlife and greater health risks.	JENNY
	2020-04-23 14:31:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The new list is absolutely too wide. All protected and scarce animals must be removed from the list!!	David
	2020-04-23 14:31:08	Gauteng		No I do not	only domestic animals like cows, sheep, goats. wild meat like buck only	Diana

	2020-04-23 14:31:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Most certainly not. We have never been a country that eats anything that moves so why must it start now? We do not need to be copycats and follow after other countries delicacies, we live in a country were we grew up to honour all animals . There is good reason we are not suppose to eat all animals, people really need to wake up... what would be next...our pets??? This can not be allowed at all. What measure of control would there be to ensure it sticks to a list when almost none other measures set in place is monitored properly! I do think this has been going on illegally already and someone just wants to sound important for the world. This will however not put food on the table for the poor instead the rich and famous will benefit all the way. We as a country need to start creating ways to feed the poor en make proper legislation for the important things in life as we are all learning the value of human life's at this stage and the shortfalls of this country.	Anita

	2020-04-23 14:30:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is absolutely ridiculous to add these animals to the list and allow them to be slaughtered! They are not supppsed to be a part of our foodchain. Humans have done more than enough irreversible damage to the world amf to this country and it needs to stop.	Michelle
	2020-04-23 14:30:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Protected and endangered species should never be on the list of animals for any of these purposes mentioned. It would be terribly disrespectful to all nature conservationists and veterinarians etc. Who have made it their life's work to bring back some of these species from the brink of extinction if the likes of Giraffe, Rhino and elephant (to mention a few) are added to this list.	Genna

	2020-04-23 14:29:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Corona comes from wild animals and China has band such meet. We can live without any more animal deseases please. NO WILD MEAT CONSUMPTION IS THE BEST WAY TO STAY HEALTHY.	Jonathan
	2020-04-23 14:29:22	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no need for us to eat 99% of the animals on this list. We have normal meat to eat. Please leave our wildlife alone. They are not Government's to do with as they wish.	janice

	2020-04-23 14:28:25	Gauteng		No I do not	People have more than done enough to ruin nature and everything in it. Why do we have to go on doing it, especially to the most vulnerable animals on our planet. Stop thinking about yourself and start doing the job we were placed on earth to do	Maryka
	2020-04-23 14:27:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Definitely no way. I want my grand children to be able to see these animal's in the wild. It is our responsibility to protect our environment. It is not necessary to endanger our wildlife, because of the greed of a few. So much effort and money it put into protecting our animal's. So no....no.....no!!!!!	Constance
	2020-04-23 14:26:55	Gauteng		No I do not	NO,NO,NO I DEFINITELY DO NOT SUPPORT THIS BILL. IT IS DISGUSTING. LET THEM CARRY ON THE WAY THEY DO AND THERE WILL BE NO WILDLIFE LEFT IN THE WORLD, NOT TO MENTION AFRICA . STOP THIS SLAUGHTERING OF OUR WILDLIFE. LEAVE IT UP TO THEM,THERE WILL BE NOTHING LEFT ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH	Fanie
	2020-04-23 14:26:50	Gauteng		No I do not	We have destroyed the earth and wildlife populations to the point of extinction! It's time to heal the earth and that includes preserving the wildlife! I DO NOT SUPPORT THE MURDER OF OUR WILDLIFE! Have we learnt nothing from the Chinese.? What is the matter with you?	Cheryll

	2020-04-23 14:24:18	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not believe we should export/slaughter ANY animals that are not the normal farmed meat i.e. cattle, sheep, pigs, goat and chickens. The rest are NOT for HUMAN CONSUMPTION in any way. Leave Nature alone!	Rossana
	2020-04-23 14:23:58	Gauteng		No I do not	All our animals have got the right to live and special certain people what eat anything there eyes see they are not human don't know what to call them and it is not on that is why human is going to destroy earth because anything what has a heart beat they will eat	Lynetta & Derek
	2020-04-23 14:23:46	Gauteng		No I do not	Protect our animals. How can anyone be in favour of killing and supporting the killing of especially our endangered species. Has the world gone mad !	Neville
	2020-04-23 14:23:45	Gauteng		No I do not		CJ
	2020-04-23 14:23:04	Gauteng		No I do not	There is enough animals that God gave us to slaughter for human consumption. Almost all wild life is endangered, we have to protect them otherwise the generations after us wont be able to enjoy God's wonderful wild animals that He saved during the time of Noah's ark. It was important to God, why is it not important to us!!!	Anna

	2020-04-23 14:22:38	Gauteng		No I do not	In light of the information we have on the happenings surrounding the 'wet-market' in Wuhan, China I can not think that anyone would think to support anything that can add to a pandemic such as we are currently experiencing. I would like to ask: "What are you thinking?!" Apart from that, lovely wildlife that needs to be slaughtered for the benefit on selfish reasons is not reason enough to do so. I do not like any type of reptiles, but to think of it as something that can be dished up, in South Africa of all places! I really think that we are more enlightened as to gather and grasp traditions of other countries just for the sake of doing it or to claim diversity.	Janette
	2020-04-23 14:22:09	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly do not agree or support with this proposal at all	Jonathan
	2020-04-23 14:21:06	Gauteng		No I do not	This is disgusting! Endangered animals should be protected. Only ONE of the many reasons to not do this is because the tourist industry in SA will die and its the overseas tourists who bring foreign currency into this country.	Dawn
	2020-04-23 14:20:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Only ANIMALS would eat the wild species reflected on the list. We need to protect our threatened animals.	Johan
	2020-04-23 14:19:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learnt from this whole worldwide epidemic !!!!! Animal slaughter , import , export and sale thereof needs to be minimized NOT increased. Animals need to be treated with respect and care. The list is too extensive to control. I do not support the amendment of the Meat Safety Act as the list also includes endangered and threatened species which should NOT be consumed or exported as meat. Let's protect our tourism industry. Under strictly controlled circumstances culling may need to be done but the animals culled must First be given to the people on the land to consume.	Alison
	2020-04-23 14:19:10	Gauteng		No I do not	our wild life have already been slaughtered to almost extinction and this should not happen	JACK
	2020-04-23 14:18:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Why now? Has China bought South Africa??? A resounding NO!!! Leave God's creatures great and small ALONE!!! W. T. F is wrong with the ANC..?!!! The sooner they are voted out of power, the sooner the people begin to prosper. The only purpose the ANC have is to rid the country of it's riches for their own selfish needs, immaterial of the consequence to wildlife, nature, the infrastructure, or the people of the land!!!	Robert

	2020-04-23 14:17:19	Gauteng		No I do not	This list is against everything that we should stand for. Endangered species are to be protected at all costs. Our precious wild life cannot be for consumption or for trophy collecting either. No animal should be sent overseas for slaughter in the Middle East either. Come on minister tighten our animal rights laws and stop this trade. We will also be having to fight off another virus if we continue to trade wild life this way	Christine

	2020-04-23 14:16:46	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft amendment which allows for the slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale of many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe and more. It also includes birds, reptiles and fish is draconian and should be aboloshed!!!	Shane
	2020-04-23 14:16:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Some of these animals are nearing extinction and should be protected. Leave the animals alone. What is the point of killing all the different animals. The animals for human consumption should be limited.	Philippa
	2020-04-23 14:16:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Is it not possible that we can have educated ministers, and not these idiots with no brains? Of course we cannot destroy almost extinct animals! This should not even be considered and I think she should be reported to the World Bodies, and immediately dismissed!!!	Michael
	2020-04-23 14:16:07	Gauteng		No I do not	The wild meat market is already controlled through hunting licenses and game farms. The extended list will only cause mass destruction of our already fragile ecosystem and will make control almost impossible. Adding endangered species is completely irresponsible.	Greg
	2020-04-23 14:15:52	Gauteng		No I do not	This is how covid-19, and other diseases came about.	Megan

	2020-04-23 14:06:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Consumption of wild animals are bound to lead to more diseases. This is in addition to the concerns around consuming endangered and threatened species. Our responsibility is to protect the vulnerable around us and adding more wild animals to the list of meat that may be consumed endangers humans and animals both	Minette
	2020-04-23 14:06:03	Gauteng		No I do not	This is utterly insane!! What is wrong with our leaders? You are opening the gates of hell. The only true thing South Africa has left is her wildlife and now you want to destroy that too?? Please I implore you to reconsider this decision and choose to be guardians of our precious already slaughtered and poached wildlife.	Matty
	2020-04-23 14:05:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered spieces require full protection.	Paolo
	2020-04-23 14:03:17	Gauteng		No I do not	We have many vegetable food sources that are healthier and can sustainably be farmed to provide for our people. This proposal opens the door further to slaughter of animals on a uncontrolled and escalating scale. Wild life and endangered species will be completely destroyed and part of what makes our country so beautiful will be lost. This list also opens the door for further criminal activities, corruption and all sorts of atrocities. Stop this madness.	William

	2020-04-23 13:59:23	Gauteng		No I do not	I Do not support it. We need to be able to consume, trade etc wild animals that are not endangered for personal use. This is ludicrous to ultimately ban us from hunting. We have been hunting wild animals for hundreds of years(Eland,Kudu, springbuck, impala, blesbuck, Oryx, Warthogs, Bushpigs, Wildebeest etc) which Allowed us to eat.	Heindrich

	2020-04-23 13:56:07	Gauteng		No I do not	There are enough animals already being slaughtered and mass produced without any regard for the animals. This list is shocking. There is no regard for any of our endangered wildlife or any other animal in our country.	Allison

	2020-04-23 13:55:42	Gauteng		No I do not	This legislation has the potential to decimate wildlife stocks by allowing uncontrolled slaughter of wild animals. it would also create a legislative space that would easily allow unscrupulous persons to begin a trade that could affect endangered animals. As a country on the forefront of conservation we have a responsibility to be driving further protection of wild animals and not enable the trade in them that potentially creates more of a market.	Wesley

	2020-04-23 13:50:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Humans are constantly encroaching on the territory of wild life and claim land like its their right - it ISN'T. The wild animals were there first. Humans were put on this planet to look after the animals and take care of them. Without them, the world is just a cesspit humans constantly taking over wherever they go, spreading like a virus and killing everything in their path. Nothing prospers where humans are and this act again entrenches that belief. Humans are the biggest virus on this planet. I hope Corona takes 1 third of the world's population so that wild animals will be given some more time on this planet to enjoy.	Hilton

Bly uit die habitatte van bedreigde spesies en eet normale kos, nederige kos. 	2020-04-23 13:44:29	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly disagree with this outrageous amendment. We must protect nature and not abuse it!!!! We have a national lock down protecting only 3% of humans that could possibly die of Covid19 but 100% of some animal species can be lost and only a few of us care, not on!! Why does humans expect preferential treatment???? The world is grossly over populated, 7.7 Billion and will increase to around 9 Billion by 2050. We should rather loose some people and be a lighter burden on nature! There is no natural predator to control human populations and when COVID19 or any other virus comes to control the human population explosion then we do all be can to fight it. Sometimes we must just leave mother nature to take it's coarse!!	Marko

	2020-04-23 13:35:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Our main focus should be preserving our wildlife not encouraging killing them off. We're the last continent with wild life and should be protecting them at all costs - not eating everything in sight because we cannot control population explosion due to multifactoral reasons like patriarchy in our country resulting in hungry poverty stricken multitudes who are struggling themselves. Eating wildlife is only a temporary and unsustainable and the losses to our world untenable. Please be conscious consumers.	Laura

No endangered animals, birds , reptiles or fish should ever be allowed to be slaughtered. Rhinos, elephants, giraffe, crocodiles and pangolin should never be slaughtered for human consumption. We must preserve our wildlife at all costs.	Joan
	2020-04-23 13:27:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Legalizing the slaughtering of wildlife is absolutely horrendous. Slaughtering wildlife is done but On an ad-hoc basis and mainly via hunting expeditions. To make it commercially available for anyone to go shoot wildlife and take it to the local butcher would create havoc in our sensitive wildlife environment and poaching of all animals will become the norm.	David
	2020-04-23 13:27:27	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a disgrace. Don't you have any brains.	Jonty
	2020-04-23 13:27:24	Gauteng		No I do not	I definitely do not support this ludicrouscy. This is a sign total incompetence !!!!	Terrance

	2020-04-23 13:27:15	Gauteng		No I do not	This is yet just another sick suggestion from an obscure minister wanting to justify her existence (and massive salary). Leave wild life & endangered species out of this and stick to the animals we currently slaughter for meat. There are so many more pressing issues other than this that Govt needs to resolve, so why this????	Hilton
	2020-04-23 13:26:54	Gauteng		No I do not	No to endangered species	Kevin

	2020-04-23 13:26:07	Gauteng		No I do not	We are slaughtering far too many animals as it stands. Wildlife must be protected. Humans must learn that less becomes more.	Martin Bruno
	2020-04-23 13:25:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Threatened species should be protected.	Cheryl
	2020-04-23 13:25:09	Gauteng		No I do not	It is exactly this that caused the Covid 19 outbreak. It could have catastrophic results again as we do not have the infrastructure, processes and monitoring in place to ensure that we don't end up with a similar scenario as the Chines wet markets..	Sue

	2020-04-23 13:22:47	Gauteng		No I do not	This sounds like China. Are we now exporting poor innocent animals to China to be maltreated and butchered. It is unacceptable and ludicrous. Why do conservation if we eat and sell even endangered species. I absolutely disagree with this amendment and do not support it.	Bernice
	2020-04-23 13:22:13	Gauteng		No I do not	why are the wild life species, most of whom are indigenous to South Africa, included as consumable meat, are we not satisfied with what God has provided for consumption. have we as South Africans become so gluttonous that we would consume wild life and rape the country of it's natural wild life species. We are going to open an uncontrollable door to poachers and the likes of illegal hunters who will be hanging stuffed bodices of these murdered for want of a word) animals up as trophies WHAT HAS MOTHER NATURE DONE TO DESERVE SUCH PUNISHMENT. God is aware of everything and he will take control AMEN	Enver
	2020-04-23 13:21:57	Gauteng		No I do not	Who will benefit from these changes?? We have just had a lockdown because of the COVID 19 virus which seems to have started because of the eating of animals that should not have been killed for consumption in the first place and now we and our economy are suffering. So please just continue with the existing regulations.	Stathy

	2020-04-23 13:20:46	Gauteng		No I do not	How could you add all these animals to a list that's already big enough? Especially concerning is the addition of species who are already in danger of going extinct, what reason could there possibly be for adding them, except to line pockets or coffers? I certainly DO NOT support this change.	Saskia
	2020-04-23 13:20:45	Gauteng		No I do not	What is this minister thinking this country is, one that eats whatever moves like some countries overseas!!!!! Well this is South Africa where we treasure our wild life. No, this is appalling, I did not think I would ever hear such rubbish in my life time as a South African by our own minister or whoever. We are fighting to stop the killing of our Rhinos because some ignorant people believe the horns are medicinal and show ones wealth (ha ha ha) which is such a lie. We are fighting to save our Elephants that are being killed for their tusks, whatever for no one knows. So certain countries overseas can make pretty miniature statues that no one needs? Our lions are now being poached for their parts, no only a lion needs their parts not people. When will this madness end? What is wrong with this world? These are just a few examples of what is happening in our beautiful country. Now minister you want them to be killed so some people can taste different meat!!! Its not to feed the hungry at all, there is enough other meat in this country to feed people like beef, pork, sheep and chicken. Don't kill our wild life just for some greedy individuals! Have a price control on beef, pork, chicken and sheep so everyone in this country can afford it. Do not import rubbish quality off-cut chicken from overseas countries as before. We are not low class citizens in South Africa.	Sharon

	2020-04-23 13:20:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered species and animals viewed as household pets should NEVER be slaughtered for any consumption - human or other!. The general trade of meat is obscene. We need to be the voice of protection for the animals !	Frankie
	2020-04-23 13:20:05	Gauteng		No I do not	We need to protect endangered animals and other wildlife species that are already under threat. And also take into consideration the potential for the spread of disease as has been so tragically demonstrated by Covid19	Sandy

	2020-04-23 13:17:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Rare animals or those that are in danger should not be included and totally disallowed. Does the government want anything left besides sand and trees?	jacquelene
	2020-04-23 13:16:29	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly. This looks like it was copied from Australia or USA. We don't have kangaroo or Bison. Secondly why would we want to export elephant meat. They are on the endangered list. Why would I want to eat hippopotamus's. This will result in illegal trade via poaching and the drastic reduction in species numbers due to the curmersilisation	Simon
	2020-04-23 13:15:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife (endangered or not) is one of our biggest tourist attractions and brings in millions of Rands in revenue. If we don't look after our planet and all its creatures, we will die. When we start eating each other, this minister will be the first on my spit braai!	Lee
	2020-04-23 13:15:45	Gauteng		No I do not		Erica
	2020-04-23 13:15:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave wild live, animals, birds and fish which is not already on the list alone. They are there for a reason and not for consumption by ignorant self serving people who are only interested in money. We are fortunate to have wild life which is the biggest reason for foreigners to visit our country/continent, so do you want to kill the tourism industry in this country as well. We can't get economic growth to sustain the job market, but we want to now even "kill" the tourism industry which brings foreign investment to us.	Christo

	2020-04-23 13:14:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this where the money is coming from? Killing off and plundering our heritage to sell off to the Chinese. We are currently in lockdown due to a virus which originated in China. A virus caused by the Chinese slaughtering and eating every and any animal animal they can lay their hands on whether legal or not. Now our government want to make this legal? Did our government not learn anything from what is happening right now?	Fazel

	2020-04-23 13:12:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The whole world is sick now because of the virus and eating live and dead animals. We need to become vegetarians and live a healthy life. It is not right to kill any living creature for mans benefit.	liz
	2020-04-23 13:12:06	Gauteng		No I do not	Why is this ammendment being pushed through now during Covid 19 crisis, when peoples minds are concentrating on surviving. The planet is already hurting through humans stupidity. Now some insignificant little person in an office somewhere wants to tivk another box because people somewhere in the world, I wonder where, want more delicacies. Some of these animals are already on their way to extinction. Certainly our great grandchildren will never see some of these animals. EISH. What greed. Wildlife conservationists, Rangers, People who work in this field should be consulted first. Governmental people are cadre employed and political not oriented towards what is right. EISH again. Stupidity.	Bronwrn

	2020-04-23 13:08:44	Gauteng		No I do not	People {Chinese} must start to eat more vegetables and leave our animals alone. They steal our fish, abalone, rhino horn and now they want our animals as well. Tell them to get stuffed. Our parks are for Tourists and South Africans to enjoy, not to be eaten.	Lorraine

	2020-04-23 13:06:16	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support this amendment as the list is too wide and does not take into consideration whether or not the animal is a scarce resource and whether or not it us a wild animal. Leave the wild animals alone.	Marius

	2020-04-23 13:03:31	Gauteng		No I do not	As a country SA has tried relentlessly to curb the export of products from endangered species eg of rhino.,elephant and other game products in order to save the species from extinction !! This bloody idiot-imbecile now wants to undo all that effort. Who is paying the bribe!!!!	Kobus
	2020-04-23 13:03:08	Gauteng		No I do not	We pride ourselves on our wildlife and or tourism is very important for our economy. We should be implementing more laws to preserve, look after and protect our wildlife. Not change the laws which can negatively impact and put our wildlife at risek.	Niki
	2020-04-23 13:02:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave the wild animals to be there for our children - I cannot believe the stupidity of this amendment.	paddy
	2020-04-23 13:01:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Only of there is a life-threatening overpopulation of these (or any other) animals will any hunting of these animals be allowed at all...i.e. when the animals are within or even slightly over their sustainable number for the area involved THERE WILL BE NO SLAUGHTER of these animals WHATSOEVER.	Dave
	2020-04-23 13:01:42	Gauteng		No I do not	This will cause extinction of our animals and its not safe for human consumption	Letitia
	2020-04-23 13:01:21	Gauteng		No I do not	This looks like a list of all the animals in the Pretoria zoo, why can't we stick to the current allowed list, and even exclude some more animals? Just stick to cattle, goats, sheep, pigs and chickens.	Robert
	2020-04-23 13:01:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Why include wildlife?	John

	2020-04-23 12:59:56	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a criminal idea to slaughter wild animals, many of which are endangered and are threatened with extinction. Where is the thinking behind this proposal when we need to save the planet and not do any more plundering? I think this is a dreadful idea. Slaughtering of any animals is abhorrent.	Marilyn
	2020-04-23 12:59:36	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not understand the logic behind this. And what was this person doing when they came up with this idea. Seriously! Everywhere people are fighting to keep our wild life safe and now someone comes up with this idea. This is clearly a new money making scheme, a way to line more minister's pockets. Keep our animals safe. Before we know it, there's none left and then how will they make money from tourism?	Sonia

	2020-04-23 12:58:13	Gauteng		No I do not	ALL Wildlife should be protected, especially endangered species - we have domestic animals that are bred to feed the nation	D
	2020-04-23 12:58:08	Gauteng		No I do not	We are in a world that is in crisis due to the fact that we humans consume animals. This pandemic we are facing has its origins in “wet markets”, markets where all forms of animals are slaughtered and sold for consumption. We need to learn from this and move away from consuming any and all wildlife. Our planet is on the brink of extinction due to our greed. We need to look to our leaders to halt this insatiable appetite we have to plunder our wildlife. Do not pass this draft amendment please. It is not in the best interests of humanity.	Kimayne
	2020-04-23 12:57:45	Gauteng		No I do not	Has this guy totally lost it?	Louis

	2020-04-23 12:57:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Can we please for once, just cherish what we have as part of our South African heritage instead of selling ourselves out to the rest of the world. We need to protect those that can’t protect themselves.	Claudia
	2020-04-23 12:56:35	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft amendment is not acceptable and of much concern. How can anyone justify condoning an act, which allows for killing our precious wildlife? This amounts to nothing less than pure ignorance and profiteering! Shocking and completely unacceptable in every manner and form! What will it take for the human race to learn and live Godly lives? The Bible teaches us in Exodus and Leviticus, that God clearly tells us to not eat certain animals. Not only for our own well being but importantly, for our own health and safety. Instead, of proposing, shocking draft amendments like these, now is the time to instead, make concentrated efforts to stop the slaughtering of animals, purely for medicinal or any other ill-founded purposes. International boycotts should be imposed upon countries that condone the slaughter, import and export of these protected animals. The current Pandemic is once again clear evidence that everyone has been affected. NO I DO NOT	Marlene
	2020-04-23 12:56:05	Gauteng		No I do not	It is unconscionable to make our national heritage a target in this way.	Margaret
	2020-04-23 12:56:03	Gauteng		No I do not		nick
	2020-04-23 12:54:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we learned nothing from the current crisis, which may well have been caused by the slaughter and sales of wild animals? No one can say for certain that they are all safe to transport and consume. South Africa can benefit far more from eco tourism, by having animals to view, not to be slaughtered for export, most probably to China! Stop destroying our unique natural resources. Permits will probably be given to unethical hunters and cause endless cruelty and distress.	Vanessa
	2020-04-23 12:54:48	Gauteng		No I do not	How can many creatures which are famous around the world as being seriously threatened with imminent extinction be added to a list of creatures allowed to be slaughtered for human consumption? The import and export of such creatures for the purpose of breeding and protection from slaughter is acceptable, subject to very strict controls and monitoring. The amendment to the act should rather concentrate on the inhumane shipping of domestic animals for slaughter in other countries, such as the current shipments being done to Mauritius. The legislation should be about safety, protection and humane treatment of all of Gods creatures.	Ashley
	2020-04-23 12:54:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Many of the animals on this list already face extinction. These animals deserve protection and should not be allowed to be used for slaughter, consumption, or sale.	Alexi

	2020-04-23 12:48:52	Gauteng		No I do not	There is a number of endangered species on the new list, which influence my decision to say no to this ridiculous draft amendment. 	2020-04-23 12:47:48	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely shocking and totally unacceptable to list our indigenous, some endangered wild animals as farm animals. This will promote and accelerate poaching and the decimation of one of our last natural resources, as well as the safari tourism industry.	Noelene
	2020-04-23 12:47:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Minister If you grew up in the Free State, you will know that we HAD a lizzard called the "ouvolk". It looks the the Australian counterpart of their bearded dragons. I say HAD, because the ouvolk is already in such a state of extinction because of people doing illegal trading, though prohibited by law, that you don't see the sungazer lizzard anymore in walks in the veld or even National Parks. If acts are prcoclaimed giving people more freedom to "bypass" the law, we will never be able to show our children the ouvolk again alive, as this is not only used in illegal trading but also for muthi. This is only one of the species in danger at the moment. It is not advisable to proclaim a law where people will be able to trade in wild animals as much and whenever they want to. This will certainly escalate to a point where we will in maybe 10 years time only recognise a zebra from a postcard. We have a beautiful country with beautiful wildlife, but someone must stand up and be the protector of this, for the people. I hope that protector is you, Minister. . .	Chrissie
	2020-04-23 12:46:59	Gauteng		No I do not	What is the Minister smoking? And has he/she lost his/her commen sence with regard to the wild animals in total in this draft bill. Wake up!!!!!! If you as the minister; want to to do this, please include yourself on the list	Hercules

	2020-04-23 12:45:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Has the world not learnt from what is happening in these unprecedented times? The entire planet is in shutdown because of people consuming exotic animals. Mother Nature is fighting back and trying to teach us a lesson, but it seems the Minister has learnt nothing. Consuming endangered and protected animals is heinous, especially considering how hard conservationists work to ensure their continued survival. What about tourism? What about the money brought in by tourism when visitors come to see these animals thriving in their natural habitat? What about the rights of these other species? What right do we have as humans to consume and abuse every other living creature that we share this planet with? With the whole world moving towards eating less meat in an effort to save the planet, with people moving more and more toward vegetarian diets, why would we want to slaughter our precious endemic and endangered species? No, we cannot do that, no I do not support this amendment in any way or form.	Vanessa
	2020-04-23 12:45:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Whatever happened to protecting our wildlife? How can we protect the likes of Rhino etc if the Government is prepared to sell them down the river? No No No!	Steph

	2020-04-23 12:43:53	Gauteng		No I do not	The original list should be ammended too. How can you have animals on our list that live in SA. Why don't they just include every animal in the world to the list - tossers. Useless just absolutely suselees.	Robin
	2020-04-23 12:43:49	Gauteng		No I do not	This will open the door to desimate all wild life in South Africa and Africa. The Chinese will have a field day with the approval of such an ammendment. NO NO NO NO NO!!!	Philip

	2020-04-23 12:34:14	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is abundantly obvious that it is detrimentally to humans and ecological welfare to intrude into the wilderness to harvest food. As to animal welfare, nothing needs to be added. Absolutely no one can coherently argue that this amendment would benefit animals, conservation, or the planet. This moment of pandemic should highlight to us all how devastating our interference into wild places and wild animals can be. If we cannot act right for the sake of the environment, then consider the economic and human cost.	Nikola
	2020-04-23 12:33:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Who are we humans to decide, who put us in charge of this world and her beauti? We see more and more every single day on social media how humans are plundering the natural resources, thinking they have the right to take anything. I say no to this ridiculous act amendment. Our wildlife is part of our African heritage! Animals on this continent and around the world were here before us, they deserve our protection and respect. Taking away this resource for food is the most stupid suggestion, have they got their heads on right!! Tourism is a huge part of our economy, people want to see these animals in the wild, anyone can go to a zoo and see the big five.	Diane

	2020-04-23 12:31:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave our precious wildlife alone. Leave all our animals alone. South Africa is a great tourist destination for overseas visitors who come to see our game in the environment they should be seen. This is just another callous way for our government to make money and not think of the long term effects on our beautiful country.	Sue
	2020-04-23 12:31:36	Gauteng		No I do not	This is rediculousomething and shows a minister and a government which is out of touch with reality. Why does everything that moves be available for slaughter? We are already facing mass extinction of much of our wildlife so not only the ecology of the country will suffer but also the tourism industry which is a golden egg for the economy.	Kevin

	2020-04-23 12:27:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I definitely do not support the killing, export and sales of the animals in the extended list. Is the governments aim to kill of all the wildlife in this country, our wildlife is already threatened and this would make the situation intolerable. If the government allows all our wildlife to be killed we will have no tourism and that is what we should be focusing on as this is the number one place to create job opportunities in this land where job creation is needed so desperately. 	2020-04-23 12:26:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Tourism is one of the biggest income generators for this country, providing a great amount of employment for young people as well as impoverished communities. Slaughtering any of our wildlife is an outright act of ending tourism - people come to SA to view our wildlife, not visit our cities. Besides which, there is ample supply of domestic livestock i.e. cattle, sheep, chicken to feed our nation. PROCEED WITH THIS OUTRAGEOUS AMENDMENT AND THIS COUNTRY'S ECONOMY AND THE PEOPLE DEPENDENT ON TOURISM WILL HAVE NO LIFE, NO FUTURE !!!!!	Louise

	2020-04-23 12:23:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I find the slaughter of these animal appalling they are part of the worlds treasures and not meant for consumption. They a great source of income via tourism and if South Africa, does not have wild animals, what does it have to offer the rest of the world to marvel and pay to see, nothing. Most countries have beautiful beaches, if not in their countries but very close by. Why travel to South Africa, with it's extremely high crime and filthy cities. They have that in any big city in the world nothing unique.	Rosemary

	2020-04-23 12:23:16	Gauteng		No I do not	Any wild animal that is part of this proposed Bill HAS TO BE EXCLUDED. They are more valuable to this country in terms of tourism both of foreigners and locals. Their value as living creatures is far beyond and financial benefit that could be derived from their destruction. They are what differentiates and makes special Africa, and particularly South Africa, from any other place on this planet. Wisdom and foresight must prevail!	Ian

	2020-04-23 12:22:15	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support this Bill, as we have just experienced first-hand what the slaughter of wild animals results in, such as COVID-19. It is idiotic at this point in time and not needed. Much more importantly, we should be preserving our wild life instead.	Thomas
	2020-04-23 12:22:07	Gauteng		No I do not	The animals listed and that are being considered for human consumption are wild animals that should be protected not slaughtered. 	2020-04-23 12:19:12	Gauteng		No I do not	I find it incredible that the Minister of Agriculture can include endangered species on her list of safe meats. We already have a major problem with poaching (especially Rhino) and the Minister will just be adding to the already grave problem. So many organisations are fighting for the lives of these animals and she is happily adding them to her list. It is unethical, immoral and plainly irresponsible of her to even think that this is permissible. If people start hunting the other animals on her list, they are too in danger of becoming extinct. Are we really trying to protect these animals for future generations and for tourism which is vital to the economy of South Africa? With the Minister adding so many of these beautiful creatures to her list, I think not. This is a disgrace.	Colette

	2020-04-23 12:18:46	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered wild life should under no circumstances be on any list to be killed for human consumption. Humans have helped destroy so much other species on our earth already there is no need to increase this list for any reason - it should be shortened. Have we not learnt already through the Corona virus (COVID-19) pandemic that serious deceases can be spread through animals to humans with dire consequences?.	Dawie
	2020-04-23 12:18:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wild game must not be for sale! The proposed list of animals sounds like it is destined for overseas markets...Hasnt this world learnt a very dear lesson from the Covid-19 pandemic??? Keep well away from eating wild animals!	Ron
	2020-04-23 12:18:26	Gauteng		No I do not	It looks as if the minister wants to make more meat available from unusual animals that are not normally eaten because since the regular meat supply is becoming less due to Covid-19. 	2020-04-23 12:16:57	Gauteng		No I do not	Remove the ability to import or export wildlife. Wildlife meat should only be procured from farms that breed for the specific purpose of providing meat for human consumption. Hunting of any wild animal should be outlawed. Rhino, Elephants should be excluded as should any other animal that has ivory tusks. Endangered animals should be removed from the list such Giraffe. Add anti corruption measures and serious penalties for offences contravening this act through corrupt behaviour. Start by fining the minister R 10 million for proposing this new list. Maybe they will actually apply their minds the next time they attempt to do their jobs. Respect wildlife conservation! Increase security and preservation of all wildlife in South Africa.	Adelino

	2020-04-23 12:13:52	Gauteng		No I do not	The risk of species becoming endangered through this amendment is very real and should be rejected. In addition, have we not learnt a lesson from Wuhan on wild animal slaughter and viruses?	David
	2020-04-23 12:13:51	Gauteng		No I do not	The ANC government is just a bunch of greedy idiots. Have they not at all learnt the lessons that COVID-19 has just taught the world. Wild animals are not to be slaughtered and sold as food. Those who want to eat WILD meat must leave Africa. This is not just another list for grocery shopping. Our Wild Life should be preserved at all cost and not added to a list for human consumption compiled by government officials. It should be widely consulted on by independent experts in the field of meat for human consumption, scientists, health and medical experts, veterinary experts. This list must be very carefully re-considered if we do not want an exact replica of WUHAN in China's wet/wildlife markets.	Antoinette
	2020-04-23 12:13:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Please protect these animals for our future generation!! They are on this earth to serve a purpose!	Dawn

	2020-04-23 12:11:05	Gauteng		No I do not	When will the insanity end! Many breeds of animal are bred and farmed for human consumption. Why on God's green Earth would anyone need to add endangered species to this list?	Alan

	2020-04-23 12:10:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered species and wildlife need to be provided with all the protection posssibe. This Act makes it easier to slaughter	Terry
	2020-04-23 12:09:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered and other wildlife species should be protected ! It is ludicrous to legalize their slaughter. We will have no wildlife left at this rate. Please do not allow this to happen. This act runs counter to what conservation is trying to achieve.	Lynn
	2020-04-23 12:09:16	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughter of domestic animals is primarily for consumption and this process contributes to the livelihood of many farmers. Our wildlife is severely threatened as it is, with many animals falling into the category of endangered species. I do not think that we can condone the slaughter of our wildlife!	Taryn

	2020-04-23 12:08:30	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa and the World are losing wild life on land and in the sea by exploitation and poaching. Time is running out to curb this impending disaster of extinction. The South African Government needs to lead the way in preventing the extinction of African wildlife. What type of legacy are they going to leave for future generations? This new proposal is playing into the hands of greedy nations.	Yvonne

	2020-04-23 12:08:17	Gauteng		No I do not	On the one hand we are spending so much money protecting these animals from poachers and on the other hand, slaughtering them for food. How on earth can that make sense.? Leave the wild animals alone. We need them to bring in much needed money from tourism.	Angela
	2020-04-23 12:07:27	Gauteng		No I do not		Catharine

	2020-04-23 12:07:25	Gauteng		No I do not	ALL wildlife animals should not be for humanity to exploit, including donkeys and horses. They have a right to full and healthy lives in their own natural environment. To use other species for the meat trade is morally corrupt. People cannot take care of their domesticated animals and livestock as it is. We are supposed to look after this planet, which includes all living things e.g. animals, birds, fish, trees and plants and should only take that which we need to survive. Justice and freedom is for all beings on our planet. The world is already in a mess, stop, think about what we are doing!	Ailsa
	2020-04-23 12:06:59	Gauteng		No I do not	This list is absolutely ridiculous, including protected and endangered species! Some of the animals on the list are not even edible. Donkey! Has the person compiling the list ever smelt donkey being cooked? They are sacred animals, ridden by Christ on His way to die for our salvation and not used for food. Rhinos and hippos??? Never. That is just justifying poaching! Elephants and kangaroos are not particularly palatable either. Please consider the practicality of the list and remove the exotic and endangered animals to keep some credibility for our country.	Andy
	2020-04-23 12:06:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife animals, reptiles, birds etc. that ought to be protected by humans (instructed by GOD) and have the right to live in the wild CAN NOT be included in this list.	Ria

	2020-04-23 12:06:06	Gauteng		No I do not	This is shocking. Why change it to include animals on the endangered list and so many other strange animals not indigenous to SA. Do we plan to import these? Surely there are better things to focus on such as enforcing the current best practice and not to undue all the good work of the past.	Bettie
	2020-04-23 12:05:51	Gauteng		No I do not	It saddens me deeply to hear about the amendment to this bill. The world is currently in a pandemic because China and all the animals they consume which may have started this caronavirus outbreak. South Africa is supposed to be conserving their wildlife to attract tourism to boost the economy, now they want to start slaughtering these animals and exporting their meat, probably to China. What next?	Shiralee

	2020-04-23 12:01:40	Gauteng		No I do not	HAS THE WORLD NOT YET LEARNED ITS LESSON? THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE HAVE DIED OF COVID 19 BECAUSE WE HAVE ABUSED AND TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF ANIMALS, ESPECIALLY NON DOMENTIC ANIMALS. EXAMPLE WET MARKETS IN CHINA	Joyce
	2020-04-23 12:00:20	Gauteng		No I do not		Lorna

					There is NO JUSTIFICATION for including wild animals!!! Not environmentally. Not from a tourism point of view. Not from an ethical point of view. Not from a political point of view - and certainly not from a South African point of view. We are the custodians of the largest and most precious wildlife reserves in the world. Have we learnt nothing from COVID19???? What other viruses lurk in the consumption of unknown species?!!!!!!!! And if you are a believer, what will you tell God when your day of judgement comes??? But most importantly - what will you tell your children and grandchildren??? How will you justify this senseless and ill-conceived slaughter??? And lastly, have you considered the consequences??? The science is clear - destroy bio-diversity and you will destroy humankind! Of that there is absolutely NO DOUBT, neither morally, scientifically or economically. STOP THIS MADNESS!!!!!!!!!! It has NO validity. But most importantly, if we do this - we will NOT live to regret it. I will personally oppose it at every level, legally possible. And so will millions of proud South Africans who treasure our gift of the greatest wildlife show on Earth Reg Wessels Founder at Earth Corporation

	2020-04-23 11:59:18	Gauteng		No I do not	To even think of providing animals for food that are near extinction or on the endangered list is unbelievable. You minister have the responsibility of our children & grandchildren's education in your hands, is this what your going to leave as a legacy, kill any animal that moves for food??? Please, Please reconsider, wildlife animals, including donkeys and horses, are not resources for humanity to exploit. They have a right to live in South Africa, in their natural environment, full and healthy lives. We do not need to exploit other species for meat trade, and to contemplate doing so is a morally corrupt decision. Wildlife is not food. We have proven how badly we take care of our already domesticated animals and livestock, how badly we organise their deaths, how we drain our empathy banks every time we categorise another species as a "resource". We are stewards on this planet. We need to take only that which we need to survive. Farming animals for 'wealth and prosperity', in the name of 'growth and economy', is abhorrent and will be looked on by next generations as ignorant, backwards and a sign of a greedy nation. If we truly value justice and freedom, then it must be justice and freedom for all sentient beings in our country. This debate is morally bankrupt from the start because there is no argument that can win over the fact that we do not have rights over other sentient beings. We cannot assign them as resources.	Don

	2020-04-23 11:59:06	Gauteng		No I do not	Unless specifically BRED for the purpose, no animal should be legal to hunt or slaughtered for food. Animals bred for food, such as some antelope, should only ever be available for hunting and food if they are NOT on the endangered list. We cannot afford to lose more endangered species or deplete our natural resources that is vital for the tourism industry. We've had such good environmental laws and practices in place for YEARS, what is this? Are we selling out to demands from the Chinese market or something??? Not a single animal or reptile or bird should be legal to kill and/or export, if on the endangered list. END OF STORY.	Jeanine
	2020-04-23 11:59:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered animals should not be on this list, also South Africa is a country that relies on tourism by killing or selling some of these species South Africas tourism will head down a negative path. Are we slowly going down the path of Chinese wet markets??? Or are we making it easier for those countries to get our animals, look at how they decimated our Rhino population.	Nivy
	2020-04-23 11:59:01	Gauteng		No I do not	How can we even think of including scarce animal species to be included. This is ridiculous and should be stopped.	Kallie

	2020-04-23 11:57:43	Gauteng		No I do not	It is ridiculous to even consider the notion of agreeing to the proposal of endangered species being considered as a food source. Most of these animals are protected under law in wildlife reserves because of their endangered status and are certainly not bred for food consumption. These reserves are huge generators of tourism to SA which brings massive foreign exchange earnings and jobs. I am personally disgusted that any person would even consider such a notion especially with the Covid-19 crisis believed to have originated in China from the consumption of wild animals as food. 	2020-04-23 11:56:19	Gauteng		No I do not	After the debacle in Wuhan China which idiot does not realize that you cannot keep eating wild animals that are known to carry different viruses and disease very harmful to man. 	2020-04-23 11:56:03	Gauteng		No I do not	This will lead to increased poaching of natural resources in the country. Furthermore, this is likely to result in a China style mixing of species in areas where that would never happen in the wild. This ultimately leads to virus cross contamination. The current legislation is sufficient and this should not proceed.	Sascha

	2020-04-23 11:52:25	Gauteng		No I do not	There are so many animals which are almost extinct and by legalizing the butchering of such animals will most likely completely drive those species to extinction. I can not support such an act.	Theunis
	2020-04-23 11:51:58	Gauteng		No I do not	I second all the views displayed. It is savage and totally immoral to slaughter the game that is left. God did not give us wild animals to slaughter. There has been has been so much work done to protect Rhino, Elephant and others. How can this all be to no avail. Maybe control human procreation. There are too many people in the world and the infrastructure cannot cope. Animals are innocent, humans, not.	Penny

	2020-04-23 11:51:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Eating animals that are classified as wild can lead to a variety of zoonotic diseases, like COVID19 we are currently experiencing. We are charged with protecting the animals in our care and country and this list should not be changed to include a larger portion of animals.	Mieneke

	2020-04-23 11:50:02	Gauteng		No I do not	This will threaten the livelihood of wild animals and many of them will be extinct. If only a few from the list could be chosen and be bred under strict regulations to avoid hunting and killing these animals.	Selby

	2020-04-23 11:49:30	Gauteng		No I do not	This is unnecessary as there are more than enough domestic animals farmed for our food. By legalising the 'domestication' of wild animals it will encourage the poaching of wild animals in our game reserves and National Parks for bush meat. This will have a very big effect on our National Natural heritage and also effect our tourism industry which is a big provider to our GDP.	Paul
	2020-04-23 11:49:25	Gauteng		No I do not	What lack it there in the current law that would require these changes? There are too many generalisation in the draft that can be misunderstood . Penguins are birds so with this law we can start slaughtering them . There is no need for this new list of animals as they are not part of any person from African's diet.	Koos
	2020-04-23 11:49:14	Gauteng		No I do not	WTF - there is no need to add the additional species unless that don't give a damn about the species and are hoping that they are piut further on the endangered list.	Grant
	2020-04-23 11:49:12	Gauteng		No I do not	We will eat the clothes from each other but very few produce protect and propagate anything that will benefit our children. A very selfish society we live in. Everybody seems to have rights but nobody is taking care.	Hans
	2020-04-23 11:48:20	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely ridiculous to want the slaughter and consumption, export and sale of our national heritage ... these animals are what makes up a large percentage of our tourism which contributes hugely to our GDP. I do not agree with this draft amendment to the Meat Safety Act. It is a sad day when this happens to our country.	Loraine
	2020-04-23 11:48:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Have human beings not learnt from this pandemic. Shame. And just because of that the next round is going to be far worse than covid 19.	Colin
	2020-04-23 11:48:01	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absolutely ludicrous. Our wildlife is already endangered. How can this possibly be even thought of? 	2020-04-23 11:47:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Who is going to monitor what carcasses come into the butcheries,How can we distinguish between a horse or a cattle meat.We are not allowed to slaughter our own meat,so how will I know what meat I am buying.	Joe
	2020-04-23 11:47:31	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a blatant act by the ANC government to serve their Chinese masters!Rather support and develop South Africa’s agricultural sector by facilitating access to land for all-in this way the productivity of farms will increase and return the food security we need.Killing off wild animals to satisfy the Chinese and Asian markets will not lead to food security.The wildlife will be destroyed and with it the natural environment. 	2020-04-23 11:46:53	Gauteng		No I do not	The addition of endangered species is a pander to the political pressures being exerted by the Chinese. There is no way that Elephant, Giraffe , Rhino or Donkey can be added to this list, without the knowledge that the CXhinewse will render these species extinct within one generation. That will be on the head of the Minister and she will have to answer to that before Almighty God.	Graham

	2020-04-23 11:45:21	Gauteng		No I do not	This is insane! How can some of our precious wildlife be pimped in this way? I am disgusted - does the minister of agriculture not understand what we are going through RIGHT NOW with this pandemic? Our wildlife is NOT up for trade and should never have been. Respect our wildlife - there are lines that have been crossed by consuming wildlife and we are paying dearly for it now. I JUST CANNOT BELIEVE THAT THIS IS EVEN A QUESTION? The entire world has changed forever because of this . STOP THIS PLEASE!	SHIRLI

	2020-04-23 11:42:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this not one of the reasons exotic diseases have popped up in the past like Ebola, Sars, Covid, etc. Apart from that our animal and bird life is dwindling from humans encroaching on natural habitat of wild animals, burning their forests etc and superstitious beliefs in powers of eating such. UNLESS these creatures are being moved to proper parks to be used to breed and increase herds and numbers for conservation reasons, then under no other circumstance would I support this Amendment. Leave our wildlife and birdlife alone!!!!!!	Merina

	2020-04-23 11:40:35	Gauteng		No I do not	How could any person, let alone our government, consent to slaughter/export/ import endangered animals. Unless there are specific provisions such as because another country can better protect these animals (that being the only allowed reason for export). Which obviously these factors will have to be reported and audited to ensure that is the case, which again causes a lot of admin.	Jan-Ben

	2020-04-23 11:40:06	Gauteng		No I do not	Has the Dept heard of Corona virus. It was speculated to originate from the Pangolin. Ebola originated from a species of monkey. It really is not common sense to include any species that is on or close to the endangered list. China is banning the consumption of meat from all wild animals. I see the Corona outbreak as the revenge of the Pangolin on the Chinese, except that China then passed it on to the rest of the world. The Pangolin is one of the most highly poached animals in Africa, to satify a myth among the Chinese and their neighbours that, cooked, it increases libido. The same for the Rhino horn The Chinese and neighbours have a lot to answer for.	Brian

	2020-04-23 11:37:59	Gauteng		No I do not	In this time where we are battling the Corona, Covid-19 virus, we should really not change our legislation to allow for the slaughter of threatened species. We have now seen how the slaughter of exotic animals has led to the most feared outbreak of disease in our lifetime and we need to emphatically say NO to any possibility where we can potentially unleash another virus. We have seen Ebola in West Africa as a result of the bush meat trade and amending our legislation regarding the sale of threatened and exotic species should be wiped off the table once and for all.	AnneMarie
	2020-04-23 11:37:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals on this list are wild animals that should not be used as a commercial food source. This act will add more impetus to the destruction of the planet. Wake up! It is time to stop this! NO - I do not accept the extending of lists of animals to be added into this horrifying situation - horrifying for them, and horrifying for the human race. 	2020-04-23 11:25:31	Gauteng		No I do not	As humans we need to strive for self improvement. In order to succeed as a civilisation / society / country / culture we need to endeavour to keep up with technology, science and technology. In this way we survive. 	2020-04-23 11:24:27	Gauteng		No I do not	I strenuously oppose this policy . It encourages even more corrupt activity by the State, it's greedy corrupt individuals , criminals , syndicates, and those with access to our Game Reserves and Parks. Our Wildlife is OUR HERITAGE . The State has no business offering animals of any description from the smallest bird or reptile to the greatest Elephant or Rhino for sale , either live or God forbid as meat. Since the Government under Zuma's leadership is responsible for the hemorrhaging of vast sums of taxpayers money it has been trying by any means to shore up the deficit . This is yet another effort to fill the gaping hole, which has widened the poverty gap. More beneficial would be encouraging everyone with access to even a tiny door sized piece of land to grow easily propagated vegetables eg., spinach, beans, tomatoes . Very little if any meat is necessary to sustain life. This is a diversionary tactic to distract attention from the real situation created by the corona virus, and the governments past failures and incompetency.	Wendy Elizabeth

	2020-04-23 11:23:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Putting controversial legislative changes through at a time when everyone is focused entirely on the COVID19 pandemic, fighting for their survival, trying desperately to put food on the table, smacks of a deliberate tactic to sneak through these changes while nobody is looking. Our fauna and flora ..our wildlife and nature are given to us to us as beautiful forms of our environment to teach us moral values which we as humanity our not born with but have to learn. It is criminal to slaughter such invaluable creatures of our world ...it is not a human right to slaughter them. It is our human moral duty to care and nurture these gifts to humanity to help us face our failures and improve ourselves as a species !!!!	Jenny
	2020-04-23 11:22:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Rhino, elephant? They cannot be serious! Any animal/bird on the list of endangered or vulnerable species MUST be excluded, and none of these 'exotics' should be allowed to be exported. Meat for export should be limited to those that are numerous, therefore excluding sable etc. i.e. only specific named species, and all needs to be strictly controlled by permit. This sounds like another attempt to bypass laws regarding export of animal parts for the peculiar 'medicine' practised in parts of the Far East.	Maureen

	2020-04-23 11:21:30	Gauteng		No I do not	There are many reasons for it being ill-advised to authorise the slaughtering and sale of animals on the endangered list, one of which is that it will be a stimulus to poaching. It also seems extremely reckless at a time when speculation is rife that the coronavirus COVID-19 pandemic was caused by the consumption of wild animals.	Anthony

	2020-04-23 11:19:25	Gauteng		No I do not	This will open the flood gates for more decimation of our wildlife. 	2020-04-23 11:19:14	Gauteng		No I do not	We have enough farmed animals for food consumption available, thanks to our hard working farmers. The thought of allowing endangered species to be slaughtered for meat consumption will only allow poachers etc a free reign to kill these species for financial gain and take away the threat of their being prosecuted in court for poaching. Rhinos and other wildlife animals are already being decimated by these brutal people for their illegal gain.	ROBERTA

	2020-04-23 11:17:32	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is our heritage, protected by legislation. It is my opinion that is is NOT a commodity to be killed, packaged and shipped off to other countries. With the Covid-19 pandemic there is a world-wide movement to stop the sale of "exotic" (i.e. not domesticated) meat. It would not be in our best interests to send wild meat overseas. It would encourage poaching and the slaughter of our precious wildlife heritage.	Elsebe

	2020-04-23 11:17:16	Gauteng		No I do not	This is not contributing to saving endangered animals. This will cause the mass killing of all wild animals/birds/reptiles and fish. This will essentially legalize poaching. This is ridiculous and dangerous.	Marius
	2020-04-23 11:17:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Killing our wildlife for food consumption will lead to poaching and killing for the sake of 'muti' and other superstitious remedies. 	2020-04-23 11:12:55	Gauteng		No I do not	My objection to this amendment to the Act is that it is blind and populist. 1/ Conservation of Diversity: South Africa relies on ecotourism as a significant part of our economy. So why unnecessarily expose it to risk? West African nations are struggling to safeguard their wildlife because of the unchecked hunting and marketing of bush meat. Several species listed on this list are abundant and not at any endangerment risk, however many are endangered or at risk and so will be much more vulnerable to these changes. 2/Health Risks. Has this ministry been on Mars the past 3months? Ebola, SARS, MERS, possibly HIV/AIDS and now COVID-19 are all animal to human transmitted diseases. We know that COVID-19 is from 'bush meat', and now the ministry of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development wants to increase the risks of more pandemics by opening the door to consumption and trade in bush meat. Some might argue this point by saying that all the South African species listed have formed part of the traditional food for indigenous peoples for centuries and so there is no risk. My response is a short history lesson: Europeans had for centuries managed to survive with the annual influenza and other diseases cycles, but then when they first explored the America's they encountered peoples who had never been exposed to flu, smallpox and other 'common' European diseases. The net result - entire tribes were wiped out by these diseases. My point is, indigenous South Africans might have developed immunity to many diseases carried by their animal prey, but in east Asia, those resistances might not be present and so Corona type pandemics could occur. I think this ministry feels neglected because they don't have any limelight during the pandemic and lockdown so the hatched this harebrained idea to get attention. Or they see opportunities for personal enrichment and were hoping to change the Act while everyone was distracted. Just like they tried to slip the Land Appropriation bill amendment through unnoticed in December.	Dylan

	2020-04-23 11:11:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth would we want to slaughter these animals, where's the logic in all this? Surely we want our children and our children's children to still be able to see them!	Glenda

	2020-04-23 11:10:58	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposal is disgusting in that it will eventually lead to decimating wild life, such as giraffe and elephant, which is our moral duty to protect for our children and grandchildren to be able to see in their natural habitat plus of course it is essential for our Tourist Industry which plays a vital role in our economy. We should learn from the cause of the terrible Covid 19 virus and what countries such as China and Vietnam have already done with regard to the devastation from poaching of Rhino and other animals.	Jonathan

	2020-04-23 11:10:29	Gauteng		No I do not	I reiterate: NO, I do NOT!! __ We are already cow-towing to big bully countries such as China. They have proved what monsters they are in multiple ways, particularly, the maltreatment & slaughter of any creature and our government in South Africa is giving free reign to allow this. We must protect our animals, wild and domestic. We need to set a GOOD example in Africa and cease the slaughter of ALL our animals for human profit and consumption. Why doesn't our erstwhile Minister of Agriculture encourage the cultivation of vegetables and fruit and lessening the greed for animal food products?? Our ancestors, of every colour and culture, globally, were only in the habit of partaking occasionally of meat, fish and egg consumption . The privileged of the human race, have become greedy for monetary and hedonistic gain.	Su

	2020-04-23 11:08:09	Gauteng		No I do not	It is clear that not only this minister, but the entire parliament, do not consider the future of what was once a beautiful and successful country. 	2020-04-23 11:05:06	Gauteng		No I do not	This is INSANE and extremely INSENSITIVE to propose this amendment, during this COVID19 Pandemic! If sheep, cattle and chickens are farmed for human consumption, surely this should suffice. Let us PLEASE protect and preserve every country's indigenous wildlife. This amendment is purely to feed into the bank accounts of the already rich and greedy and God forbid, will cause further pandemics such as this current one.	Anita
	2020-04-23 11:05:04	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the inclusion of ANY endangered and threatened animals to the list.	Katherine
	2020-04-23 11:04:46	Gauteng		No I do not	As soon as there is inclusion in an Act of endangered and threatened animals, it immediately indicates a lack of thought and application of the mind to sensibility. The Act is thus badly thought out and needs to be sent back to the correct experts to draw up , if necessary, an Act that is in line with modern civilised thinking.	Stuart

	2020-04-23 11:02:01	Gauteng		No I do not	We, in South Africa have worked for many years to protect our wildlife and now the government wants to make money from slaughtering it. Where is the logic? At this moment in time the World is suffering from a pandemic, believed to have been caused by meat from wild animals. Why does South Africa not learn.? We already sell 8,000 sets of lion bones for so called medicine. The people of South Africa cannot always afford meat. If we have excess we should make it available to the people of South Africa. Why would you want to be part of the present World Problem and not part of the solution? Elephants, rhinos and many other listed species are not for human consumption so why would you have them exported? As usual someone sees money and does not care about the end result. A great big NO from our family	Pauline

	2020-04-23 10:58:35	Gauteng		No I do not	Once again, this ANC Party Government has consistently LOST ALL IT'S MORAL obligations to Protecting the Wildlife & Endangered Species (Some Key Animals in the List). An antiquated, and out of touch bunch of UNINFORMED people running the Ministry, clearly have such a shortage of basic common sense. But then again, we talk of the ANC! It is always the Party Before the People! It is always, Profit & Gain Before Morals! 25 Years on ONGOING INCOMPETENCE, whereby they have deliberately created a Divided Nation, a Society of Huge Imbalances, and 25 Years of Financial Erosion through their own orchestrated looting and corruption! So when this ANC Government has zero conscience of their actions against their own peoples, WHAT CAN YOU EXPECT FROM THEM WHEN PROTECTING THEIR WILDLIFE? Mahatma Gandhi once mentioned : " YOU JUDGE A NATION BY THE WAY IT TREATS IT'S ANIMALS!" I rest my case!	Jay

	2020-04-23 10:58:06	Gauteng		No I do not	This is of grave concern. We cannot allow the destruction of our wildlife. We should not be exporting live animals to any of the markets, and most especially those in Asia: 1) because of the risk of another pandemic. 2) because of the threat of extinction of our precious wildlife 3) because of the absolutely appalling cruelty inflicted on these animals who are often skinned or boiled alive. Please do not pass this bill	Deborah

	2020-04-23 10:56:00	Gauteng		No I do not	I did not see any insects on the list, was this just an 'administrative error' ??? Rhino, Elephant, Giraffe, Crocodile, Hippopotamus, and even the Himalayan Tahr (believe it or not) have never featured on the menu in our home. I could go on, but you wrote the list, so I must assume that you are deeply concerned about the possibility of me eating (for example) a Tibetan Antelope? Once again we are being taken for fools by the anc. This political 'party' is concerned only with extending power over EVERYTHING. Aptly demonstrated by this foolish and deeply flawed proposed legislation. Does the minister know about this list? You should urgently consider withdrawing this proposal.	Bruce

	2020-04-23 10:53:16	Gauteng		No I do not	THIS MINISTER SHOULD BE FIRED!!! How dare he even consider slaughtering animals etc that are on the international endangered list? What would the world community say about this. For decades we have been trying to protect our animals from poachers, and now this person, who holds high office, is trying to circumvent all of this. WHY? Just to accrue a few lousy bucks and to try and make himself look good to his voters. The answer must be a resounding NO!	Stan
	2020-04-23 10:52:44	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that South Africa would be prepared to slaughter our endangered species. Rhino, Giraffe, Elephant? Do not go down the same road that China is in. Absolutely horrified that my country would stoop to this basis.	Joanne
	2020-04-23 10:52:35	Gauteng		No I do not	This policy will threaten our wildlife. Please remove animals such as elephant and rhinoceros. Their presence on the list will lead to exploitation for ivory. I do dot accept this amendment.	Mienkie

I'm furious and those who attributed to this even being on the bill should be removed from their positions with immediate effect! Incompatent.	Ian

	2020-04-23 10:50:03	Gauteng		No I do not	Government is playing with our intelligence, heritage and environment. The government is a law unto itself, regardless of sound advice, scientific research and public opinion. The government is playing to other powers, China and seeking favours in other markets. This list extends beyond reasonable and does not justify its ends. We can farm and produce enough protein to feed ourselves and to export without resorting to the rape and pillage of our natural resources. Why should this type of legislation be given time and resources when more important Bills are stuck in the system. For example the Freshwater Aquaculture Bill 20 years and it still only exist in a draft format and it still does not serve the sector and it has cost millions to get here and the sector has lost billions in potential investment earnings, employment creation and food security.	David
	2020-04-23 10:50:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Obviously the proposed Act was not properly constituted. In the past the State Law Advisors were extensively utilised to prevent same. The list of animals to which this Act applies has to be revisited and properly constituted to exclue endangered animals	Daan
	2020-04-23 10:49:44	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment will be a slippery slope, that we will have no control over, once the wholesale slaughtering of animals begins! South Africa has a wonderful wealth of fauna and flora, people from all over the world pay lots of money to come and see, this amendment doesn't make any sense, except maybe to the people that are trying to have it passed, and I suspect their motives are money related!	Jackie
	2020-04-23 10:49:41	Gauteng		No I do not	The amendments do not comply with the Biodiversity Act and TOPS regulations and the amendments are unacceptable.	Su-Mari
	2020-04-23 10:49:09	Gauteng		No I do not	The proposed amendments seems to sanction the slaughter for sale or export of very rare and Cites protected species and also allowing the import of such meat?. Is the intention to prevent the importation, sale and consumption of 'wild' meat. All our wild game other than those that are specifically bred for slaughter for sale as biltong or prepared cuts should simply be banned from slaughter, sale, import or export. It seems that our Minister is attempting to block the sale and consumption of 'wild' meat to prevent the sort of COVID-19 debacle that has unfolded from the Chinese/ Wuhan meat markets? If so this is not the clear intention. There is a short sentence to say that animal protection rules should be observed, but is that enough?.	Chris
	2020-04-23 10:48:56	Gauteng		No I do not	We should not include animals that ought to be protected, and also limit our exploitation of wild animals generally - we have responsibilities to conserve these creatures, and not everything is up for exploitation.	James

	2020-04-23 10:47:48	Gauteng		No I do not	I think this proposal, as usual is only there to make money for the party and minister that is behind it, and they do not care about anything endangered but only THEIR own POCKETS. Its about time we oppose them and save whats left for future generations.	Lee
	2020-04-23 10:47:35	Gauteng		No I do not	Surely with our present crisis, everyone can see how important it is to preserve our wildlife at all costs. Our wild animals are what makes South Africa as a country unique in the world and we are losing our wildlife so rapidly that we will no longer have this asset in the future.	Michelle
	2020-04-23 10:47:35	Gauteng		No I do not	How dare this ministry propose a law like this when our whole world has been so severely affected by illegal wildlife trade. We have to protect our wildlife, not slaughter them. This proposal is outrageous and highly unethical. I would call it criminal	Wendy

	2020-04-23 10:47:17	Gauteng		No I do not	This is just confusing to include threatened species under this Act. In may just open doors for their systematic slaughter again. Rather deal with these species fully under the conservation legislation.	Eberhard

	2020-04-23 10:47:10	Gauteng		No I do not	In the first place this is not in your hands to decide. These animals were placed on this earth by God who created ALL. The problem is not the shortness of meat or food, but the greediness of man instead of cutting down on how they eat they want more. Also we have the greediness of money that drives man to lose his head, and all he sees is money. For how long before there is nothing left and you have a house full of money, what are you going to buy.	Johannes S.P

Currently there are many bird and fish species that are becoming extinct. I do NOT support this amendment . We consume enough beef, chicken, lamb , ostrich, and pig products. Why do we need more?	Helen
	2020-04-23 10:46:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Without the wildlife in South Africa we will be just another dead country, what will attract visitors? Amidst all the crime and corruption in this country it's wildlife is it's only saving grace!	Coll

	2020-04-23 10:45:44	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the inclusion of threatened or endangered animal/bird/fish species in the Schedule for human or animal consumption. The schedule should remain as-is for Domesticated and Wild animals. This is the responsible position of any citizen concerned with the preservation of our nation's natural wildlife resources. There should be no encouragement within the law to extend the human consumption of animal products beyond that which is already defined. On the contrary, the law should be strengthened to discourage the consumption of endangered or threatened species.	Iain
	2020-04-23 10:45:40	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do not support the wholesale change to the act and would rather see a case by case application and subsequent decision based on the rationale for each case. We need to curtail wholesale trading of any animal species or we won't have any left in the wild especially in thee Ed near future .	Mike
	2020-04-23 10:45:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Wait let's cut up human beans it is just meat!!! Nature wildlife for meat This is a Act of cruelty it is disgusting. God did not make the human race to kill and eat nature wildlife animals, Yes to protect and care for them. South-Africa what are we coming to we are not China we are a country with love and heritage. Stop no! don't even think of this take the names of the list of all wildlife. Yes we need to eat but there are other foods and we are a nation that can stand together. 	2020-04-23 10:43:30	Gauteng		No I do not	This action is UNTHINKABLE!!! It will deplete our country - which is world renowned for its wildlife - of all its beautiful wildlife, just so that more money can be made!!! It was also thought that the Coronavirus originated from the consumption of a pangolin, another species nearing extinction, and not really meant for human consumption. Also, if we deplete our wildlife we will destroy our tourism trade to a very large extent, and this will create additional unemployment And it will also deprive future generations of the various species that live here from ever being seen, studied or enjoyed - what a stupid thing to do to our children!!! Please, please, please do NOT even consider passing this hideous and horrendous piece of legislation into law. It is immoral and must remain illegal.	Evelyn

DISGUSTING!!	SILKE
	2020-04-23 10:38:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Slaughter of animals in any form is barbaric. Human beings are not supposed to eat animal products on a regular basis. 	2020-04-23 10:36:58	Gauteng		No I do not	The committee responsible for supporting and presenting this draft amendment should consider this: 1. Should South Africa move in the direction of the China and allow the consumption of almost every species on earth, or, should we rather promote the conservation of wildlife as much as possible? Each of the options above have very specific outcomes as can be seen by the current Covid-19 pandemic. It is for this reason I do not support this amendment as it will lead to a cascade of amendments in the wrong direction in future.	Nithesh
	2020-04-23 10:36:39	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa´s potential lies in in the field of Tourism. This can become the largest contributor to employment. Increasing employment is SA´s No 1 priority. Slaughtering animals, specifically game is in direct conflict with the concept of growing the tourism industry and thereby increasing the possibilities of employment. The slaughter of animals, as indicated in the attached 'list of Animals' will bring short term benefits only, and these at the expence of the future of our country. This will be a grave mistake.	Tim
	2020-04-23 10:36:33	Gauteng		No I do not	I certainly do not support this draft amendment - our beautiful, wild animals, reptiles, fish, etc., are NOT for human consumption. Hands off them! 	2020-04-23 10:33:38	Gauteng		No I do not	NO, NO, NO! This is total lunacy! The government needs to promote and encourage sustainable husbandry to feed the nation. If they do not have the skills to do so, but have the will, I do not doubt these skills can be sourced either locally or abroad. The question is: do they have the will or are they simply going to take the easiest and most shortsighted path? Mankind has raped Mother Earth. Now she needs to be healed, protected and cherished. Only by doing so can she survive and thrive for future generations. We have no right to deny those generations a healthy and beautiful planet. Indeed, we have a responsibility to be forward looking to ensure long term goals, not short term gains. To opt for short term gains would be nothing short of a criminal act of expedience. Neither South Africa, nor the world can afford such expedience. For heaven's sake, let sanity reign.	Linda

	2020-04-23 10:32:10	Gauteng		No I do not	The minister has prepared a dictionary list of animals - many need protection and many do not. Domestic animals need protection against abuse and this legislation is in place. Therefore this proposed section of legislation is unnecessary. Certain wild animals are 'domesticated' at present - ostrich, crocodile - these represent viable businesses. Following on from this, all reptiles must be protected apart from crocodiles. Therefore legislation must be selective and not a long list from a text book. Elephants have been protected for many years and have become a major problem because of their numbers which are destroying the habitats of numerous other species. Elephants now need to be culled and processed for food and do not need protection in RSA. Wild birds need protection but problem birds damaging crops (geese, speckled pigeons, quelea) must have conditions specified for their protection.	James

	2020-04-23 10:31:26	Gauteng		No I do not	There is absolutely no justification to amend the old list. Why are you changing it and now including animals like elephant, rhino, giraffe and many other wild animals that are in conservation areas and form an important part of tourism !	Chandre

	2020-04-23 10:31:00	Gauteng		No I do not	The original act was very specific on the species of wild animals to which it applied. The amendment seeks to be less specific and to include all animals in a taxanomic genus. This will make the consevation of wild animals more complex. The original act is not particularly specific on the species of domesticated animals to which it applies and uses common names that may cause confusion. Adding the genus of these domesticated animals as the amendment proposes, does not help to clarify which animals are covered by the act with any greater clarity. The amendment appear to be seeking to make the originam act less managaeble.	Johannes
	2020-04-23 10:30:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Why would the minister do this especially considering there are endangered species on that list, we should be protecting these animals for future generations.Clearly this hasn't been thought through at all. This will have a huge negative impact on tourism in this country and they come to see these wonderful animals and not how you are screwing this country up. 	2020-04-23 10:28:14	Gauteng		No I do not	1) The Corona Virus pandemic originated, with almost scientific certainty, to the sale of wild animals ('bushmeat') for human consumption in China. Worldwide revulsion of this trade will almost certainly see the enforced close down of this practice. and the international condemnation of the states allowing it. And our government wants to risk further international condemnation? 2) It will place our greatest international tourist asset - Wildlife - under greater threat. Once the proposal is allowed it will be impossible to police or limit. Goodbye to the Kruger and other national gems 3) For paltry financial gains we are proposing to sell our heritage.	Andre
	2020-04-23 10:27:43	Gauteng		No I do not	While most of the animals on the list are indeed edible, I question the integrity of the department in listing game that is obviously endangered and ridiculously difficult to transport (with a poor record of transporting the like, especially giraffes). I simply cannot support an extension of the list, because it demonstrates a greed for the plunder of nature (here and overseas), instead of good stewardship of what we've been given. The list as it was is sufficient - we need to take care of what we've been given, not exploit animals and loot nature more for selfish reasons; this is not a good way to create more jobs...	Marius

	2020-04-23 10:27:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Rhinos, elephants and other WILD animals are not suitable for human consumption as they firstly belong in the WILD and are possible vectors of unknown harmful viruses. 	2020-04-23 10:26:46	Gauteng		No I do not	As a veterinarian and South African citizen, I am appalled by the exploitation of animals, particularly threatened wild animals, for human use. As a country whose economy relies heavily on tourism related to wildlife, how can we allow the exploitation of these animals? Surely this country should be protecting these animals, not killing and butchering them. What use is the fight against poaching if our own laws and regulations allow these animals to be exploited for financial gain? How are we any better than the poachers? Not only is this a total violation of the rights of these animals but it also threatens public health. We already face massive outbreaks of zoonotic diseases due to animal agriculture as it is and now you want to add more species to the list of animals used for human and animal consumption. The only thing driving this disgusting exploitation of animals is money, with no regard being given to the well-being of animals and public health. The mass consumption of animals by humans is unnecessary, unethical and only causes harm. I write this knowing full well that this simple fact will not be realised by those in power for a very long time to come. Money will continue to rule while animals suffer, disease spreads and the environment is destroyed. Please do better.	Jessica
	2020-04-23 10:26:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely disagree. What is her reasoning behind this amendment.? I bet its money. What does this minister have to say.? 	2020-04-23 10:24:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Please read the PURPOSE of the Act. “To PROVIDE for measures to promote meat safety and the safety of animal products; to establish and maintain essential national standards in respect of abattoirs; to regulate the importation and exportation of meat; to establish meat safety schemes; and to provide for matters connected therewith. Why include the endangered animals of SA such as rhinos, elephants etc? There is a valid reason why they were not previously added to the list. What this amendment of threatened species will do is to open the door for SA Government to now “legally” regulate the import and export (in specific to China) of the PRODUCT (especially rhino and elephant horn) of our endangered animals. You can now “legally” slaughter the rhino/elephant meat and then “legally” export rhino/elephant product i.e. the rhino horn with this Act. This draft amendment CONVENIENTLY extends the list of endangered animals now classified for slaughter, consumption, sale and export. SA Government don’t have to protect our endangered species anymore. It is now legal to kill our endangered animals that was added to the list because of the amendment of this Act.	Maria

	2020-04-23 10:19:40	Gauteng		No I do not	NO!! don't think we should be exporting meat when our own nation is starving. Nor should be be killing endangered wildlife! Really does the government honestly want to become like China and eat every animal that God created. If the government allows all our wildlife to be killed we will have no tourism and that is what we should be focusing on as this is the number one place to create job opportunities in this land where job creation is needed so desperately. Employ people to look after the animals and their surrounds. Stop spending government money on big cars, big housing and big living. Invest the money to make money for the country instead of killing innocent animals to make more money to buy more cars etc. the poor is not benefiting from this. Rather give them the job to look after the animals and our tourism.	Susan

	2020-04-23 10:17:55	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft policy is dangerous because it expands the possibility of wildlife decimation as well as increasing the interface between wild animals and humankind, this in turn increases the likelihood of pathogens "jumping" from animals to mankind. We should harvest from the work of our hands and never from raw nature.	Wilbur
	2020-04-23 10:17:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Threatened species should NOT be included on the list!	Lynn
	2020-04-23 10:17:41	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absurd regarding wild animals as most of them are on the CITES list. It is more important to feed our own people who are close to starvation than export animals to foreign countries. Live exports should be banned forthwith.	Leila

	2020-04-23 10:16:48	Gauteng		No I do not	We already have a decreasing population in terms of wildlife, now you want to push for licensing which will create commercialization of wild life with a myriad of problems that will follow To be honest its quite sad that such amendments to legislation are being made during this time of the covid19 outbreak, where people are concerned with other things and will not even see this. This process should be paused up until the country has stabilised the economy so that the amendment is not used as a funding source to help government with the outbreak.	Koketso

	2020-04-23 10:14:57	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment has potentially devastating consequences on already endangered species such as Rhino. Although South Africa has laws prohibiting poaching, we are not winning the battle. Already we have canned and general hunting (which may be morally reprehensible) , but does have economic benefits. We also need to remember that eating of wild animals has caused serious outbreaks such as Ebola and probably COVID-19. Trading is one thing, but eating is quite another - they should be on separate lists. If we have excess of one species, we could certainly sell them to generate income for SA Lastly , it is important that we remember that 11% of our population is employed directly or indirectly in the hospitality trade. Decimating our wild life could lead to a downturn in tourism	Veronica

	2020-04-23 10:08:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Not only is this shocking from the point of view of killing our precious wildlife for pure profiteering, but have we not realised after COVID 19, that these animals carry viruses that humans are not immune to. If we look at the Bible in Exodus and Leviticus, God tells us NOT to eat certain animals, for our own sakes, as he is concerned with our welfare. Even slaughtering them for medicine, will cause these organisms to be released into the surrounding air. Countries that export or import these animals should have International boycotts imposed on them, as we can see from the Pandemic, that EVERYONE is affected.	Yvonne
	2020-04-23 10:08:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Humans should be considering eating more vegetables and fruit, not only for health reasons, but also to protect the Earth from destruction. 	2020-04-23 10:08:18	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learnt from this whole worldwide epidemic. Animal slaughter needs to be minimized and animals treated with respect and care. 	2020-04-23 10:07:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Including threatened species in this list is a pathetic move. Furthermore, did Covid-19 not start due to some dude eating some sort of bat in Wuhan? Adding more types of meat that could be consumed, without guidelines of how they should be prepared, and how to check if the meat is healthy, is a really bad thing. Animals already on the list have been eaten for hundreds of years mostly, and how they are being slaughtered, prepared, and checked for health issues are well known. STOP THIS NONSENSE!	Kobus
	2020-04-23 10:07:50	Gauteng		No I do not	The draft proposal and expansive list poses a serious threat to the survival of our animals especially endangered species. 	2020-04-23 10:06:02	Gauteng		No I do not	All illegal poaching needs to stop for environmental and health reasons (as supported by the current SARS COVID 19 virus). Sustainable harvesting of any naturally occurring species should be based on whether such animals have been bred and raised with the intention to supply protein food. All protected species should be removed from the list, possibly subject to specific permits, such as when rhino or elephant hunting is permitted, and the consequent meat should not be wasted. The protection of naturally occurring fauna and flora should be extended to the traditional medicine industry. The readily available animal products, such as Pangolin at Muti Markets needs to be eliminated entirely, unless such animals have been formally farmed for that purpose.	gerhard

	2020-04-23 10:03:21	Gauteng		No I do not	It looks to me as if the minister is trying to boast about her knowledge of the different animal species. She lists so many exotic species that I have never heard of, that I think she must have googled for a list of animals world wide. If the animals are being bred purely for the meat market that would make it OK in my book. However, just to make a blanket statement will just encourage poaching and illegal operations. It looks to me like a typically lack of thought through piece of legislation that the idiots in Parliament are producing.	Chic
	2020-04-23 10:03:15	Gauteng		No I do not	To whom it may concern, The incredible biodiversity of South Africa should be protected at all costs. We are in the midst of two major events that should certainly be taken into consideration. 1. The corona virus pandemic. While other countries are pushing laws to ban wildlife trade and consumption in the wake of this pandemic, why are we doing the opposite? Surely it is in humanities best interest to rely on regulated meat production for food consumption. 2. The 6th mass extinction. The world is losing biodiversity at an unprecedented rate. Now is the time to protect our last wild species, not devour them for profit. South Africa relies on tourism and people come from far and wide to see our beautiful animals, there is still profit to be made in this sector without allowing consumption. Please , for once, do what is right for Nature. Sincerely, Natalie Field	Natalie

	2020-04-23 09:58:31	Gauteng		No I do not	The extended list of animals in the new draft policy allows for the slaughter of many wild animals on the threatened and highly endangered list! 	2020-04-23 09:57:53	Gauteng		No I do not	We are a civilised country and we know the pain of losing our endangered animals to poachers. Now you want to make poaching legal. 	2020-04-23 09:55:44	Gauteng		No I do not	I am against the trade of any wild animals in any form other than conservation. The recent events in the world with Covid-19 should be sufficient warning that the barbaric, inhumane and disgusting conditions in which animals are treated in the trade, cannot continue. The problem is even if there are conditions of control and hygiene put in place, once you lift any restrictions a fraction it inevitably leads to the flood gates being opened. 	2020-04-23 09:54:39	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughter of non-domestic animals and birds for commercial or non-household food security purposes is morally objectionable, especially where the species concerned is on an endangered list. But it would also seem that we have learned nothing from COVID-19 experience, where the start of the pandemic has been linked with almost 100% certainty to the slaughter of such animals. Also, this provision would seem to run directly counter to the need to maintain and increase biodiversity. While there may be some justification for allowing animals raised on game farms specifically for licensed hunting, the extension of the law to cover many species that do not fall into this category is morally, economically, socially, medically and environmentally unacceptable. For these reasons, I do not support this amendment to the Act.	Mike
	2020-04-23 09:54:37	Gauteng		No I do not	That list is way out of order as far as threatened species is concerned. The previous list looks just fine....I do not see any reason to change it so drastically!	Bev
	2020-04-23 09:54:23	Gauteng		No I do not	It is totally unacceptable to have any endangered species / animal on this list, let alone be added to the list.	Wayne
	2020-04-23 09:54:06	Gauteng		No I do not	It will harm the tourism sector. SA's wildlife is one of the biggest tourist attractions to our country. Take the animals away and what will there be for tourists to see. Also for future generations that will only hear of these animals but won't see them in real life. Very short sighted.	Meagan

	2020-04-23 09:49:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughter of endangered wild animals is disgusting. There is no need for it and it will adversely effect our tourism industry. In China there are parks with loudspeakers. Coming out the loudspeakers you hear chirp chirp chirp. There are no birds left there, they have all been eaten. There has been mass slaughter of wild animals in Zimbabwe and Mozambique. They no longer attract tourists to their game parks. Does this government really want to cause unemployment in our national parks ?	Eric
	2020-04-23 09:49:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Why? There are no acceptable reasons for this. All hunting should be banned. It is not a sport as it is based on highly developed technologies that animals do have access to for their own protection.	Jacques

	2020-04-23 09:48:32	Gauteng		No I do not	If the pandemic has taught us anything, it should be that we should be looking after our animals and not slaughtering them. We should not be putting alreadyendangered animals in further danger. Our parks also form a huge part of our SA tourism. Why are we now destroying that? We will need to revive this industry if we are going to get our economy going again.	Fleur

	2020-04-23 09:43:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild life consumption has given the world the novel Coronavirus. How does it make sense to include even more wildlife and endangered species on the list of consumables? Do we want YET ANOTHER PANDEMIC on our hands again?	Deidré
	2020-04-23 09:43:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this for real? Seriously, many of the animals listed are endangered or only seen in National Parks or conservation areas? I definitely think the list of animals for slaughter can be extended mostly because I am sure game farming will be better for the environment long term than domestic animals but this list is ridiculous. Or have we mortgaged our country and all our wildlife to the East Asians to decimate? Tourism is one of the biggest foreign currency earners in the GDP - this list will soon ensure we have no foreign or even local tourists and if we wanted the economy to fall off a cliff this is a sure way to push it over. People come to South Africa to see the wildlife - not kill it! The minister and her team needs their head read.	LISA
	2020-04-23 09:43:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Some animals should not even have been on the old list - now our government wants to make the list even worse than it already was. The list should only contain domesticated animals such as cows and pigs.	Tanya
	2020-04-23 09:43:10	Gauteng		No I do not	We are not China's butchery.	Jacques
	2020-04-23 09:43:06	Gauteng		No I do not	How can government even consider the export/slaughter of our precious wildlife which is already under threat from poachers and exporters. Our wildlife is our heritage to be protected by us, as was done by previous generations. The current Covid 19 pandemic has been linked to the so-called wet markets in Wuhan - do we really want to create more of these disgusting markets? Look what has happened to our donkey population - their skins have been shipped to China to satisfy their inexhaustible appetite for so-called traditional cures. South Africa has been blessed with these beautiful and varied wildlife species - please, please do not threaten them by sending them to dubious importers - let them roam free for our continued pleasure!	Brenda
	2020-04-23 09:42:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I feel that the draft is not only ill-conceived but it's intent smacks of a selective and greedy agenda by some to financially benefit at the cost of further degradation to the fragile state (and rights) of endangered species. It is a fact that our wildlife is under threat. The proposed bill exploits this further. Its consequences will be tragic.	MICHAEL
	2020-04-23 09:42:32	Gauteng		No I do not	This should not even be an option. Especially endangered species!	Martie
	2020-04-23 09:42:27	Gauteng		No I do not	The only meat that should be for consumption should be bred for that purpose. I don't have a problem what species it is but if it is just depleating the wild (other than culling) it should be stopped.	Heather
	2020-04-23 09:42:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Th very idea of adding endangered species to a list of animals that may be killed is ridiculous. The minister has lost her mind. We should be protecting these animals and killing them should be banned. I actually cannot credit that a supposed educated person could think along these lines. Its gross stupidity!	Sharron
	2020-04-23 09:42:17	Gauteng		No I do not	This is unacceptable, we are in 2020, not in the 1800's. We should be taking care of animals and the earth, we have already done so much damage. We cannot allow this act to be changed. I simply am very strongly against this!!!!	Sabrina

	2020-04-23 09:41:44	Gauteng		No I do not	With the current lock down for Covid19 which was possibly was caused by an wild animal transfer to humans this is insane - unless you are African, in which case it makes perfect sense.	Willie

	2020-04-23 09:40:08	Gauteng		No I do not	This opens the door to further exploitation of our endangered species and rare species. I can only imagine this would be for export purposes. I do believe that including rare species means that a demand may then be created for these animals, leaving it open to the discretion of conservation to decide, and that opens the door for bribery which appears to have very little consequence for those in authority at present. Sadly, by including these animals it may mean that if a party is willing to pay enough for the meat of the last rhino, it will probably be legally slaughtered.	Brigette
	2020-04-23 09:40:06	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support such idiotic government ideas there are to many endangered species on the list this is exactly why human beings are picking up all these contagious diseases but not much can be expected from the government total bloody barbarians no respect for any form of life. it seems all that the minister's focus on is their bank balances when is enough going to be enough.	niren

	2020-04-23 09:40:00	Gauteng		No I do not	Our food chain must not include wild animals, many of whom are endangered or highly endangered. They need protection not slaughtering!	Mike
	2020-04-23 09:39:20	Gauteng		No I do not	This is ridiculous to even propose the consumption of our protected wildlife, this will lead to the plundering and distinction of our wildlife, we need to protect them not offer them up for consumption.	Natalie

	2020-04-23 09:38:32	Gauteng		No I do not	This is madness. This will encourage poaching in the reserves. Absolutely crazy. This will end our tourism in these areas. I cannot even believe it is being contemplated	Laura
	2020-04-23 09:38:29	Gauteng		No I do not	Were are sitting in a situation with the Corona Virus from eating wild animals bats and birds I am totally against the idea of eating wild life Our Rhinos currently being poached at such an alarming rate are not producing enough young for these to survive in the wild due to their decimation by poachers that our reserves at currently at war with and losing! 	2020-04-23 09:36:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild Animals should be protected, and even though some are used as part of the Hunting Industry, there is no reason to include Endangered Species, such as Elephant, Rhino, and antelope. The amendment should also prohibit animals from Game parks.	John

	2020-04-23 09:36:23	Gauteng		No I do not	When are these money hungry idiots going to realize that animals are worth more alive for our country. Once they gone you can never get it back. Ignorance and greed is all the ANC understands. Whatever and however they can line their pockets.	Alan
	2020-04-23 09:35:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Solutions to problems need to consider both the science and the psyche or they will be picked apart. It is an abomination to enforce our will on more species, and our motivation as a species is already dwindling as we don't want to be part of a world that we are ashamed of. Please, we want to be proud of our country so we can work and contribute to it with motivation!!	Guy
	2020-04-23 09:35:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wild animals are the countries heritage and massive source of income for the vital tourism trade which creates jobs as visitors flock to our stunning country to marvel at our magnificent creatures in their natural habitat - how can it even be considered to risk the decimation of this priceless resource, already under such deadly pressure from poaching and the like. 	2020-04-23 09:35:11	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a criminal act. No wild animals should be allowed to be slaughtered but the ANC has no regard for anything other than their own corrupt agendas. Absolutely shocking that it is even considered.	Avril
	2020-04-23 09:35:09	Gauteng		No I do not	How can one support an amendment that included wildlife species that are listed by cities as threatened or endangered. Why allow an amendment to an act that takes the protection of these species away and allow for their slaughter and consumption by humans.	FelicitY
	2020-04-23 09:34:54	Gauteng		No I do not	Tourism keeps this country alive - kill the animals for slaughter and then you kill our tourism industry.	Verity

	2020-04-23 09:31:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Threatened species should not be included in the list. This will result in more endangered animals getting killed using the act as a legal means to do it.	Albert
	2020-04-23 09:31:35	Gauteng		No I do not	Another insane and ill conceived proposal. As we are used to from this government. Wonder who advises legislators about these issues?	Corne
	2020-04-23 09:31:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this woman mad? Here we go again just like a few previous "leaders" who go selling off the family silver. I have no problem with farming any animal and using it for human consumption but to start allowing rhinos, elephants and the like to be killed for that reason is absolutely ridiculous.	Christopher

	2020-04-23 09:31:13	Gauteng		No I do not	At this point in time we need to switch on our moral and ethical compasses in totality and ask bigger questions as a race of beings who are the supposed ‘protectors’ of the planet and of all the life forms that inhabit it. 	2020-04-23 09:29:21	Gauteng		No I do not	So, in terms of all the work done by the W.W.F. & others, this can now be undone at the stroke of a pen. It really is irritating when the practices of "old" , i.e. traditional leaders, traditional healers, are rising in preference to the established norm? Guess there will be a dirth of oversupply of furs, feathers, etc, that everybody can now grab BUT if you are not traditional then you would be "disqualified"? Sustainable farming seems to work for certain types of fish, can it be applied to everything & anything else living alongside human kind in this shrinking world. Does the United Nations, in particular the W.W.F. or other representative authority know about this, I doubt it. And RSA is a member of the UN too - perhaps the UN might need to "grow some balls" and suspend / terminate memberships - it's a ghastly future of & for the world?	David

	2020-04-23 09:28:31	Gauteng		No I do not	In view of the current Covid-19 pandemic that is thought to have originated from the sale of wild birds, reptiles and other animals, the dangers of these practices, are obvious. 	2020-04-23 09:28:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Why do we want to eat these type of animals ? if you look at the present pandemic of Covid -19 they say it came from the consumption of some exotic animal in China ? do we want a repeat of this ? and secondly we have a rather thriving tourist industry that contributes a great deal to our countries financial well being , if we kill all our wild life , this nature and tourism sector will no longer exist , do not be foolish with our beautiful countries resources , if an endangered animal becomes extinct , its lost and gone forever . There are more then enough domestic options to feed the stomach and the pockets of hungry greedy people . Let us not destroy the beauty of our land for the sake of money . We must support and co exist with the wild life that is only found here in South Africa .	Shawn

	2020-04-23 09:27:09	Gauteng		No I do not	It is hard to believe that the S A Government is even considering adding Giraffe and Rhino to their list. Our wildlife should be regarded as sacrosanct. Smaller species are becoming extinct on a daily basis - this affects our entire eco system. We are already sitting with a pandemic due to the illegal animal trade to places such as China. Wake up SA - we owe the next generation a sustainable and healthy country.	Carmen

					Animals are sentient beings, humans must stop objectifying and commodifying them as consumer objects as if they have no right to freedom or a decent chance at a full and well-lived life. As humans we have to start heeding this call, and I include all forms of animal slaughter and consumption in my objection, no matter the species. Africa's wildlife is disappearing, this is going to make matters worse. If we've learned anything from the west, it is that decimating the environment and treating animals like slaves comes with a hefty long-term cost to humanity. If we don't re-engage the respect shown to our fellow earthly beings handed down to us by our ancestors, we will continue to decimate future generation's hopes of survival on this planet. Stop the slaughter. Stop the suffering. Stop the flagrant disrespect for the diversity of life. Animals have souls, hearts, minds, the ability to experience agony, suffering, anguish, joy, love, hope, spirituality - the full spectrum of feelings, emotions and thoughts that humans experience. How can we continue to justify our barbaric attitudes and behaviours towards them? Because it is time to change our value system. Because the way we treat animals is how we can expect to be treated.

This policy to include endangered species and other wildlife that attracts revenue to SA via tourism, needs to be reconsidered. It’s nonsensical and doesn’t not consider the future impact to our economy or our environment.	Sheena
	2020-04-23 09:03:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Where does this government find these totally insane ideas? A. Why would we want to further threaten endangered species. B. We want to draw tourists to our natural wildlife. Tourists are going to be outraged at this legislation. C. Coronavirus has demonstrated the dangers attached to eating wild animals so where is the "Safety" in this act? D. Keeping wild animals in captivity is far more complicated than farming with domestic animals. The potential for animal abuse is enormous. Stop destroying our country!!!	Karen

	2020-04-23 09:01:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals make this planet tick. They support the ecology . They need each other to exist. As humans, we plant , we practice animal husbandry, our job is to spread our food baskets and not spread extinction. Making wholesale slaughter a law is immoral. . Where a society condones this atrocity is doomed. Bush inhabitants , who rely on hunting, is part of the habitat. Not for fat cats , greed drooling from their mouths as they rake in their normal, irregular ill gotten gains. Natural culling to help keep a balance is always commendable but to make a law of this importance and magnitude to decimate life as we know it, SHAME on you!	Jeffrey

When Mandela stated that every African family must have six children, he probably forgot to say that one of them must be a farmer to produce enough food for all. I love animals and that is what make South Africa unique. According to my believes, there is animals that you may eat, eg. cows, chicken, sheep, pig, etc. With the economic situation as is, tourist will only visit our country for our beautiful animals. Rhino's is on the list of extinction, why would you put it on this list. In my opinion the minister if of no value to South Africa and must rather immigrate to a country like China, where you can even eat your neighbours cat or dog	Gerda

	2020-04-23 08:58:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the inclusion of this huge list of animals to the list of animals allowed for human and animal consumption. There is definitely a correlation between wild animal consumption and disease spread in humans, but that is not the only reason. Legalizing wild animals for slaughter for exporting the meat will invariably opens the floodgates for large scale slaughter of this list of animals for any reason. Also importing meats that are not native to Africa or South Africa can also bring huge risks to the SA population. I cannot believe or understand how endangered species are on this list!? it is mind boggling!? Please do not go ahead with this amended list. Making larger varieties of animals legal for slaughter will NOT help feed South Africans or help with revenue for the country. We as the people of this country need far more explanations of the reasons behind this larger list, and also why this law is being amended now of all times during a crisis!	Joanne
	2020-04-23 08:58:41	Gauteng		No I do not	What the current pandemic has taught us is that we should be eating less meat and not more. Even China is amending their laws. As Africans, we pride ourselves on WILD life, lets keep the life wild and not on our plates.	Steven

	2020-04-23 08:57:03	Gauteng		No I do not	This is the most ludicrous list I have ever seen. Have you not learnt your lesson with COVID - 19? The Chinese have successfully killed thousands of people, the world economy, and forced communities even closer to starvation - Is this your aim? There is clearly no thought to this and it is totally irresponsible and barbarous. Tourists were always drawn to Africa for the amazing wildlife that used to roam in abundance and the Chinese are the ones that are paying poachers to kill sentient beings which is nothing short of murder, they are destroying what Africa used to be proud of. Why is it that everything the Chinese do this ANC government want to do as well, can you not see beyond MURDER money? Apply your mind and rather enrich the tourism which will give you the revenue you seek and thousands of jobs for people who are starving at this point in time. Please stop being greedy Barbarians and speak to those who are more educated than yourself before you make unscrupulous, idiotic decisions like this. MURDER SHOULD NOT BE ON THE CARDS AT ALL, because this is exactly what this is. I find it offensive and disgusting that a minister can even contemplate this horrendous act.	Joy
	2020-04-23 08:56:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not, in any way, shape or form, support the trading in animals, which are all sentient (feeling) creatures, especially not the live export of animals, which we know full well provides horrifically cruel conditions to the live animals before their eventual death in a foreign country. 	2020-04-23 08:56:22	Gauteng		No I do not	No endangered animals or wildlife should be sold as meat. Only farmed "wildlife" should be sold reared and treated with respect and following the 5 basic animal rights policies. All meat should be labeled as exactly what it is as we have the right to refuse to eat wild animals. Many religions and ethical beliefs prohibit consumption of carnivores and or wild animals or species and we demand proper labeling on origin and content of all food sold in our country. It is our fundamental right to know what we are buying and consuming and where it comes from. It is difficult enough to find out where you chicken and beef are from in our supermarkets today as the origin is not traceable to farm level.	Candice
	2020-04-23 08:56:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The current Corona crisis comes from people eating wild animals. 	2020-04-23 08:51:27	Gauteng		No I do not	This directive has no good ending. 	2020-04-23 08:46:46	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot put legislation and practices like this through and then complain when pandemics like coronavirus plague us. Have we not learned anything from modern history? We can only expect more pandemics and other catastrophes when we mess with the natural world like this amendment proposes. Not only would these amendments to the bill be an injustice to animal rights, it is a hugely social justice and human rights issue - practices that create imbalance in the natural world only serve to create imbalances in the world that humans interact with. As a vegetarian of almost 40 years, I don't see any difference if someone eats a cow, sheep, dog, giraffe or snake - all are sentient beings..but when we start interfering with wildlife and endangered or threatened species, that is when we know more dubious agendas are at play. There is nobody but a handful of privileged few who can possibly benefit from this proposed change in legislation.	Louise

	2020-04-23 08:39:53	Gauteng		No I do not	They need to remove endangered species off the list such as Giraffe and Rhinoceros. There are animals that God gave us to eat and there are animals we should not eat at all. They need to consider seriously the health and safety of humans. After Covid-19. That is enough proof we should not be eating certain animals. Those health laws, however ancient has value and scientifically proven. Also we need to do everything to protect the wild life we have left. Otherwise all they will be is pictures on a wall of animals that once roamed our planes. Right now they bring tourists to our country. When they are gone, what will we have left?	Lana
	2020-04-23 08:39:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals are a vital part of the eco system, and each has its own unique place in the food chain. People have encroached on the animals habitat due to overbreeding. Rather encourage sterilization of people who are the problem. If you cant feed or take care of yourself, then you shouldn't be allowed to have children, as due to poverty breeding poverty, you are just causing suffering and misery and more generations with no hope, amongst all the other problems caused by this supposed "human right". With rights, come responsibility and accountability. The law should be changed in that all people when reaching puberty, should be temporarily sterilized, and then when they have finished school, and have a job and can prove that they can take care of themselves, they should then do an exam to see if they can feed, clothe, educate, house and give a child the emotional and all other care that's required. People are the cause of the worlds problems, not animals and nature in general, which is far more important in the bigger picture than what people are.	Gregory

	2020-04-23 08:38:45	Gauteng		No I do not	Our animals are endangered and to extend the list of animals to include endangered species will certainly see the extinction of these animals. We have an obligation to our descendants to preserve these animals for them in order to experience them and not just to know that they existed in the past. We need to protect our wildlife as it is a source for tourism in the Country. It will negatively influence our future and the economic growth of our Country. We must protect our heritage and what is unique to our Continent and Country as this is what make us unique to other Countries and ensure that our tourism flourish. We must also think about our future generations and the influence that this will have on then. The proposed bill won't stop illegal pouching and will rather increase illegal pouching. Let us do the right thing and protect our endangered species. Let us not be the generation that will go down in history as the ones who were responsible for the extinction of species if animals. We must rather take a stronger stance to protect our endangered and indigenous species and put legislation in place to ensure their protection.	Izak

A Zebra has parasites that keeps them alive and when you eat Zebra that is not properly cooked that Parasites goes to your organs ,and in my case to my brain and can cause DEATH! I was lucky to survive the ordeal. If you kill too much Elephants,Hippos,Giraffes and other wild game species but to name a few ,the whole ecosystem will be impacted negatively and more humans will die because of the imbalance in Nature which is already a problem. 	2020-04-23 08:29:36	Gauteng		No I do not	It is barbaric, atrocious, unnecessary amendment, receding to the Dark Ages! & against Climate Change!. Why deplete God Given Wild life? -take measures to protect all Animals from human mismanagement!! We suppose to reduce meat consumption. Here is China reducing there barbaric wicked list of animals for slaughter! now SA Govt instead of setting a program to encourage, educate re & reduce meat consumption & protect its animals, is wanting to increase slaughtering, & infiltrating our Wildlife. This is a highly insensitive, darstardly, barbaric, wicked backward amendment. If a Country cannot protect its animals & wildlife how can it protect its Citizens. How far is Govt prepared to sink; next step could be Cannibalism!!!	Gail

	2020-04-23 08:26:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Is this an indication of the new wave of state capture of South Africa this time with China instead of the Guptas? It is irresponsible to add the animals that are being poached to a list for consumption. This will undrmine any anti poaching and conservation work being done. In addition all animals that are not in the "least concern" category of the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN) classification should not be on any consumption list. This list is also too non-specific eg. There are endangered species of rabbit, like the riverine rabbit, and there are domestic, farmed species of rabbit that are farmed for consumption and this list does not differentiate between them. Further, farmed domestic animals are there for consumption, why do you need to add all the other animals? There is no control of the treatment and slaughter methods of the wild animals being added to the list.	Bronwyn
	2020-04-23 08:25:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Some are red data species. I cannot believe this! No No No!	Rita
	2020-04-23 08:25:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Surely this cannot be true when everyone in South Africa is going on about the endangered species and the poaching of these is outlawed? Is this not a hoax?? I cannot believe that a amendment could or would be passed of this nature when poachers of these animals are being caught and jailed. If this should be true, and I really have my doubts about this, I would strongly be against the amendment to slaughter endangered wild animals. It really makes no sense to me!!	Rosina
	2020-04-23 08:25:20	Gauteng		No I do not	This is just a "legalized" poaching process and should not be considered. Our wildlife is under enough pressure as it is, and this will undoubtedly affect the tourism industry adversely.	deon

	2020-04-23 08:21:21	Gauteng		No I do not	It is just greed of one so-called intelligent species that is killing of those who can't defend them selves. God gave us Eden to behold and protect and what has man done? Shame on you mankind... you will answer for your sins.	Felix

	2020-04-23 08:20:47	Gauteng		No I do not	The new list has endangered animals listed. This is completely unacceptable and I am not sure what the logic was behind adding these to the list. I am embarrassed that leaders in my country would suggest that we can now consume endanger animals	Angelique
	2020-04-23 08:20:39	Gauteng		No I do not	Man has already devastated the earth and its inhabitants and plants. We have covid and probably, many more viruses to follow. Time for all of us to be considerate to EVERYTHING on the planet.	Trudi

	2020-04-23 08:20:04	Gauteng		No I do not	We need to protect our endangered animals for the future. We are risking creating a large list of extinct animals. The list needs to be deriveved scientifically by experts.	Jonathan
	2020-04-23 08:19:48	Gauteng		No I do not	We are not barbaric. If you will govern everything in the right manner, everything will work well. There is a very good reasons why God says not to eat wild animals! He knows best. One day all of us will stand before Him and give account.	Gezina

	2020-04-23 08:18:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I think someone with more sense should be given this position. Our wild animals are already endangered and this will just make them completely extinct. Even the old list should be reviewed and revised. A definite NO for me. We must preserve our animals. This is being done so that they can exploit our game under the pretense of it being legal.	Greta
	2020-04-23 08:18:45	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe our government is actually allowing wildlife to be a source of food when our wildlife is facing extinction!!! Clearly our government is more concerned about profiting from exploitation of our natural resources. There is no other explanation. And we allow our leaders to continue this absolute atrocity.	Sandra
	2020-04-23 08:18:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Can we please stick to what is considered 'normal' meat products (cow/sheep/ chickens)? Look what happened with Covid-19...people eating wildlife!!	Leanne
	2020-04-23 08:18:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered or even just rare wild animals should not be allowed on this list, how are we being leaders of animal conservation if we do this! Unacceptable	Anna-Christi

	2020-04-23 08:18:14	Gauteng		No I do not	This is clearly not been thought out or planned or even understood by whoever is proposing this. 	2020-04-23 08:16:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Makes no sense to add endangered animals,..... 'The cart before the horse'. These animals belong to all South Africans not only to the minister. What happened to farming with these animals locally first expanding the meat market size inside SA borders, empowering local communities and then when the right market size is reached (which will take many years) then do an amendment like this to entertain China's huge appetites. This early in the game is just based on an arrogant assumption that the word ENDANGERED does not have to be taken seriously.	Klaus
	2020-04-23 08:16:09	Gauteng		No I do not	If this continues, there will soon be no animals left in this planet. Then cats and dogs. Once those are depleted, will be allowed to eat humans??? We are NOT China and have YOU LEARNT NOTHING FROM COVID19?	Ellen

	2020-04-23 08:13:19	Gauteng		No I do not	This idea is CRAZY, ILLOGICAL, TOTALLY ABHORRENT!! Has the minister lost all her marbles???? If, instead of land redistribution to people who have no clue about sustainable farming, our agriculture was left to those who understand farming, and have done so for generations, there would be enough livestock to feed our nation. The meat and other products from the list of wild animals mentioned would probably be for export. That would mean endangered species could be slaughtered at will, and speed up the extinction of our precious heritage, and elephant tusks and rhino horn could legally be exported to Asia. Canned trophy hunting would be the norm. Ms Didiza, where would the profits be deployed?	Heide
	2020-04-23 08:12:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we becoming like the Chinese now, they eat anything and don't know what virus it carries. They want to kill the farmers and this is what they resort to, disgusting humans to think to kill these animals	Gwen

	2020-04-23 08:12:20	Gauteng		No I do not	This suggested amendement is a leap down the slippery slope of losing all biodiversity in our beautiful land. We are one of the few places left in the world that does not only have humans and animals breed for food walking the land. Without biodiversity the entire ecosystem can and will collapse. Rather eat less meat and encourage the growth of biodiversity. The earth is a source of life, not a resource.	Lee-Ann
	2020-04-23 08:12:16	Gauteng		No I do not	I am Vegan, so how can you classify which animal is good for this and which animal is good for that. Animals are not there to eat, entertain or make money out of them in any way.	vanessa
	2020-04-23 08:12:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Simply put ALL wildlife should be out of bounds for slaughter/human consumption or any other form of commercialisation. As modern humans, we've become disconnected from that which without we cannot survive: nature. Wiping out the wildlife we so desperately need to survive will be the end of us. Any species whether endangered or not should be protected. Surely, if boosting the economy is the sole purpose of this amendment, it can only be detrimental to the wildlife, the natural environment and South Africa's economy and tourism in South Africa and continental Africa. Is it not enough that major seed companies are screwing up our food with government support, now government wishes to bow down to international greed for the consumption of African wildlife. NO NO NO NO!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!	Quintin

	2020-04-23 08:10:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly, I fail to find a valid, logical and rational reason for these intended changes. I the absence of good reasoning, I can only think that it is aimed at serving the eastern market from whom it is seemingly believed that SA's financial rescue could come. That means we are prepared to sacrifice our own good values! Secondly, we must seek the advice of wildlife institutions and professionals in this regard. It MAY NOT be a politically motivated decision.	Gerhard

	2020-04-23 08:07:44	Gauteng		No I do not	The normal sources for meat for human consumption should be used. Wild animals should be used in cases where culling needs to be done to keep species in check. Not randomly killed for the fun of it or for financial purposes. Rare and endangered species should not be allowed for any kind of exercise, or killing for enjoyment, financial or otherwise, until these are off the endangered list. Methods for killing of animals should always be humane and within prescribed set methods. Killing should not take place for substandard reasoning, such as thrill seeking, barbaric practices etc.	Allan

	2020-04-23 08:06:24	Gauteng		No I do not	In a day and age where the entire planet is suffering a global pandemic caused by the Chinese wanting to eat everything they shouldnt, I would have thought that the South African minister may have actually THOUGHT, before proposing such an amendment.... Clearly this is not the case.. China is a prime example of what happens when people are allowed to slaughter and eat whatever they want. How many serious pandemics have come from animals (specifically animals being eaten in China) since the turn if the millenium? Add to this the fact that there are now endangered species on that list, and this becomes absolutely disgusting. Why would the minister even consider adding them? After the years and years of battling to save our Rhinos, they want to legalize hunting them? Seriously? How incompetent and can our government departments be? You are going to destroy the very reason so many people want to visit our beautiful country, taking a large portion of our tourism away as well as destroying our biodiversity. WAKE UP ANC!!!	Rudow

	2020-04-23 08:03:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Does the minister not realise that she is helping to put more animals in threat of extinction? We already have enough meat for consumption from the normal domestic animals. This will have devastating effects on wildlife.	Margaret
	2020-04-23 08:03:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife in Parks and on farms should be managed to maintain a suitable balance in the eco system they live in. Culling may be a suitable way to do nature conservation but should be done in an ethical way. To open the borders for export of exotic animal products will increase the huge problem of poaching. 	2020-04-23 08:02:15	Gauteng		No I do not	I don't agree with the new and old list. The new one i don't like at all. The old one needs to remove some animals like rhinoceros, hippocampus, zebra, and pig. In most of our religions these animal are not allowed to be eaten or killed. Now what do you want to change our country to suit China's. This is our South Africa not theirs. I want South African to chase the Chinese out of here.	Liyana

	2020-04-23 08:01:38	Gauteng		No I do not	At a time when the Country is going through tough times, our Minister seeks an opportunity to yet again try and make changes that will effect the future of animal protection worldwide, especially endangered species and fish. 	2020-04-23 08:00:45	Gauteng		No I do not	How can the meat safety list now be amended to include more wild life species especially in the light of the POSSIBLE origins of the covert 19 being tied in with the abusive use of wildlife as a food source. By doing so South Africa becomes a complicit partner of eastern countries, more particularly the Chinese in wildlife trafficking for financial gain, regardless of the harm it can and is causing to people's health and the damage to the ecosystems of the planet. In fact wild animals should be excluded from this list for meat safety. This list is a political move and just shows up the inconsistency of the government is in its concern for public safety . 	2020-04-23 07:55:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Most viruses and diseases that are occurring these days are stemming from the eating of animals, animals have different viruses to us as do plants and there is very rarely a cross over of the viruses from animal or plant kingdom to humans except in recent years so perhaps a lesson should be learnt here in stopping killing animals especially wild life animals and perhaps to lessening eating animals that are bred for the meat industry but are so badly treated that a person is essentially eating all the pain and suffering they go through, it is time for humanity to be humane and treat all creatures with the respect that they are sharing the planet with us.	Maree

	2020-04-23 07:55:16	Gauteng		No I do not	This is sinless. Because of humans taking over every forest and empty lands they want to kill the animals who are already just a few. For what will they go next. I do not agree.	MAGRIETHA

	2020-04-23 07:52:21	Gauteng		No I do not	The new list has not been put together in a well thought out manner at all! How on earth can endangered species be added here? Not only is this a pathetic attempt to make money off these creatures but it also blatantly stands against every conservation effort. Please think again, the animals need our help to survive and we need them to survive to ensure our own longevity! (I am a meat eater so am not by any chance stating that no animal can be slaughtered for food, however if we do not do this responsibly, our animals will disappear and that will have a harsh impact on humans)	Susan
	2020-04-23 07:52:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The minister must be out of her mind and have no idea as to the affect this will have on our wildlife. 	2020-04-23 07:51:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we learnt nothing from Wuhan (COVID-19) and Central Africa (HIV)? The more species of animals we eat, the more opportunities we create for viruses to move from animals to humans. As for the killing of elephants for meat, that is just cruel. Where is your compassion? They are highly intelligent with strong social bonds. What's the logic in providing for the consumption of threatened species? You are just creating an incentive and a market. Please reconsider this ill-advised bill and bring SA in line with global trends AWAY from the consumption of wildlife (other than traditional game animals).	Talfryn

	2020-04-23 07:49:21	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposed amendment is barbaric and insane. This will result in an unpresidented onslaught on all animals, without any conseqences for the killers. Wild¹life will be decimated as this slaughter will become new industries. This type of savagery has no place in a civillised society. New types of viruses might occur in SA similar to the Corona virus that originated in China. Quite the opposite should be happening, all poachers found guilty should be terminated themselves, as is practised in parts of Africa and else where in the world	Leslie

More importantly we are in a COVID-19 world crisis that is thought by scientists and medical experts to have had its origins in humans consuming wild animals - and South African Government makes a decision to Draft a New Law to allow the human consumption of another 100 plus species of Wild Animals? This is not acceptable. This is irresponsible and insane! The Minister must be recalled and the ill-conceived Draft Law Decision Reversed! 	2020-04-23 07:26:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is already threatened and at high risk of poaching already. this act will further endanger our wildlife and ecosystems which are already fragile. This may lead to destruction of the precious biodiversity we have, which contributes to our county's tourism. This should never be considered. We are responsible for protecting our naturals resources!!	Sergio
	2020-04-23 07:26:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave our wild life alone. We make money out of them with tourism , not by eating them. We farm sheep, cattle, etc for human consumption ,not wildlife	Raymond

	2020-04-23 07:23:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I love meat but I don't have to put species to extinction to satisfy my hunger for meat. I am very much shock to see how much wildlife we are allowed to eat it's crazy. Do we have to eat and destroy everything?	Nomzamo
	2020-04-23 07:23:24	Gauteng		No I do not	There are animals bred for slaughter and human consumption and there are those that are not. Our wildlife is our children's heritage and must be protected at all costs. The planet needs these animals to ensure environment and eco system is maintained.	Adrian

	2020-04-23 07:19:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I get the impression South Africa are trying to follow in the footsteps of China. i.e. wet markets!! These beautiful animals were created for all to enjoy. Not to be eaten. Another means to put money into somebody's back pocket. We have enough to cope with now with Civid 19. Let well alone!!!	Trudy
	2020-04-23 07:19:14	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absurd to put any threatened species on this list e.g Rhino. This list has not been thought through. It appears the tha Minister and or her advisor/ s are ill informed. Do we want to become another China where you can eat anything, even Bats? This really needs further inspection and introspection	Johann
	2020-04-23 07:19:13	Gauteng		No I do not	This will lead to total disaster and poaching will become the order of the day. We will loose all our wild live not only the endangered species. Same as what happened in Australia and other countries in the world. How they can even add to the list all our endangered species, just shows how shallow and ignorant they have become. The current list is bad enough!	Joggie
	2020-04-23 07:19:11	Gauteng		No I do not	I fail to see why endangered and protected species are on the list? This goes against any kind of efforts in conservation and maintaining the species for the future.	Frances

The government and especially the citizens of RSA are supposed to protect and preserve the wildlife and our nature that are attracting a lot of tourists that are bringing millions of rands that boosts our economy. Now you want to eat the wildlife of which a lot are threatened. We have enough cattle, sheep, domestic goat species, game, ostritch, chickens, fish etc that can already be bought for consumption. If farm attacks and land grabbing can be stopped we will have enough farmers to fill the food baskets of our country. If all the animals have been eaten, what will we eat next? People? Pse stop this. Can she not SEE what has happened to the world when this is permitted? Is SA to become another China? Our animal heritage is sacred and a huge benefit for tourism, while many animals are already threatened. This is barbaric and should NEVER be allowed. SA should progress not regress.	Wima
	2020-04-23 07:08:04	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment will decimate our wildlife, our wild animals are already endangered, this is cruel & barbaric. Government wants this trade, our animals are destined for the wet markets in China, then as with the pangolin the rest of the world will suffer another pandemic. Our leaders are greedy, they are violating both animal rights & human rights. Think lion paws, rhino horns etc.	Melanie

	2020-04-23 07:06:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Clearly the 'honourable member' who proposed this has no zoology background, in fact no idea about how precious these great beasts are to us and the world. The temporary increase in revenue will rapidly be replaced by an ever growing wilderness and wasteland, a disappearance of the most unique creatures in the world, an extension and new portal of novel diseases, and ultimately, we become just another impoverished, bereft 3rd world country. 	2020-04-23 07:01:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Please reconsider this senseless amendment. I just cannot fathom the need for changing the existing list of animals allowed to be slaughtered. This amendment is an opening of doors for the needless killing of animals in any circumstance and for any reason whatsoever (slaughter, consumption, import and export) and I'm surprised not to find bats, dogs and cats on the list. We are already in the throes of a world pandemic as a result of indiscriminate wildlife slaughter and consumption. Please do not bend the knee to further outside pressure which definitely does not have our continent's welfare at heart.	Myra

	2020-04-23 06:58:27	Gauteng		No I do not	Our country is over populated already with humans that are poor. Allowing wild animals to be killed will be seen as a option for free food. Laws are not enforced and animals will be killed at will.	Amanda
	2020-04-23 06:58:07	Gauteng		No I do not	We must learn from Covid-19. It is possibly originating from the utilisation of wildlife. We need to make sure that we don't utilise reptiles and other wildlife that spread viruses.	Reinder

	2020-04-23 06:50:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Who ever drafted this and amended the animal list has NO bloody clue what they are doing or talking about! half of these animals are nearly extinct or are on the endangered species list or they don't even exist in South Africa, never mind the continent of Africa!!!! This needs to be stopped IMMEDIATELY and the person who drafted this needs to do a little studying before proposing such idiotic amendments. Maybe send him on a tour of South African game parks and some game farms including Ntaba Nyoni estates and make him write a test on all things South African animals and if he passes he can have his job back! 	2020-04-23 06:35:58	Gauteng		No I do not	There is more than enough sources of meat that is bred for human or animal consumption. The current list is good enough and no reason to amend it by adding additional species some of which do not exist on the Africa continent let alone South-Africa. No CITES species should be considered in anyway for any slaughtering or eating. If there is a surplus of CITES animals in a specific area re-location must be done and then re-evaluation of CITES listing. Stop being blind and money hungry and plundering everything.	Maartin

	2020-04-23 06:13:59	Gauteng		No I do not	This is shocking and ridiculously short sighted! Years of vital work by wildlife protection agencies with huge public support both nationally & globallly threatened to be erased in 1 fell swoop killing with it the national income from future tourism and 1000's more jobs which our nation can ill afford especially now. Science has shown that every species that is annihilated means humanity is another step closer to extinction through climate change. Scientists have shown over and over again that consuming wildlife is disastrous. Experts believe bats are the source of the Wuhan coronavirus. At least 4 pandemics have originated in these animals. Covid19 is another zoonotic disease, as it jumps from animals to humans. The SARS coronavirus, jumped from bats to civets to people. The Wuhan coronavirus may have passed the disease to one of a few potential intermediary species, which then passed it to humans. Right now, pigs, civets, and pangolins are thought to be the most likely potential intermediary hosts. Swine flu originated in pigs, becoming a pandemic in 2009. A human version of mad cow disease is believed to be caused by eating beef products from cattle infected with mad cow disease. It is obvious we need to limit the animal species we consume. Science and experience has proven this! This bill would invite more disaster on so many levels.	Amber
	2020-04-23 06:12:54	Gauteng		No I do not	We're in the middle of the coronavirus pandemic, which is because of eating weird animals, now SA wants to expand the list of animals...what sense does that make??? There's more than enough meat to eat by slaughtering the current animals. No no no!	Rhoda

	2020-04-23 06:05:42	Gauteng		No I do not	Such an inclusion suggests the same irresponsible eating behaviour as China has, eating anything that moves, suggesting gluttony and a disregard and disrespect to natural life which gives us beauty and life and when destroyed ends up in the destruction of animal species and pandemics like corona virus which China is very much responsible for allowing to happen. What does it matter what good people say because evil people will never ever listen and will always do what they arrogantly and greedily set their mind to do. This is a question of good and evil people.	bernadette

	2020-04-23 05:49:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Didn't the Corona virus originate from eating wild animals?? Is he trying now to please the Chinese and how much did they pay him? For goodness sake wake up people, there are endangered species on this list. I DO NOT support the amendment.	Pieter

	2020-04-23 05:44:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth would we hunt and eat endangered or wildlife animals as if we had nothing else to eat. Our wild animals are why we attract tourists from around the world. How do we invite people to view our beautiful animals only to then kill and eat them.....no logic in that for me.	Karin
	2020-04-23 05:36:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Total incompetance	Eugene
	2020-04-23 05:34:42	Gauteng		No I do not	Let us be responsible and look after our wildlife. For our own health, the environment and tourism. It is our responsibility.	Dewald
	2020-04-23 05:34:03	Gauteng		No I do not	to place animals into this that are on the endangered species list is the worst idea ever, instead of us protecting our animals in our beautiful country you are wanting it to be made legal to sell them as meat.	Christina
	2020-04-23 05:30:02	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absurd. Why do they want to slaughter wildlife on a large scale for human consumption? This needs to be stopped before it causes great distress and damage to our wildlife.	Desiré
	2020-04-23 05:28:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Given the current pandemic, caused by the sale, slaughter and consumption of wildlife, this is a horrendous piece of legislation. There needs to be a complete ban on the consumption of wildlife.	Joe
	2020-04-23 05:27:14	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly disagree, our precious wildlife has been already diminishing with poaching and many of our species are getting extinct. This bill sounds very suspicious and I wonder if it has anything to do with moneys that we have been getting from the Chinese Government ?	Charlotte
	2020-04-23 05:23:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Please remove from your list Rhinoceros Hippopotamus Giraffe Elephant Crocodile	Morne
	2020-04-23 05:23:14	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly disagree as this will harm the tourism industry because it will promote a negative perception of South Africa as a primitive, backward country typical of the worst and lowest of African countries where such practiced sre commonly found.	Mac

	2020-04-23 05:22:11	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the amendment because the amended list of animals include a number of animals that should be protected in South Africa.	Andre
	2020-04-23 05:20:29	Gauteng		No I do not	What is the reasoning behind this ammendment? I can see no reason for it and it seems illogical if not insane to allow the slaughter of endangered wild life	Trevor

	2020-04-23 05:15:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Can we please hold on from attacking animals. Already I feel guilty that I'm counted among people that eat meat. Adding to the list perpetuates our cruelty. I would suggest that the act reduce ani.als that are killed.	Nozuko
	2020-04-23 05:11:00	Gauteng		No I do not	No context to the proposed amendment provided and why include species from outside this region. Looks like a lazy cut and paste job.	Mphethi
	2020-04-23 05:09:18	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposal puts South Africa firmly into the category of PRIMITIVE and BACKWARD African countries that gives Africa an unfortunate reputation. It will hurt tourism as the perception of our determination to promote the preservation of our wildlife is a major aspect of the Tourism Industry.	Mac
	2020-04-23 05:06:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals should stay what they are - wild. Humans should respect them and not exploit them for money...	Rainer

	2020-04-23 04:40:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Tourism is probably the one single entity on which RSA could become totllay reliant in the future. Mines which were the backbone of our country are becoming too deep to be viable in the future. Therefore the biggest revenue generator we have is tourism. A major portion of tourism is overseas visitors wanting to " Go on safari" in other words visit our wild life parks. If you allow the wholesale slaughter of our large antelopes, rhino, buffalo, elephant then those same tourists will move to east Africa where they can still see such animals.	Ian

	2020-04-23 04:17:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Even back in ancient times strict laws applied on what was allowed. Leave South Africa's protected specie PROTECTED - we do not need another Wuhan by consuming what should be protected for future generations.	Kobus
	2020-04-23 04:12:57	Gauteng		No I do not	It is a disgrace that they are now reverting to Neanderthal practices of eating anything that walks Take note of WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO THE WORLD BECAUSE OF THE CHINESE PRACTICES OF EATING ANYTHING	John

	2020-04-23 04:02:43	Gauteng		No I do not	All animal as well as bird meat are contaminated with something that is bad for human consumption. If you want to keep a nation healthy NOTHING that has blood in it should be consumed. The only good food for people's health are vegetables, nuts, seeds and fruit.	Mari
	2020-04-23 04:00:25	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support these changes because it is totally unacceptable and unnecessary to put more wild life out to slaughter unless it is for culling where there are too many animals for our country to sustain effectively Have we learnt nothing from the pangolins and Covid 19 connection?	Carol

	2020-04-23 03:36:06	Gauteng		No I do not	The policy as written makes little sense as there are endangered and protected wildlife species listed for wholesale slaughter . There is little left of our wild life heritage. It should be preserved for the enjoyment of our future generations.	Piers
	2020-04-23 03:36:03	Gauteng		No I do not	there is no need we have enough animals to slaughter for meat this is where abuse will start	Johan
	2020-04-23 03:35:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Range of species must definatly exclude wild animals and those that are found in national parks. As an environmental consultant of 40 years , I very seriously object to the range of animals that are included.	Margaret

	2020-04-21 11:49:41	Gauteng		No I do not	The Draft Meat Safety Act is completely unacceptable to us. We are concerned that a consequence of the amendment will be an increase in the industrial factory farming of wild animals and other domesticated animals, including animals who have not been subjected to the horrendous conditions at factory farms and feedlots. We urge the South African government to commit itself publicly to the reduction of factory farming - which is being suspected of being the source and origin of pandemics such as Covid-19 - and not to the increase of this horrendous practice.	anneke

	2020-04-21 10:00:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Due to growing concerns with animal farming globally and the recent COVID 19 disease as well as the various other diseases from farmed animals as well as wild animals this must be stopped. 	2020-04-20 18:58:39	Gauteng		No I do not	Factory farming is bad enough, farming domestic animals results in horrific cruelty, in farms, in transport and in slaughter houses. Meat eating is totally unnecessary and wasteful and environmentally damaging. Why bring wild animals into this now...for totally imoral profit. Wild animals have had enough if their land stolen from them as it is. Now they must be slaves, bred to be eaten? Its a complete contradiction of a human duty to take care of the environment. Covid 19, SARs, MERS, Ebola, Bird flu and swine flu, and mad cow disease all come from humans eating animals. How many more pandemics are going to arise from farming wildlife. Its obscene! The only responsible and moral decision is not to pass this legislation. Farmers should be focusing on responsible, eco friendly plant food for humans.	Trish

	2020-04-20 04:44:03	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely to acceptable that you open the whole of SA wildlife to farming. This is a public safety hazard in the face of global risk of future disease. It is also a total risk to our natural biodiversity and ecolgical natural balance. On to of all this it opens up all these species to genetically manipulation and to animal cruelty. I'm asking you from the bottom of my heart to scap this new law/ bill for the sake of humanity and future generations. It is morally not on.	Noga

	2020-04-18 18:57:59	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa needs to stand up for preservation of Africa's wild-life. The world already cannot believe you allow canned hunting of lions. Its outrageous.	Linda
	2020-04-18 11:30:03	Gauteng		No I do not		Niels

	2020-04-18 10:54:36	Gauteng		No I do not	No animal, of any kind is food. They are not to be abused or used for food, entertainment, experimentation, clothing or transportation or any other thing mankind can think of. We are ALL fellow beings on this earth and the idea that one life matters less than another is the essence of exactly what is wrong with the world today. Also, eating animals and everything that leads to the point where they are on our plate creates the perfect environment where viral and bacterial agents can jump species, as we are currently seeing with COVID-19 and have seen with Avian Flu, Swine Flu, MERS, SARS and other zoonotic diseases such as Listeriosis, rickettsiaia, brucellosis, toxoplasma, etc. Unless our abusive relationship with animals changes, the next pandemic is just around the corner. Farmers can grow vegetables, fruit, grains, nuts and seeds, even hydroponically in our drought-prone country. One does NOT need animal flesh or by-products to be healthy and sustain life. So it is a HUGE NO from me. For the animals. For humans. And for our Mother Earth.	Diane

	2020-04-17 15:45:00	Gauteng		No I do not	The protection of our wild animals is crucial to the environment and promotion of tourism and the willful exploitation and the recatagorisation and proposed unacceptable slaughter of these animals by the South African government is ludicrous not to mention explotive and feigning all international guidelines on welfare protection.	Vanessa
	2020-04-17 13:27:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Sirs, I know the logic is that something like this will replace factory farming (which has been described as worse than Nazi concentration camps) with the notion that this is a kinder more sustainable and ethical way to provide meat. But you know as well as I that it will eventually become another commodity and that then demand will drive need for higher production that will then again drive the (very) unnatural act of breeding animals to kill them - pretty sure not the way God intended it, and that it will become just a another cruel money driven industry. Animals are not commodities. They are living beings that have a right to live and do not exist for you to control and abuse their fates. I hope one day you can understand this. Until then I just feel obligated to add my big NO to this draft.	Lisa
	2020-04-17 10:28:52	Gauteng		No I do not	The WHO has recomended a whole foods plant based diet which is suitable for all stages of life, this will save our country billions in health care. South Africans need less, or better, no meat not more!	Gemma

	2020-04-17 09:09:05	Gauteng		No I do not	We already have animals on the endangered list and yet you want to allow them to be marketed for food, surely this will make them more of a target? Which market is this wild animal food for, South African or Chinese? Is this again China dictating to our Chinese own government? What about Covid 19, does our government know more about it's origins than the rest of the world? It makes no sense and I am totally against it.	Lynette

	2020-04-16 17:20:30	Gauteng		No I do not	There is no need for any human being to consume the flesh of any other living being. Why are the agriculture of plant food not encouraged as it is much healthier and sustainable. Many who left the manipulated belief of consuming flesh have proven that it is not neccessary and you can survive without meat. Not to mention the exploitation, rape and murder this arcace diet cause other living beings.	Lindie
	2020-04-16 16:32:19	Gauteng		No I do not	I, Caroline von Bardeleben have read the proposed update to the Schedule of the Meat Safety Act, 2000 (Act No 40 of 2000) I am concerned that the changes will lead to the increase in exploitation of endangered wildlife species. Futhermore, as we have seen with the Coronavirus pandemic, exploitation of wild animals can result in transmission of diseases from animals to humans. The amendment to the act could therefore potentially increase diseases between wildlife and humans and have an impact on human health. I therefore object to the above amendments. Yours kindly, Caroline von Bardeleben	Caroline
	2020-04-16 16:20:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I, Caitlin von Bardeleben take note of the proposed amendments to the Schedule of the Meat Safety Act 2000 (Act No 40 of 2000) I am concerned that a consequence of the proposed amendment will be an increase in exploitation of wild animals for meat. In addition, we are in the middle of the Coronavirus pandemic where the leading theory is that the virus was transmitted by a wild animal vector at a Chinese wet market. I am therefore concerned that the farming of wild animals could lead to an increase in zoonotic diseases such as Coronavirus. The changes to this act could have devastating consequences for our wildlife and our people. It is for this reason that I object to the amendments made to the Schedule of the Meat Safety Act 2000. Yours kindly, Caitlin von Bardeleben	Caitlin

All sentient beings need to be protected as far as our economies will allow. The reason we are suffering from the effects of a pandemic in the first place has its roots in the abuse of animals in wet markets!. The heinous hygiene conditions in these arenas are largely responsible for the pandemic we now face. Sars, swine flu, bird flu, mad cow disease and now Covid are telling us expressly to stop eating animals. We need to stop this obscenity for once and for all.	Kate

But no animals may be eaten unless they have divided hoofs and also chew the cud. You may not eat camels, rabbits, or rock-badgers. They must be considered unclean; they chew the cud but do not have divided hoofs. Do not eat pigs. They must be considered unclean; they have divided hoofs but do not chew the cud. Do not eat any of these animals or even touch their dead bodies. “You may eat any kind of fish that has fins and scales, but anything living in the water that does not have fins and scales may not be eaten; it must be considered unclean. “You may eat any clean bird. But these are the kinds of birds you are not to eat: eagles, owls, hawks, falcons; buzzards, vultures, crows; ostriches; seagulls, storks, herons, pelicans, cormorants; hoopoes; and bats. “All winged insects are unclean; do not eat them. 	2020-05-23 09:54:35	Gauteng		No I do not	The recent Covid-19 outbreak is a direct result of consuming wild animals. South Africa's tourism industry is world renowned and is entirely based on the unique ability to view wild animals, extinct in most other parts of the world, in their natural environment. This industry provides thousands of jobs and has spin offs into many industries in Citys and small towns around the country. The reducing of wild animals such as cheetah, lion, rhino, leopard, etc to 'meat' is barbaric and will bring about further diseases that attack and kill humans. This amendment is grossly irresponsible, short sighted and ignorant and needs to be opposed mightily by opposition parties and the population at large. One wonders if those suggesting this amendment have a stake in the brutal farming and sale of wildlife? I cannot think of any other reason someone would support this.	Kristin

I rest my case. PS. How much will the minister of Agriculture be getting out of this?	Yvonne

	2020-05-21 14:50:18	Gauteng		No I do not	A number of these species are endangered and you want to make it more likely that they will become extinct. How do you propose controlling amounts to be used to prevent the destruction of endemic species and their respective environments? How will this amendment affect the conservation efforts and the tourism efforts that a lot of these species attract? Why are non-native species proposed, such as kangaroo, how will those be controlled? If you allow farming of them and the farmer and they escape how will you ensure the protection of the local environment against an invading species? How do you propose to control export of the by products (i.e. ivory)? This proposal also is very vague for what can be included.	Brandon
	2020-05-21 13:22:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Dont do this. Our wild animals do Not deserve to be decimated like this. 	2020-05-21 10:32:24	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa cannot afford to add to the list of animals to be added for human consumption because we are struggling with ensuring safety of the allowed animals. The meat people eat is contaminated and infected to a degree never before known to human history. we are struggling with prions, BSE, MAD COW DISEASE, WORMS, HELMINTHS, FLUKES, VIRAL DISEASES (we have corona virus right now that originated from bats, how it gained entry to humans, leaves much to speculation) LIKE RABIES, HOG POX, BACTERIAL DISEASES MYCOBACTERIUM, ANTHRAX PASTEURELLA. The list is long. Adding to this list animals we have no clue what diseases they carry. South Africa not even have good researchers who have an interest to ethically conduct research and honestly report irrespective of the outcomes of the research results negatively impacting the meat industry. what about sheer respect for animals, their role in the environment and their species going extinct? humans are the only living species that exist to run ourselves to extinction. Please refer to the book " International Meat Crises" bibliography of writings warning against use of meat as a food source. Increasing the list puts a strain on the environment and people. We will see more and more deadly diseases afflicting people, more and more morally debasing actions committed by people.	Loraine

	2020-05-16 14:19:06	Gauteng		No I do not	According to the 2020 updated Red List of Mammals of South Africa (Endangered Wildlife Trust), the Natal Red Duiker is Near Threatened, the Tsessebe is Vulnerable, the Bontebuck is Vulnerable, the Roan Antelope is Endangered, the Sable Antelope is Vulnerable, the Suni is Endangered, the Oribi is Endangered, the Grey Rhebuck is Near Threatened, the Blue Duiker is Vulnerable, the Mountain Reedbuck is Endangered, the Riverine Rabbit is Critically Endangered, the Rhinoceros is Endangered/Critically Endangered (depending on the subspecies considered), the Hartmann's Mountain Zebra is Vulnerable. Elephant are already poached for their ivory. Furthermore, many species are endemic to South Africa/our region. We believe that including these species in these regulations makes them more vulnerable and threatens their survival. Including them also threatens biodiversity and goes against our right to an environment that is not detrimental to our health and well-being.	Vicky

	2020-05-12 18:10:17	Gauteng		No I do not	A number of the species listed are already threatened due to habitat loss and indiscriminate hunting. 	2020-05-10 22:27:57	Gauteng		No I do not	The current pandemic should automatically trigger our authorities to reduce the list of animals fit for human consumption. Definitely eliminate import/export of ALL wildlife permanently. The amendment should be drafted to periodically decrease the number of animals fit for human consumption. Over the next few decades, meat consumption should be eliminated altogether for the sake of animal welfare. Our behaviour and actions should reflect us as being civilized and not barbaric. At least attempt it. Decrease your list. It will be a good start.	Harshila

In many cases, the wild animals are slaughtered in crude, cruel circumstances eg. The killing of donkeys for meat & hide. Why on EARTH ? would we consider extending the list of animals to be killed, in a time where climate change indicates we should be eating more plant based foods, to save the planet? The recent outbreak of COVID-19 appears to have broken out in a market where domesticated and wild animals are sold for consumption. Have we learnt nothing from Mother Nature's LOUD wake up call? Perhaps we should be using this opportunity to consider the way we have treated the earth and so many of its creatures, rather than adding another possibility for abuse. 	2020-05-08 10:27:58	Gauteng		No I do not	Not only is this unethical, it is also unsustainable. It is our obligation as sentient beings, and the governments obligation as the ruling body to protect these animals. BILLIONS of animals are raised for food per year. This is not a question of the lack of food, but rather of the governments inability to provide food to the countries most vulnerable individuals. There is more than enough livestock to eat without slaughtering endangered wild animals, the government just needs to do what is has promised it would. Additionally, South Africa relies heavily in tourism for money and these animals are integral to that. But when it comes down to it, it is simply wrong.	Kirsten

	2020-05-08 07:56:07	Gauteng		No I do not	Tourism is one of South Africa's biggest revenue streams and game viewing is a large part of this. If we don't have our animals, why would people come here? In addition, it is our duty to preserve nature for future generations. Especially almost extinct species. We cannot allow people to slaughter these animals. There are enough cattle, sheep and pig. In addition, the whole pandemic was caused by people consuming wild life meat. How can anyone in their right mind even consider this? Don't we learn from other countries' mistakes. It is deplorable what you are trying to do.	Hildegard
	2020-05-08 07:49:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Adding animals to the list for consumption is not going to rectify any damage caused by the recent pandemic. Humans do not rely on meat alone as a source of nutrition. In fact, it has been scientifically proven that our digestive systems are better adapted to consuming plants. Plants are everywhere! They reproduce faster than animals and it takes fewer resources to grow crops than it does to feed animals. Illness as a result of food contamination is a lot less likely in a plant-based diet (if not zero) compared to that of animal-based diet. All of the worst pandemics in history have been caused by animal consumption, and now you want to add more animals to the list - that is backward thinking. Not to mention that Rhinos and Elephants are already endangered and have suffered enough at the hands of poachers. Please, please give Mother Earth a break!	Emma

There has been so much effort and money spent on trying to save our Rhino from total decimation and now the government wants to allow people to eat them?! 	2020-05-07 11:15:23	Gauteng		No I do not	If we want to continuously find ourselves in the position we are in today, with the corona virus, then by all means pass this act. But if anybody had any sense, they wouldn’t even be entertaining this. Firstly, leave the animals alone, secondly, leave the animals alone and thirdly... if you don’t leave the animals alone, the chances of dying from a virus like Covid 19 is highly likely. Stop being such imbeciles!!!!	Nikki
	2020-05-07 11:13:38	Gauteng		No I do not	This is outrageous !!! , this shouldn't even be questionable, our wildlife should be left alone to run free as God intended it to be, you ought to be ashamed of yourselves to even think up this garbage.	Craig

	2020-05-07 11:05:43	Gauteng		No I do not	The draft amendment is a marginal improvement on the original Act, but it is still woefully inadequate. Under no circumstances should any animal or animal products (meat, skin etc) from any threatened or endangered species from South Africa be allowed for export (EVEN if they are bred commercially or bred in captivity). Allowing export of so-called "captive-bred" threatened species opens up a gateway for the illicit trade, where wild threatened species can simply be added in along the supply chain and effectively 'laundered' to become 'legal'. Therefore the only acceptable and enforceable manner in which to control this is to completely ban the export (and import) of any threatened or endangered species. South Africa has fantastic data on all our threatened species, and this information is readily available from various sources such as SANBI and the IUCN, among others. So it would be very easy to compile this list of threatened species and ban their export. By threatened I mean any animals listed as Near Threatened, Vulnerable, Endangered or Critically Endangered (as defined by the IUCN). And it is incredibly ambiguous to state that this Act also applies to "undefined birds, reptiles and fish". Why are they not defined in the Act?? And amphibians are also excluded from this list, why is that? Amphibians are the most threatened vertebrate order in the world and are extremely vulnerable to the spread of diseases through import and export (such as the Chytrid fungus). Also, certain endemic and threatened amphibians such as our Giant Bullfrogs are (illegally) bred or taken from the wild and exported for meat and the pet trade from South Africa. So surely animals such as these should be included in the list. And again, any fish, amphibian, bird or reptile species that is threatened should be banned from all export or import. A good example of animal 'laundering' is with the Sungazer lizard, which is endemic and threatened in South Africa. Only 2 institutions have ever bred these animals in captivity and yet export permits are granted for dozens of them to be shipped out of our country every year. This is exactly why a blanket ban on all threatened species is required. Lastly, the Act states that all animals must be slaughtered at an abattoir. But Section 7 (2)a states that this is not the case if the animal is used for cultural or religious ceremonies. How is this appropriate? So any animal that is slaughtered for these purposes is allowed, regardless of how it is slaughtered, treated etc? With no enforcement or regulation? And what about threatened animals? Can anyone simply kill any endangered animal and say it is for religious or cultural purposes? Also, there is no limit stated on how many animals can be slaughtered. So a person could kill, say 100 black rhinos and say it was for cultural purposes, and as long as they don't sell the meat, it is considered acceptable? Surely various Animal Welfare Acts also need to be considered before a blanket statement such as this. And the trade in Donkey meat (or at the very least skins) should be banned. We have seen how the Chinese have decimated the donkey markets in Zimbabwe and Botswana and how they ship the animals and skins out through Mozamabique (mostly illegally). There is a very good chance this is happening in South Africa too, where animals or products are illegally smuggled into our country and then "legally" exported from SA under our legislation. I have worked with the Green Scorpions for a number of years and seen how woefully inadequate the enforcement of the existing legislation is. This is an opportunity to revise this situation and I believe it needs much further attention and input.	Michael

	2020-05-07 08:54:26	Gauteng		No I do not	The extension to the list of wild animals includes many species not found in the wild in South Africa. It also includes a number of species that are considered to be endangered on the IUCN red-list, including the iconic Rhinoceros and Giraffe. Whilst I am pleased that the list does not include pangolin or monkeys, an alleged source of several disease epidemics across the globe, the extension of other wildlife to be included as meat to be eaten by our population reflects poorly on the environmental, health and tourism image of our country. If it is done because our people are starving as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, I respectfully suggest that you eliminate idealogical and bureaucratic barriers preventing both speedy distribution of food parcels and aid to the poor and needy, and reopening the economy to allow people to work under safe and healthy conditions.	Robert

	2020-05-06 23:20:30	Gauteng		No I do not	There are already enough sources of 'domestic/farmed' animals for meat consumption, and the standards of farming/production are disgraceful. Wild animals must not become fodder to satisfy human greed and stupidity, which would probably lead to mass extinctions of those creatures, open poaching and unparalleled diseases being unleashed on the world; not only on the human population but also on the animal population. It is unfortunate that our so-called 'world-leaders' so frequently give rise to these absurd, stupid and disgusting propositions. Kill this sick proposition before fools begin to kid themselves that it is an acceptable idea.	Philip

	2020-05-06 21:55:50	Gauteng		No I do not	The draft amendment of the Meat Safety Act serves to further imperil the populations of already endangered species. By adding TOP species such as rhino to the Act, Minister Didiza undermines previous efforts to save these species, and risks further damage to South Africa's global image.	Ashleigh

					Dear Ms Didiza, I am afraid this is preposterous. At a time when our planet is being ravaged by an infectious disease, which it is alleged to have originated from the consumption of an exotic meat/animal, it is this governments idea to add such exotic meat products for human consumption? This is equaled in farce, only by the fact, that numerous animals on the list are endangered species ... they do not come back from extinction like they do in movies! I urge you to please look outside of your window, and absorb what is currently taking place in OUR world. We do not need more limited thinking in our policy such as this. We need leaders that are knowledgeable, whom are counselled by those with wisdom. Not only for our collective welfare, but that of our environment around us. We need to please protect this environment we exist in, at all costs! we do not have a replacement! I plead that your department seek immediate council from those groups and individuals, whom are qualified and experienced in conservation, and whom can articulate the true effect of what it is your department is proposing. Seek wisdom above everything else.

	2020-05-06 21:14:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the draft amendment Meat Safety Act. It is unneccessary and inhumane. These animals are not meant for consumption and are already at risk due to endangerment. Internationally a pandemic arose from consuming wildlife that is not meant for humans - why would we make this worse? Surely South Africa has other problems to be concerned about rather than drafting an amendment that would be of no help to the citizens of South Africa?	Nicole

	2020-05-06 21:06:24	Gauteng		No I do not	There are many reasons to oppose this bill. One of these is that we cannot afford to decimate our wildlife and risk setting in motion the extinction of species. Another is that the current pandemic again illustrates the danger of the spread of zoonotic diseases as we kill and consume animals indiscriminately. A third is that we surely have a duty to protect our wildlife, if not out of a love and appreciation for them, then knowing that they are a huge draw card to international tourists.	Sheryl

	2020-05-06 14:47:10	Gauteng		No I do not	I feel that enabling humans to consume endangered species are going to create a whole new set of problems. More animals will become endangered and those who already are will be lost forever. What is the point of wildlife rescue, rehabilitation and conservation of humans are just going to end up eating that animal? I strongly do not accept this amendment. People will hunt these animals who also has families and feelings and feel nothing for them. Animals like rhino, elephant, hippo and even the giraffe will fend for themself and some are going to hurt and even kill these humans trying to kill them, it is in their nature to defend themself and then they are going to get killed because of this as well. I cannot stress enough that I DO NOT accept this!! Please keep these animals safe as they are symbols of our great nation, this is not how our animals who we are suppose to look out for should be handled.	Belinda

	2020-05-06 14:25:00	Gauteng		No I do not	Hell NO! Our endangered animals have been poached to extinction for fur, meat and horn. Elephants and Giraffes, Leopards, birds and lizards are WILD animals and should stay in protected areas in their natural habitats. They should NOT be reared for slaughter and consumption. They should not be reared fand transported live (it is cruel to put them through this as well), to be consumed in other countries either. There is enough domesticated life-stock like Cows, sheep and chickens to feed people. Wild and near extinct animals are off the menu! If there is culling of animals locally, the meat should be given away for free to communities in the area. I 100% oppose this amendment - Protect our wild animals!	Marti

	2020-05-06 14:20:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not see how slaughtering endangered animal for human consumption is of any use. Our country offers wildlife as a fantastic tourism attraction. This generates jobs, money and encourages people to visit S.A. passing such a thoughtless (probably backhanded) legislation would cause tourists to look elsewhere to go on "safari". There is more at stake than "exotic food" or mootie. Revenue should be looked at thoroughly. The cost to the tourism industry would far out weigh any possible gains (for the selected few fat cats) from the sale of endangered meat.	Samantha
	2020-05-06 14:16:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Stop this madness! These animals are not carriers of this virus. These animals are innocent sentient beings who are being dragged into humans affairs. I vote is a clear NO to this amendment!	Michele

	2020-05-06 13:41:51	Gauteng		No I do not	Apart from the obvious reasons tied to animal cruelty, unlawful activities that could be disguised as lawful under this amendment, and serious conservation concerns, the Wuhan COVID-19 has shown the risk of trading and eating wildlife. 	2020-05-06 12:41:27	Gauteng		No I do not	I am absolutely horrified that the Government is considering slaughtering or selling so many wild animals. They are vital to keeping South Africa firstly as a tourist destination and are an important part of nature. 	2020-05-06 11:49:00	Gauteng		No I do not	South African biodiversity is already facing a drastic decline due to ongoing human and climatic forces, which include the degradation and misuse of land. Allowing people to legally consume and trade in these animals will have a devistating impact on biodiversity on an ecological and genetic level. As wildlife is a major component to the income of South africa, we have to invest further in it rather than destroying it. And I shouldn't even have to mention in this time of Covid -19, that the exploitation of animals increases chances of zoonotic disease transmission.	Lindi

	2020-05-06 11:43:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The endangered species and many of the "wild" wildlife animals should absolutely not be on the list . The entire list needs revising. The rise of COVID 19 is as a result of the intended consumption of "wild" animals. Does SOUTH AFRICA really want to be the centre of the next virus outbreak? Dear Minister, take a stand and make the right decision or if you are uncertain, at least seek advice from those who dedicate their lives to matters such as this. Your country relies on your wisdom, which can impact lives. I hope that you understand the enormous responsibility that you have at your disposal and you do the right thing for the right reasons. Take care.	Olivier

	2020-05-06 09:06:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I have lived all over the world and the one asset we have as a country are our animals. We need to protect these for future generations to enjoy and by allowing the trade in this meat the door is opened to the decimation through poaching of the animals. Don't say that you can control it because you cannot. Just look at the Rhino poaching and the momney invested to get that under control . The money you invest to control it, rather take that and buy meat for the people that need it.	Mark

	2020-05-05 16:32:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The original list is perfectly adequate. Slaughtering of exotics and endangered species is unacceptable and unnecessary. It also appears as if the Minister is hoping to create another Wuhan.	Carol
	2020-05-05 16:07:50	Gauteng		No I do not	In the past weeks the world has had to reshape and adapt to a changing way of life. We no longer and will most likely never live our "normal" lives again. This is as a result of the Covid-19 outbreak, it has severely shaken human civilisation and globalisation to an unprecedented levels. We have learnt how vulnerable we are to external forces and reliant we are on the current global economic system. Our lives will play a very different tune for the foreseeable future, one of social distancing and new barriers to our social nature. If anything is to come of this global pandemic it should be lessons learnt. We must take the lesson Covid-19 has to offer, we should be open minded to the potential threat the human species has to face whether this be climate change, disease or poverty. Our way of life has been tor apart by one of the basic elements of survival: food. We have made this mistake before with the Ebola crisis, we have made it again with the Covid-19 pandemic, we should not risk making this mistake again. As the saying goes "Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me". Can we risk fooling ourselves a third time? We should not be considering using wild meat for human consumption, never mind the threat this poses to our wildlife. Ecotourism should be a key sector if we are to move forward as a country and an economy. Our country's rich biodiversity should not be interfered with.	Thomas

	2020-05-05 14:50:53	Gauteng		No I do not	*No endangered animals should be slaughtered for human consumption or for any other reason. *No endangered birds should be slaughtered for human consumption or for any other reason. *No reptiles should be slaughtered for human consumption or for trophies or for so called medicinal uses or any other uses. The new Corona virus outbreak has been attributed to the wet market in Wuhan, China, where bats and the highly endangered and trafficed pangolin are sold for human consumption. This has caused a world wide pandemic, The lockdown is devastating to the South African economy. The SA economy was already crippled by years of mismanagement and corruption (none of those people guilty of these heinous acts who are currently in government, previously in government and private individuals who caused a Trillion and more of damage to the economy have been sentenced and jailed yet! Please bring these criminals before the courts!)	Orpa

Ebola and the Corona virus are two which I can name which originated in wild animals.	Diana
	2020-05-05 11:52:54	Gauteng		No I do not	No, No, No !!!!! This could create immense problems on many levels. Why don't we see any goat meat on our shelves? A very healthy meat. 	2020-05-04 19:24:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Nothing we say will make a difference. We will be ignored in this as in everything else. This country is already on the way to being a bankcrupt wasteland with a starved inhumanely impoverished population . There are some animals which could be successfully domesticated and farmed e.g. hyrax, cane rat, large guinea pig snails, etc. Why not focus on those? A greed that defies logic has gripped our politicians and people, in fact the world, Instead of trying to protect and preserve as we have been mandated by God we are caught up in a cycle of mindless, willful destruction. Nothing will stop the slaughter, not even when the only choice left is which of your children will you eat today.	A

	2020-05-04 12:18:52	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly object to the inclusion of all the new species included for slaughter. Many of the mentioned animals are on our local and world endangered list. Reducing and interfering with nature will have lasting effect on our environment and the future of our planet. The main reason we have found ourselves in the middle of a world wide Covid-19 pandemic is from the wet markets in China that sell wild animals which carry Viruses and other diseases which cross over to people. Surely we should learn from China's mistakes and not go down the same road as they have. Every year already the new and stronger Viruses begin in the east and move around the world. The course of our lives has changed already ffor our children as a result of this Pandemic. Think about your children's future.	Jane

	2020-05-03 23:08:42	Gauteng		No I do not	To what end should we support this draft, we have more than adequate farmers to support the meat industry in South Africa. Look towards animals that breed easily and can be farmed sustainably like rabbit and goat. It would seem as if this legislation is more to to pander to the greedy international hunters with their insatiable lust for killing endangered species for trophy hunting.	Philipa
	2020-05-03 23:02:24	Gauteng		No I do not	Because already our country wild animals are under threat because of poaching.We cannot efforts the sale of our wild life for meat.	bongani
	2020-05-03 21:49:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Farmers already produce more meat than needed for consumption in our country. We have a unique situation in the world when it comes to species, ownership, wildlife breeding farms, tourism and game parks. why endanger our wildlife, especially the more endangered species? Allowing the slaughter of these species will just be another way of destroying the earth which has already gone too far.	Eben

	2020-05-03 15:40:59	Gauteng		No I do not	It is noticeable that the old list were broken into 2 parts domestic and wild and then the said approved animals listed alphabetically The new list has absolutely no coherence to it whatsoever and is a representation of the the minds of the people/committee or persons who put this list together They are clutching at straws, trying to expand a market that has no legitimacy but purely aimed at exploitation and greed Although it is subject to Conservation approval, it is sick to think that some of these animals are thought of as possibilities for food or other reasons of exploitation And as for the unspecified list of birds and fish etc - it s a joke - this whole thing is just keeping someone in a job NO NO NO There is nothing more to say other than that what is approved on the current list needs no further changing Scrap this idea and bin it	Mike

	2020-05-03 11:16:44	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft amendment flies in the face of decades of evidence from respected environmentalists, wildlife experts, tourism bodies, and animal welfare organisations to name a few. They have urged less interference with nature and ecosystems and less consumption of animal, bird and fish products if we are to save a functioning Earth for ourselves and future generations. How we've acted against the environment and the flora and fauna we share this planet with has culminated in where we find ourselves today - in a global lockdown thanks to a zoonotic virus. This country should be supporting a move away from factory farming and the decimation of our wildlife, NOT proposing even an wider list of creatures to abuse and destroy.	Anne
	2020-05-03 10:56:56	Gauteng		No I do not	No civilised thought has been given to this matter. Our protected wild life should remain protected.	Eric
	2020-05-03 10:46:19	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa has made commitments to efforts to save endangered species and to building eco-tourism. This proposed amendment appears directly opposed to these commitments, expanding the pool of wild animals that can be killed for meat. If the Corona Virus emergency has taught us anything, it is that the planet is definitely better off without human beings messing with its delicate balance.	Ingrid
	2020-05-03 10:36:54	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absolutely outrageous that endangered species are needing to be slaughtered for food. This is an absolute NO. 	2020-05-02 12:08:01	Gauteng		No I do not	Including wild animals such as Rhino and Elephant should be banned. As a nation and as the human race we should be protecting our planet and our animals from cruelty and from extinction. If anything we should be implementing acts which make the killing of our sacred wild animals a criminal offense. Weigh the interested of the animals and our future planet against the implied gains made from slaughtering and selling and eating these animals. Surely the animals safety outweighs this. We need to be responsible and our wild animals must be conserved and respected. There are other ways for humans to make money and our wild animals should not be used as a means to this end. This must stop now.	ANDREW

	2020-05-01 19:04:40	Gauteng		No I do not	This list extension is just another poorly disguised version of exploitation, poaching and ecological destruction for financial gain. Are we really becoming another Wuhan? Do you honestly think anyone is going to believe that people "need" to eat more wild meat? Are we really going to decimate our children's ecological heritage for profit? In the current climate of a pandemic due to a wildlife-spread pathogen this list is especially disturbing and in bad taste. The world is desperately trying to move towards sustainability and less meat and this list wants to add multiple wild species including endangered ones for consumption. No excuse, reason, justification or explanation will suffice to validate this wrong doing. Some things in life are just wrong or evil. It seems policy makers on this planet struggle with this concept. Why don't we just add humans to the list if nothing is sacred anymore?	Angeline

Why must this special animals be allowed to be killed and slaughtered to please miths of countries like China and for African muti. They feel nothing to kill all our beautiful scarce animals and now you want to change the laws to make lawful to go on with inhumane slaughtering of our animals. There are so many animals on this list that should not be on that list, do not just roll this amendment through to impress other people/countries like China that are raping Africa of all its trees and animals and they do not feel for anything, because you allow this to go on. There will be nothing left of what makes Africa what it is, and they do not care and you also do not care. It is shocking of what is happening in our beloved country. 	2020-04-30 16:33:23	Gauteng		No I do not	1) Scientists believe that the Coronavirus jumped species from wild animals to humans through consumption. The virus is known to be found in both wild animals and humans. It could be highly dangerous and irresponsible of SA to promote this consumption, when the whole world is callung for China to abolish it. 2) SA should consider tourism as a major source of income, much of it dependent on game reserves. It is a huge deterrent if these unique animals are farmed, placing them on equal footing as cattle and pigs. It is most unlikely that any tourist would visit a country that farms wildlife. Why bother paying to see them? They may as well visit a zoo in their own country	Vaso

	2020-04-30 15:57:38	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment is clearly to fill the pockets of greedy officials which is driven by the chinese and nothing else. If we proceed in this capacity everything will become extinct and there will be nothing left for future generations.	Louise

	2020-04-30 13:56:40	Gauteng		No I do not	The Wild Life of this Country is one of the biggest attractions for overseas travelers which brings in much needed revenue. It should not be reduced to "just another food source" We have clearly seen what trading in wildlife as food has done for Wuhan China! All of these animals should be protected and seen for what they are, which is a treasure we have inherited to ensure they be preserved for future generations of our people and the people of the world. What thought has gone into this insane idea to want to pass an amendment that will be an open door to wipe out our priceless Heritage? If you are prepared to do this then I do not hold out much hope for the future of this Country! Cry the Beloved Country! (Copied)	Dirk C

It is the wholesale abuse of the animal kingdom that has caused the pandemic. I am not a vegetarian but I am totally opposed to the amendment.	Elizabeth
	2020-04-30 12:57:42	Gauteng		No I do not	We are in the middle of a pandemic, which apparently started with wild life meat and we now want to open this market. We ask why is this virus covid 19 hitting the world as it is. People that think they are very clever are responsible for it, and this amendment is just another example of why this happening to us. Just ask yourself if God will agree to this. Let us stop this amendment bill now.	Hans
	2020-04-30 12:10:59	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of endangered species will thwart our efforts to protect them. It will also do irreparable damage to our tourism industry. 	2020-04-30 12:02:48	Gauteng		No I do not	I personally find blatant disregard for South-African wild life appalling .The hunting of rhinos and elephants for foodstuffs sounds like a nicely constructed excuse to be able to legally procure the ivory in their tusks and horns.But sad the saddest part is no matter what we say in protest to this amendment we will most probably just be ignored.	Armand
	2020-04-30 11:29:57	Gauteng		No I do not	No animals on the list of the Endangered Wildlife Trust, that are endangered and vulnerable, should be listed for commercial exploitation as per the proposed Meat Safety Act amendment. The old list of animals for slaughter is sufficient.	Dorothy

	2020-04-30 09:45:54	Gauteng		No I do not	The current draft has to many gaps, allowing the uncontrolled pillaging of our natural resources. It also grants more access to foreign countries to exploit our already over-strained natural resources. We cannot allow this, not only to protect the fauna and flora of South Africa, but also to protect the economic future of our people.	Judi
	2020-04-30 09:32:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agreee with the trade in animals, live or dead. South Africa is a stalwart for the protection of animals as well as the many threatened species that he have. We need to set an example for the rest of the world!	Brad

	2020-04-30 08:32:20	Gauteng		No I do not	For years most of this animals have not been a problem to be classified as food and now all of the sudden because some vegetarian idiot is unsatisfied the entire country must suffer. South Africa is known for its "braais" witch means you will simply be destroying tradition when you ammend the new law. In my personal opinion this is a waste of time you should actually be thinking of ways to punish women and child abusers and rapists. So no I definitely do not agree with the new list I don't even agree with the old list	Stehan

	2020-04-30 08:28:33	Gauteng		No I do not	I ALREADY THINK THAT WE EAT TOO MANY ANIMALS AND I SHOULD ACTUALY BE A VEGETARIAN . IT IS HARD FOR ME TO BELIEVE THAT THIS POSSIBILITY WAS EVEN TAKEN INTO CONSIDERATION BECAUSE I NEVER HEARD OF ANYTHING SO CRUEL AND PATHETIC IN WHOLE MY LIFE .... PLEASE DONT KILL MORE ANIMALS .... PLEASE DONT EAT MORE ANIMALS ... PLEASE HAVE CONSIDERATION FOR OUR ANIMALS AND EVEN THE ONES THAT ARE KILLED WHILE THEY ARE IN THIS WORLD THEY SHOULD HAVE A DECENT LIFE AND WHEN THEY ARE KILLED IT SHOULD BE DONE IN A HUMANE MANNER .... ANIMALS ARE LIVING BEING LIKE US AND THEY SUFFER LIKE US. PLEASE STOP LOOKING AT THEM LIKE OBJECTS	ANA
	2020-04-30 08:15:58	Gauteng		No I do not	In all respect, this bill would only give the corrupt power to put even more strain on our brittle ecology. If this bill is to be passed all our national parks and private nature reserves would poached and over hunted by the people pushing for this bill. Wild animals only has healthy meat when they are roaming free in the wild, when they are kept in small enclosures they develop fat and become sickly. If the bill was written to only include processed meats from legally acquired source, like a hunting farm and exclude all nation parks tho ensure that there could be no exploration of this bill, then it would be morally OK. 	2020-04-30 07:54:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Why do we have to change a system that works, yet again?Breeding cattle, sheep, pigs, domestic fowls and certain fish for human consumption create safe food, boost the economy and create jobs, which is what we need most in South Africa. Wildlife creates Tourism opportunities: jobs creation and revenue. Look what the Chinese have done to the world by eating bats!! Do not disturb nature, we need Nature to function properly so we as humans can survive!	Marena
	2020-04-30 07:43:46	Gauteng		No I do not	It is absolutely not a sustainable resource. The regulations around the humane killing, seasonality and overkilling will not be enforced and therefore a flawed system in the making. Thecruelty that is associated with snaring is atrocious.	Elise
	2020-04-30 07:30:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Biodiversity is one of South Africa's biggest assets. No endangered animal should be considered. An abundant economy can easily be created with less reliance on meat and this will likely lead to more international visitors.	Callen

	2020-04-29 21:03:57	Gauteng		No I do not	This is totally non sensical, the current list is already extensive and there is no neec nor rational basis to extend to other wild and endangered species. 	2020-04-29 17:06:56	Gauteng		No I do not	1) South Africa should NEVER legalize the killing of ENDANGERED SPECIES, such as rhino, roan antelope, or Cape Mountain Zebra, which are special parts of our rich, indigenous, biodiversity heritage, all of which we should conserve strictly, as the basis of a valuable ecotourism industry. 2) We should also not legalize the killing of the many wild animals, on this draft list, WHICH DO NOT OCCUR NATURALLY IN SA, but are indigenous to other parts of Africa (Botswana, Namibia, Zimbabwe and various Central African countries). 	2020-04-29 15:39:29	Gauteng		No I do not	I believe the people who made up this list have not given reasonable thought to their choices. The domesticated animals that we eat have been tested and known to be the best protein that humans can eat. What makes you add wild animals to the list. Surely this will open up murder of our wild life. Just when we are desperately wanting to teach conservation and appreciation of our heritage in South Africa, you want to introduce the unthinkable. What about cover 19? We have enough problems in South Africa without introducing more. Please think again.	Glyn

	2020-04-29 15:06:07	Gauteng		No I do not	It is unfortunate that people are so short sighted. Today this tomorrow that and next week free reign for all. Africa is known for its wildlife, are we hell bent on messing up our future tourism. At this rate there will be nothing left for the citizens to enjoy and be proud of (heritage) let alone promote this country as a go to destination. The abundance of wildlife documentaries that leaves us feeling fuzzy that we can gloat we have so many of the species that now politicians who know nothing are hell bent on destroying. Sies shame on them! If the animal is sick and has to be put down let our rangers do that and use the meat to make feed for other animals.	Maria
	2020-04-29 14:56:47	Gauteng		No I do not	We first need to look within our Borders! We have sufficient farms to provide meat to the Meat consumers! 	2020-04-29 13:11:43	Gauteng		No I do not	The only meat allowed for slaughter should be that of domestic animals for commercial purposes only. This government at this time does not inspect our commercial abattoirs on a regular basis anyway so how on earth will they inspect places of slaughter if general wildlife is added to this category. Animals for human consumption need to be monitored regularly according to strict veterinarian procedures in order to prevent the transfer of animal diseases to humans. This government has unreservedly proven that it does not recognise the minimum standards and 25 years of mismanagement only proves this fact.	Charles

How do you expect tourism to survive if you kill off the very animals that people have travelled to see? If animal populations grow, culling to be done under strict conditions, heavy penalties apply for those who disregard the law. Leave an animal kingdom and future for our children and their children. 	2020-04-29 11:00:58	Gauteng		No I do not	If you do this the there will be no wild life left in South-Africa and you will only be able to see these beautiful animals in pictures. You must protect the wild life.	Trudie
	2020-04-29 10:56:20	Gauteng		No I do not	No wildlife meat should be included in any manner or form. Due to risks associated with cross contamination of zoological viruses present in meat and the like, let's not include any.	Tamaryn

	2020-04-29 10:34:41	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree that our wildlife heritage should be decimated to facilitate financial gain for a corrupt government . Once again this is the thin edge of the wedge, changing the law makes it legal.	Allan
	2020-04-29 10:34:09	Gauteng		No I do not	This whole global pandemic and resulting lockdown has illustrated our need to live in harmony with the beautiful wildlife that we have in South Africa. It is horrible to think that these animals - our South African pride will be grossly devalued by this act. This in turn will devalue our country's tourism industry. The livestock that currently appears in this act is already sufficient. Extending it to exotic and wildlife animals will abolish our African pride.	Adrian

	2020-04-29 09:55:54	Gauteng		No I do not	There is more than enough Meat on the markte as is. There is no need to create another source of income for government.	Dirk
	2020-04-29 09:41:09	Gauteng		No I do not	We have enough domestic animals to provide food for the country. The wild animals bring in tourists and hunters where these animals are hunted in a controlled environment. The fact that rhinos and elephants are included, meat that is not normally eaten, says this is only to make money out of the horns and teeth. We have to ensure that the wild animals will still be there for our children to enjoy in the wild, their natural habitat. All this is, it is a scheme to enrich a few individuals who does not care about preservation of nature and its inhabitants.	Corrie
	2020-04-29 09:39:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Passing this act will show that we have learned nothing about protecting our environment and what has been entrusted to us. We have tried so hard to protect our wildlife - this will undue many years of good work. I just don't understand this mindset. Please protect our animals and do not proceed with this act - we need our wildlife	Brenda

	2020-04-29 09:07:18	Gauteng		No I do not	There are reasons why some of these animals are on the list of endangered species. Their existence contributes - directly or indirectly - to the balance in our diverse ecosystems. Farm to eat, NOT EAT what is left!	Joachim

Please leave these wild animals alone they were NEVER created to be used, exploited tortured , skinned alive and be eaten by humans. We have more than enough animals been slaughtered every single day for human consumption. I can't even begin to get my head around this draft knowingly how the coronavirus started. Is South Africa going take China example of the wet market. It's barbaric. What more needs to happen for people to learn. Please leave these animals alone. They been through enough	Tresa

	2020-04-28 19:42:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Once the country starts to extend the list, the endangered species will be overlooked and the business will be impossible to monitor and control. Do we not care about our wild life?	Jane
	2020-04-28 19:40:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Please do not let slaughter houses kill our endangered species. We have such lovely animals in our reserves and these species need to be preserved for future generations. Wild animals were sold in a market in Wuhan and now we have Covid-19 and people are dying. Wild animals can transfer deadly viruses and similar uncontrollable events could happen if we let our wild animals be killed.	Brigitta
	2020-04-28 19:27:55	Gauteng		No I do not	We simply cannot become more and more steeped in the mindset of using and abusing animals for profit. There is NO justification for this. We can and should conserve our natural wildlife in creative ways, we can and should supply nutritional protein for human consumption in creative ways, we can and should strive to be more respectful of all beings. Not view them as disposable, dispensable commodities for our gain.	Louise

	2020-04-28 19:11:25	Gauteng		No I do not	We are spending millions on protecting rhinos and elephants from poachers. The SA Government will become the laughing stock of the world should they allow our wildlife to be slaughtered and sold. Doesn't the current pandemic not teach us that consuming all kinds of animals lead to death and ruin of humans, the environment and earth as a whole. All kinds of deseases will be the result of this. Thurdly, our country makes millions in tourism because we have the Big Five. Slaughtering wildlife will bring in money for a short period but in the long run it will destroy the tourism industry. No government will ever assist SA again in combating or helping with any wildlife related issues SA might have. If we don't care about our wildlife, why should they. This is also against the CITES agreement, which SA, is a signatory of.	Henriette

	2020-04-28 18:56:15	Gauteng		No I do not	This does not make sense. There is no truth in it that wild animals like buck and sheep ect give Covid-19. Yes there might be truth in things the Chinese are eating, but if you want to eat a blue buttle fish full of poision then you will die.	Mannie
	2020-04-28 18:39:23	Gauteng		No I do not	It’s ridiculous to extend eating the meat of wild animals when we’ve just seen what’s happened with the corona virus. 	2020-04-28 17:08:15	Gauteng		No I do not	All endangered species MUST be removed from the list as a start. I believe there are enough domesticated and wild animals that can be slaughtered and consumed without adding endangered animals to the list. This is setting a dangerous precedent and poses extreme risk to our endangered species.	Zenzele
	2020-04-28 17:07:03	Gauteng		No I do not	I think we should be protecting animals and what happened in China should be a lesson to us.	Michelle

	2020-04-28 17:00:32	Gauteng		No I do not	It makes no sense to broaden the list of wild animals to be slaughtered for two reasons. Firstly, the world is already suffering the consequences of human greed with the Corona Virus that crossed from wild animals to humans and secondly we should be protecting South African wild life, particularly endangered species, at all costs.	JIll

	2020-04-28 16:28:03	Gauteng		No I do not	Who are these people making these lists?? Since when is a kangaroo a domestic animal and I have yet to see one in the wild in SA. Really - with these lists one hardly needs lists, as pretty much all the animals are listed here. DO NOT PASS THIS LEGISLATION - it is barbaric to say the least and (Ms) T. Didiza, Minister of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development you should be ashamed of yourself for even suggesting many of these animals.	ELIZABETH

	2020-04-28 16:20:00	Gauteng		No I do not	In view of the origins of Covid-19 in bats and then passing through to the wet markets in China the expansion of the list to include non farmed animals will just fuel the trade in bush meat and expand the opportunity to future outbreaks on viral pandemics. What we should be doing is actually controlling the supply of meats into the market and restricting the list of wild animals rather than broadening this to include many endangered species such as Giraffes, Rhinos and the lesser known antelope species.	Jacqui

	2020-04-28 15:34:51	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is about time these ministers go for some training/learning about our animal/bird and fish species. If they start slaughtering at will there will be no nothing left. There is so much enjoyment seeing these animals and birds, why now kill them off, for those at the top to have their back pockets filled! GREED, THAT IS WHAT IT IS ALL ABOUT! I cannot believe that these incompetent, uneducated people have ministerial positions. These minsters are greedy and do not care a hoot about anything but their pockets. Stop feeding the Chinese their weird tastes. Leave our animals, birds and fish alone, they belong here for us to see and enjoy, not for feeding on or exporting. We have enough meat here without going to that extent!	JO
	2020-04-28 15:33:44	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that anyone can consider allowing the consumption of endangered rhinos. a As has been seen with the consumption of peculiar animals and birds by the Chinese and the resulting corona virus entering into humans i cannot understand why the goivernment woulkd even consider allowing this extention of animal species being consumed! Do we not have enough cattle, sheep and chickens?	Lynn
	2020-04-28 15:33:19	Gauteng		No I do not	We correctly spend time, effort and money to protect our precious wildlife, and this will simply open the door! MADNESS!	Charles
	2020-04-28 15:30:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I propose that the following people need to make a holistic and meaningful input in the formulation of the legislation: Relevant Communities, Wild Life Farmers, Tourism, Conservationists, Scientist, Nutritionist, Heritage Foundation, World Wild Life, and related specialist. These inputs, I believe will be made without emotional prejudice and sentimental convictions.	AC
	2020-04-28 15:30:39	Gauteng		No I do not	It is of cardinal importance that our animals, especially those that are endangered, do not form part of this list. Many of these animals are only found in Africa and South Africa is one of the last havens for them. By making them part of the Meat Safety Act we will be selling away something that makes us unique and that brings tourists from all over the world to South Africa. Please do not include them in the extended list.	Talita
	2020-04-28 15:28:56	Gauteng		No I do not	Please don't do this. We are the custodians of these beautiful animals. Animals who made their homes in our beautiful country way back. Our job is to protect them and preserve them so that our children and their children and grandchildren will have a beautiful heritage. These animals have a right to live out their lives as nature intended. Please, please do not send them to the slaughterhouse. I implore you on their behalf. Please save them their lives are in your hands do the right thing.?	Lesley Ann
	2020-04-28 15:27:55	Gauteng		No I do not	All this will do is lead to more slaughter off our already endangered and dwindling wildlife. Why on earth would any person in their right mind wish to approve something like this . It will also lead to more suffering of animals. I say NO	Jeanine
	2020-04-28 15:24:08	Gauteng		No I do not	We will push our wild stocks to extinction if we continue to eat and or sell them.	Selvyn
	2020-04-28 15:15:39	Gauteng		No I do not	No. Our wildlife needs to be protected and is not for consumption. Its unique to our country and the whole of Africa and should stay that way.	Gisela
	2020-04-28 15:10:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Where is the login in putting endangered species on this list? We need to conserver these natural resources, not squander them.	Terry

	2020-04-28 15:04:33	Gauteng		No I do not	I’m completely apposed to extending the list...with the current Covid 19 pandemic crippling the world ...have we not learned that we need to treat animals with more respect??	Liliana
	2020-04-28 15:03:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we now becoming the 'wet market' for overseas / Eastern demands for 'exotic' meats??? How disgusting that we even consider such a thing. The nations, that have an 'appetite' for wildlife - instead of illegally smuggling it out of our country - they want to do it in 'plain site', with our consent??? Maybe it is done, so that they are not 'pointed at' - in the future for 'releasing' the next deadly virus - instead it will be done in our own 'back yard' and we will have to bear the consequences. Sick!	Nicola
	2020-04-28 15:01:35	Gauteng		No I do not	stick to the slaughter of animals as intended i. e. beef sheep chickens and perhaps goats and rabbits we sit with covid 19 as a result of wild live animal markets transferring deseases to humans. will we never learn	Ronald

	2020-04-28 14:53:39	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with an amendment to the Meat Safety Act, any person should know that it is dangerous to consume wild animals as we now have Covid 19, thanks to the Chinese.	Shirley

	2020-04-28 14:44:36	Gauteng		No I do not	I feel we should protect all endangered species fiercely. We do not have enough animals to support export of these in large quantities. Even those that are in abundance should not be exported as they too can become endangered through this process.	Sonja
	2020-04-28 14:43:26	Gauteng		No I do not	I STRONGLY OPPOSE THE DRAFT AMENDMENT! OUR WILDLIFE SHOULD BE PROTECTED, ESPECIALLY ENDANGERED SPECIES. THIS CANNOT BE SUPPORTED. THERE ARE NO, I REPEAT, NO RATIONAL THINKING BEHIND THIS. Wild life that is not breed for hunting or meat production must be left alone in the wild. This is exactly what will lead to the extinction of Rhino, lion, hyena, wild dog and all other wild life listed. LEAVE OUR WILDLIFE ALONE. DONT YOU DARE GIVE LICENCE TO DESTROY THE WILDLIFE... GO kill chickens and goats and cows and sheep....	Kevin
	2020-04-28 14:39:27	Gauteng		No I do not		Vanessa
	2020-04-28 14:37:10	Gauteng		No I do not	I find this the most ridiculous list of animals in the proposed amendments. Clearly Ms T Didiza has no sense of reality. She appears not to be able to understand the experts as far as wild animals are concerned and the possible diseases from eating wild life. I think if this uneducated, completely silly and dangerous amendment goes through and we have survived Covid-19 which many will, we will be at risk of further diseases and that may well result in the suing of the Department of Agriculture, Land Reform and Rural Development and Ms Didiza in her personal capacity for allowing a further outbreak of diseases which the experts clearly show is related to eating wild life. Wild Life should only be viewed from a distance.	Linda

	2020-04-28 14:23:20	Gauteng		No I do not	I simply cannot understand why threatened species like rhino should be on this list. This is absurd and directly contradicts all the efforts that are being made to prevent poaching.	Walda

	2020-04-28 14:15:22	Gauteng		No I do not	We do have sufficient farm animals bread for meat consumption. These are Beef, mutton and chicken. We do not need to extend these to other animals. We do have to protect our wild life as to conserve our ecosystem which is very badly distroyed . It is gtime to preserve both our fauna and flora for our future generations of humans. Thasnk you	anguth

	2020-04-28 14:11:21	Gauteng		No I do not	They are NOT thinking straight about the protection of our Wildlife resources. They are thinking of a way to fill their pockets with the sale of our indigenous Wildlife and not about the well-being of our resources that could and should support Tourism Trade in the relevant areas of our Country where these Beautiful animals are situated.	Frank
	2020-04-28 14:05:11	Gauteng		No I do not	We won't have any animals left in this country for tourism or for our children. Government purely thinking of a quick buck and themselves to the detriment of the ecosystem and the welfare of the animals. This is completely ignored in this country.	Lorna

	2020-04-28 14:03:15	Gauteng		No I do not	The amendment weakens the controls and so also the prevention capacity of the Meat Safety Act as it relates the protection of indigenous wild life species.	Steve

	2020-04-28 14:00:33	Gauteng		No I do not	I am not an animal lover, nor a conservationist, but it is very clear to me that this is another way that our so called leaders are using there power to destroy our country. Just in case Ms T. Didiza is unaware, our animals are an integral/essential part of our ecology. Besides that, why would you want to be making a major decision like this during the COVID-19 Pandemic? Come let's start thinking about conserving rather than destroying!!!	Brian
	2020-04-28 13:50:59	Gauteng		No I do not	With all the problems regarding exotic meat consumption how dare you try pass this now!!!	Louise

	2020-04-28 13:49:22	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not think that this list was even read, animals that are not even found in South Africa are listed herein. Was this list supported by the South African wild life society It is all about money - money - money. Leave the bill as it is . WE are killing our nature resources as it is why ADD AND CHANGE.	Johan
	2020-04-28 13:48:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife and many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe, birds, reptiles, fish and more are already under thread and more so the animals on the brink of extinction. We can't allow the free trade of our wildlife at all and should protect them with all resources possible.	Ben
	2020-04-28 13:46:21	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not see the need for this amendment. Surely there are other ways to ensure animals that are culled or hunted could be made available as a source of food if suitable for human consumption? Why now open the door for all sorts of practices that may result in the indiscriminate slaughtering of wildlife?	Geoff
	2020-04-28 13:45:02	Gauteng		No I do not	I agree with another person's comments... could not have said it better!! Copied & pasted! Not Rhino, Elephant, Giraffe, Hippopotamus, and any other Wild Life on the list. Only if culling is necessary due to overpopulation, and under strict conditions and monitored by Registered Conservation Officers!!! We are NOT Chinese dammit!	Cornelia W
	2020-04-28 13:35:17	Gauteng		No I do not	I find it inconceivable that we need to slaughter these animals. By all means use cattle/sheep/pigs and wild animals hunted with correct licences in place,but our ELEPHANTS/ SPRINGBUCK..... NO,NO,NO!!!!!	Yvonne

	2020-04-28 13:33:52	Gauteng		No I do not	Let animals serve the economy best by inviting tourism to our national parks. There is no reason why animals intended as food need to be tortured by being shipped alive. Animals are alive and deserve to be treated with respect; people already destroy their habitats and meddle enough.	Delia
	2020-04-28 13:32:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Please stop raping this country. Have you not seen the damage that you have already done. Conservation is our only salvation!	Catherine

	2020-04-28 13:30:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Some species are already in trouble with regards to numbers getting less and less. I don't know why people want to kill and eat all the types of animals. It's disgusting	Ninette
	2020-04-28 13:30:21	Gauteng		No I do not	We are in a recession and were even before Covid-19. Once this war is over, we might get tourism going again, a multi-million industry. What will be left for tourist to see... or is this new proposed law for export purposes?	Althea

	2020-04-28 13:18:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Any inclusion of an endangered species is not acceptable. However i some controlled circumstances where the as clear evidence of over population that in itself threatens an ecosystem then there ought to be acceptable mechanisms to control over population.	John
	2020-04-28 13:18:26	Gauteng		No I do not	There are animals on this list that I dont even know. As humans are we going to consume all animals & the environment? Aren't the meats on the old list enough? People need to learn to be content & stop trying to eat everything. As people we have dominion over the environment not power to destroy it but to nurture & look after it so that it continues to provide for us. Covid-19 broke in the meat market in Wuhan. Isnt that warning enough?	Zaza

	2020-04-28 13:13:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Didiza YOU are giving away our heritage. There's not any reason good enough to warrant this action. Our country struggles enough without unqualified people in a position of power and with insufficient knowledge making dreadful devastating decisions. STOP THIS NOW!!!!!!!!!!	Debbie
	2020-04-28 13:12:33	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absolutely ludicrous. South Africa is known for its amazing animals. Why in heavens name would it be acceptable to kill them for human consumption. This could severely impact on Tourism. What is left to be seen if we diminish our wildlife. Why would any human being want to destroy our planet this way?????	Dee
	2020-04-28 13:09:14	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support this amendment, I think it's highly irresponsible Although I am sure the intension behind this amendment means well, By doing this we also Jeopardise our tourism industries as well as these creatures very existence.	Gavin

	2020-04-28 13:07:27	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that we need to sell wildlife, especially endangered animals, for the purpose of feeding people. They should be left in the wild where they belong. We are also learning a serious lesson about eating wildlife which can carry awful diseases. Furthermore, the world is being encouraged to move away from eating meat.	Bronwyn
	2020-04-28 13:06:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Just leave wildlife alone!!! Wildlife bring in tourism = money into SA. Why eat and export wildlife? How much money will you get for that as opposed to tourism that can provide sustainable income over a much longer term?	Irene

	2020-04-28 12:59:32	Gauteng		No I do not	I find that the Custodians of our Heritage in the Form of Wildlife and Wilderness are losing the plot as far as Conservation of Wilderness and Wildlife within. They are idiots that were born from the earth and Nurtured by the Earth on which they live and now they think they can control what they do to our Mother Earth. Why not just go home and eat tour own Mothers? These people are fools because this decision is only for their own gains and to feed their Greed. (One of the 7 deadly sins)	Donald
	2020-04-28 12:57:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely NOT! This is Disgraceful!! Already, our endangered animals have been poached to extinction to satisfy the barbaric markets in Asia - our government has turned a complete blind eye to this! Our animals are some of the most Majestic Animals in the Animal Kingdom -Caged lions are hunted...Elephants and Giraffes, Leopards....hunted - this is Disgraceful and Unforgivable! it makes me utterly ashamed of humans. The live transporting of animals is cruel beyond measure - We absolutely Oppose this amendment - we Protect our animals and Support Animal Rights!	Helen
	2020-04-28 12:54:51	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with this law. There is enough other meat we can eat, which doesn't include our wild animals. And these animals are all playing a very important role in our ECO system	Chantal
	2020-04-28 12:47:46	Gauteng		No I do not		Linda
	2020-04-28 12:47:31	Gauteng		No I do not	What more motivation do you need than COVID-19 to stop eating and exporting of wild animals?	Esme
	2020-04-28 12:44:40	Gauteng		No I do not		Don
	2020-04-28 12:43:57	Gauteng		No I do not	Why is this list being amended, for who is it being amended? Is this to satisfy the Chinese population in SA or is there a darker reason behind this amendment? There is a reason why certain animals should not be eaten, see coronavirus. The old list although I don't agree with some of the species listed, should remain as is. SO JUST NO!!	Samantha
	2020-04-28 12:42:47	Gauteng		No I do not	The rationale for this amendment is no stated in the draft amendment. The list that has been produced is hopelessly inadequate from a scientific viewpoint since there are overlaps and ambiguities in what is proposed. There is no distinction beween indigenous and introduced species since the treatment of these two categories of animals should be entriely different. Finally the two general provisions at the end of the amendment represent hopelessly inadequate legal formulations. The paragraph including all species of certain groups of animals is far too broad and also overlaps with the specified list. This could lead to significant loss of biodiversity and is entirely irresponsible. The second paragraph which contains the caveat that if the species listed/included are on the endangered species list then the provisions of legislation that applies in that case would have to be followed. Why has no attempted been made to harmonize the two pieces of legislation in order to remove any ambiguities?	Robin
	2020-04-28 12:40:46	Gauteng		No I do not	Not for endangered species these are wild animals which should be free, I will not buy endangered species meat what so ever!!	Lorna

	2020-04-28 12:30:13	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a deplorable suggestion and I object strongly!! What manner of species has the human race become. South Africa has for centuries, only killed meat for need. We would horrify our t our international tourists as well!	Margaret
	2020-04-28 12:29:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Unacceptable to eat animals on the endangered species list, really guys!!!	Liz

	2020-04-28 12:21:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Stop this now! Stop wanting more and more! Where will all of this end? We as human race are NOT superior to other species! We SHARE this planet with many others! Many species have gone extinct due to the impact we as humans had! Many species are facing extinction as a direct cause of human activity! This draft amendment will just contribute to this massive problem. This is terribly sad. All Lives matter. Don't you agree?	Lewis
	2020-04-28 12:19:35	Gauteng		No I do not	This new amendment will devastate the endangered animals. adding endangered species to the list will not improve food security.	Caroline
	2020-04-28 12:17:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Here we go again with another "daft" Draft by Officials who have no concept of the far reaching consequences for SA.	Greg

	2020-04-28 12:10:55	Gauteng		No I do not	This is wrong on every level. With the destruction of our economy, tourism will play a huge part in bringing in international finance. This will have a direct impact on tourism and will encourage poaching to another level. This has to be stopped immediately.	Jenny

	2020-04-28 11:57:19	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree particularly for animals which are endangered. We already have so many problems with poaching.	Ulrike
	2020-04-28 11:50:29	Gauteng		No I do not	The document seems not thought through with all the animals listed - some, I believe, is net even from SA? The old list seems more relevant to what is needed.	Bennie
	2020-04-28 11:50:25	Gauteng		No I do not	There are many endangered animals on the list and many small animals that seem to be crown game. I suggest that the list they make includes the animals reproductive schedule, limits on stock to ensure sustainability and the complete ban on any medium to highly endangered animals. There is a virus taking over the world originating from game. Stop promoting access to remote wild areas where game can legally be hunted and ban it. Leave some parts of nature untouched and natural. Perhaps use common sense and rather focus meat supply on controlled traditional farm stock. Lead by example and ban trade of game. List of health benefits next to stock list might also not be a bad idea as to scientifically prove to some countries such as China that you dont trade certain game as they have no proven medicinal benefits and you do not encourage its consumption. LEAD BY EXAMPLE AND SET THE STANDARD FOR THE WORLD.	Judy

	2020-04-28 11:48:54	Gauteng		No I do not	We have been trying to save the rhinos by not killing them, and try to reduce poaching... so No i still want my children to see a rhino and elephants. So no I not approve!!!	Rozaan
	2020-04-28 11:47:34	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals should not be slaughtered unnecessarily. They need to be conserved to preserve nature and ecosystems, without which there will be no world left for humans to inhabit. This is not the time for ridiculous amendments that don't help.	Rene
	2020-04-28 11:44:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Come on! Rhino's, giraffes? Not to mention animals that are not indigenous to South Africa? Who on earth drafted this? Why not add bats, pangolins and snakes? Please let this be a joke.	Maggie

	2020-04-28 11:44:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Please do not add unreasonable extras to this list! We cannot let any more species slip away through corruption!	Sharon
	2020-04-28 11:43:45	Gauteng		No I do not	It appears that the Minister and the Department have no regard to the conservation of wildlife. Have they not taken note of the fact that COVID 19 originated in a wet market selling wildlife in Wuhan? Have they not taken into consideration that even a country such as China, who is the most unscrupulous consumers and exploiters of wildlife, is banning the farming and consumption of wildlife? I strongly object to the contents of the Bill.	Theo

	2020-04-28 11:22:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals are not ours to abuse and murder. We has millions of alternative food resources at our finger tips without causing suffering of sentient beings. It is barbaric and needs to stop.	Cj
	2020-04-28 11:19:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is our heritage and should not be killed for consumption purposes. We have many animals on the endangered list and they should be protected. There is already a problem with canned hunting which creates a cruel unnatural environment for many majestic species. Have we not learned anything from the deadly spread of the corona virus which has its origins from the eating of wild creatures. Leave the wild ones where they belong - in nature	Phil
	2020-04-28 11:17:47	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly don't agree with this draft amendment to the Meat Safety Act because it will have a drastic and severe impact on all our animals ESPECIALLY endangered animals!	Querida

	2020-04-28 11:14:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered animals and wildlife should not be slaughtered for the enjoyment of humans. These species need to be protected from going extinct and allowing them to be consumed will only cause them to become extinct sooner.	Gerrie
	2020-04-28 11:12:25	Gauteng		No I do not	The current spread of the corona virus should be a wakeup call that wildlife should not be exploited or eaten by humans. The trade in endangered wild life must stop and increasing the list is not doing anything to send the correct message to the world.	Daryl

	2020-04-28 11:11:04	Gauteng		No I do not	I just do not believe this with everything that is going on regarding the COVID 19 and petitions to BAN EXPORTS / PROTECT WILD LIFE / PROTECT OUR ENVIRONMENT and the list goes on and on ??? This is an ABSOLUTE ABOMINATION and I most strongly object in its entirety. NO NO NO It makes a mockery of its so called name of Meat SAFETY Act UNBELIEVABLE !!!!	TRISH

	2020-04-28 11:07:50	Gauteng		No I do not	Why are we moving in this direction of selling endangered animal species it makes no sense. Who is benifitting from this the blackmarkets and illegal trades. It's a hard No from me.	Matthew

	2020-04-28 11:03:47	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a SICK, SICK, SICK ammendment designed to further rape our natural resources - resources that we should be protecting! Passing this bill will put us in line with the sickos in China who caused the spread of the COVID-19 virus.	Nikky
	2020-04-28 11:03:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with hunting or culling of wild animals, if there are too many in an area then move them to a safe area not over populated such as elephants, I don't for one moment think any area has too many rhino, black or white so should be protected.	Liz
	2020-04-28 11:03:39	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with hunting or culling of wild animals, if there are too many in an area then move them to a safe area not over populated such as elephants, I don't for one moment think any area has too many rhino, black or white so should be protected.	Liz

	2020-04-28 10:52:00	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support any slaughter of animals on the endangered list for any reason. We need to learn to conserve our heritage for those that are alive long after we are gone. There are many other animals that can provide us with a sourse of external (international) income. Both in domestic and wild animals.	Dario

	2020-04-28 10:50:55	Gauteng		No I do not		eunice
	2020-04-28 10:49:55	Gauteng		No I do not	This is ludicrous and should not be passed. Our heritage is our land and it's people, fauna and flora. The endangered species listed for consumption goes against many international restrictions and defies logic. All the work that is, and has been, done by conservationists over the last 40years will be completely undone and undermined just for monetary gain for a few and advantage of the usual suspects. STOP GIVING CHINA OUR RESOURCES ON A SILVER PLATTER!	Guia
	2020-04-28 10:49:10	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with the proposal to extend the list classifying animals for slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale as the proposal is to add many threatened species and do not consider extending the list necessary as we already have more than enough animals on the list. Please do not go ahead with your proposal, which I oppose in the strongest form.	Clifford
	2020-04-28 10:48:04	Gauteng		No I do not	Why must we change or add the other animals as if it is in China. Who want to buy the crocodile meat on a butchery. No need of the change.	Mbuyiselo

	2020-04-28 10:33:30	Gauteng		No I do not	Our natural resources must be protected and are not to be exploited as seen fit by those in power. Canned big cat hunting, elephant hunting and rhino hunting are pushing these species to the brink of extinction not to mention animals like pangolin due to illegal poaching and export. With an increase in allowed activities the current illegal activities that are already not being policed due to our government's screwed idea of conservation and profiteering will reach exponential levels. The annihilation of our natural resources living or not has become the focus of our government purely for profit and this Act will be just another tool to do so. I trust that in 30 years time they will again have the required excuses ready.	Michelle
	2020-04-28 10:31:01	Gauteng		No I do not	Game hunting in SA is a big industry providing a massif income and work for thousands of people. 	2020-04-28 10:25:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Our beautiful country with its amazing wildlife is our pride and bolsters our tourism industry. Slaughtering our wildlife is definitely detestable. Let's not support wet markets like Wuhan, or become it. The Chinese influence is too strong in South Africa and I fear it will become colonialist. Strange appetites and an obsession with aphrodisiac claims have already tragically wiped out too much of the world's wildlife. We share our world as a habitat with the animals, we have no right to massacre them in our greed. Keep South Africa beautiful and preserve our ethic of wildlife conservation. We are not China, save our wildlife.	Hina

	2020-04-28 10:24:14	Gauteng		No I do not	The list of additional animals is too broad - animals such as rhino have no place being slaughtered for food consumption - this would be open to abuse and could lead to even more poaching.	J
	2020-04-28 10:23:16	Gauteng		No I do not	Many animals on this list are not only national treasures but also impressive tourist attractions that should be protected. What is the logical reason for the expansion of this list, and further critically endangering these species through slaughter and consumption? What do South Africa and her people gain from such an amendment? With the current state of our nation and economy with the corona virus pandemic, the fact that we have to fight this draft amendment is absurd. We need to conserve and protect what is ours, not make ourselves even more vulnerable by depleting the incredible species many organisations - such as the Endangered Wildlife Trust - fight to conserve and that provide an undeniable tourist income for our country (which will resurge post pandemic). We also need to consider practicalities in terms of how quickly some of these animals can reproduce and their gestation periods - it is just not realistic to consider some of them as food sources.	Mikaila

	2020-04-28 10:22:35	Gauteng		No I do not	This is ludicrous...humans do not need to slaughter nor make money off endangered or near endangered animals. This proposed amendment goes to prove that man is the most destructive animal on earth, by approving this full list of species South Africa will be joining places like China whereby any/all animals will be eradicated. Has this fight against Covid not taught our government anything? ? Leave the wildlife alone by this amendment we humans will ensure that the balance of nature is eventually so disturbed that we could face more and outbreaks of unknown diseases.	Maria
	2020-04-28 10:21:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Because with every amendment that the @MYANC cabinet and caucus proposes the is a Nefarious reason behind. Either they want to enrich themselves directly or indirectly through their children or other non parliament corrupt caders.	Andrew

	2020-04-28 10:20:06	Gauteng		No I do not	Meat that is consumed should be kept as it has traditionally been, to traditional livestock. There is no need to eat animals are in small supply, it doesn't make any sense. There is so much poverty and unemployment, the cost of the food is important. Economic rules, supply vs demand. There has been a huge fight against hunting of our beautiful wildlife, this new bill would go against everything that has been achieved thus far and make South Africa look like a bunch of hypocrites.	Sean
	2020-04-28 10:18:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I am opposed to the bill for the following reasons: 1) The addition of species pose serious health implications for humans, given the transmission of interspecies microbes. When such microbes mutate, they pose an even greater threat to humanity. 2) Wildlife conservation and preservation should takev priority to ensure continued biodiversity. 3) The trade (legal and illegal) in wildlife products should be stopped, as this too, threatens biodiversity and is inhumane and barbaric. 4) The consumption of 'bush meat' should be classified as a crime by all countries across the globe. If corruption at the highest levels is rooted out, there can be follow-through of the above.	Mary

Our wildlife is being depleted at an alarming rate and now you want to sell their meat - for profit no doubt. Let the people who want to taste that type of meat go to China where animal welfare does not even feature on their agenda. The wildlife of South Africa (as well as many other things) is important to every person living here, it does NOT belong to the government! The wildlife is a heritage of all the people of this country, not just the elite. You have no mandate nor right to do this!	Martine

					I do not agree with this all. Just because you can, doesn't mean you should. We should appreciate and protect what is beautiful. There is no need to exploit more animals for the sake of power and money! In most cases, the animals we can eat at the moment are already being killed in inhumane ways and now you just want to add to that list. Animals were founded in a specific country because that is their habitat, a place where God put them to thrive and not all animals are to be eaten, it's even written in the bible. The cruelty of humans and global warming is already affecting animals in a very negative way, some to the point of extinction so why exploit them even further. "When all the tree's are cut down, when all the animals are dead, when all the waters are poisoned, when all the air is unsafe to breath... Only then will you realise you cannot eat money!" I'm sure most South Africans are happy eating what is already considered normal, whether it be pork, beef, chicken, lamb or game meat and the rest are vegans. What example are you setting for generations to come? You cannot play God to something you didn't create and take away what's beautiful for the sake of money. Have a back bone and stand up for your country, you already do enough damage as is for the benefit of other countries while you stand back and destroy ours. If you aren't going to stand for something, you will fall for anything! Be the change and start thinking about what's good for your country and her people who are dying from diseases, starvation and crime instead of focusing on something that doesn't need to be changed. Something like this will eventually create room for more "normal" ideas until we have no animals left. When cruelty is normalized the truth seems radical!

	2020-04-28 09:10:08	Gauteng		No I do not	As the country and industries are preparing themselves for post COVID-19, and special attention is being given to how to boost the tourism sector, I think it is really irresponsible to consider allowing endangered species such as rhino and giraffe (among others) to be exported for meat. They have far greater value as tourist attractions, especially as they are so rare. Additionally, caring for and protecting them in the long term will bring about far greater returns and opportunities for employment in our country. Secondly, the COVID-19 scare should make everyone reconsider eating wildlife. Please don't let SA be the next home to some viral pandemic.	Pippa

	2020-04-28 08:02:00	Gauteng		No I do not	The worl is dying and covid has proved that humans should respect animals instead of eat everything. A bat and a pangola is the cause of 1000's of people dying. Who knows if a porcupine for example doesn't carry another unknown virus/disease etc. Conserve animals and eat the ones proven to be functional and nutritious to eat, don't add any new animals to the list.	Nelria
	2020-04-28 08:01:15	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support the Minister's proposed amendment to the bill because we have concrete evidence that animals in the wild cannot be used for human consumption unless it is authorized by respective governments to sanction such drastic action. We must learn from this Covid- 19 pandemic. So I emphasize again not to support this amendment bill. Thank you.	Carrie

	2020-04-28 07:29:05	Gauteng		No I do not	This is another sence less amendment, legalizing crimes tbe government can not control, so it is no longer a crime, thus doesn't have to be controlled, its the same with dagga, prostitution and land reform. We have a responsibility to our children and their children to save these species. Please be responsible. Save our animal heritage!	Ona
	2020-04-28 07:26:24	Gauteng		No I do not	No I do not agree with the extended list. Any animals or birds or fish or reptiles that are on a threatened or endangered list should be removed. this should also be an interactive process and if an animal which is on the list becomes threatened, it should immediately be removed from the list. There should not be 'undefined' animals/birds/fish/ reptiles on the list. If the species is not expressly permitted on the list it should not be allowed. We should also consider not exporting live animals for slaughter overseas. And rather control the slaughter conditions in SA.	L

					... Emmarentia No I do not It does not seem that the latest additions to the Meat Safety Act, list of animals have been well considered. This list contains many animals that are already threatened with extinction or near extinction. It should also be noted that some of the animals listed have many subspecies and that each subspecies can have a different level of endangerment or have already gone extinct. Our wildlife is already being slaughtered ruthlessly for the bush meat trade and by poachers. I strongly feel that any animal listed as "endangered" should not be mentioned on this list. Things that should also be considered when placing animals on this list: • Animal gestation period. • How long it takes for each animal species to become adults. • How long it takes for each animal species to be able to breed. Includes reproductive age and can they reproduce frequently (high or low). • Licenses issued for hunting specific animals vs. the amount poached each year. Licenses should be revoked if poaching exceeds the amount of licenses issued. • Vegetation and fertile land available. • Consumption of certain animals can result in disease being transmitted from animals to humans. • I would say that if they are an invasive species and the country of origin does not want them to preserve bloodlines of the species then can we list them as applicable to the act. The preservation of fauna and flora is of fundamental importance for planetary (and human) survival. If there is one thing the Covid-19 lockdown has shown us it is that nature can survive without humans, but it is the human that cannot survive without nature. Humans are not on top of the food chain but we are a species who can be classified as caretakers of nature and should therefore act accordingly. This can be launched as a learning program to our people starting in primary schools throughout the world and should slot in with green peace. The nature programs should include the land reform for people who want to be part of the nature and nurturing programs. Not all our terrains of nature are good for farming but can be implemented as terrains for the nurturing of wild life in a school program for future cultivation of our wild animals that are endangered. There is some species that may not be raised next to each other because of some diseases that can be transmitted to the species that can be slaughtered for consumption. This way people will be sheltered from sickness that may be transmittable through consumption. There should be borders as far as possible between the species that can be slaughtered and those who may not be slaughtered. Mankind should be made aware of this in schools so that they can teach their children. This is also an opportunity to build schools that will steer a new generation of Greenpeace lovers with a purpose in life and to have a work to help their loved ones. Other Continents pouched their own land bare of their wildlife and try to do the same to Africa. Stop this madness and learn from their mistakes in the past. Let Africa be the leader to show the world to co-exist with wildlife on farms with procedures in place. If we do not look after our own who will? People must learn that if they want more money they should travel to the places where money is earned in bundles by other means. People can move around the animals cannot do so anymore because of poaching and certain agricultural developments. This will let tourism flourish again and bring a sense of normality back between mankind and the bush with wildlife. South Afrca has a beautiful heritage including wildlife which has been threatened by humans over the past century. We rely on tourism to support our economy and this requires us to maintain and care for our ecosystem not to treat it as a consumable resource! It is a delicate system that needs care and respect to thrive. We cannot allow our wildlife resources to be plundered for short-term financial gain. Do we really want to be known as the generation that left nothing for the generations to come?

	2020-04-28 07:18:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Including wild animals such as Rhino and Elephant should be banned. As a nation and as the human race we should be protecting our planet and our animals from cruelty and from extinction. If anything we should be implementing acts which make the killing of our sacred wild animals a criminal offense. Weigh the interested of the animals and our future planet against the implied gains made from slaughtering and selling and eating these animals. Surely the animals safety outweighs this. We need to be responsible and our wild animals must be conserved and respected. There are other ways for humans to make money and our wild animals should not be used as a means to this end. This must stop now.	Sasha
	2020-04-28 07:17:41	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely not! Have we learnt nothing? Can anyone spell SARS, MERS, COVID-19. Wildlife is not a commercial product, especially not endangered wildlife - look at the list and its clear whose plates these animals will land up on.	Boni

	2020-04-28 06:53:18	Gauteng		No I do not	The extended list of animals include endangered species which makes absolutely no sense at all! It is also not specific enough with regard to specified species of birds, fish and reptiles, which opens us up for the possiblility extreme corruption and abuse of the situation. How are we going to support the conservation of our rich and diverse animal population for future generations when we allow the slaughter, consumption and export of all species? Additionally - by allowing other animal species from across the world to be slaughtered and consumed we risk introducing pathogens and viruses into our ecosystem which by its very nature is fragile and should not be disturbed! The extended list of animals makes me feel that we are now becoming a barbaric society where anything goes and that we have no morals and ethics guiding us anymore. I'm very disappointed in the extended list of animals and know that should it go through as is we are facing a dark and uncertain future.	Elizabeth

	2020-04-28 04:20:21	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absolutely ridiculous and make no sense. On no account should we extend the list to include wildlife, period. This draft amendment left unchallenged, will affect generations to come. The Capitalist will keep stealing from us and our future generation if left unchallenged. Why on earth would we want to contribute to already challenging times, It is now that we need to preserve our humanity which include our collective responsibility to all life forms. Right now we are experiencing a pandemic that is and will change our life forever. China allowed "wet-markets" to exist with the world condemning such market. How are we going to fight this if we allow our own government to do as it pleases. Lets get things right and build a society inclusive of all living beings.	Akeida

	2020-04-27 21:50:43	Gauteng		No I do not	My main concern is HOW can you possibly want to add endangered species to the list of animals to be killed for meat. This is bizarre. Additionally, the world is holed-up fighting a pandemic caused by wild animal meat, losing thousands upon thousands of lives, losing billions of Rands, Dollars, Pounds and everything else, and you want to add some very dodgy animals as well as birds to the meat market? In what universe is that logical?	Angel

	2020-04-27 20:37:33	Gauteng		No I do not	This draft amendment should not be considered at all - the killing and exploitation of our wildlife should never be allowed for profit. These are wild animals not animals that should be bred for slaughter for other countries.	Angelique

	2020-04-27 20:34:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Thank you for the opportunity to have my humble opinion heard. Under normal circumstances we are a very proud nation and have come very far in our advancement of righting the wrongs of the past. However, this decision will, in my view,and will be a very embarrassing statement to the world of nothing more than shear greed and lack of respect for our heritage which we have been gifted from our ancestors. This amendment is Purely for the GREED of those wishing to exploit these beautiful creatures! It makes me SICK! Have we not destroyed this earth enough? Are we blind to the irreversible damage the human population is causing to the planet!?! I am shocked that such an amendment is even in question! THIS AMENDMENT IS SHAMEFUL ! As it is, in the present pandemic time, we know that the corona virus (covid 2) started with animals. The covid 1 with birds. How can you even contemplate changing the original list??? It would be total madness. Besides the health risk, how can you even consider killing endangered species and our BIG 5 animals? It's scandalous to even think this should be a possibility.	Dianne

	2020-04-27 18:27:46	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a list of animals that are referenced by another piece of legislation and I'm not sure what the legislation specifies. However, if the legislation states that the following animals can be indiscriminately slaughtered, then I am totally against this. I am actually surprised about some of the animals on the old list, such as Elephant. Are we not supposed to protect our wildlife, the indiscriminate slaughter of wildlife will lead to its extinction – PLEASE just look at mankind's history, we destroy our planet and we have directly lead to the extinction of countless species. Please do not add new wildlife to a list that could lead to its extinction and while you are about it you should probably look at removing some of the animals form the 'old' list.	Brian
	2020-04-27 18:24:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learned the lesson from the Covid-19 disaster created by the "wet markets" in China selling all kinds of wild animals for slaughter? There are domesticated animals available for slaughter.	Helena

	2020-04-27 18:11:30	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals which are not reared under controlled circumstances such as livestock, should ideally not be used for human consumption. The problem the world finds itself in today with the Covid-19 pandemic is attributable to consuming wild animals which carry diseases and are not subject to controls and checks. Is the state is able to guarantee the safety of the meat? If not, then it should not allow the uncontrolled import and especially export of such meat for consumption. There is also the issue of conservation where animals are endangered and where the trade in their meat may threaten their existence.	James

	2020-04-27 17:15:40	Gauteng		No I do not	I have been a non-meat eater for many years, a decision that is based on the following considerations: Whilst I understand and accept without judgement, that people need to eat and that possibly meat is the only source of protein, even of food, for many people, I feel that the fear that animals, who have an awareness beyond what humans can know, must experience at the hands of humans both in the wilds as well as in the raising of them in private undertakings, for their ultimate slaughter, to provide food for humans generally, is incredibly cruel and inhumane. Many are kept in over-crowded conditions, are fed a variety of hormones to speed up their growth etc. and are then taken, often in overcrowded conditions too, to places of slaughter. Their fear is, for me, awful to contemplate, as is the cruel treatment of any species, human or otherwise. That fear, (as well as the hormones, must surely be ingested by those who eat the meat and who knows what this causes in the human body and even psyche? Our current world situation, though unusual, is a case in point as we do battle with the Covid 19??!! In urban as well as in rural areas there is food that may be consumed by humans that is not meat. Even the San people, known as Hunter-Gatherers, were more predominantly herbivores than carnivores. I understand that in the current world there are issues of land availability, and this makes takes this discussion way beyond the scope of this submission. However, a predominantly herbivore way of life is still possible and available to humans who have this as a choice! In the wilds animals kill other animals, but, usually, ONLY when they need to eat. Species that are carnivores have no other sources of food supplies. I am horrified to see that animals, including the beautiful creatures, some that are on the endangered species list and need human protection, are now among those that may be exported for their meat under the sanction of our government.! Millions of rand are donated and spent annually on conserving our animals in the wild which has its own natural culling for herd numbers control to prevent overcrowding. Surely though in our world more humane answers to any problems that exist, could be found in consultation with experts in this field, to prevent the slaughter for their meat, of these beautiful creatures?? This , ultimately, can hardly be called "The SAFETY of Meat Act" and certainly not the safety of our animals!!! PLEASE think again!	Kim

	2020-04-27 17:03:31	Gauteng		No I do not	It does not seem that the latest additions to the Meat Safety Act, list of animals have been well considered. This list contains many animals that are already threatened with extinction or near extinction. It should also be noted that some of the animals listed have many subspecies and that each subspecies can have a different level of endangerment or have already gone extinct. Our wildlife is already being slaughtered ruthlessly for the bush meat trade and by poachers. I strongly feel that any animal listed as "endangered" should not be mentioned on this list. Things that should also be considered when placing animals on this list: • Animal gestation period. • How long it takes for each animal species to become adults. • How long it takes for each animal species to be able to breed. Includes reproductive age and can they reproduce frequently (high or low). • Licenses issued for hunting specific animals vs. the amount poached each year. Licenses should be revoked if poaching exceeds the amount of licenses issued. • Vegetation and fertile land available. • Consumption of certain animals can result in disease being transmitted from animals to humans. • I would say that if they are an invasive species and the country of origin does not want them to preserve bloodlines of the species then can we list them as applicable to the act. The preservation of fauna and flora is of fundamental importance for planetary (and human) survival. If there is one thing the Covid-19 lockdown has shown us it is that nature can survive without humans, but it is the human that cannot survive without nature. Humans are not on top of the food chain but we are a species who can be classified as caretakers of nature and should therefore act accordingly. This can be launched as a learning program to our people starting in primary schools throughout the world and should slot in with green peace. The nature programs should include the land reform for people who want to be part of the nature and nurturing programs. Not all our terrains of nature are good for farming but can be implemented as terrains for the nurturing of wild life in a school program for future cultivation of our wild animals that are endangered. There is some species that may not be raised next to each other because of some diseases that can be transmitted to the species that can be slaughtered for consumption. This way people will be sheltered from sickness that may be transmittable through consumption. There should be borders as far as possible between the species that can be slaughtered and those who may not be slaughtered. Mankind should be made aware of this in schools so that they can teach their children. This is also an opportunity to build schools that will steer a new generation of Greenpeace lovers with a purpose in life and to have a work to help their loved ones. Other Continents pouched their own land bare of their wildlife and try to do the same to Africa. Stop this madness and learn from their mistakes in the past. Let Africa be the leader to show the world to co-exist with wildlife on farms with procedures in place. If we do not look after our own who will? People must learn that if they want more money they should travel to the places where money is earned in bundles by other means. People can move around the animals cannot do so anymore because of poaching and certain agricultural developments. This will let tourism flourish again and bring a sense of normality back between mankind and the bush with wildlife. South Afrca has a beautiful heritage including wildlife which has been threatened by humans over the past century. We rely on tourism to support our economy and this requires us to maintain and care for our ecosystem not to treat it as a consumable resource! It is a delicate system that needs care and respect to thrive. We cannot allow our wildlife resources to be plundered for short-term financial gain. Do we really want to be known as the generation that left nothing for the generations to come? Emmarentia	Emmarentia

	2020-04-27 16:30:31	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa has always been a country that has taken pride in protecting our amazing wildlife and animals, especially threatened species. Therefore, I do not support the amendment to include endangered and threatened animals on the list for human consumption, export etc. We must continue to protect our natural heritage, wildlife and ecosystems, especially those creatures that are endangered and not let them fall prey to our human greed or gluttony.	Jana
	2020-04-27 16:25:05	Gauteng		No I do not	The Wild Life of this Country is one of the biggest attractions for overseas travelers which brings in much needed revenue. It should not be reduced to "just another food source" We have clearly seen what trading in wildlife as food has done for Wuhan China! All of these animals should be protected and seen for what they are, which is a treasure we have inherited to ensure they be preserved for future generations of our people and the people of the world. What thought has gone into this insane idea to want to pass an amendment that will be an open door to wipe out our priceless Heritage? If you are prepared to do this then I do not hold out much hope for the future of this Country! Cry the Beloved Country!	Ursula
	2020-04-27 15:54:55	Gauteng		No I do not	I am totally against this draft. It is absurd and horrendous to think one has to slaughter these animals other than goat, sheep, chicken and cow for consumption and export. This is total greediness.	AMEERA

The list is endless..Leave our animals alone. The white rhino,nearly extinct, black rhino close behind.. We should be the guardians of our wildlife as it brings in revenue for our country.A friend of my family who visited Kruger Park said that all he wanted to see was a rhinolll	Jean Ann
	2020-04-27 15:42:11	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Ms. T Didiza, What can a person say about this subject. It would take 10 days to write what is in my heart. South Africa is the most unique and beautiful land in the world. We have people and animals and birds and butterflies and lizards and fish here that are no where else on Earth. If you start killing animals like elephants, it is like killing a little bit of our soul. (Please read a book called "Leaving Time" . Can we not rather teach the population of the world to stop having so many children, then their would be enough ordinary cattle, sheep, pigs and chickens for everyone to eat. The politicians never want to talk about the overpopulation of the earth because they are frightened that they will lose votes. It is like having a beautiful cow that starts having ticks on it because it is not looked after, then the ticks keep multiplying, and they poison the cow more and more and then the cow gets covered with the ticks and gets sicker and sicker and eventually it will die - just like our beautiful earth is dying with too many people on it. So to me, to start trying to eat so many of our wild animals is not at all going to solve the world hunger problem. Because the people just keep multiplying and then very quickly they will have eaten and destroyed all of the wild animals as well and then there will be nothing but TRILLIONS of people and no food. I am sure it would make the Chinese very happy if we started selling and slaughtering our magnificent South African wild life to feed the BILLIONS of Chinese. Is it not better to teach the whole world to only have one or two children and then to save and be kind and loving to the wild animal kingdom of which South Africa and the world has so many precious species, and then let the tourists come and see our beautiful land that is prospering and happy because there would be fewer people and more food and beauty and prosperity. Love and Peace to ALL on Earth - with tears in my eyes.	Lynette

This is not the way for South Africa to behave and do business. This is absolutely disgusting and shameful and an embarassment for people of South Africa. We should 100% be preserving and protecting our animals and wildlife. What an appaling idea. This must definitely not be allowed under any circumstances. 	2020-04-27 14:57:32	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly, by slaughtering rhinos, is the aim in fact, to sell their horns. Why do we need to use these iconic animals , which are all special to our tourism industry, for meat. Do we not slaughter enough animals and birds already? Exotic meats such as the animals and birds which were not previously listed for consumption, are only eaten by a small number of people, so why change the rules now.....who stands to gain by this . Are we becoming a nation of bush meat eaters? This is an absolute disgrace.	Marilyn

					In shaping the draft policy the following questions need to be address from a South Africa perspective . 1. The list is not exhaustive, there are endangered species, which will harm the genetics of the breed and potentially result in their extinction. How were the animals on this list determined, what professional council was sought and who authorized this list? 2. What tourist industries were consulted - our country is renowned for our animal wildlife . Humans are supposed to be the superior beings - please provide insight into the human that proposed we extend this list to include endangered wildlife. What is the purpose of this? Why would a human wish to eat an endangered animal? 3. Who will benefit from this new policy? Please list the benefits and the substantiated reasons of the benefit? 4. What are the impacts and disadvantages? please provide evidence where these have been debated and considered by this and the next generation of South Africa. 5. What are we leaving to survive for our children and grandchildren? How are we ensuring our heritage of wild life. 6. People complain viciously about lock-down - now you may understand how the caged lions and tanked dolphins feel. 7. Animals - domestic, farmed and wild - carry disease. You have included the Hare on your list - have you actually seen the parasites and diseases these little creatures carry? This is why our township youngsters have the conditions they do - parasites in the brain. Do you wish to kill our next generation or cause them to be retarded or further disadvantaged because of your shortsightedness, greed and immediate lifestyle satisfaction. Please provide me with evidence that you are able to manage the disease situation ..... not like you were caught with your pants down under this Covid situation. 8. Do we allow this type of culture of eating anything that moves in our country. What are you doing to maintain our heritage and cultural manner. 9. what are the conditions under which these animals will be bred, raised, captured and slaughtered and transported - dead and alive. Please provide the evidence for this and justify with actual stats how this will be implemented and managed and how it is being done currently? 10. This is Africa what are you doing to ensure we do not slip into a state like other Africa countries - are we going to be different. Are South Africans able to be different or do we end up like the rest of Africa. Thank-you. I understand
	2020-04-27 13:46:47	Gauteng		No I do not	I fail to understand the intelligence of teh human thathis will wipe out these breeds and wildlife will no longer exist thus wiping out the Tourism industry. Haven't enough industries already been wiped out with the coronavirus.	Leonie

	2020-04-27 13:36:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Not only is this unbelievable so short after the extinction of the Northern Black Rhino, but it will kill a large part of our tourism. People come from all over the world to see and hunt our wildlife. Allow export of wild game will see a decline in that side of the tourism. Not even mentioning the fact the heavily endangered animals are on that list. It should be completely illegal to hunt animals like rhinos and elephants that are endangered. Even locally. There are even animals from other countries that are also endangered on this list. Why? Why do we want to repeat the dodo and eat these animals into extinction?	Cornel

	2020-04-27 13:27:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Find it inconceivable that we need to eat our wildlife. Why can we not rather attend to the population explosion and reduce the number of humans on earth.	Anita
	2020-04-27 13:24:39	Gauteng		No I do not	The extension of this list to include animals raised for meat as well as game animals is disturbing and will likely have a myriad of unintended consequences. Other African countries opened up their game parks to the wholesale slaughter of game due to food shortages caused by ill advised policies and corruption and in the process destroyed their tourism sectors. Its important that the genetics of South African game animals are kept uncontaminated. This legislation increases the risk of game being bred for slaughter with no consideration given to the genetics, a problem currently with the canned lion industry. If these genetically compromised animals escape and their weakened genetics are mixed with wild populations the risks of disease and pestilence to the wild populations goes up tremendously. All told this amendment is ill conceived, and was likely proposed for nefarious purposes which will in time no doubt be revealed. It should not be allowed.	Katherine

	2020-04-27 13:19:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Good day Dr M Molefe CORRECTION of email sent yesterday dated 26 April 2020 (I DO NOT SUPPORT) this draft amendment. I wish to speak out against the slaughtering and trading of our Wildlife, including dogs and cats as we can never imagine their fearful emotions and stresses of which they are having to endure through such repulsive conditions. In as much as we want to live without harm, so do these animals. They deserve that right!	Tina

	2020-04-27 13:14:12	Gauteng		No I do not	I whole heartedly condem the export of our Wildlife for this purpose. The first 2 reasons that immedialey jumped to mind was Poaching and Corona Covid-19. On the matter of poaching, I feel this will increase the risk of our endangered animals to be poached and sold. We should be protecting nature not destroy it for economical use. I do not even care if "breeding Farms" gets established to serve this purpose (as with Cows / pigs/ sheep) to assist with this. This was found to be the main cause of the spread of Covid-19. Research found that Covid-19 Originated form a food market where various "wildlife" was slaughterd and sold as a food souce for the masses. See video for details: (https://youtu.be/TPpoJGYlW54) - Both SARS and COVID-19 are in the "coronavirus" family, and both appear to have emerged from animals in China's notorious wildlife markets. Experts had long predicted that these markets, known to be potential sources of disease, would enable another outbreak. The markets, and the wildlife trade that supports them, are the underlying problem of these pandemics; until China solves that problem, more are likely to emerge.	John

	2020-04-27 13:05:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Trade in certain wild meat animals is mostly inhumane as the meat is dangerous as is seen in the curent COV-19 pandemic sources as well as the movement of wild animals is inhumane and against government policy / law	Tony
	2020-04-27 13:04:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wild animals have a right to live just like humans. There are times when culling is necessary and its done controlled by the authorities. Who in their right minds eat Rhino Elephant and giraffe. Are bats also on the list? This is just an excuse for poachers to have a license to kill for the horns. Is there any wild life remaining in the game reserves in Africa - very little if any.	Mary
	2020-04-27 13:03:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals don't have a voice so you'll never stop hearing mine! We will fight you to the end! I've come to realize that the majority of our Government don't know the word Empathy. Here is the meaning: Empathy is the capacity to understand or feel what another person is experiencing from within their frame of reference, that is, the capacity to place oneself in another's position. Stop killing all animals they do not belong to you! They belong to the Nation of animal lovers. This is an absolutely disgusting policy and I hope whoever thought of it ends up in HELL!!!!!!!!	Véronique

					It does not seem that the latest additions to the Meat Safety Act, list of animals have been well considered. This list contains many animals that are already threatened with extinction or near extinction. It should also be noted that some of the animals listed have many subspecies and that each subspecies can have a different level of endangerment or have already gone extinct. Our wildlife is already being slaughtered ruthlessly for the bush meat trade and by poachers. I strongly feel that any animal listed as "endangered" should not be mentioned on this list. Things that should also be considered when placing animals on this list: • Animal gestation period. • How long it takes for each animal species to become adults. • How long it takes for each animal species to be able to breed. Includes reproductive age and can the reproduce frequently (high or low). • Licenses issued for hunting specific animals vs. the amount poached each year. Licenses should be revoked if poaching exceeds the amount of licenses issued. • Vegetation and fertile land available. • Consumption of certain animals can result in disease being transmitted from animals to humans. • I would say that if they are an invasive species and the country of origin does not want them to preserve bloodlines of the species then can we list them as applicable to the act. The preservation of fauna and flora is of fundamental importance for planetary (and human) survival. If there is one thing the Covid-19 lockdown has shown us it is that nature can survive without humans, but it is the human that cannot survive without nature. Humans are not on top of the food chain but we are a species who can be classified as caretakers of nature and should therefore act accordingly.

	2020-04-27 13:00:29	Gauteng		No I do not	By including threatened and near-threatened species in the list of animals approved for slaughter etc you are creating widespread confusion. It is virtually impossible for the layman to decide which piece of legislation overrides the other. All threatened species , as well as everything listed in the CITES annexures (to which South Africa is a signatory) should be removed from the list. The wild animals should be listed separately and detailed by species name to avoid misunderstanding. This list should then be circulated for comment again. Example: The list says "pigeon" is "fair game". The Eastern Bronze-naped Pigeon is one of the rarest and most highly threatened birds in South Africa and it needs special protection. If the intention is to have only domesticated pigeons in the list, it should say so.	Leo
	2020-04-27 12:59:49	Gauteng		No I do not	I do NOT support the extended list that would include the slaughter, import or export of endangered species eg rhino, lion or other wild anumals or reptiles.	Les

	2020-04-27 12:52:35	Gauteng		No I do not	The animals are endangered and therefore need to be protected, not allowed to be slaughtered. Once opened, the ramifications will be very difficult or impossible to control. It has not been researched fully and for the long term future of conservation impact. It must not be allowed under any circumstances !	Elmarie
	2020-04-27 12:49:03	Gauteng		No I do not	I absolutely do not support the inclusion of any endangered species. We need to protect our wildlife, not include endangered species which will ultimately result in the decimation of many of those species. My opinion is that money has either passed hands, or is about to pass hands.	Noel

	2020-04-27 12:28:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we just this stupid? As we go through Covid-19 have we still not learnt anything. Moving to a plant based diet is the way for human species to ensure our existence and live as one with other life forms in this planet. Stop killing God's other creations for our own selfish reasons.	Thamari
	2020-04-27 12:27:45	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that Elephants, Rhinoceros and Giraffe, all endangered species are included in this list of creatures to be slaughtered, for sale or export, plus many other creatures. This country is battling to save the rhinos from being killed for their horns, which could become extinct in a short time. Elephants are also in danger and Giraffe have recently become endangered. Is the government mad or do they just not care? Apart from the ethics of it, tourism will be affected if these animals in particular disappear. This Meat Safety Act must NOT go though.	Patricia

	2020-04-27 12:26:15	Gauteng		No I do not	Does this government honestly want to completely destroy our rich South African Legacy as the last bastion for the protection of Wild Life on the planet? This is more than an outrage! These precious animals have been entrusted into our care to protect them, not eat them! Please dear God have mercy on us for suggesting such a thing! Please do NOT bring such a curse on the inhabitants of our beautiful land!	Maggie
	2020-04-27 12:25:43	Gauteng		No I do not	This policy has not been well thought out nor adequate research been done. We need to preserve our wildlife and not do what China does... Soon we won't have any wild animals left. Someone in government is just not thinking straight or has no appreciation for animals!! Makes me angry. Leave our horses, cats and dogs!!!!	Heike
	2020-07-15 21:53:57	Gauteng		No I do not	What for? Isn't that what get's people into trouble - eating things they shouldn't and spreading disease such as Ebola? We have endangered species that some people might think it is cool to eat. And yet the world is shouting about save our planet, etc. What does SAfrica intend to do? Help eradicate endangered species that the world seems to be so worried about? Rather focus on other tourist attractions.	L
	2020-07-15 21:03:02	Gauteng		No I do not	There are enough meat choices as is without including the proposed new animals. It is quite unnecessary to add animals indigenous to other countries which are not reared in SA as a food source. Besides this, according to the DoH & the WHO, the food choices of most South Africans do not include sufficient veggies, not more meat! This is evidenced by the growing obesity of average adults and children.	Gary

	2020-07-10 22:42:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The preservation of endangered animals is essential to support biodiversity and to allow the descendants of the current South African population to also have the privilege to view these animals as nature intended, in the wild. These wild animals are not meant to gracecthe tables of carnivores, there are plenty of other animals bred to become food sources. Therefore I do not support allowing endangered and other wild animals to become food sources.	Tony

	2020-07-10 17:07:32	Gauteng		No I do not	It is totally unacceptable that this act is even being considered. Tourism is one of the biggest contributors to our economy. People visit this country to see the wildlife which is unique to Africa. Apart from the fact that many of these species are already on the brink of extinction, there are so many other options for this country to feed its population. Future generations (both local and international) will be denied the opportunity to see these maguficent creatures in their natural habitat. If this is promulgated, it will never be reversed.	Kevin
	2020-07-10 16:58:45	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is absolutely savage to kill and eat wild animals. Nature's beautiful wild animals need to be protected and used for education and game viewing not for killing. I guess the ANC are planning as to how they can get involved to make corrupt money by killing wild animals just like they did with rhino and elephant poaching under minister Malobo and sadly he is still in the ANC instead of sitting in jail with his boss Jacob Zuma	Leo
	2020-07-10 16:52:36	Gauteng		No I do not	The majority of diseases that have emerged over recent years have come from wildlife. Farming wild animals is likely to exacerbate this phenomenon, by subjecting them to unnatural conditions that will cause them to experience chronic physiological stress, affecting their immune systems and increasing the likelihood of them spreading dangerous pathogens. If we learn nothing else from Covid19, let it be this: that eating wild, exotic animals, has the potential to cause worldwide pandemics of catastrophic proportions! The prevailing view of animals as mere "natural resources" is the moral blindspot of our time, and appeals to their "sustainable utilisation" are often nothing more than weak attempts at justifying their continued exploitation. The suffering and inhumane treatment of animals bred for meat - whether it's in how they are kept, or transported, or exported, or ultimately killed - cannot continue! Instead of adding species to the list of animals to harvest for meat, we should prioritise finding ways of sustaining ourselves that do not necessitate animal suffering and propagate public health risks.	Joan
	2020-07-10 16:39:27	Gauteng		No I do not	The game meat they want to introduce is a health hazard. It has been proved that the eating of meat considered outside the law of GOD is bad for a persons health. If you love your people you will consider their health.	Alice

	2020-07-10 15:18:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Most animals are endagered and not being conserved properly for wild animals to be used for human consumption. Already cows, pigs, chickens and more farm animals are being mistreated in slaughter houses, and force-fed to meet the demands of the population. If wild animals were too to be used as a source of food, then we really wont have any wildlife left and future generations will not know about our countries biodiversity and wildlife. We will have raped and pillaged everything we currently have left in our reserves and game farms, and add more animals to the fight against extinction. We are the ones who can and will fight for animals lives, I think it is best we do so to the best of our ability. This act is going completely against that by putting endangered species on the list. The need to help rural development is not going to be solved by putting wildlife at risk. There are many other ways to allow for development to happen through education, farming supplies and more. This is not the solution	Kathryn
	2020-07-10 14:48:50	Gauteng		No I do not	To want to slaughter our wildlife, including our endangered species our rhino is of most concern and will result that our future generations will no longer have any wild life, as all wild life will be eliminated. Preservation of all wildlife is fully endorsed by The World Wild Life Organisation. To go contrary to this internationally exemplary and respected Body is nothing short of gross injustice of the civil rights of humanity. All future generations and our current population of The Republic of South Africa and internationally is fully entitled to enjoy and preserve all our wildlife.	Jennifer

This would tend to indicate that for all but the most cynical politicians of the governing ANC party, we are incresing the risk of originating another HIV or COVID pandemic by actions encouraging the eating of protected species. These wild animals are our heritage which we need to preserve for many generations to come. To allow these animals to be placed on the meat safety act (for mass slaughter and consumption) is contrary to the laws of nature. 	2020-07-09 11:50:37	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not see the sense in including our wildlife that are listed as endangered, namely the rhino and elephant. It is ludicrous. This country produces enough beef, mutton and other domestic meat to feed the nation. However, the buck which do breed in vast numbers eg the Impala, may be used for food especially for locals who hunt out of necessity to feed their family/communities. and for the tourist who wants to taste our game. We are already battling to save our natural heritage for future generations, let us not be the generation that is given the reputation of having eradicated South Africa's game.	Loraine

	2020-07-09 09:08:44	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa should be improving animal rights! Have they learnt nothing from the Corona virus?! Our animals deserve our protection and this amendment is clearly something that many people oppose.	Janice

	2020-07-09 09:08:36	Gauteng		No I do not	The intelligence and evolution of a group is measured by how they protect their vulnerable, nature and their animal kingdom (note:KINGDOM! NOT servants or produce ??). These people are showing up their low scale of evolution. We can dress up and drive in fancy cars, but if we randomly kill - we should carry the consequences.	Linda
	2020-07-09 09:00:45	Gauteng		No I do not	Does human greed and narcissism know no end? Considering the current global pandemic caused directly by the consumption of flesh, we should be considering lessening the number of animals classified for slaughter, consumption, import, export, and sale!!! 	2020-07-09 02:57:29	Gauteng		No I do not	It's a proven fact that most of the diseases and viruses humans contract come from animals including the corona virus how can we start eating more of these animals when we know they make us sick? 	2020-07-08 18:43:20	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals that are threatened or endangered should be exempt from this list. Yes, South Africa has had China provide us with much financial support but this does not mean that we need to have strange foods imported/exported. I have no problem with people having "farms" of bred animals for the purpose of slaughter as long as standards are maintained and they are bred hormone free. I object when people want to kill wild animals with little regard for conservation.	Talitha

You are totally ignorant, uneducated and mindless. The only possible reason you would consider this is to supply your Chinese friends with their favourite cuisine because not one single South African in their right mind has, in all the years since Jan van Riebeeck came to establish us, has EVER NEEDED TO KILL OUR WILDLIFE TO EAT MEAT. This is absurd and unacceptable. You fill us with utter disgust at your disrespect for what is our country's pride and which draws tourists to our once beautiful land. 	2020-07-08 16:45:59	Gauteng		No I do not	Start implementing birth control and stop this uncontrolled breading of people that cannot look after themselves. You would then not need to sell the country to and all its assets to whomever can buy this country for next to nothing and eat everything that exists. Everywhere you look you see poor people sitting on the sidewalk begging with 3 or 4 children around them. Stop paying grants and incentivise people not to breed like animals than we can keep our animals as an asset to the tourism industry	Hein
	2020-07-08 16:23:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Just like ALL draft amendments acts that become instated or re-instated, this story sounds like another huge ANC Ploy to syphen more money into their own back pockets. Let me tell you like it is... NEVER TRUST THE ANC with ANY laws and policies they put into play within any South african institution! WHY? Because as it has been proven EVERY TIME throughout our democratic history (26 years, ladies and gentlemen. Not just 2 or 6 years, TAKE NOTE) that there is ALWAYS some form of criminal activity involved somewhere or somehow linked to ANY money that flows into or out of the ANC's personal "slush fund" (Alternatively known as South african reserve bank). So if you think you are trying to pull the wool over our eyes, sorry ANC... You missed! Let the situation of South african (And other countries) poaching crises subside rather than encouraging it all the more for personal and political gain. This Meat amendment safety act is absolutely absurd in so many respects, however... The one true question we should ALL be asking ourselves with changing laws and regulations like this is the following : How do these decisions impact (directly or indirectly) upon the present and future of wildlife and animal conservation within our borders and beyond (With each and every species on this list). Not only that, but you cannot honestly tell me that every single species on this "New amended list" has absolute abundance of live stock to ensure the radical survival of their species far into the future, for reasons of eco-balance and regional sustainability with micro-breeding and mass breeding (Again I will stupulate, not just for SA, but far beyond our borders?	Clifford

	2020-07-08 11:09:59	Gauteng		No I do not	I suppose the reason for this is that there are so many people to feed in this country. Quite frankly, if we devoted more time to curbing the growth of the human population in this country, there would be more than enough for everyone. I saw on Facebook recently a clip where one man admitted to fathering 28 children, with several different women as mothers! This is iniquitous in this day and age. The government should incentivise the having of fewer children so that there is enough for all in this country. If they don't know how to do it, they should research the countries who are successful at this. And no, I am not advocating China as an example of how to do this. Australia springs to mind immediately.	Denise

If you are financially driven consider the fact that 1 giraffe, alive, will draw tourists for years. 1 Giraffe hunted will draw one murderer, that only wants its skin. What will be left of this country if we kill and eat all of our wildlife? 	2020-07-08 07:18:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Well I think this amendment stems from greed and gluttony. A step backwards to cannibalism. We already have in SA millions of people suffering from hypertension, cholesterol, heart disease, diabetes and a myriad other diseases. We should explore and utilize a wide variety fruit and vegetables and grains to nourish SA. Yes, of course we can eat SA beef, pork, poultry and seafood. Why greedily and for profiteering, now plan to import more foreign meats despite the high risk of inviting new diseases into SA. We already have millions of people in SA disfigured through eating fat and red meat indiscriminately. Many of us are even ill for the same reason. So abandon including more species of animals. Let them live. If God wanted us to look like animals ourselves He would have naturally created us fat, bulbous and animal like. No don't do it. Let's be health conscious, kinder to animals and species protection, conservation and take some pride in our looks and more importantly, our health. Please, don't do it, Miss Didiza !!	Mervyn

	2020-07-08 04:57:21	Gauteng		No I do not	It is just criminal to include endangered animals such as rhinoceros and elephants, along with any other sensitive wildlife, and shows a total lack of logic and a shortsighted approach to wildlife sustainability. This cannot be allowed.	Ian
	2020-07-08 03:21:53	Gauteng		No I do not	As a citizen I do not support the draft amendment that extends the list classifying animals for slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale to include many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe and more. It also includes undefined birds, reptiles and fish. Have you not learnt from the coronavirus pandemic that diseases spread from animals to humans and especially wild animals. 	2020-07-07 21:12:01	Gauteng		No I do not	We currently have issue just maintaining quality and standards of the current animals including birds that we . It other western nations are considering these issues we should attend forums, and take it from there, "look and learn" so times " 1st "look and learn from their mistakes and not yours" Then, unfortunately, we have corruption and bribery in SA that will try and amend/ change things even if it is wrong, sorry to say this but it is so.	Eddmund

	2020-07-07 21:05:18	Gauteng		No I do not	What a disgrace. Shame on you. Disgusting!!!!!! Stop ripping SA of everything that is good and pure that belongs to God. God sees your actions and you will be accountable for this. God is coming soon to Rapture His beloved church. Repent and seek God to have a space in heaven. Every action and desicion is recorded. Because Hell is not the place you want to be. Fear the wrath God for what God expresses in The Holy Bible, for we are in the End Times.	Lara
	2020-07-07 20:53:37	Gauteng		No I do not	Did the wet markers in China not teach the rest of the world a lesson? Why is it so impossible for humans to do the right thing. Or is SA going to follow in the footsteps of Zim eating all the animals. Can we just note the animals are a massive tourist attraction and if SA proceeds with this path it will be yet another industry lost.	Adri

	2020-07-07 17:38:19	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree with the slaughter of any wild animals. If you put a penalty on the people who are killing our farmers we would not be in need of other forms of meat. If we are in need of meat then we buy what is available and then we also have chickens and many other things we can eat. It's a disgrace on our Country to kill our wild life, with all other Countries and there has been enough of that with all the fraud and corruption and so on. Please do not kill our wildlife and cause another scandal overseas.	Sylvia

	2020-07-07 14:27:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not support killing of wild life at all, except in cases of culling, which I do understand is a necessary evil. How long before we go the way of China in which every virus or pandemic starts with their unnatural eating habits. How long will it take before these listed animals are also on the endangered list? How long before the one main reason we have such large numbers of international tourists who come to see our natural wildlife is no more? No I do not see any reason why this list should be extended!!!!	Avryl

					This country has a perfect example on our northern border of what happens to your tourism industry when you eat all the wildlife and at the same time destroy the economy! We the people want to save our endangered wildlife so that our children's children will have more than text book images to know what they looked like. We the people want our endangered wildlife protected not hunted for sport or food. We the people want the ivory trade abolished entirely not added to by hunting elephants for sport or food. This will only encourage poaching. We the people want our critically endangered rhinos to be protected not subjected to wholesale slaughter and increased poaching. We the people believe that there is already too much meat consumption going on in the world so there is no need to slaughter every animal you come across for food! We the people want the government to stop wasting both our time and our money in trying to undo our every effort to preserve our environment for future generations. There are already more than enough animals on the approved list for human and animal consumption without adding the big 5 to the list! Take your greed elsewhere and stop mimicking the grasshopper before we are left with no wildlife and just a dust bowl to live in with no plant life (kept alive by animals) and no water. Plants and animals work together to prevent desertification (something we are already fighting). If you kill all the animals you will by default kill all the plants and that will lead to the entire country becoming a desert. That in turn will lead to mass exodus of those who generate income leaving only the poor and uneducated here to die of thirst and starvation as the country crumbles to ruin around us.
	2020-07-07 12:58:26	Gauteng		No I do not	Be warned and stop this madness before it is too late!	Angie
	2020-07-07 12:50:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on Earth would our government even entertain the thought of including our valued wildlife to also be consumed is absolutely rediculous. We should be protecting our valued wildlife. We have many other meat such as cows, goats, lambs, pigs to eat. If we are eating too much meat then that's on us, but please DO Not include our valued wildlife to the list. Just remember they bring tourism to our country and should all be protected.	Veronica
	2020-07-07 12:46:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Stop eating anything that moves. Lessons have not been learned about pandemics and the correlation of eating wild life. The wild life in this country must be treasured along with all other domestic and farm animals they are not for consumption!!!	Belinda
	2020-07-07 12:45:09	Gauteng		No I do not		Menno
	2020-07-07 12:42:55	Gauteng		No I do not	How much more damage is going to be done, leave the wildlife alone, they generate income for SA	Monica
	2020-07-07 12:33:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Where are we actually going in this country? Millions of Rands are spent annually on "Save the Rhino" now you want us to eat them!! Our wildlife is part of our heritage and people come from all over the world come to our game parks and spend foreign currencies. How much more money are we to lose as a country with this crazy idea. It will only encourage more poaching and illegal slaughter houses and butcheries and we will all end up with another virus worse than Covid 19. Our country is over populated with too many illegals from the rest of Africa so my suggestion is only allow the social grant to go for 2 children per family. Then we might have people that will have to farm in order to produce enough food for their families instead of relying on handouts from the government all the time.	Anna
	2020-07-07 12:29:28	Gauteng		No I do not	This is going to encourage poaching the incorrect wild life and we need to protect our wild life more. There is plenty of other normal meats for consumption. The list is completely wrong and must be heavily reviewed, so we don’t stop attesting tourists or create another pandemic.	Steven
	2020-07-07 12:27:29	Gauteng		No I do not	Certain animals are just not meant to be eaten by humans! Just like certain animals are not meant to be kept as pets. Hundreds of years of breeding has lead us to this point. We can't just decide to change that now. Besides, all animals deserve our love and respect and should be treated as such. We shouldn't be adding animals to this list. We should be trying to find ways to reduce animal slaughter, and create more respectful ways of obtaining our meat.	Gregory

	2020-07-07 12:11:12	Gauteng		No I do not	I do not agree to our wild animals being slaughtered for meat. We have more than enough with beef lamb and pork. Our wild life brings many people as tourists to the RSA. That brings their money to our country. Also what you propose will encourage poaching.we are fighting this scourge daily so why would our government encourage this???	Patricia

	2020-07-07 11:54:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Sir / Madame, I do not support the new amendment as I am of the opinion that adding these wild animals will lead to their decimation and will only increase the problem of poaching and animal theft. In light of the diseases spread by wild animals being eaten, for example in China, it does not sound like a good idea to me to add these animals to the new list.	Rigard
	2020-07-07 11:53:12	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is our legacy to our children and grandchildren. Furthermore it attracts tourists which in turn create much needed jobs. We do not have the right to slaughter these animals for our consumption.	Shirley

	2020-07-07 11:30:36	Gauteng		No I do not	Corrupt government again!!!! China is probable paying and bribing ministers to once again line their own pockets. South Africa Has to preserve our wild life not kill and eat it. What next will China tell us to eat our domestic pets too !!!!! Have we become Savages!!! I think it is outrageous that the government is allowing China to dictate what we eat. China is looking after its own illegal trading of Rhino and Elephant tusks. WHERE WILL THIS END. DEFINITELY DO NOT AGREE TO SLAUGHTERING WILD ANIMALS.	Cheryl

	2020-07-07 10:16:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Man's insatiable greed over the planet, including SA, is causing desctruction to our natural habitats and wild animals. Do not eat threatened wild animals! SA is going to lose masses in tourism revenue if this happens because environmentally conscious tourists will boycot SA as a travel destination. And rightly so.	Marianne

	2020-07-07 09:58:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Even the SUGGESTION of further endangering our wonderful wild life - a HUGE attraction to South African and overseas visitors alike - is utterly outrageous and totally unacceptable. So many animals on the list are already endangered. They must be protected - that is what the wonderful, internationally famous Kruger National Park and may other game reserves around South Africa were designed to do. The idiots in government who even considered the killing of our precious animals should be thrown out - or better still - thrown in gaol. NO, NO AND NO AGAIN!!!! Leave God's beautiful creatures ALONG.	Gaye
	2020-07-07 09:52:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Emphatically oppose extending the list classifying animals for slaughter, consumption, import, export and sale to include many threatened species in South Africa including rhino, elephant, giraffe and more. It also includes undefined birds, reptiles and fish.	Liebe
	2020-07-07 09:50:11	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that the government would wish to destroy what is one of our country's most loved and beautiful national treasures. - our diverse animals. There is sufficient farming of cows, sheep chickens, goats, pigs, ducks etc to accommodate meat requirements. There is NO need to plunder our natural resources to satisfy international or local exotic and sick desires. What is wrong with our government!? Why would they even try to pass something like this? Why is greed and the pursuit of money and power placed above this country and it's people and natural resources. The person/s trying to introduce this is/are disgusting.	Delwynne
	2020-07-07 09:46:47	Gauteng		No I do not	Extending the bill to include endangered or close to endangered animals is absolutely wrong. We are supposed to be trying to fight the decline of their numbers how are legisilating the slaughter of such animals. This will open avnues up for corruption in the sale of such animals taking away the right of all citizens to seeing these animals in the future	Paul

	2020-07-07 09:23:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Africa is known for its biodiversity and large selection of animals. Now people want to add those animals that bring in tourists and capital into our country and put them on a plate, until one day the animals are gone and so is the tourist. 	2020-07-07 09:13:26	Gauteng		No I do not	It seems South Africa wants to get rid of our beautiful wildlife, many of these animals are on the endangered list - why on earth would one do this if not we were catering to foreign needs???	Lesley

	2020-07-07 09:12:32	Gauteng		No I do not	WE have enough farming animals, ie goats, cattle sheep, why do we want to list endangered species to the list. Combined with the poaches now we want to legalize the slaughter of wild animals, which we need to attract tourists. Given our economical climate that we were dumped into by our ruling ANC party, I believe enough is enough. Somewhere we have to think a bit more on far reaching tragedy's and not just filling our pockets.	rhona
	2020-07-07 09:07:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Many of these animals are endangered. Allowing them to be slaughter will threaten their existence and even cause their extinction	Ann

	2020-07-07 09:01:59	Gauteng		No I do not	This legalise our natural heritage to be eaten which is a total disgrace. This is exactly where COVID-19 started. This is so short sighted and a clear demonstration of carelessness and is inherently total selfish	Hannes

	2020-07-07 08:52:19	Gauteng		No I do not	CRAZY! On the one side we spend thousands of rands to protect endangered species, whilst on the other side we are allowed to kill them. Government offices are working agsinst oneanother! Also, Corona cones from consuming and experimenting on wild species. Does Government push for permanent lock-down? They are no endangering the lives of animals and humans to allow this!	Estelle
	2020-07-07 08:49:59	Gauteng		No I do not	It does appear that the Government aka the ANC has no desire to grow tourism, killing the wildlife for export will kill the tourist trade which is already on its knees from COVID-19. Who on earth dreams up these bills?	Michael
	2020-07-07 08:48:36	Gauteng		No I do not	This is the problem with the world we live in today. Nobody has any concerns for the future when we will end up with the whole of Africa as a desert as we decimate our beautiful country.....for what. Those animals deserve to be protected and guarded at all times. how greedy can man be ?	cheryl
	2020-07-07 08:46:57	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals like giraffe, rhinos and elephants and any other threatened or endangered species should not be on this list. These animals already face extinction due to illegal trade. Now you want to put them on the menu? Not well thought out.....	Jolette
	2020-07-07 08:42:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Threatened species are non-negotiable when it comes to the prohibition of import/ export, consumption and slaughter. Consult with the SPCA and all wildlife stakeholders and conservationists.	JG
	2020-07-07 08:40:15	Gauteng		No I do not	As custodians of our wildlife, we should ensure sustainable management of our endangered species, and not be complicit in their extinction. 100% NO	Sue
	2020-07-07 08:40:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Besides the fact that this allows our natural heritage to be decimated which is in itself a total disgrace, eating wild animals was what got us into the COVID-19 pandemic in the first place. 	2020-07-07 06:25:28	Gauteng		No I do not	It is the eating of wild animals that caused the covid 19 epidemic. Wild animals have less and less chance of survival due to humans selfish behaviour. Save our environment. It is a valuable tourism income to our country.	Vee

	2020-07-07 06:23:48	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild life tourism, through our wild animals, rare birds and habitats is far, far more sustainable than a once off butcher and eat! 	2020-07-07 05:24:54	Gauteng		No I do not	One of our biggest tourist attractions is our wild life. This is like eating our economy which at this point is non existent.we should be bolstering the economy. There breading more wild life and preserving it. As humans we have plenty of different live stock meant for human consumption. We need to assist the farmers in building their businesses, so we have sufficient meat to eat. 	2020-07-06 23:13:13	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa's wildlife is the heritage of all South Africans. They are a source of income just by being a sought-after tourist attraction. I do not trust this government to look after its people, let alone its animals. The trade in lions for their bones to produce wine and for trophy hunting etc has already been exposed and the extreme cruelty the lions have been subject to is the perfect example of how this government exploits animals. The fact that the government even allows the ships of shame to dock here in our country to load sheep that are subject to extreme cruelty for 3 weeks minimum is proof to me that their only concern is money, and there is no concern for the animals.	DIANE

	2020-07-06 22:18:16	Gauteng		No I do not	What is the reason for expanding the list of animals including wild animals that can be killed for consumption? Why are we now choosing the killing of wildlife when animals and all living things belong to the planet, to all of us, and not to a country. We should be protecting all wildlife. What about the lessons we hopefully learned from Wuhan? BAN the eating of all bushmeat.	Jeanne

	2020-07-06 18:51:48	Gauteng		No I do not	When are people going to recognise that it is this obsessive consumption of flesh and thus the need to breed so many beasts in response to the demand, let alone the inhumane with which they are treated and ultimately slaughtered that is the reason amongst others that the world is in the bad shape that it is. Can we not promote more natural vegetation diets please! For the sake of all living breathing beasts.	Karen

	2020-07-06 18:14:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Why endanger other species of animals, which are Africa's rich legacy and heritage. Poaching will be on the increase. Did we not learn from the bad and dirty eating habits of China? Please... Absolutely laughable!!!	Jay
	2020-07-06 18:12:22	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely not!!!!! Our wildlife is the most precious thing we still have in this country. We ahve killed everything else - we are at the bottom of the heap internationally, this will be diggin our own graves. Disgusting!	Jill

	2020-07-06 18:09:00	Gauteng		No I do not	In future years to come, what animals will be left to show our children and great grandchildren? NONE. Because people are selfish! People from all over the world flock to South Africa to see the wildlife and now we want to kill them for self gain. I think it is an absolute disgrace!	Kerry-Lee
	2020-07-06 18:04:00	Gauteng		No I do not	Rhino: This is crazy!	Clive

	2020-07-06 17:57:44	Gauteng		No I do not	Making wild animals legal to eat will only add to our already endangered list. And for health reasons if Covid came from a wild animal as is suspected, what can we expect from eating other wild animals. It's barbaric in every way.	Laurie

Eddie
	2020-07-06 17:40:05	Gauteng		No I do not	Leave the wildlife alone. It will encourage a killing spree, I kill off our heritage and affect tourism. There is enough meat on the market as is.	Rose
	2020-07-06 17:38:37	Gauteng		No I do not	There are any number of commercial Beef/Mutton/Pork/Chicken/Fish producers in Southern Africa. Supporting this commercial industry ,maintains and creates employment and is not the subject of corruption and exploitation. 	2020-07-06 17:16:22	Gauteng		No I do not	It is criminal not to realize that those organizations that do so, and still do so, are using resources, etc, to protect and encourage the proliferation of endangered species. i.e. W.W.F. amongst others. In some cases it is too much too late and a species will be lost to the world. A lot of these named proposed resources would not be able to be sustainably "farmed" - so a war of attrition will lead to extinction. Perhaps the people considering these proposals should consider putting their own necks in a noose and jumping off the stool thereby relieving the world of yet another human who is intent on destroying themselves ultimately.	David
	2020-07-06 17:10:10	Gauteng		No I do not	This would encourage the consumption of our endangered species....we should not be encouraging this kind of cruelty. What has become of this country & what is the world coming to?? Consuming our wildlife! The wet markets in China are beyond cruel & it is no wonder that obscure viruses continue to emanate from that country. The conditions in which animals are kept for consumption are disgusting. They have an insatiable appetite for anything exotic. Their cruelty is unspeakable.	Anne

	2020-07-06 16:48:33	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of species on the red data list is very unwise. Further many species on the list are not farmed eg. porcupine and will be endangered in the wild if included. This is how the current CoVid19 pandemic was started, several other viral infections such as Ebola and Marburg are also strongly associated with the bush meat industry.	Frank

	2020-07-06 16:27:34	Gauteng		No I do not	This is not acceptable in any circumstance. We have a wonderful heritage in our wildlife that is already under threat from unscrupulous poachers and poor legislation, and now further legislation puts our wildlife under further threat. This means our already tarnished reputation internationally will be further damaged and the precious tourists that we need to attract will be harder to do so. We will lose those tourists to Kenya, Tanzania, Rwanda, Burundi, Zambia. Wake up South Africa, rather attract foreign exchange from tourists wanting to view our wildlife, not eat it.	Nicole
	2020-07-06 16:23:29	Gauteng		No I do not	To say that this is absolutely undeniably shocking is to say the very least but not surprising. I do NOT support amendment to the Meat Safety Act. 	2020-07-06 16:14:16	Gauteng		No I do not	This act is the undoing of what many people and organisations globally have fought years to preserve or restore! How is it that we spend millions on nature preservation, push/beg corporates and individuals to fund its sustainability and longevity and then allow this act to stipulate "lets eat them anyways"? Does this mean that for years government and organisations alike have wasted everyone's efforts by fooling them into supporting the end to illegal poaching? Taking expensive measures to seek justice for those who kill the Rhino for its horn, or the elephant for its Ivory. Frankly this is a stuff up of note. A degradation of humanity's efforts led by unconscious short term gain. There is so much food wastage and at the same time declare there is never enough. there will be nothing if you keep adding anything to the list, just a pile of waste! If China has now outlawed the consumption of dogs and the act now says ..."Sorry for the trouble in the past, just come to South Africa and you can now eat the Rhino's!" What has become of South Africa? Shorten the list. Find better solutions! Stop wasting!	Andria
	2020-07-06 16:13:17	Gauteng		No I do not	This is absolutely ludicrous. Have you no moral end-point? Is there nothing that you will stop at to completely rape and plunder this country. All we have LEFT is our wildlife, and now you want to legalise eating that too.	Mark

	2020-07-06 15:17:56	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot be eating these animals that bring in much needed funds through tourism! 	2020-07-06 14:42:15	Gauteng		No I do not	From a religious perspective, there are animals that should not be consumed because there cellular structure and meat contains bacteria which can cause disease in human beings. This is one of the reasons we have diseases like cancer.	Ursula

	2020-07-06 14:38:25	Gauteng		No I do not	This would be disastrous as the wild animal population is declining rapidly in South Africa. The animals are very quickly becoming extinct when the Chinese and Vietnamese people are eating them from the street side vendors that are selling so many of our wildlife. Dead or alive. Pangolans, snakes, Honey Badgers and numerous other wild life are stolen from South Africa each day and never seen again. Please Government do not go this way as the wild life that we have left is for the public and tourists to enjoy and NOT TO BE EATEN.	Jonathan

	2020-07-06 14:25:09	Gauteng		No I do not	Animals should not be kept in captivity in metropolitan areas. Rather they should be kept in nature reserves within there habitat. The animal is deprived of enjoying freedom. It is far worse as they are also exposed to high levels of pollution. If the animal is injured, it must be rehabilitated back into the wild.	Ursula

	2020-07-06 14:20:16	Gauteng		No I do not	Disgusting - NO wildlife species or any animal that could be deemed a pet ie: horse, rabbit etc, should be available for sale or consumption.	Wendy
	2020-07-06 14:19:08	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals are wild life. Government should listen to Conservation experts and all Hunting Associations. They are the people with the knowledge. Slaughtering of wild life on the scale of normal meat supply will lead to major poaching and destruction of Game life and Game protection.	Adriaan
	2020-07-06 14:16:28	Gauteng		No I do not	Already we are battling with a virus caused by wildlife - now you want to introduce even more unknowns - it makes me wonder who is to gain from this - surely not our precious wildlife who needs our protection and does not deserve to be eaten - we are becoming more and more like the Chinese who seems to eat anything that moves.	Magda
	2020-07-06 14:15:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Even the old list is far too extensive. People do not have to eat every type of animal they see. Hasn't covid 19 tought the government anything. It is time to remove animals from the consumption list not add to it. By adding to it we are encouraging people to catch, kill & eat anything. As a nation of what is supposed to be proud of our wildlife & animals this list is a disgrace. Rather concentrate on encouraging protection of animals for future generations & not teach them to kill everything that moves so that there are no animals that are safe. Our ancesters must be disgusted by our behaviour.	Beverley

	2020-07-06 13:30:01	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment is very vague and opens up many loopholes. Who may slaughter the animals, when and what happens with the remains? May these animals be farmed to slaughter or may wild animals be taken? How can you open up consumption of threatened species if the one department of government is trying (or seeming to try) to protect them and the other department is opening it up for consumption? This a chess move in a larger plan. It's a dangerous game.	Hermien

	2020-07-06 13:14:01	Gauteng		No I do not	What is happening to the people oif South Africa,? This is not Asia/China who have just about killed off all their wild life. Now they are heading our way to kill our animals. We need to protect all our wild life, both on land and in the sea. We have enough meat to feed ourselves . There are a few greedy people who want to get rich . The African Union in conjunction with the United Nations must urgently make a worldwide law to protect these fenceless and precious animals.	Cecile
	2020-07-06 13:09:48	Gauteng		No I do not	This government has already destroyed whatever they could lay their hands on - be it by greed or stupidity. I do not agree that they destroy the wildlife- our children's heritage- and thereby also destroy tourism and a civilised community. We need to upgrade South Africa's standard of living. Not downgrade it to a barbaric society. The poor will be the target to feed on the uneccepted meat. The rich will not partake, except to sell these meat and get richer.	Linda

	2020-07-06 12:55:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I would like to know if this draft amendment on the "farming", and consumption of wildlife, some of who's numbers are dwindling rapidly throughout Africa, giraffe, lion, rhino & elephant being the stand outs, has anything to do with government deals made with China, who as we all know are the major force behind the poaching of said animals, for their bones, tusks, skins, and horns?!!! Is the South African government making deals to the detriment of our wildlife and environment as Mozambique, Zimbabwe, and other African countries have done with their wildlife, forests, minerals etc!	Jackie
	2020-07-06 12:55:07	Gauteng		No I do not	The agricultural and tourism economies of SA need help. This inclusion is short sighted, a knee jerk reaction to bigger problems. Our farmers need assistance and as most wild animals are within the national game reserves there will be an increase in poaching resulting in fewer animals but more bad publicity and a decrease in tourism. This proposition should not even be considered!	Linda
	2020-07-06 12:38:45	Gauteng		No I do not	I have a saying I tell my children. "A clever person learns from someone else's mistakes, a smart person learns from his own mistakes, and a stupid person doesn't learn. Which one are you going to be?". I put the same question to our South African Government. We are all suffering and dying, physically and economically from China practicing this exact same thing. I suppose we shall see from your decision which person you are.	Meryl

	2020-07-06 12:25:59	Gauteng		No I do not	This is totally absurd , detrimental and stone-age logic and must be rejected with the contempt it justifiably deserves. John
	2020-07-06 12:24:56	Gauteng		No I do not	We have a responsibility to take care of nature, including animals. 	2020-07-06 12:22:01	Gauteng		No I do not	Do not agree to be adding endangered species to the food list., to satisfy a few peoples need to hunt and legalise it.	greta
	2020-07-06 12:18:50	Gauteng		No I do not	What effect will this have on the tourist trade bearing in mind this is a very important contributor to the economy? Surely animals should be conserved and I do not believe controlled culling will work because it like everything else, is vulnerable to looting, abuse and theft.	ADRIAN
	2020-07-06 12:15:07	Gauteng		No I do not	We must stop exploiting animals. Please turn to plant agriculture for food.	Natasha
	2020-07-06 12:11:55	Gauteng		No I do not	This legislation should not include species which are viewed as threatened or endangered by other legislation. Including "undefined birds, reptiles and fish" is too vague and makes no sense.	Oloff
	2020-07-06 12:11:37	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa in known for its beautiful wildlife. By placing any of our wildlife on a list for consumption will destroy not only our wildlife but also the tourist industry. Who wants to drive through the bush just to see absolutely nothing. It will not only stay with the current list. Government will keep on adding animals until it also include cats and dogs and we will become like China. Leave our wildlife alone for future generations so they will see what these animals look like and will not have to look at drawings or photos.	Thomas
	2020-07-06 12:11:12	Gauteng		No I do not		Rika
	2020-07-06 12:07:53	Gauteng		No I do not	I think farming wild animals is despicable and will lead to all sorts of diseases, suffering and stress for these animals. South Africa has proven that it cannot implement legislation efficiently or enforce standards which leads to corrupt practices. We are taking a backward step compared to other countries. Focus on clean meat products grown from cells without farming or slaughtering of animals in inhumane conditions.	Dawn
	2020-07-06 12:07:50	Gauteng		No I do not		Nigel
	2020-07-06 12:06:44	Gauteng		No I do not	A lot of our wild animals cannot be for consumption due to their importance and how they set Africa apart. These animals play a significant role in the tourism industry. Hunting these animals should also be illegal.	Refiloe
	2020-07-06 12:04:04	Gauteng		No I do not		Marsel
	2020-07-06 12:01:04	Gauteng		No I do not	We have farmers who need help to supply us with food and live stock..help them keep their farms going..if this is done then why should our wild life be put at risk...we already have enough poaching in this Country..help the farmers instead	FELICITY
	2020-07-06 11:55:47	Gauteng		No I do not	It should not be okay to eat out wildlife. These graceful animals are beautiful and should be protected, not destroyed. Elephant, giraffe, rhinos - already so endangered. Why would someone want to eat them. It is beyond disgusting. Our earth is so broken, we should be doing everything in our power to save and protect. Not harm even more.	Ashleigh
	2020-07-06 11:54:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wild life is already endangered so if they were added to what we can eat it would further destroy our tourist attraction. The tourism industry is already on its knees. What's next? Eating humans!?!?	Claudia
	2020-07-06 11:54:14	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learnt anything from the Covid 19 Pandemic? As can be seen we are not supposed to be eating anything other than what we should be. Eating Wild Animals that are Carnivores and Exotic is exactly what landed us where we are today! What was wrong with the list as it was previously... Must Man eat everything that walks the planet?	Andrew

	2020-07-06 11:44:49	Gauteng		No I do not	I find this proposal absolutely disgusting, to say the least! Our wildlife is already endangered by so much encroachment on their areas and to include some species that are listed as endangered or almost so is quite unconscionable. You should be ashamed of yourselves!!!	Terry
	2020-07-06 11:40:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Inhumane practice. We are the custodians of our planet. We must not bow to greed & corruption. There is more than sufficient meat available through import, export and farming of domestic animals and occasional culling required of game in the country. This is another greed-driven, money-making initiative thought out by unethical and corrupt politicians. The national wildlife heritage of this country should be protected and the current generation needs to be guardians for posterity. These decisions undermine and minimize the uniqueness of what SA can offer future generations and tourists in terms of wildlife and conservation opportunities.	Carl
	2020-07-06 11:40:25	Gauteng		No I do not	We do not need this. There are other, better and humane ways to get what we need in terms of nutrition. Enough is enough.	Elsa
	2020-07-06 11:38:09	Gauteng		No I do not	In find this proposal by the ANC highly suspect!! They have raided institutions , minerals ,banks etc This is just another excuse to raid the Wildlife Wealth of South Africa !	Shelley

	2020-07-06 11:27:54	Gauteng		No I do not	It is totally unacceptable to exploit our (and other counties') wildlife like that. Our wildlife is already under pressure. The custom of the Chinese to eat wild animals also brought Covid-19 over the world.	Christie
	2020-07-06 11:27:37	Gauteng		No I do not		Ross
	2020-07-06 11:26:46	Gauteng		No I do not	ABSOLUTELY NOT. More particularly leave our Wildlife alone. UNCONSCIONABLE and HEARTLESS!!	Kevin
	2020-07-06 11:25:25	Gauteng		No I do not	the world is in the midst of a pandemic brought on by consumption of wild animals never meant for humans to eat, please learn from this terrible state if affairs.	Hazel
	2020-07-06 11:23:04	Gauteng		No I do not	With Covid 19 having proved that the eating by the Chinese of wild life this Meat Safety Act will only encourage the foolish to ignore this danger. In fact if you look at the failure to co-operate in stopping the spread of the disease by the majority of South Africans this Meat Safety Act will also be completely disobeyed. Let's not fool ourselves. Our wildlife will be decimated. The whole world is already aware that the South African Government is guilty of failure in many respects i.e. health maintenance, economic advancement, investors suspicion and wariness of future investments. Over 26 years this ANC government has failed its own people and now it goes ahead with foolish Acts. The Wildlife Organisation world-wide is aware of and watching this South African Government and its cohorts.	Theresa
	2020-07-06 11:19:36	Gauteng		No I do not	It is completely rediculous. If God intended for man to eat wild animals, He would have made them tame and not separate from domestic animals. They were given for our viewing pleasure, not! consumption. He has also designed a plan for over population of wild animals to be regulated by their natural prepitors, in the wild. Not! to be hunted and slaughtered by greedy man! I can't even imagine, what it would be like, to visit a nature reserve and find no wild animals, because if this is allowed, there'll be no restrictions. Besides, man has survived well, for centuries, on consumption of the normal animals, meant for his use, without destroying the ecology of nature.	Wendy
	2020-07-06 11:12:10	Gauteng		No I do not	We must conserve our wildlife to prevent a desert.	Herklaas
	2020-07-06 11:10:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife is the foundation of our tourism industry and a major contributor to our economy in every way. The proposed changes represent the first step in the ultimate destruction of this industry. This bill could hasten the extinction / demise of many species of game . The poaching of game must remain a crime. The old act is serving us perfectly well and I am aware no scientific need for it to be revised.	OWEN
	2020-07-06 11:10:00	Gauteng		No I do not	This is ridiculous,and abomination. How dare you destroy our future heritage You are temporary and shortsighted.Greed is your ultimate aim.26 years and nothing to show economically,and,people are more poor now,than ever.Just the corrupt,and,criminals have made progress.	Pursotham

	2020-07-06 11:03:14	Gauteng		No I do not	It is bad enough our wild life are being slaughtered by hunters and poachers!!! If we add legality to this, our children (and yours) and future generations will not ever be able to see our many beautiful animals in the wild, their natural habitat. LEAVE THEM ALONE!!!	Evelyn
	2020-07-06 11:01:01	Gauteng		No I do not	I think it is utterly detestable. This should not be promulgated into law.	Nick
	2020-07-06 10:55:16	Gauteng		No I do not	I don’t want South Africa going the same way as countries like China in the way of eating endangered and exotic animals.	Geoffrey
	2020-07-06 10:54:39	Gauteng		No I do not	Government has followed the science on Covid 19 why is it indifferent to the science on the causes of zoonotic diseases? There are sufficient domesticated animals to feed humans so why risk further disease and environmental damage? The government has shown it can and does acknowledge science based information why not do so again?	Helen

	2020-07-06 10:46:27	Gauteng		No I do not		Cherie
	2020-07-06 10:45:51	Gauteng		No I do not	I fail to understand why the government wants to include wild animals for human consumption. Some of these wild animals are endangered species. All wild animals in South Africa form part of our tourism industry. Does the government want to create another potential COVID situation originating in SA as did in China ? PLEASE DO NOT INCLUDE WILD ANIMALS FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION.	Marilyn
	2020-07-06 10:44:58	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of the Rhinoceros and other endanger species is shocking. The Bill should be revised and the endangered species should be removed so as so avoid issues such as extinction of these and other animals.	Zizipho

	2020-07-06 10:42:45	Gauteng		No I do not	Have we not learnt from China and the killing of indigenous animals. Do we really want to start another world lockdown?? Not the time for these nonsense ideas	Melanie
	2020-07-06 10:41:42	Gauteng		No I do not	I don't think endangered wildlife should be on the list of meats we can sell to eat	Helen

	2020-07-06 10:35:35	Gauteng		No I do not	I strongly disagree. There are domesticated animals for those who like to consume meat. Our wildlife must be protected.	Joy
	2020-07-06 10:35:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Endangered and threatened species must never be exploited. They must be protected by the law.	Wilmien
	2020-07-06 10:34:03	Gauteng		No I do not	The domesticated animals used for human consumption are created by God for that reason. Now using wild animals, and especially endangered species, will have a big impact on the farming and tourist industries which are both very important for our troubled economy. It will cause a big increase in poaching in private and public game reserves as people will view it as legal to kill the wild animals. As poaching increases foreign tourists will be put off visiting South Africa. Has the government not heard what has been the cause of COVID-19? The consumption of wild animal meat.	Paul
	2020-07-06 10:33:39	Gauteng		No I do not		Dr Elena
	2020-07-06 10:33:36	Gauteng		No I do not	ABSOLUTELY DISGUSTING that the government can even think of this. All they think about is lining their own pockets. Where are we as a "human" race that we cannot even look after our most precious animals? They should be cared for and protected properly. This will cause the likes of China, to increase their despicable habits of eating anything that comes their way. I am revolted by the thought of this and totally disappointed with our government. Nothing is sacred anymore.... not human nor animal lives.	Nicky

	2020-07-06 10:19:16	Gauteng		No I do not	We have sufficient protein sources from commercial farming of traditional sources (beef/lamb/pork/chicken/turkey). No need to target our wildlife as a main source of food and destroy this natural habitat	Jannie

	2020-07-06 10:09:27	Gauteng		No I do not	The classification must be species and sub-species specific. It must ensure that endangered species are exempted and that there is absolutely no chance of any species transmitting any virus harmful to humans.	Julian

	2020-07-06 10:06:33	Gauteng		No I do not	Our animals is our pride and we need to protect them from extinction. We need to preserve them for our descendants and for the future. They are an important tourist attraction for South Africa. We need them to boost economy once the pandemic is over. The fact that the disease is zoonotic means that we could unknowingly spread diseases over the world and the world cannot afford another pandemic. Please protect what is unique to South Africa. This is the heritage of our nation and we got the responsibility to preserve it for future generations. We don't want to be labeled as the generation that was responsible for the extinction of our endangered animals and species as wellas other wildlife unique to South Africa.	Izak
	2020-07-06 10:06:14	Gauteng		No I do not	This government has ruined SA economically, now they want to destroy the wildlife as well! No, no, no!! Leave the animals alone!	Jady
	2020-07-06 10:02:12	Gauteng		No I do not	This act could result in wholesale slaughter our our Game	Anthony
	2020-07-06 10:02:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly, we are in the current Coronavirus epidemic because wild animals are being consumed. Stop interference with wild life and we will save humanity from deadly viruses that we are not immune to. Secondly, if wild animals are going to be allowed as food, we will not only destroy our luscious wild life heritage but also the entire ecosystem that depends on these wild animals will cease to exist when the animals are all eaten. This in turn will contribute to worse global warming, etc. So, do not allow wild animals to be sold as food!	Vanessa

	2020-07-06 09:55:35	Gauteng		No I do not	We cannot approve any policy related to slaughtering wild animals, they were put on this earth for a reason and are not harmful to anyone in their own habitat. Why now would we as South Africans want to tolerate such an action, what will be left as a legacy for our children. This is an abomination and an act of cruelty toward all wild animals. What will it be next - monkeys, alligators - STOP THIS NOW, IT IS INHUMANE	Karen

	2020-07-06 09:48:04	Gauteng		No I do not	Insane and ill-considered! Wild life to be treated as agricultural assets? I don't need to mention specific animals featured on this list that the whole world knows are on the verge of extinction, some only to be found in (South) Africa and surrounding seas, regardless the conservation provisions. I support the Credence Institute's concern on this matter wholeheartedly. I couldn't find an explanation/reason being put forward for the draft amendment to the act, therefor I came to the following conclusions: Another ploy to secure votes, as the government's rule after 1994 has lead to more poverty and unemployment than ever (prior to Covid-19!). A free pass to the populace to slaughter just about anything without any consequence? How much have the Chinese to do with this school of thought/proposal?	Ettienne
	2020-07-06 09:47:50	Gauteng		No I do not	only meet that is harvested should be included in the act. any wild animals should be exempt, this will include any animals that are included in the hunters guidelines	Sylvia

Please review this bill with compassion for our children and grandchildren, and the animals threatened by by this.	Dave

	2020-07-06 09:38:30	Gauteng		No I do not	Based on what has just happend in China, (and is happening in numerous Eastern Coutries) it is discussting to try and pass a bill of this nature, at exactly this time in history We have a Goverment that is purposely blind and greedy to what we have inherited	rene

	2020-07-06 09:23:53	Gauteng		No I do not	To put our wildlife on a list for acceptable slaughter for Bush meat is totally unacceptable. What have we been fighting poachers for all these years if it wasn’t to protect our wildlife. This amendment to our legislation is to appease the Chinese and oriental people as they are the ones who want to kill and eat bushmeat.	Lorna
	2020-07-06 09:22:38	Gauteng		No I do not	Why on earth would this country want to follow the path of others and the risks involved in terms of contagions as seen in other countries. Leave the very few animal species we have left alone. Greed is what this is all about no doubt!!	Ginny

	2020-07-06 09:10:25	Gauteng		No I do not	You want to allow the slaughter of these animals where people have no compassion of how they do it what money for the back pocket of a few big wigs and when it is gone you have lost a heritage for our children , a whole industry and the many thousands of jobs that go with it abd a huge chunk of GDP waje up people once it us in your stomach no tourist can pay mega bucks to view it and that is what brings them here not the rest of our land	Pamela

	2020-07-06 09:10:17	Gauteng		No I do not	Passing this amendment will clear the way for the slaughter of bushmeat by the millions who are going without food in the immediate future. In the medium to long term though, it will definitely cause the collapse of the tourism industry, and thereby destroy the thousands of jobs in that industry. Our wildlife is finite. Once it is gone - and it will go quickly- what will we feed the hungry with then?	Bernadine
	2020-07-06 09:06:46	Gauteng		No I do not	This legislation is nothing but an attempt to legalise the so-called "bush meat" trade. The interests and wellbeing of our wildlife - some species which may face extinction - is not considered at all. Just as with other pieces of legislation, this urge to regulate and in the process enrich a select few, is a pattern which is repeated over and over. While countries such as China are working to improve the conditions and requirements of the slaughter of exotic animals for human consumption, your extended list, declaring wild animals to be "food", will serve the opposite purpuse. The government's attitude appears to be: If it moves, kill it. If it's dead, eat it. A shame to say the least.	Christo
	2020-07-06 09:04:37	Gauteng		No I do not	No, please do the research on plant-based diets vs meat-based diets. Meat consumption is directly linked to heart disease, and the cancers, amongst other illnesses. Government should be focusing on what boosts immune-systems. The most efficient way to cut down drastically on meat and dairy, and boost veg and fruit and legumes (beans etc). Please do the research from scientists and biologists, not from the meat or dairy industry. Please also cut drastically on the sugar! Now of all times during COVID-19 and going forward to the next viral outbreak, immune systems and good nutrition is of utmost importance.	Ingrid
	2020-07-06 09:02:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Why not educate the black people crying out for land to farm grazing stock to feed the people or do we want more zoological viruses transmitted to us. I cannot believe that any civilised citizenship could contemplate this move!	Ronnie
	2020-07-06 09:02:03	Gauteng		No I do not	Nowhere in the world have wild animals been classified as farm animals based on the supposed origin of the current virus put out by the Chinese Communist Party. What an abomination and travesty of justice this classification by South Africa would be. Wild animals in Africa are already endangered or eliminated for unjust causes like hunting and poaching. To all intents and purposes they are uniquely Africa's most precious wild assets for their own sake and play a significant role in the tourism industry which brings in huge sums of money. They should be protected at all costs. The classification is cruel to the extreme and ridiculous and can only be contemplated by a ministry with no understanding of the natural world and the role they play in the economy which we are aware is in freefall as it is.	Vivienne

	2020-07-06 09:00:24	Gauteng		No I do not	Please do not add more or wild or endangered animals to the list of animals for meat consumption. This should be obvious to any rational thinking person who think about the future in terms of human health, wild animal preservation and endangered species preservation.	David
	2020-07-06 09:00:18	Gauteng		No I do not	No wildlife or birds to be added to the list.	Dirk
	2020-07-06 09:00:09	Gauteng		No I do not	No, no and no again. I think this is absolutely beyond ridiculous and these policies are put together without any forethought or consideration of consequences. What are we saving for future generations and what are we teaching them? The impact of poaching on our wild animals is already way beyond control and totally unacceptable. We have enough domestic animals for food and these need to be cared for in a humane manner and not allow the cruelty that takes place all the time within our societies	Lynn
	2020-07-06 08:58:50	Gauteng		No I do not	The old list was perfectly sufficient; the new inclusions on the proposed list only serve to prove that there are sinister intentions around the newly included species such as rhinoceros. This is preposterous!	Trevor
	2020-07-06 08:58:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Protect our wildlife! What heritage are we leaving for our children and their children if we decimate the earth of everything that is naturally beautiful.	Jennifer
	2020-07-06 08:56:34	Gauteng		No I do not	We have enough domestic animals classified as livestock that are available to eat. Why now must we focus our attention on the wildlife? We should learn from what has happened in China - they will eat anything - their actions, i.e. exotic animal wet markets caused the latest Covid 19 pandemic!	Karin
	2020-07-06 08:53:10	Gauteng		No I do not	Based on the appalling conditions that govern the captive bred lions Industry in South Africa what would make this process any different? It will only open up a can of worms that will devastate, genetically manipulate, abuse and exploit our wildlife and for what? Greed.	Lizelle
	2020-07-06 08:52:31	Gauteng		No I do not	This is nothing short of disgusting. Does this Government consider it important to appoint educated individuals to hold high office at ministerial level? 	2020-07-06 08:49:48	Gauteng		No I do not	1. How can you possibly deem wildlife good enough for human consumption? 2. In a world plagued by an ever decline in natural resources (includes wildlife) are we not supposed to be protecting what little we have left? 3. Is this new Act being passed to appease the Government's new bosses from the East, to whom we are so indebted to & who think nothing of our wildlife, as we can see from our declining Rhino Population and the current pandemic consuming our country?	humeira
	2020-07-06 08:48:03	Gauteng		No I do not	This government will steal and manipulate to suit themselves. Who owns most of wild life in SA and that is the main reason behind this proposal. DESTROY, DESTROY, DESTROY.	george
	2020-07-06 08:44:16	Gauteng		No I do not	STOP killing our farmers and start supporting them then there will be enough food for all!	Lewellyn
	2020-07-06 08:41:10	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa has an international reputation as a wild life tourist destination. It has taken generations of careful management to achieve this. Allowing people to slaughter wild animals like hippo and elephant sends the wrong message, and clearly demonstrates that we not concerned about our wild animals, but rather to make a quick buck. This is barbaric.	John

	2020-07-06 08:29:41	Gauteng		No I do not	The cruelty in the farming business is horrendous as it just with the animals eaten now!! To add even more would increase this a 100 fold! The farm, the loading, the transportation, the offloading, the holding pens etc. the actual slaughter is terrifying for them. I was an abattoir inspector and I say NO!	Kay

	2020-07-06 08:26:21	Gauteng		No I do not	The ANC government has taken the rights away from all citizens to have their say on what goes in this country, they are civil servants, they need to abide by the laws and constitution and they need to include the citizens of this country, hence the reason why we have a constitution and a bill of rights. They are there to protect citizens and the constitution of this Country and not institute and deem and see fit for our citizens need or don't need. They are failing us and our economy and turning this country into a Marxist state	Gavin
	2020-07-06 08:23:43	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals have a place on earth, it brings in tourism and also I am totally against hunting to show off a trophy to your friends. Animals such as chickens, sheep etc are specially bred for eating purposes	Neville
	2020-07-06 08:23:30	Gauteng		No I do not	Total insanity to totally destroy and exhaust natural resources of any kind. We have specific animals that are bred for consumption. This supply is deliberately bread and selected, attempting To ensure sufficient supply. Wild animals live in protected reserves for a reason. Their numbers dwindled and society decided to protect them. It remain a huge source of income for the country through tourism, enabling many people to see these animals in their natural environment. Not only would we eradicate these animals through stupidity, we would take away one of our large economic resources, thus not only destroying our economy, but a precious resource that will be lost forever. It really does not make any sense, unless the idea is just really to turn our country into a toxic and empty wasteland that would become totally uninhabitable in time?	Carol
	2020-07-06 08:23:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife needs protecting. We need strong conservation projects to protect our majestic and rich biodiversity. We should not allow the slaughter of our wildlife! This is just short term greed.	Mike

	2020-07-06 08:08:23	Gauteng		No I do not	1. Have the government not learnt anything from the Covid-19 and Ebola viruses? Both of which started at wet markets supplying bush meat. The listeriosis outbreak in SA initiated by inefficient testing. 2. Are there not enough meat choices out there? Do we really have to eat everything into extinction?	Ethel

	2020-07-06 08:02:34	Gauteng		No I do not	I wonder what the motivation behind the legislation can be. We have legislation regarding the protection of wild animals and this would appear to be in total conflict. All wild life, particular in this country which depends on tourism for a healthy portion of income, should remain protected and not slaughtered.	John
	2020-07-06 07:58:17	Gauteng		No I do not	I suggest that the wild animals of South Africa be left alone. Over many centuries they have been repeatedly tortured, driven from their natural habitat, and killed. The department should be protecting them, not arranging for their wholesale slaughter. The fate of 'domesticated' animals should attract this department's interest. They should attend to the cruel treatment of sheep (for instance), live export of which recently attracted worldwide attention. Suggest that the department get its priorities right.	Bruce
	2020-07-06 07:57:50	Gauteng		No I do not	I absolutely do not support any measure that will endanger our precious wildlife any further than it's already threatened. This government seems to be hellbent on destroying our heritage.	Athol

	2020-07-06 07:55:57	Gauteng		No I do not	The answer is simple stop tampering with Nature.. all living entities inclusive of fauna and flora is of Gods creation/... preservation of the planet is not dependent on a piece of paper drafted by the government. The pandemics from the past inclusive of the current one is clear evidence that we as humans think we are the demigods of the world which is delusional and destructive. Leave it to the professional expert to manage and God will take care of the rest.	Charmaine

	2020-07-06 07:50:23	Gauteng		No I do not	The minister must publish a report giving reasons for his decision to extend the list of wild animals for slaughter. Apparently there is no attempt to justify his decision. There is no attempt by the minister to explain what measures are in place to prevent illegal practices in this matter.	Stuart
	2020-07-06 07:49:22	Gauteng		No I do not	NO!!! I'm sure this is Unconstitutional, if not it should be. What is SA well known for? African Wildlife. Cart blanche slaughter will negatively affect our international tourist income which is one of our biggest natural money generators for SA , not to mention the other spin-offs for the related industries. How can you eat the cow that provides milk for ever? There will be job losses all round. SA citizens are blessed with God's gift of these majestic creatures, big or small. On the other hand, culling is assuring the survival of a specie. Sell that meat channeling the proceeds back to the institutions caring for wildlife. This absolutely ridiculous announcement is a kneejerk reaction with Political sweeteners attached. We are voting soon, remember? Future generations worldwide, and God, will not forgive us if we allow this tragedy. I pray for common sense.	JANNIE

	2020-07-06 07:19:35	Gauteng		No I do not	The slaughter of wildlife will never be managed, the current government cannot maintain and run a zoo properly !!!! It will give free reign to poaching and our wildlife parks will soon become non-existent. The outbreak of the Covid is a clear message we should not be going down the same path as the Chinese, eating everything that walks, crawls, slithers and swims. This sounds like another chapter in our corruption diaries, enriching the government....again.	Deidre

	2020-07-06 07:02:38	Gauteng		No I do not	I cannot believe that the government can even consider such a move. Porcupines and Rhinos are on the endangered species list and this type of legislation will only exacerbate the problem and see the extinction of some of these animals. This seems irrational and goes against the protection of endangered species. More and more species are being poached and now you want to allow them to be slaughtered for commercial consumption. Sa y goodbye to Lions, Rhinos , Porcupines, Hippos to name a few.	Christopher

	2020-07-06 04:47:40	Gauteng		No I do not	It is becoming very clear that this government will try and legalise anything to benefit their pockets and their masters, the Chinese. Half the animals on this list are not even from Africa, nevermind from South Africa. You are clearly preparing our country for the Chinese take over that you have sold your souls for. I can see no other reason for legalising the produce and/or harvesting of animals that are not indigenous to our country. This list looks like the inventory of a Chinese wet market! Do you really think we are that stupid that we cannot see where you are coming from and where this is going!? You want to encourage the poaching and inhumane killing of animals that are already very close to extinction - how much money are you gonna get paid, huh? Not to mention the amount of viruses that you will be letting loose on the people of this country - it seems you are out to kill us all in any way you can! 	2020-07-04 20:52:46	Gauteng		No I do not	We, as South Africans, have a precious legacy that we have inherited, of wild animals that are endemic to our region. These include the animals named in your draft amendment, such as elephant, rhino and giraffe. We all know that these, and many other, species are under threat of poaching, habitat loss and climate change, among other factors. Visitors come from far and wide to view these magnificent creatures, that are dependent on us for their protection. We are among a select number of countries to have such a rich heritage of wild life, and we need to protect our reputation as progressive policy makers in relation to that wild life.	Cynthia

Rhinos elephants lion and all wildlife in SA are precious and should be protected! Most of South Africa's tourism revolves around our wildlife. What does it say about SA if the government allows such a cruel and barbaric not to mention unspeakable thing to happen?? What's more this opens the floodgates to poachers, hunters and more!! Trading wildlife for FOOD?? It is plain GREED!! Nothing else but greed. Disregard and no respect for the precious treasure that is the wildlife of South Africa!!? We as South Africans do not want to be seen in the same light as China! Enough is enough, the SA government has ruined South Africa now they want to threaten our wildlife?? NO ANC! You are wrong. 	2020-07-03 18:34:52	Gauteng		No I do not	This country will need the tourist industry to grow rapidly after Covid 19 in order to help the stimulate the economy. Wild life is a major part of this. Changing this law I believe will have an impact on this, especially with the number of animals lovers we have seen visit this country in the past. This change will also impact those that contribute to and take action against poachers, making it impossible to punish those that are caught and provides an ever increasing market place for the sale of poached animals. If this disastrous law goes through it will be impossible to reverse the devastation to our natural heritage. This action would only serve those that focus on the short term gains without thought for the country and with long term (possibly permanent) detrimental results. Has a full scientific, financial, environmental and health study been formally done?	Mike

Why have we spent so much money on conservation to leave the wonderful animals as reference for our children? We haven't got the manpower to keep out poachers at the moment, so how does the minister think we will fare in the future? Please do not endanger our animals or we will end up with stuffed animals in museums only! If people want to hunt, give the animals an equal chance and only allow knives to hunt with! Destroy our wildlife, eat everything that moves, by so doing you will be destroying the very thing that makes South Africa a popular holiday destination - our wildlife. I weep at this stupidity. I weep for mankind who thinks that he has dominion over all creatures. I weep for this country that is being run into the ground by barbarians. Just remember: when it's gone there's not turning back. What are the masses going to eat then? Already our farmers are becoming a threatened "commodity". Subsistence farming won't feed the nation! My plea is that some modicum of sense (!) will prevail and that this insane draft amendment is stopped! Remember: we will be judged by what we do to our animals.	Annette

	2020-07-02 11:15:57	Gauteng		No I do not	A big FAT NO!!!!! If God wanted us to "vreet" all types of meat He would have put wild animals on our farm land as general live stock for human use. It is Barbaric to eat everything that moves!! We humans are the most violent ANIMALS walking the earth - God should smite humans (that are suppose the have some brains between their ears), that want to destroy our nature. Our nature is already in havoc just look at our beaches, rivers, everything that once were beautiful to look at and to appreciate God's miracles! We will pay for destroying nature, God is just too patient with man kind.	Poppie

	2020-07-02 09:03:26	Gauteng		No I do not	By trying to push this amendment through, you are taking South Africa back decades in development and you will hurt its tourism industry more than you can ever calculate. Not to mention, that you will be doing exactly what was the cause of Covid - allowing people to eat wild life that carry diseases fatal to humans. If you pass this amendment you will be personally responsible for signing the death warrant of thousands of species that will be wiped out and go extinct because of your actions. You may only put a few species on this list but the effect that their extinction will have, will wipe out thousands more. THINK! THINK! THINK! These actions will bring the wrath of the world upon South Africa, who is already reviled for its corruption and lack of respect for its people and its resources. I beg you, don't do this!	C

	2020-07-01 18:00:35	Gauteng		No I do not	It seems that our Government's love affair with money knows no end. This will just open itself up to abuse and illegal trade. What this government should be addressing is population control. What are we leaving to the next generations if it already takes 1.5 earths to support the current global population. Opening up this list will just result in a further loss of biodiversity, the one thing that sustains the carrying capacity of the earth. Now we want to lower this capacity even further. If this is what we are going to do expect even more environmental resistance in the form of panademics on a scale that makes covid-19 look like a teddy bear!!!!!!! And what this government should realise that every day south africans do not have a ride booked to mars this is the only planet we have they need to look after it. 	2020-07-01 16:09:55	Gauteng		No I do not	The inclusion of wild animals in this act is irresponsible in the extreme. We are in the middle of a global pandemic that was brought about by the transfer of a virus from a wild animal (Possibly a pangolin) to a human. The management of domestic animals for slaughter should be under strict control and any changes to the legislation should impose more restrictions rather than opening the practice to the unknown and untested. SARS virus was transmitted to the human population by a civet cat. MERS came via a camel and the SARS-Cov-2 carrier was possibly a pangolin. In all the above cases, the original source was probably a bat, which species seems to carry viruses that can cross to humans. This act if passed could be responsible for the next global pandemic.	Brady

Rabbits breed very fast and with a little training are easy to raise.	Melanie

Vegetarian based diets is the way to go. Absolutely no to wild-life. Is it not enough that we put so many 'farm' animals through a living hell? Seriously - we ask for kindness, peace and love yet we are not prepared to impart any act of kindness to others. The Lion trade is one of the most awful decisions taken by govt. Stop this now before we have no wild life left. Wild lions are on the brink of extinction as it stands now. Is this not what SA tourism is all about?? You are cutting off the hand that feeds a good portion of our country. Think before lining your own damn pockets....ANGRY.	Avril

	2020-06-30 19:37:31	Gauteng		No I do not	Stop killing endangered species just cause you do not understand the difference between a farm animal and a wild animal. Stop killing our donkeys to export to China for their fake medicines. Strenghten the laws to protect our animals and not just kill them to eat them. Whats wrong with you? All wild animals have zoonotic diseases that affects humans in different ways. I do not agree that any wild animal or donkeys should be consumed or their body parts used for fake unscientific medicine. Stop killing the animals just cause you havent done your homework and its an wasy way out. No breeding wild life for this sick indusyry and stop lion canning.	Sonja
	2020-06-30 19:31:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Wild animals are exactly that, wild. Free to roam and conduct their lives as they see fit. Classifying them as livestock takes away their freedom. On top of that it subjects them to abuse in the form of slaughter, kept most likely in horrific living conditions, pumped with antibiotics, hormones etc. Human greed knows no bounds and meat industry in general is one of the prime examples of human disrespect of the world we live in. More forests will be cut down to make room for ever increasing need for space to breed the animals and not to mention enormous usage of already scarce water resources it takes, plus the contamination of the same. 					Most of the value held in South Africa has been systematically eroded, with the unconstitutional and illegal lockdown regulations destroying what was left of the economy. For decades one thing that set South Africa apart was our unique and exceptionally beautiful wildlife which has attracted constant visitors from near andfar. Every South African state-owned enterprise has been ruined by institutional incompetence and/or corruption. Infrastructure has had little or no maintenance or improvements. South Africa has become a gangster state, where safety and security no longer exists. The amount of brutal and outrageously savage farm attacks and murders are threatening those who we rely on for our food security and they do so under severe weather conditions. Surreptitious and unsustainable policies, regulations and laws, (refer Agenda 21) have been adopted, trampling on the freedoms and human rights of SA citizens as contained in the Bill of Rights. The most fundamental of these is the deliberate breakdown of the nuclear family by totalitarian measures of control of our individual lives. South Africans have always been close to nature. It is an integral part of our collective emotional well-being. Right now, our ability to access our conservation / wildlife parks which of course contain our flora, fauna BUT MOST IMPORTANTLY ALL OF OUR MAGNIFICENT WILDLIFE. Being able to enjoy nature and wildlife is of vital importance to our mental health. Scientists have shown that it is imperative for humans to interact with nature and specifically animals of all kinds, in order to learn and mirror empathy. To a large degree, those who never learn empathy for animals, are at an exponentially higher risk of psychopathic behaviours. Innocent, law-abiding citizens DO NOT want more psychopaths in our society. At this moment in time, the only redeeming feature and prospect of investment, is in our travel/tourist industry which until the lockdown was flourishing. It is without doubt to any sane human being that it will be disastrous and detrimental in EVERY WAY for the SA government to, for even a minute, consider this incomprehensible, imbecilic and savage amendment to the Meat Safety Act. This is our last bastion of humanity and civilization . If the cruel and brutal decimation of our wildlife is allowed to go ahead, we become NOTHING MORE THAN SAVAGES. It has taken only 26 years for the South African government to destroy almost every working mechanism possible. Is the annihilation of our animals to be yet another government "accomplishment"? And when there are no more animals, what is next . . .

	2020-06-30 18:38:30	Gauteng		No I do not	As a veterinarian, I have visited abbatoirs when I was a student. From this experience I can testify that A LOT of biosecurity measures are not adhered to and this is swept under the rug (through corruption most likely) at many abbatoirs. The scary part is that I visited abbatoirs that were thought to be some of the better abbatoirs in our country. Just imagine the risk of having naive species being slaughtered in some of our countries' sub-standard abbatoirs! The lives of the workers at the fore-front will be in danger first, then will come the danger to the consumers. It is utterly irresponsible and selfish to put the lives of South Africans at risk, for something as unnecessary as this. If the objective is to make more food available for the ever growing population, investigations should be put into crops. This is a much safer and easier attainable and manageable route to take.	Shannon

	2020-06-30 18:22:49	Gauteng		No I do not	Dear Dr Molefe I hereby add my objection to the proposed change in legislation to allow for the trade in wildlife as possible safe edible meats such as Rhino (endangered!), Elephant, Pangolin & yes Lion. Being a committed Christ-follower & knowing the Bible, it is very clear that certain foods are good for human consumption & others (viz wildlife) not. Read Leviticus Ch 11. These laws are still applicable today. The veracity of the Bible has been indesputibly proved by scientists who have shown the origins of certain pathogens as being found in wildlife eg Ebola, Corona 2, Mers, Sars, Nipah, Marburg, HIV, Influenza A, Lassa Fever & Tape Worms! Apart from this legislation being in direct opposition to biblical laws (with its own consequences), it is also immoral. All animals are sentient beings & have the ability to feel emotions incl pain & distress amongst others. They too have characters of their own & should be appreciated & cared for & not abused or used for amusement & very definitely NOT EATEN, if wildlife! It is obvious that people can be trained to feed themselves from grains, vegetables, chickens, goats, cows & sheep. Government has a God-given responsibility towards not only the whole human population of S A but also the lifestock & wildlife to oversee on behalf of God. I implore you Dr Molefe, on behalf of the public of S A & all its animals, do not approve this legislation as this will in fact be moving S A backwards instead of forwards. It appears to have been brought into consideration as a quick, free means to an earn masses of money for the government , but in fact will not lead to a better, educated, moral & prosperous society but the opposite. PLEASE DO NOT APPROVE THIS CHANGED LEGISLATION	SIGRID

	2020-06-30 15:19:55	Gauteng		No I do not	I do NOT support this amendment at all. South Africa's ecotourism is a huge attraction for foreigners, as tourism contributes 2.8% to GDP. Tourism is the fourth largest generator of foreign exchange in South Africa, and ecotourism encourages visitors while promoting and supporting SA's biodiversity. By condoning this amendment we'd be puposefully halting all of this and stubbing our own tourism growth. We need to preserve and protect all wildlife in South Africa.	Kirsten

	2020-06-30 15:16:57	Gauteng		No I do not	I feel we should be looking after our own at this time. Exporting live animals and skeletons of dead animals is totally reprehensible. Many of our endangered species are exported and appear to die during this process or soon after arrival at their destination. Selling lion bones for “supposed”, health benefits is disgusting. 8000 lion skeletons are approved for export every year. That means these lions are killed for people’s pleasure. What happened to the giraffes that were sent overseas? Good question. Most are not accounted for. Please stop trading our heritage and our children’s heritage. Thank you	Pauline

	2020-06-30 13:56:13	Gauteng		No I do not	I don’t think that this is a good idea at all. Our wildlife is sacred and should be treated as such. This amendment goes against that and will only lead to extinction and mess up ecosystems. Our wildlife is a major tourist attraction for viewing, thus they should not be added to the menu.	Olivia
	2020-06-30 13:54:55	Gauteng		No I do not	Absolutely not. South Africa’s wildlife belongs to all of the country’s people. With the list of so many extinct this is an outrageous suggestion. 	2020-06-30 13:11:07	Gauteng		No I do not	This amendment makes it open season to decimate South Africa's wildlife. There are already numerous animals on the endangered wildlife list and this change is purely motivated by greed in the moment that will have terrible and unreversable consequences for your children and your children's children. Do you want to be remembered as the greedy ancestor who destroyed SAS legacy even further with your grasping unashamed greed instead of using your position for the good of generations to come? I'm embarrassed that we should be led by such undeserving people who have only their personal short term gain in mind and to hell with the rest of your nation! 	2020-06-30 12:29:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Wildlife is our heritage, kept safe for us for generations, and should not be abused by a leadership which is only temporary. Wildlife is the source of livelihood for those in the tourism industry. There are sufficient animals being farmed for meat. If wildlife is included in the farming category, does that mean that animals presently being farmed are to be culled? Another wrong! Are we to become like China, creating wet markets and producing diseases year after year, which infect the whole world? What about climate change? We will be producing more methane to poison the air. 	2020-06-30 10:58:40	Gauteng		No I do not	We are the custodians of this planet, we cannot allow mass consumption of animals that are NOT considered to be fit for human consumption to be allowed to happen. 	2020-06-30 10:58:23	Gauteng		No I do not	Whilst we understand that many still enjoy the eating of animals both wild and domestic, we believe that there should be guidance and regulations on which of those animals and in which circumstances they can be slaughtered and consumed. If "heritage animals" are consumed for food there should be a compelling and clear case that can withstand public scrutiny in the press and wider concersation, which at this point we do not believe this bill to have, and indeed would enrage and upset many patriotic South Africans who would be disappointed and disturbed by this turn of events. 	2020-06-30 10:18:21	Gauteng		No I do not	Tourism is one of SA main sources of income. Most of the tourists come to SA especially to view wild animals in their natural environment. By changing this legislation we wipe out animals that are already on the endangered list. This will mean that the gene pool is diminishing with bad consequences for all species that are involved, especially rhinos, elephants, giraffes and lions. ,(all animals that experience dwindeling numbers in either SA or Africa as a whole.) The world will take notice of the amendment to the bill and will then rather visit Botswana, Kenya or Tanzania, where animals will be tamer as a result of not being shot and butchered for the pot. Think twice before you change this law!!!	Mathilda

	2020-06-30 10:18:17	Gauteng		No I do not	The proposed amendments to this Meat Safety Act and the previous amendments to the Animal Imrovement Act are highly problematic. Among a range of issues, this amended legislation will result in normalising the slaughter, sale and export of new categories of bushmeat that should be protected. Rather than making it illegal, the legislation regulates it, which is likely to fuel demand and supply. The potential of this to generate new zoonotic diseases is alarming, especially in light of the types of categories of animals suggested in the AIA. As it is, cattle farmers are concerned about disease spreading from neighbouring game farm animals to their livestock, and now you are suggesting legislation that enables industry to formally move to mass commercial farming of wildlife alongside other livestock farms. During a pandemic caused by zoonotic disease at a time when countries around the world, including China, are clamping down on the sale of bushmeat because of the risk of disease, you're proposing legislation that basically puts the initial steps in place for an extensive bushmeat industry in South Africa. This would bring a ticking time bomb into this country and the world. It is completely irresponsible. Please can we look at making it illegal to farm these newly categorised species of wildlife for human consumption and other commercial use (horns, tusks etc) instead of encouraging it? Many are already at risk as species, and they propose a risk to other animals and humans if they are further commodified in the ways that would result from this amended legislation.	Katherine
	2020-06-30 10:18:02	Gauteng		No I do not	Disgusting and shameful to even think of - wildlife is part of SA heritage want to destroy that too ?	Paul
	2020-06-30 10:17:07	Gauteng		No I do not	We are in the midst of a pandemic that can change the way we regard wild animals and the food chain. This proposal therefore flies in the face of logic, common sense, responsibility and due diligence towards us as citizens. China has a long tradition of people eating wild animals - a practice that likely increase the transmission risks of microbes from animals to humans, causing what are called zoonotic diseases. The common element between SARS, MERS, and COVID-19 is close human contact, including consumption, with wild or domesticated animals. This isn't a new phenomenon; these risks have existed since the dawn of animal domestication. --->> Today, three-quarters of new or emerging infectious diseases are zoonotic. But instead of conducting microbial surveillance in animals, particularly wild animals, and prohibiting the sale of those harboring potentially dangerous microbes, public health experts and other policy-makers wait until after deadly microbes spill over into humans before acting. If experts had been paying attention, they may have been able to prevent zoonotic disease spillover events such as SARS and COVID-19. Instead, policy-makers rush around putting out viral fires after they've spread. Society's approach to public health needs to proceed strategically, not reactively, if humans are to sustainably meet dietary needs for meat and other animal proteins. Human health is tied to the health of animals and the environment. This means society will need to recognize the inextricable links between human, animal, and environmental health, and it will require sharper examination of humans' relationship with and consumption of domesticated and wild animals in order to reduce zoonotic disease risks. It has also been shown that raising animals for food in enormous quantities is changing the planet's microbial ecosystems in profound and potentially dangerous ways. Researchers must examine the human, animal, and environmental components of zoonotic spillover events before they can effectively address them. The most profound way that humans interact with the environment is by eating it—in this case, in the form of animal protein. Although it's unrealistic to expect any nation to become vegetarian or vegan, there are ways to reduce (not increase!) animal protein consumption. For example, plant-based meat alternatives are now available. And it is widely accepted that once can get the amount and quality of protein the body requires from non-animal products. Two billion people around the world eat insects. Insects provide high-quality protein and vitamins, are extremely efficient, and need very little feed or space. They produce minimal waste and emit much less greenhouse gases than livestock. They would be a perfect solution, except for one important thing—the "ick" factor. In affluent countries, insects are viewed with revulsion, with one exception: lobsters. With clever advertising, edible insects have the potential to become fashionable too. Much has been written about the need to reduce the wild animal trade for food and other products. Reducing human contact with wildlife (and this inlcudes consumption) reduces opportunities for microbial transmission. (excerpt from A One Health Approach to Preventing the Next Pandemic - Issues.org) I hope that common sense and ethics will prevail and this proposal be scrapped in perpetuity.	Estie

	2020-06-30 09:47:56	Gauteng		No I do not	This list of animals to be used in farming does not make sense. It seems as if an overseas list has been taken and African wildlife added (copy & paste)! Many of these animals belonging to other countries do not ever occur in South Africa - why are they on this list? And many of the African species are near threatened or vulnerable; they should not be included. If animals roaming wild on game farms and are hunted in the traditional manner of hunting it could be an alternative to industrialised cattle farms that are also becoming a threat to the environment. So any industrialise farming should be phased out in the near future, not added to be including wild African animals.	Ottilie
	2020-06-30 09:47:35	Gauteng		No I do not	The previous list includes many animals that are on the new list including Elephant and a category called Wild Game which is open ended. There does not seem to be much thought put into the amendment as it seems to be a rambling list of current local domestic animals, foreign domestic animals, local wild animals and foreign wild animals. The current list needs to be re-drafted to be more precise, endangered animals like elephant and disease carrying animals like buffalo need to be removed. Experts need to be involved. Do our government not have the capacity to learn. Covid-19 is the worst corona virus known to date, but there have been others in the past that show us that indiscriminate consumption of animals and the introduction of foreign animals lead to disease, death and destruction of society as we knew it. 	2020-06-30 08:39:22	Gauteng		No I do not	This proposal will result in a decline on the numbers of our more significant wildlife species as they are exposed to commercial interests. Not only do these represent a precious commodity at a conservation level they are also the basis of our tourist industry. In addition, outbreaks of pandemic disease have been shown to be linked to the consumption of meat of wildlife. In view of these observations it would seem very unwise to bring this Act into being	Jennifer

Many of the animals on your list are under threat already because of food and land scarcity, we need to strenuously and actively protect all our wildlife, they are all too vulnerable to hunting and poaching. Animals that are humanely and sustainably bred and not under threat for their existence can be a source of food Conservation of all our natural resources, including water, must be a top priority for all of us Thank you! 	2020-06-30 04:36:53	Gauteng		No I do not	Are we becoming like China???? Kill and eat anything that moves!!!! To kill these majestic animals is nonsensical. Wild life is already under threat from humans moving into their spaces with poaching and deforestation. STOP, PLEASE!!!!!!!	Wendy
	2020-06-30 04:33:42	Gauteng		No I do not	These animals deserve our nurturing and our PROTECTION.....NOT to be added to a menu. NO NO NO.....ABSOLUTELY NOT.....Our wildlife is to be PROTECTED!!!	Pat
	2020-06-30 03:46:37	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a thinly veiled attempt to create a loophole for the export of endangered apecies products for the Chinese and Vietnamese wetmarket trade. It is abhorent and should be rejected in the strongest terms. It suggests duplicity by the government in the trade of endangered speciea and enables the entire sordid industry.	Robert

	2020-06-29 22:51:13	Gauteng		No I do not	Most tourists come to visit South Africa for its wildlife and once the slaughter begins is when we can say goodbye to the revenue made from tourism. Going on safari is always top of their list. They do not come here to see our beautiful beaches or scenery as there are equally beautiful beaches and scenery elsewhere in the world, they come here to see the wildlife. Without these visitors our beloved country will just be another poor African country.	Pat

We need to be preserving our wild life heritage that is so threatened by illegal international trade and poaching. Our Rhino's Elephants and Giraffe along with the other species are threatened. We have spent millions trying to protect them and to now put them out there as fair game to kill and be table meat goes beyo ND comprehension. We could be utilizing them as a resource for tourisism and using that money to better the lives of the people living in the areas where wild life are., s hos and jobs. 	2020-06-29 20:39:37	Gauteng		No I do not	The prevailing view of animals as mere "natural resources" is the moral blindspot of our time, and appeals to their "sustainable utilisation" are often nothing more than weak attempts at justifying their continued exploitation. Why exploit our wildlife when we should be finding alternate sources of food. We should protect our natural and wildlife resources for our future genarations and protect our farmers who actually work to supply food to an overpopulated nation . We should NOT allow callous exploitation of any species for any reason. NO I definetly do NOT support this draft amendment to the Meat Safety Act (extended list of animals)	Lynette
	2020-06-29 20:38:50	Gauteng		No I do not	This is not right and is going to encourage more poaching. Numbers are going to dwindle to extinction. Is it really to feed the masses or are there ulterior motives behind this?	Alison
	2020-06-29 20:38:19	Gauteng		No I do not	Firstly considering the effect of eating wild animals in our current global climate, the extension of this bill to include wild animal meat is irresponsible, and suicidal for the general population: if we believe that Covid 19 was the result of the unnatural diet and consumption of bat meat. Secondly: we have an environmental crisis, animals are facing mass extinction and the mass farming of single species will further contribute to the decline. Thirdly...this is just wrong. We have a massive farming industry that already caters for the breeding and slaughtering of enough animals. No more blood letting please.	Tracey
	2020-06-29 20:38:08	Gauteng		No I do not	The world has just lived(still living)through the consequences of misusing wild life.....we must avoid this at all costs to ensure the survival of mankind.	Elana

	2020-06-29 20:03:11	Gauteng		No I do not	To whom it may concern I object in the strongest possible terms to the proposed update of this schedule. I am an environmental consultant with over 30 years of experience, both internationally and in South Africa. My objections are based on two key reasons: Firstly, it is entirely inappropriate to include a number of highly threatened wild animal species on this list. These animals are part of our national heritage, and everything must be done to ensure their protection and continued existence, for both this generation and future generations, as set out in the National Environmental Management Act 107 of 1998 and in the National Environmental Management Biodiversity Act of 2004. Secondly, it is extraordinarily ill-advised at this time, when increasingly the science of disease transmission is focusing on the consumption of wild meat as the sources of pandemics such as Covid-19, to propose expanding the list of wild animals to be farmed and consumed. Such a move will considerably increase the risks of future pandemics; something that should not be considered in our country. I trust that you will take my comments into account, and I reserve the right to legal recourse should the Department pursue this route. Yours faithfully, Shaun	Shaun

	2020-06-29 19:57:55	Gauteng		No I do not	It is horrendous to even consider using South Africa's indigenous animals, a major tourist attraction and income to our country, as a human food source!!! What a ridiculous idea! Statistically, humans 5/13, domestic and agricultural life stock 7/13, our wildlife 1/13 and now our government wants to make this 1/13 into food for humans and their life stock, kill the little indigenous animals we still are privileged to have and should protect!!! 	2020-06-29 19:37:16	Gauteng		No I do not	The expansion of the list of animals that is proposed is not an acceptable manner for humans to act on. Many of the recent major Flu strains & more recently the Covid19 Pamdemic are DIRECTLY as a result of humans consuming animals that they should not be consuming. Bush Meat is one of these examples and by expanding the list of animals that are treated as domesticated & part of the meat trade is only going to increase the risks to humans and should he avoided by NOT expanding the list as proposed. 	2020-06-29 18:43:46	Gauteng		No I do not	I'm not sure who in their right mind would even think this is a good idea! I see rhino have been added on the list - what a joke! These creatures are already endangered with the poaching encouraged by lack of adequate punishment for those involved, and now you add an additional danger to the species! Get real! Wild life is a HUGE draw card for the tourist industry in SA (& we know how dire the economy is) so why would you want to jeopardise this further?	K
	2020-06-29 18:42:53	Gauteng		No I do not	We need to protect our endangered species and the fragile interdependent ecosystems that they form a part of, not further endanger more animal species. This act risks encouraging the illegal slaughter and poaching of more animals (those currently endangered and not yet endangered) for short term capital gains for a few individuals - it is cruel, irresponsible and unjustifiable! Our indigenous animal life and animal diversity is more valuable for our continued survival as humans as part of a biodiverse ecosystem than the unnecessary short sighted trade and export of meat. Have we learnt nothing from COVID-19 and historic zoonotic diseases? What do Covid-19, Ebola, Lyme and AIDS have in common - they jumped to humans from animals after humans started destroying habitats and ruining ecosystems.	Amy

	2020-06-29 17:40:11	Gauteng		No I do not	This is a serious step in the wrong direction and with everything we have learnt this year it would be unforgivable for South Africa to build up industrial animal agriculture for the short-term profit of the few at the expense of healthy, flourishing ecosystems for the many. There are other, far better ways to make money and create jobs - for a start look at the Hemp industry. It's interesting to note China are the top producers of hemp in the world. It's estimated that an average 300 000 ha of land in China is used for hemp production per annum. France is the second largest producer of hemp followed by Chile, Hungary, Ukraine, Russian Federation, Romania, Poland and Spain. No African countries are a major producer due to legislative issues. Why is SA lagging behind the world? http://www.daff.gov.za/docs/AMCP/HempMVCP2009-2010.pdf	Corinne

					To be entirely honest, I have not had the time to satisfactorily consider the matter. However, since the deadline is tomorrow I have decided to go ahead and oppose the policy based on my contemplation thus far. Some have pointed out that the amendment does not legalize the slaughter of these animals; it only regulates how the slaughtering is done. But what possible reason could there be to create these regulations if they are not considering legalizing the slaughter or intended to legalize it? I suppose some possibilities come to mind but they seem far-fetched. I have had very little time to research the matter but so far it arouses my suspicion that the government is attempting to set the stage for legalization of the slaughter of these animals. Since poaching, I assume, is to remain illegal (though one would guess that the legalization would provide assistance and impetus to poaching) it would seem that these animals are to be farmed. This would seem to be an operation that only the already wealthy would have sufficient capital to undertake. Frankly, I have little interest in the already wealthy further enriching themselves at the expense of everyone else. Honestly, who else would this benefit? Gullible people would be transferring their hard earned money to the pockets of rich snake oil salesmen for "homeopathic remedies". The image of the country and the tourism industry would be damaged. Poaching would be made significantly easier. And then there the dangers of zoonotic diseases to consider. I have yet to hear any substantial defence of the policy while I have heard significant criticism of it. Therefore, though my consideration of the matter is highly preliminary (though I highly doubt I would change my decision upon further reflection), I elect to oppose this amendment.

	2020-06-29 14:37:40	Gauteng		No I do not	Our wildlife is precious to us South Africans and is to be protected and not exploited. Tourism contributes hugely to our national economy. Our wildlife attracts millions of tourists who come to this country to see animals living in their natural environment. Why are these animals being treated as a food resource for humans and why is the ANC wanting to export their meat on a massive scale? The people involved in promoting this appalling decision have absolutely no conscience whatsover other than greed. The ANC needs to reconsider the morals of those people placed in positions of power. They are not acting for the good of the country, its people and its animals. Their goal is purely for self-enrichment. Please stop this now.	Karen

	2020-06-29 14:21:03	Gauteng		No I do not	There is a global issue with wildlife being smuggled and eaten thus to make it legal does not make sense. This would be a devastating Amendment that would have irreparable damage. Protect South Africa’s resources and wildlife. Instead of making it legal ensure there is more protection of endangered wild life. This Amendment would bring about the demise of animals that are indigenous to Southern Africa. Covid-19 was brought about from exotic animals being eaten. Is this not enough ?	Michelle

	2020-06-29 13:39:53	Gauteng		No I do not	As observed during this global coronavirus pandemic, the consumption of bush meat is dangerous and should not be allowed whether unregulated or regulated. Regulating the commercial side of bush meat production will not stop the already existing unregulated side of the industry and will not serve as a barrier to prevent unregulated bush meat. People who buy meat from any currently unregulated source are likely to continue to do so due to the accessibility and higher cost that bush meat sourced from a regulated supplier would carry. This amended therefore does not serve to benefit anyone other than the meat industry. The effect would have is an increased risk to disease (unregulated sources would continue and there is no guarantee that regulated sources would prevent the spread of new viruses) and harm to the already fragile animal species listed.	Stephen

	2020-06-29 12:25:20	Gauteng		No I do not	The legalization of the farming and slaughtering of our special and unique wild animal heritage Should not be allowed under any circumstances. It has been shown around the world that legalizing the killing of wild life creates an demand that the farmers of the wild animals cannot supply leading to a massive increase in poaching in reserves. It will also deistate our tourism industry. Wild life tourists generally boycott countries involved in the farming and killing of wild animals. It will have significantly reduce employment as these industries are systematically destroyed for no real reason.	David

Animals do feel stress, pain - why would any human being want to inflict this on any animal - no mature humane society would support this. The transfer of diseases should be front of mind - especially with the information coming out on what has happened in other countries when eating wild animals. 	2020-06-29 09:02:14	Gauteng		No I do not	I quote (Ludwig Raal from Credence Institute, Stellenbosch University) ... The groundwork for the possible large-scale farming of wild animals was laid last year, when the then Minister of Agriculture, Senzani Zokwana, amended the Animal Improvement Act, which saw 33 wild species reclassified as livestock. In light of the current pandemic, these pieces of legislation should concern us all. The link between wildlife and zoonotic diseases is well documented, but a short recap is merited. The majority of diseases that have emerged over recent years have come from wildlife. Farming wild animals is likely to exacerbate this phenomenon, by subjecting them to unnatural conditions that will cause them to experience chronic physiological stress, affecting their immune systems and increasing the likelihood of them spreading dangerous pathogens. .... End of quote	Franco

	2020-06-29 08:12:42	Gauteng		No I do not	Why destroy wildlife when it actually creates jobs in tourism as an attraction?. Our balance with nature will suffer and where does it stop?. Animal sanctuaries will become hunting grounds for hungry and money hungry individuals. When a nation loses respect for wildlife, they show they have lost respect for this miracle creation on earth. This farming with certain wild animals idea for legal slaughtering, seems to stimulate the depopulation of wildlife rather than preserving it and seen in the light of the movement to depopulate humans on earth as well, for an apparent attempt to save the earth, this is very dangerous. We already face the deadly affects of 5G radiation and the destruction of life including plant life, and bees and insects dying, so we cannot afford any attacks on life on earth of this nature.	george

Visitors come to South Africa to see the wild animals on your list because they can't do so in their own countries - this tells you how rare and important wildlife is. How can we even justify putting them on a list for human consumption? Any animal that resides in a National Park or Conservation area should be removed from this list. It seems to me this bill will have a far more negative impact than a positive one and that's reason enough to ensure it is never approved.	Nicole

Why is South Africa taking a step backwards when the whole world is in support of environmental and biodiversity conservation. This is disgusting, I've never been so ashamed to be a citizen of this country. This Act will encourage unnecessary cruelty and poaching towards these innocent creatures. 	2020-06-28 19:09:25	Gauteng		No I do not	This list includes threatened and endangered and/or highly endangered wildlife species. This Act will help destroy the heritage that brings tourists to our shores and much needed foreign exchange. You are gambling with our heritage, with our wildlife, with our future. I can NEVER vote for a party that does this recklessly without any due regard for future generations, for the protection of sentient animals and for our economic future. We will oppose and fight you to the last person. Your actions, if this policy goes ahead, together with the other laws and amendments you have made or are making to make our wildlife more vulnerable to human predation (and poaching) are reckless, uncalled for, and against prevailing global sentiment. YOU WILL NOT GET MY VOTE.	David

	2020-06-28 18:35:03	Gauteng		No I do not	I am horrified at the idea of broadening the list of wild animals for slaughter. The movement today is to eat less meat and more plant based foods. So much cruelty is involved in much of the killing of animals with no thought to the horror and distress they may be going through. We have lost many species in man's gratuitous and greedy ways and this must stop! If anything reduce the list of animals that are allowed to be killed. Let's start healing the world a nd make it a better place!	Susan

	2020-06-28 18:10:29	Gauteng		No I do not	South Africa is already the step child of the world regarding its wildlife policies. One of those being the despicable lion breeding farms, lion slaughter farms and 'canned' lion hunting. Be aware that these ridiculous policies will together with changes to the Meat Safety Act lead to tourists boycotting the country. Something that SA can ill afford. Another policy that will only benefit a few with the right connections. Despicable to say the least.	Justa
	2020-06-28 18:09:32	Gauteng		No I do not	This greed is destroying our beautiful country We love our wild animals. The wildlife provide hundreds of thousands of jobs and is a major source of revenue. Wildlife must be preserved for future generations.	Michelle

	2020-06-28 15:01:53	Gauteng		No I do not	There is good science available especially at present, for why this should NOT be permitted, but could the authorities consider at least this angle: it is an abomination of the law of nature for apex predators to eat each other... According humans such a status. But that would be speaking to only the issue of the big cats on this list. We are in the 21st Century and civilisation should surely have grown beyond these cruel and barbarous ways of feeding humans. While we shift appropriately to a move away from fossil fuels towards IPPs, change also our agricultural laws to support what is known to be the healthiest human lifestyle: plant food dominant, with only small quantities of natural 'prey' creatures, reared and slaughtered humanely, for those who truly cannot live without flesh. 	2020-06-28 14:34:25	Gauteng		No I do not	Has the Covid outbreak not taught us anything? Breeding wild animals for human consumption is asking for trouble and opening the floodgates for diseases and disaster. Wild animals belong in the wild, not in captive breeding situations. Our wildlife in many cases is endangered and needs to be protected for future generations to enjoy, rhinos being a case in point, and for biodiversity to flourish. Why not allow tourism, people seeing animals in the wild, to generate tourism income and pay salaries of people employed in the tourism sector Instead?	Vanessa

Plus South Africa is known for its wild life, tourist pay a lot of money to see them - not to eat them. A lot of hunters also pay a lot to get the privilege to shoot some of our wild life. They won't bring that money into our country if our wild life are worth nothing more than sheep and cows.	Nadia
	2020-06-28 14:28:47	Gauteng		No I do not	This action is very short sighted and clearly shows the incompetence of the people who drafted the act. It seems as if somebody wants to use our country's rare resources to get rich quickly.... there can be no other reason as the production of domestic food animals are much easier. The whole country benefits IN THE LONG TERM by the tourist industry driven by our precious wild life which is now in jeopardy due to the greed of a few people. 	2020-06-28 11:59:14	Gauteng		No I do not	President CR asked us to pray for our beloved South Africa! How can you possibly entertain such a horrific idea? These are God's creations just as we are. We are the custodians of all these beautiful animals and so we pray to God Almighty that he opens your and CR's eyes and to this evil matter and that you drop this horrible idea. God bless South Africa ??	Lydia
