	2025-12-14 15:56:55	No I do not	Constitutional issues	1. VAGUE / BROAD DEFINITIONS — RISK OF MISUSE Focus: Clarity, truth, and protection from manipulation Please establish clarity and truth, so that no law is shaped by confusion or hidden agendas. Let justice stand upright in South Africa, and let no vague or deceptive wording become a trap for the innocent. Let the Lord's light expose any attempt to twist definitions for political, ideological, or anti-biblical purposes. Protect citizens from the misuse of power, and let truth prevail over manipulation. 2. EXTRATERRITORIAL JURISDICTION — RISK OF POLITICAL WEAPONISATION Focus: Restraint, wisdom, and avoidance of political warfare May our leaders be granted the wisdom from — pure, peaceable, gentle — that they will not use law as a weapon of political warfare. Let righteousness guide the nation, and block any desire to use the justice system to target enemies rather than uphold truth. Break the counsel of those who scheme to weaponise legislation for political gain or international hostility. May the Lord, shield South Africa from legal battles that He has not ordained, and may He establish divine restraint over decision-makers. 3. SELECTIVE ENFORCEMENT — RISK OF ABUSE OF POWER Focus: Accountability, integrity, transparency Raise up righteous leadership who govern with integrity, compassion, and accountability. Let justice flow impartially, without political bias or selective targeting. Please expose hidden agendas, corrupt decisions, and secret alliances that attempt to twist justice. Establish checks and balances so no office, director, or authority may act above the current laws. 4. INTERNATIONAL CONSEQUENCES — RISK OF DIPLOMATIC DAMAGE Focus: Peace, stability, and wise diplomacy Grant South Africa diplomatic wisdom to walk in peace and not provoke unnecessary conflict with other nations. Let the spirit of peace prevail, not hostility or international strife. (Matt 5:9) Guide leaders to answers that turn away wrath.	Pieter	Western Cape		self-employed

	2025-12-14 15:46:04	No I do not	Constitutional issues	The country cannot and should not prescribe what I do as a private citizen. I have a right to freedom of religion, freedom of speech and freedom of movement. It is my right as a citizen of South Africa and is built into the constitution. Law cannot prescribe my private movements and opinions. This is overstepping a basic human right to get a political agenda passed. Next year it might be another country that someone has a problem with. This is a precedent that cannot be allowed to be approved. The law must protect its citizens and keep them from harm and keep them from harming. This opens the road to targeted political attacks against organisations, countries or people groups. This feels like giving parliament the right to micromanaging the citizens of South Africa. The principle of this proposed bill is wrong and dangerous. No this is absolutely unconstitutional. I cannot believe that parliament is even entertaining such a precedent. No, I do not agree with the bill, what is stands for or its contents.	Marlene	KwaZulu-Natal		employed individual

	2025-12-14 15:34:25	No I do not	Constitutional issues	This Bill will infringe on the Right of Association and Freedom of Religion. It will divide rather than unite. In times to come it seems possible that it can be misused to persecute people based upon their beliefs. There are other laws that can deal with unlawful acts and that should be a different discussion. The specificity of this Bill aimed at Israel seems to be of a certain political idea rather than what is good and correct in how we as a nation should deal with international challenges. We have been a nation of peace makers, and should continue on that path. What would be regarded or interpreted as support today, and what would be regarded or interpreted as support tomorrow, or in a year or 5 from now? This Bill may have the ability to potentially oppress citizens that hold a different view on the issue of Israel. Any Bill that can oppress and persecute any of our citizens for any reason is an apartheid type Bill in itself and that has no place in our democracy. These are the types of bills and laws that was fought against during apartheid. No one must be able to oppress and persecute anyone, especially not legally.	Frederick

	2025-12-14 15:33:04	No I do not	Constitutional issues	I do not support terrorist organisations and the anti-Semetic rhetoric. This proposed law would be an umbrella law, under which it can be used as weaponised Lawfare against citizens of South Africa who are protected under the Constitution of South Africa, to have freedom of speech, religion, movement and other freedoms. What are the parameters for the use of this law? Would it be used against Christians, Jews, persons who are affiliated with countries, such as the USA, Hungary or Israel, which the current ruling party of South Africa has designated as “Apartheid”) and would it be used to recruit voters for political parties in order to influence forthcoming elections? This Proposed law poses a threat to the citizens of South Africa, who wish to live in peace with one another, without being labelled as a Pro-Apartheid racist, which causes further division amongst the people. Apartheid no longer exists in South Africa, thankfully, thus why do law makers want to resurrect it? It was a beastly regime and South Africans want to move on and live without fear of political ostracizing based on an opinion of a state that is far from South Africa. Law makers need to concern themselves with serving the people who have put them in power, in order to unify the country and its people. I voted for a government that would concern itself with our country and our affairs, not create lawfare as a result of foreign policy - which is a waste of resources. Let us live, let us be free and let us have the freedom to make a living alongside our fellow countrymen and women. Will this law be used as a means to denaturalise citizens who were born here, whose parents and grandparents were born here? We are heavily classified into racial groups as it is, why further classify persons by religion or their private views? Are we, the people, the enemies? This proposed law is a pro-Apartheid law in that it seeks to separate people along religious, ethinic & ideological lines.This promotes hatred.	Manda	Western Cape		retired

If adopted the legal and constitutional consequences will be severe. Although the explicit intent of the Bill is to declare Israel an "apartheid state" it goes further by declaring that those South Africans who support Israel are therefore complicit and will be criminally charged. While South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), the aim of the Bill is to establish it as a stand-alone crime with broader, specific definitions and extraterritorial reach. It will negatively affect South Africa internationally leading to isolation from the West diplomatically and especially economically and puts at risk our international memberships. What is even more concerning is that this Bill will effectively override the Constitution, put an end to due process, and criminalize anything the government labels as "apartheid activity" – this can include journalists and media, free speech, any criticism of the ANC, the defending of minority rights, or even making YouTube videos. It is clearly a desperate attempt by the ANC to cling to power at all costs as the party loses support and has to defend itself against issues of poor governance and continued rampant corruption. The ANC can and probably will use this Bill as a political weapon to take away our freedom and hard-earned rights under the Constitution in order to retain its strangle-hold on the country and to stamp out any opposition. 	2025-12-14 18:36:40	No I do not	Constitutional issues	This is one of the most outrageous Bills I have yet to encounter. It appears to be being presented for political purposes and to be motivated by malice and anti-semitism; moreover, it is clearly unconstitutional. President Ramaphosa will have to send it to the Constitutional Court if parliament is misguided enough to pass this Bill, firstly because it constitutes an inexcusable attack on freedom of speech and opinion and, secondly, because my understanding is that, in the recent CC case concerning SA citizens who had had their SA citizenship removed without their knowledge when they applied for citizenship of another country, the Court said that citizens could not be deprived of their SA citizenship against their wishes. The reasoning and logic in this Bill are also sadly flawed - Even if Israel were practising anything like apartheid people might still support the country for other reasons - e.g. because it is a small country under constant attack by an assortment of neighbours who wish to wipe it from the face of the earth or because of the atrocities committed against its citizens on 7 October 2023. Such support would probably have nothing to do with its political and legal systems. Actually, in my opinion Israel is not an 'apartheid state' and many erudite articles have been written to this effect. I can do no better than to refer you to a recent, detailed and balanced article in the Daily Friend by Ivo Vegter, entitled "Denouncing Israel as an 'apartheid state' is neither correct nor constructive", which you will find at https://dailyfriend.co.za/2025/12/05/denouncing-israel-as-an-apartheid-state-is-neither-correct-nor-constructive/. 	2025-12-14 18:33:03	No I do not	Constitutional issues	The constitution of South Africa allows for freedom of speech, the freedom of religion, and the freedom of choice to live by personal religious convictions. Therefore, every South African citizen has the freedom of choice to support Israel in whatever way they chose. 	2025-12-14 18:25:26	No I do not	Constitutional issues	This Apartheid law is double standards in action, in conjunction with more than 145 anti-white laws which is racial discrimination, married to the apartheid law, is self-defeating & clearly shows zero intellect from the proposer. All the 145+ anti-white laws and the proposed apartheid law is pure racial weaponisation & should be classified as Crimes Against Humanity. This Apartheid law is 100% unconstitutional & should never have been proposed. The proposer has zero sensitivity, respect & regard for SA's past apartheid history & should be condemned in the strongest manner possible, as it clearly shows our Nation that the democracy & wellbeing of South African citizens is absent in their political management of South Africa. Implementing this Apartheid law will destroy South Africa's democracy & make a mockery of our beloved Madiba.	Fritha	KwaZulu-Natal		employed individual

	2025-12-14 18:14:26	No I do not	Constitutional issues	This proposed law is in itself an attempt to segregate and vilify a portion of the population. In title it claims to be an anti-apartheid law, but is pro discrimination. It removes freedom of speech and religion which is part of our constitution and proposes weaponising the law to criminalize anyone who shows support for Israel. This in itself is criminal. Israel, a tiny country, is a forerunner in many fields including technology and medicine. Many things we have become dependent on originated there. The people of Israel have been targeted for generations simply because God set them apart. To fight against Israel is to not just target its people, but to target the greater body of Christ and to war against God Himself. When leaders turn on God, they set themselves up for destruction. No country is perfect, but Israel is not an apartheid state as South Africa once was. It would be a complete travesty for such a bill to be passed. Why it's even being considered is greatly concerning. It would appear that there are more and more laws being proposed to legislate not just our speech, but what we believe at our core. This is complete political, governmental and legislative over reach. Respect the individual rights of our people and stop systematically trying to control what is not yours to control. 	2025-12-15 03:24:04	No I do not	Constitutional issues	I am totally opposed to this Bill since South Africa's Constitution is a democratic republic which guarantees citizens freedom of faith, association and speech. But the ANC now has an ally in Iran and their cohorts Hamas, and is doing their bidding with the new Apartheid Bill courtesy of Al-Jama-ah. That Israel is a coloniser who treats Arabs as 2nd class citizens is a blatant lie. There are Arabs who have been elected to the Israeli parliament. Israel provides FREE medical care to Palestinians whilst their own citizens have to pay for the same thing! The One True God GAVE the land of Canaan to Abraham AND his seed from his wife only (Isaac and Jacob) FOREVER. Because of Israel's disobedience God put them out of the land BUT promised He would bring them back. This prophecy was fulfilled when this nation was born in one day, on 14 May, 1948 after two thousand years! Islamic leaders deliberately chose to keep the people of Palestine there as a foothold against Israel. Not one Arab nation will take the Palestinians in, apart from Jordan. But no other nation will have them! God warned that harming His people Israel is like poking your finger in His eye. They are precious to God. We certainly do NOT want Shariah Law in South Africa. We are a Christian country with values based on the Bible. There is nothing moral about this Bill. And remember: Islam is a religion in which God (Allah) requires you to send your son to die for him. Christianity is a faith in which God, YHWH sent His son to die for YOU.	James			retired

	2025-12-14 23:58:32	No I do not	Constitutional issues	The bill is too vague. Can I not financially support the rebuilding of infrastructure in Israel that will benefit Palestinians who work in Israel? If I am a Christian, can I not support Israel i.e. say that I love the people, the land, and hope the best for them, but also condemn any wrong actions that they commit? To clarify, I am for the good of all, for Israeli/Palestinian. This bill will punish all indiscriminately, and that is as vile as the crime it intends to address. Change the bill to only address support given to verifiable criminal acts of the Israeli government against i.e. Palestinians. I.e. if someone says 'hey it's great that Israel is killing women and children in Gaza'. Saying 'Israel has done well in being first in providing aid to Haiti' i.e. supporting good should not be criminalized.	Arno

Yet this Bill would like to place such severe limits on my thoughts and words, concerning a matter not even reflected in my country, that I could be arrested as a criminal by mentioning Israel? That is a big problem for me as a Christian. My Lord Jesus Christ was born in Israel, the Holy Bible, on whose words my faith is based, emerged out of Israel. Christianity was born in Israel, rooted in Abraham, Isaac and Jacob through to the Apostles and Our Lord. From what I can gather, this bill is pure vengeance directed mainly at Jewish Population in South Africa, who are all complete upstanding, law-abiding citizens, who have all made tremendous contributions towards business and economic development and the countries society in general. Al Jamah-ah have been wickedly clever in calling this an "Apartheid Bill " and they know that just this one word will get their full support from the other mindless, ignorant, populist parties within the country, who are incapable of reasonable reasoning and clarity of thought. I shudder to think how US President Trump, once he hears of this anti-Jewish bill, what new sanctions he will immediately place on South Africa. South African Politicians that vote for this bill, will surely be heavily sanctioned by US. 	2025-12-14 19:34:42	No I do not	Constitutional issues	As abhorrent as Apartheid is, how does an individual commit the crime of Apartheid? If I purchase a product with a component made in a country that practises Apartheid am I guilty of a crime? How is a country deemed to be an Apartheid regime - is it in the eyes of its enemies, in the eyes of the SA Government, the eyes of any other country or in the eyes of any number of international organisations? If I travel to visit a country considered to be an Apartheid regime as a tourist with no ulterior motive, is my freedom of movement not violated? Ultimately it appears that this bill is aimed at restricting the freedom of the South African people to abide by the whims of a particular political party or a particular government of the day. Ultimately there are sufficient appropriate international laws to which South Africa subscribes without wasting Parliament's time on a bill that is constitutionally unsound and virtually impossible to prosecute. 	2025-12-09 13:30:36	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill is nothing short of hostile law fare, based on lies, meant to harass Israel. If there were apartheid in Israel (which there is not), how is it that a Bedouin Israeli has an advanced degree obtained in Israel? Moreover, how is it that there are Arabs in the Israeli Knesset? The opportunities and freedoms in Israel are broad and deep; that is, in Israel, people have far more choice than in any other country in the ME. This bill is racist at its core as it seeks to deprive the Israelis of their right to dwell in the land called Israel. So many of those seeking to drive the people of Israel out of the land of Israel are Arabs from Egypt and other ME areas - this is clear from their family names. These people are the ones seeking to impose their apartheid on the people of Israel.	Phillip	Outside SA	United Kingdom	employed individual

	2025-12-03 10:59:20	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the proposed "Implementation of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025" because I believe it will create more problems for South Africa than it will solve. Here are several specific reasons I oppose this bill: 1. It turns South Africa into a battleground for foreign political conflicts. The bill allows our courts to prosecute people for apartheid crimes that supposedly happened in other countries. This could pull South Africa into international disputes that have nothing to do with us. 2. It could damage South Africa's relationships with other countries. If foreign nationals can be arrested here for issues linked to their home countries, those governments may respond in ways that hurt our economy, trade, tourism, and diplomatic ties. 3. The definition of "apartheid" in the bill is too broad. It goes far beyond South Africa's historical system and could be used in ways that are unfair, politically motivated, or inconsistent. 4. We cannot afford the cost and workload. Our courts and justice system are already overloaded with crime, corruption, and backlogs. We should focus on fixing our own country before trying to police the world. 5. Existing international structures already cover these crimes. The International Criminal Court (ICC) already deals with crimes against humanity, including apartheid. We don't need a separate South African process that could complicate things even more. 6. This bill may be used to push political agendas instead of genuine justice. It opens the door for activist groups to use South Africa's courts to target foreign individuals and governments, which is not what our justice system is meant for. In short: This bill is risky, unclear, expensive, and potentially damaging to South Africa. It distracts from the urgent issues we face at home and could cause serious diplomatic and economic harm. For these reasons, I cannot support it.	Elandrie	Gauteng		self-employed

	2025-12-03 08:03:32	No I do not	Political motivation	Duplicate regime alongside the ICC Act can create confusion, forum shopping, and inconsistent standards—inviting legal challenges and slowing cases. Terms like "institutionalised regime of oppression and domination" and who counts as a "racial group" are contestable. Ambiguity invites politicised interpretation and constitutional challenges for vagueness. Centralised consent can curb frivolous actions, but it also concentrates discretion - exposing prosecutions to political pressure, selective enforcement, or the appearance thereof. Universal-jurisdiction cases against foreign officials could spark retaliation, harm trade and diplomatic ties, deter official visits, and reduce South Africa's ability to act as a neutral mediator. Other states may mirror the approach and target SA officials or citizens under their own politically framed universal-jurisdiction laws. Extraterritorial cases are resource-intensive and often dependent on foreign cooperation/custody. Likely outcomes: expensive investigations, few convictions, and public frustration - diverting scarce resources from urgent domestic crime. Courts could become arenas for global political disputes ("lawfare"), straining separation between foreign policy (executive) and adjudication (judiciary), and risking reputational damage if cases look selective. The bill is publicly framed around Israel/Palestine, risking intensified local divisions, the perception of targeting particular communities, and broader social cohesion challenges. If "aiding/abetting" is read expansively, civil society groups, universities, and businesses may over-comply - avoiding legitimate collaboration or debate on contentious foreign issues. Without precise rules on official immunities and temporal scope, SA could face drawn-out litigation against customary international law defenses and non-retroactivity claims—further weakening practical impact. 	2025-12-02 17:43:39	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly oppose the Apartheid Bill, not only because I believe in justice and human rights, but also because I fear it is being used more as a political tool than as a genuine instrument of accountability. While our commitment to combatting apartheid and racial oppression globally is admirable, this Bill’s broad extraterritorial reach and vague definitions risk turning South African courts into arenas for foreign-policy grievances. The dilution of burden (by making apartheid a standalone crime rather than applying existing frameworks under the Rome Statute) may lower the threshold for prosecution and open the door to abuse. In practice, I worry it will undermine South Africa’s credibility, strain diplomatic relations and divert scarce legal resources from addressing urgent domestic issues. This bill represents an attempt to censor freedom of speech and expression, restrict religious liberty, and impose ideological conformity that leans toward Islamisation. Such measures corrode the Judeo-Christian value system that forms part of South Africa’s cultural and moral heritage. 	2025-12-03 13:02:17	No I do not	Political motivation	I am concerned that the proposed Bill may be used not only to punish people for holding opinions that others disagree with, but also for political purposes. When legislation is drafted in broad or subjective terms, it creates a real risk that it can be applied selectively or strategically to silence certain groups, critics, or political opponents. This raises the possibility that the law could be used to advance political agendas rather than to protect citizens from genuine harm. In such cases, the Bill could unintentionally become a tool for political influence, retaliation, or narrative-shaping, instead of upholding constitutional rights and equal treatment under the law. Why is nothing being said about that? Unfortunately can only select one option would have selected weaponising laws as well. And instead of selectively poking our noses in other countries when it suits us how about using that money to build up and repair our own country? People in South Africa are suffering from the effects of poverty, poor education, poor medical care, and violence. Our government has the responsibility to take care of its own citizens. It is an injustice for the South African government to spend time and money on other citizens when so many of its own people need help. There are other rich countries, for example most of the countries in the Arab-governed Middle East, who have the resources and capacity and proximity to help the people who are suffering near them. It is draconian in its reach and goes against the principles of freedom of association, freedom of speech and freedom of religion. The ANC and the other supporting parties wants to prosecute all persons who support the state of Isreal in any way whatsoever. The ANC government does not wish to prosecute any person who supports Hamas which is an internationally recognized terrorist organization. This is clearly a biased approach. 	2025-12-04 05:44:51	No I do not	Political motivation	Firstly the premise that Isreal is an apartheid country is wrong. There are many Palestinians in Israel but almost no Israeli's in Palestine. No one wants the Gazan's, not Egypt or any of the other Muslim countries close to it, not because they are Palestinians but because of their radicalization. For civilians to partake in the brutality of the Israeli attacks shows the brokenness of that society. It's not Isreal that is racist it is Palestinians who are anti-Semitic. The borders with Gaza was slowly intensified not because of racial segregation but because of ongoing attacks and violence in attempt to protect themselves. Apart from the incorrect rhetoric and the fact that we South Africans do not agree with it, it is an incredibly dumb thing to do. 	2025-12-04 03:00:42	No I do not	Political motivation	I would have loved to support this case but SA leadership, the ANC , is a thieving , above the law ruling party. Zuma, Ramaposa, and the endless number of unnecessary ministers (biggest ministry in the world, with nothing to show) all very alike in their attitude to rape SA until there is nothing left! I support Palastine and the stance against Isreal that SA has taken says enough. We do not need to terrorize SA Jews who may very well be innocent and put them through the bribing and corrupt court system, so NO, I think this is just yet another avenue for the government to steal and make tax payers money “disappear! If this was a responsible, morale ruling party with integrity I would have, but this move will not help Palastine in any way. We do not even have an air force or army or navy(thanks to your corrupt government) to defend ourselves much less so to fight for Africa, like Congo, Sudan, Zimbabwe, or the other vile autorices happening in our back yard! let alone going against Isreal, America and the EU. What are you thinking,? 	2025-12-03 22:00:40	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill for several reasons: National Sovereignty: I believe that implementing this international convention could undermine South Africa’s ability to address its own issues related to apartheid without external interference. Practical Challenges: I’m concerned about the practical implications of the bill, such as the potential costs, administrative burdens, and the resources required to effectively implement it. Vagueness and Misuse: The bill seems too vague in its definitions, and I worry it could be misused, leading to politically motivated prosecutions or unfairly targeting individuals. Impact on Reconciliation: South Africa has already made significant progress in national reconciliation through the Truth and Reconciliation Commission. I fear that reopening legal proceedings could undermine the healing process and divide the nation again. Focus on the Future: I believe that South Africa should focus on addressing the pressing socio-economic challenges we face today—like poverty, inequality, and unemployment—rather than revisiting past crimes. International Relations: I also worry that pursuing this bill could damage our diplomatic relations with other countries, complicating trade ties and international cooperation. In short, I feel that this bill could detract from our efforts to move forward as a country, and I would prefer that we focus on healing and progress rather than rehashing the past. 	2025-12-03 22:00:39	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill for several reasons: National Sovereignty: I believe that implementing this international convention could undermine South Africa's ability to address its own issues related to apartheid without external interference. Practical Challenges: I'm concerned about the practical implications of the bill, such as the potential costs, administrative burdens, and the resources required to effectively implement it. Vagueness and Misuse: The bill seems too vague in its definitions, and I worry it could be misused, leading to politically motivated prosecutions or unfairly targeting individuals. Impact on Reconciliation: South Africa has already made significant progress in national reconciliation through the Truth and Reconciliation Commission. I fear that reopening legal proceedings could undermine the healing process and divide the nation again. Focus on the Future: I believe that South Africa should focus on addressing the pressing socio-economic challenges we face today—like poverty, inequality, and unemployment—rather than revisiting past crimes. International Relations: I also worry that pursuing this bill could damage our diplomatic relations with other countries, complicating trade ties and international cooperation. In short, I feel that this bill could detract from our efforts to move forward as a country, and I would prefer that we focus on healing and progress rather than rehashing the past. 	2025-12-04 07:42:41	No I do not	Political motivation	The motivation for this law is antisemitic in nature, as stated "Israel is an apartheid state". But in Israel there are multiple ethnic and religious groups that live and work together peacefully. Having grown up in Apartheid, I do not support it making the claim that "if you support Israel then you are automatically supporting Apartheid" false. The bill also shows it is aimed at Israel, notably the proposer is openly a Muslim with hate against Israel. Clearly this bill is politically / religiously motivated, rather than fostering equality. Passing this law would allow pollical agendas to be applied on individuals, rather than serving a practical purpose of curbing "Apartheid-like" behavior.	Ruan
	2025-12-04 07:42:03	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa's moral commitment to human rights is important, but this proposed "Apartheid Bill" represents a concerning overreach at a time when our country faces far more urgent challenges within its own borders. We already have legislation recognising apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act. Creating an additional stand-alone offence with extraterritorial reach does little to strengthen justice at home, and risks turning our legal system into a political tool for international disputes in which South Africa is not directly involved. South Africans are dealing with failing infrastructure, unemployment, crime, service-delivery collapse, a weak economy, and ongoing governance failures. Parliament's primary duty should be addressing these domestic crises, not diverting time and resources into laws aimed at prosecuting foreign conflicts. The idea that our courts should pursue individuals for their views or affiliations related to events outside our borders is not only impractical, it is an inappropriate use of state power. Weaponising the justice system for geopolitical purposes may satisfy certain political agendas, but it does nothing to improve the lives of ordinary South Africans. The Bill risks damaging diplomatic relations, swallowing up state resources, and entangling our institutions in legal and political battles that have little bearing on our national priorities. South Africa's credibility on human rights comes from leading by example—fixing corruption, restoring the rule of law, ensuring accountability at home, and building a functioning state. Until we address the urgent issues affecting our own citizens, legislation aimed at policing global conflicts is misplaced and irresponsible. In short, our government should focus on repairing South Africa, not expanding its reach into international political disputes under the guise of justice.	Luke	KwaZulu-Natal		employed individual

	2025-12-04 08:13:33	No I do not	Political motivation	The bill's expanded and vague definitions of "apartheid" could make ordinary political criticism risky. Overbroad wording could enable the state to label political disagreement as "support for apartheid", which is dangerous for democracy. It will undermine human rights. Criminalise behavior that is not clearly defined, violating the right to certainty in criminal law (a constitutional requirement). It would also allow for selective enforcement, which historically leads to repression, discrimination and political misuse. It will enable the state to overreach into civil society, religious organisations and universities. South Africa already has laws covering these crimes (The ICC Act), adding a second, broader definition is redundant, legally confusing and opens the door to abuse. Prosecutors, courts, police and government departments are already overstretched, creating a new, unclear legal category drains resources that we just don't have. This new law will also draw South Africa into foreign conflicts. We do not need to insert ourselves into the Israel-Palestine war via domestic criminal legislation. This bill's extraterritorial reach means South Africans could be prosecuted for actions that occurred outside the country, in contexts unrelated to South Africa. Government resources may be diverted to foreign ideological battles instead of fixing urgent domestic issues (crime, energy crisis, corruption). It risks worsening our already damaged diplomatic relationships, increasing tensions and dragging the country into disputes that do not directly concern SA citizens' safety or prosperity. It will also damage South Africa's international neutrality and diplomacy. This law is politically motivated rather than constitutionally necessary. If anything, it proves that Imraan Ismail-Moosa does not have South Africa's best interests at heart, and he should be removed from his position.	Ashley

	2025-12-04 08:13:29	No I do not	Political motivation	The bill infringes on freedom of association and freedom of political expression. For South Africa's Jewish minority, and for members of many Christian denominations, the bill seeks to criminalise cultural and religious association with Israel, regardless of the ideology of the prevailing government in Israel. This can only lead to discrimination against these minorities, who are South African citizens. Furthermore, the bill alleges a priori that Israel is an apartheid state, which is not a proven fact, and which is not borne out by realities, inasmuch that Arab Israelis enjoy equal rights and political representation in Israel. 	2025-12-04 08:08:41	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa has enough internal issues. We should not be engaging internationally and telling other countries how to get their houses in order when our house is becoming more and more dilapidated! To that point, this current govt has a "flexible" view of compliance to international law requirements; on 2 notable occasions foreign leaders visited this country with ICJ warrants of arrest outstanding and refused to comply with the same international law requirements they are professing to have an overwhelming desire to comply with. This is politics - and people are being paid to try to implement laws that are not in the interests of the South African taxpayer. Enough with the BS already!	Trevor	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-04 08:05:22	No I do not	Political motivation	It is sad to see that people think to world is blind and uninformed. We live in times where everyone can Google and watch news from different platforms and chase after the truth on any subject. I think Palestine and Israel is the worst example of apartheid anyone can use. The Gaza strip was given to Palestinians to create their own identity and free country/state, with the help of Isreal and many other countries, financially and other. But it was "hijacked/taken" by Hamas who implemented apartheid among their own people. These innocent people were suppressed, brainwashed and deprived of all their rights to grow and thrive in their own country by a group of vigilant terrorists, who had one goal, and one goal only, ...to abuse Palestinians by stealing their money, donated by other countries and institutions, to empower themselves to dig tunnels and create bunkers under schools, hospitals etc, to start a war with Isreal to try and "wipe them of the face of the earth" as per their constitution. If anyone wants to support Palestine against apartheid, they should stand with Israel and eliminate Hamas who are hiding behind innocent civilians, woman and children. To say the least, this Bill is 100% political and has NOTHING to do with any humanity or concerns about people and their rights to live peacfully in their own country.	Cornie	Gauteng		business owner

	2025-12-04 09:04:53	No I do not	Political motivation	The legal definition of apartheid is "racial segregation and discrimination policies enacted by a government against a section of its own people" (de Than and Shorts, "International Criminal Law and Human Rights", 110). (1) Arabs residing in the “West Bank” and the Gaza Strip are not and never have been Israeli citizens and therefore cannot claim the rights due to Israeli citizens. They do not even recognise the state of Israel and their sole purpose is to destroy it. (2) Arab citizens of Israel have the same rights as Jewish Israelis, including the right to form political parties, stand for election, and serve as members of the Knesset, the judiciary, the diplomatic corps, the police, etc., which are rights and privileges prohibited by law in an apartheid State. 	2025-12-04 08:54:55	No I do not	Political motivation	First things first. Why is the government worried about apartheid in other countries when it is still happening in South Africa (145 Race based laws currently). Seems they will be shooting themselves in the foot with this one. Secondly, it looks a lot like this bill is to go after the Jews community in South Africa. A community that has been part of SA for nearly 200 years. The government need to start looking after all it's people, especially the people who helped build this country. Al Jamah-ah is an anti-Semitic party and don't share the same values as God fearing South Africans. They should be held accountable for their hatred towards their fellow man. The Bible is clear, those who bless Israel will be blessed and those who curse Israel will be cursed. Israel has the right to defend itself from all those trying to destroy it! They have the right to live in the country, and ons the land God Himself gave to them. The Jewish people need to have a place where they can also feel safe and live in freedom. As Israel is the only country that belongs to them, why would we want to take that away from them as well? My heart is and will always be in support of the jewish people and the land of Israel! 	2025-12-04 09:58:55	No I do not	Political motivation	This is a grossly far-reaching attempt to emotionally manipulate South Africans, who know the crimes of apartheid, to support Palestine with political and military resources. We must not be forced to pick sides in a war that officially has nothing to do with us. We should never have taken that case against Israel to court - what a waste of valuable resources. I often feel our politicians try to look busy with doing "good" instead of doing their jobs. Let's first feed our own hungry children, build more schools and clinics, and fund more education so we can cultivate more entrepreneurs and lower unemployment. Let's first annihilate corruption at the institutions that should be putting South Africans first. We must not be forced to pick sides in a war that officially has nothing to do with us. We should never have taken that case against Israel to court - what a waste of valuable resources. I often feel our politicians try to look busy with doing "good" instead of doing their jobs. Let's first feed our own hungry children, build more schools and clinics, and fund more education so we can cultivate more entrepreneurs and lower unemployment. 	2025-12-04 09:47:51	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly oppose the proposed bill, which I view as an attempt by the government to force a single, approved viewpoint onto its citizens. Our freedom of choice and belief should not be subject to political decree, and our democratic rights should not be discounted simply because the government has chosen a specific side. Moreover, the classification of Israel as an 'apartheid state' is a complex and subjective judgment; one could just as easily apply that label to Palestine or elsewhere. Mandating this contested political position via legislation is fundamentally anti-democratic. Beyond the political posturing, my deepest concern is that this bill represents a dangerous weaponization of our legislative process. The government is setting a precedent that compromises the integrity of our constitution and the secular nature of the state. Laws should protect the rights of all citizens, regardless of faith or political conviction, not serve as a tool for enforcing a foreign policy stance rooted in a specific belief system. This attempt to legally coerce belief raises serious constitutional issues regarding freedom of expression, political pluralism, and the necessary neutrality of our democratic institutions. Given our own country's painful history with apartheid, I find any measure that dictates a political position on this issue to be fundamentally unacceptable. It is astonishing that the government would propose a bill that effectively forces us to make this choice. Furthermore, I believe this initiative is a regrettable waste of legislative resources intended solely to antagonise Israel, rather than address pressing domestic issues. The war between Israel and Palestine has been ongoing for as long as I've been alive. It is tragic and sad , as both parties could end it for the sake of their citizens but they won't! I am impartial in this affair. In my opinion both countries are equally at fault! However, why do we need a law with world wide reach, to punish the many people who support Israel? There are just as many who support Palestine. Witness the uncharted flights filled with Palestinians which our government allowed to land on SA soil, and the leader of gift of the givers stating more must come. We the tax payers are supporting and absorbing these aeroplane loads of people into our communities. Could they be terrorists? Very possibly. Is this not bias? Should we now allow plane loads from Israel? Our country is in chaos, corruption soaring, crime and gender based violence at an all time high. Why is the focus on the violence in other countries when we have one of the highest homicide rates in the world? Politicians are only interested in this because it suits their own pockets rather than looking in the mirror and hearing the cries of their own people. 	2025-12-04 10:35:06	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa has been blessed with years of reasonable peace and stability since the Signing of the Constitution around 1994. The end of the apartheid era was nothing short of a miracle, accompanied by the kind of leaders this country was blessed with. These were all fruits of God's Grace and mercy on this nation. The strength of South Africa's appeal for the mercy of other nations was it's weakness, and evident proof of its local people's sufferings at the hand of an explicitly separatist regime from the founding of the 1948 South Africa State. At this moment, our leaders seem to be taking the position of God Himself, who is the only just Judge, and privy to the real situation on the Ground in Israel. This same Heavenly God sent us His Son to die for us and extend our life here in earth, so that we can have an opportunity to repent and to turn to Him and be saved as His children. So that we can know that no one is alive here by his or her own power or wisdom or connections but by His outstretched Arm of Mercy Through Jesus. This Same God has promised to restore Isreal to their Land as promised their fathers Abraham, Isaac and (Jacob - Isreal), and then told us to not stop praying for the restoration of the Jerusalem and peace of Jerusalem. It seams to me the only thing wise to do is obey this merciful God's will, so that we can continue as nations, and not play His Role of exacting Judgements. 	2025-12-04 11:47:24	No I do not	Political motivation	Creating laws that are driven primarily by political objectives rather than clear, principled constitutional reasoning risks repeating the very patterns South Africa seeks to move beyond. When legislation is crafted to target specific groups or advance partisan agendas, it mirrors past eras in which the National Party engineered apartheid laws to entrench political ideology, and later, when the ANC implemented race-based BEE laws that similarly reflected political priorities more than universal legal principles. Such approaches raise concerns that the law becomes a tool of political power rather than a safeguard of justice.	Colin	Western Cape		business owner

Extending South African courts to prosecute individuals globally is legally complex, presents significant practical hurdles for enforcement, and risks making the law merely a symbolic measure. Furthermore, the Bill's explicit political focus risks misusing our legal system for "lawfare" and could negatively impact our judiciary and international relations. Finally, the requirement for the National Director of Public Prosecutions' consent before prosecution creates a substantial risk of political interference. 	2025-12-04 12:48:09	No I do not	Political motivation	"The 1998 Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court came into law after the collapse of the old South Africa. It is a forward-looking legal instrument which prohibits apartheid as a crime against humanity today and into the future, wherever it may exist." ("Israel's occupation of Palestinian Territory is 'apartheid': UN rights expert; 25 March 2022.") I think South Africa should stand against Human Rights abuse in the world but use existing international channels and processes, through the UN as an example. Have resolutions passed at the UN. Given the history of SA, a moral stance against human abuse anywhere in the world is understood and should be vocalised. Bringing it into law, may have ramifications we do not understand as country. To challenge a country like Israel can become immensely costly and does the SA taxpayer (the ultimate payer) have the resources to deploy, or should internal priorities take precedence? I feel for the plight of the Palestinians, but the wealthy Middle East countries should be funding or leading this fight. Is SA becoming a proxy for the Middle East, (or a useful idiot) to fight this issue rather than doing it themselves? MOST IMPORTANTLY: How is it that a small party is able to muster support from our large political parties for this proposed legislation? This party with its single seat has been able to become Mayor of JHB at some stage. I am flummoxed! As always follow the money	Punkaj	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-04 12:35:20	No I do not	Political motivation	The so-called "Apartheid Bill" introduced by Al Jama-ah is legally redundant, constitutionally defective, and politically dangerous. South Africa already criminalises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act of 2002, which fully satisfies its international obligations. There is no legal gap requiring this Bill. By proposing vague and overbroad criminal definitions, the Bill violates the principle of legality and opens the door to arbitrary prosecution. The declared intent to criminalise "support" for Israel directly undermines freedom of expression, belief, and association, which are explicitly protected by the Constitution. The Bill's attempt to assert sweeping extraterritorial jurisdiction is constitutionally reckless, diplomatically provocative, and practically unenforceable, exposing South Africa to international legal conflict and retaliation. Its real purpose is not justice, but the politicisation of criminal law to advance a foreign-policy agenda. Backed by a political bloc including the ANC and EFF, the Bill represents a dangerous precedent: it normalises the use of criminal law to punish political opinion and ideological alignment. Conclusion: This Bill is unlawful in principle, abusive in intent, wasteful in practice, and destructive to constitutional democracy. It should be unequivocally rejected as an attempt to weaponise South Africa's criminal justice system for political ends.	Piet	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-04 12:29:01	No I do not	Political motivation	The Islamic ideology is the most discriminatory (apartheid-like) of any. In particular they treat non-muslims as 2nd and even 3rd class citizens. Women are also discriminated against and in many countries even denied education. Paedophilia is popular and brutal assaults and executions are the punishment for "crimes" such as a woman not covering her body as they prescribe, or for being raped. i.e the victim is punished. It is therefore highly hypocritical of Al-Jama-ah to try and pretend they are "fighting Apartheid". Israel is not an apartheid state. This "law" is nothing but an attempt to silence anyone who exposes their support of terror groups such as Hamas and the funding schemes. If such a law were to be introduced it must first and foremost address ALL forms of Islamic discrimination and funding. eg; Halaal food compliance must be banned outright. 	2025-12-04 12:20:24	No I do not	Political motivation	As mens sien wie die persoon is wat hierdie nuwe wetgewing dryf, is dit duidelik wat die eintlike motivering is:oer-oue, diep geworteld haat teenoor Israel. Om sover te gaan om te sê, dat mense wat Israel ondersteun, krimineel vervolg kan word, is om elke mens se Godgegewe reg van vryheid van keuse/oortuiging weg te neem. Om mense strafbaar te verklaar as hulle nié met jou/die Regering saamstem nie, is tirannie. Waar is ons kamtige Demokrasie dan nou? Dieper nog as die haat teenoor Israel, is die rebellie teenoor die God van Israel. Israel is God se uitverkore volk, en die land 'Palestina" hulle ewige grondgebied, deur God aan hulle gegee. 	2025-12-04 12:19:34	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill is an outrage intended to burden an already embattled South African state by transforming mere political opinions into actual criminal offences. This is clear from Mr Hendricks's statement "If you support Israel then you are automatically supporting Apartheid and will be criminally charged." This is: - Unenforcable in reality - Policially motivated - A waste of taxpayer money to try and enforce something that is not in the interests of our own citizens. Of course we support the protection of innocent victims worldwide, but the situatiuon in Gaza is more nuanced and involves crimes of terrorism that can't be overlooked. Meanwhile South Africans at home are crying out for desperately-needed improvements to their own situation. Your conscience cannot let you entertain this bill any further.	Gus

Using Apartheid to force Apartheid in another form is ironic and uroboro reasoning. We don't need more bills than there are unless they benefit all South Africans no matter who they may be or the colour of there skin. Example: The bills regarding BEE and all the other EEEE's have caused more inequality amongst the people of South Africa. Corruption and destruction of the countries infrastructure and many of the current bills introduced over the last number of years have done just that, caused division, the poor are poorer the elite are richer. This shows that there is little trust in and the misuse of the South African legal system and the Constitution, with no thought of the minority groups and the possibility of making their lives more difficult as these groups are already being discriminated against. Therefore this proposed draft bill is unlawful in accordance with the Bill of Rights in the Constitution.	Alan			retired

The designation of an apartheid state needs to be defined . Currently some supporters of Palestine believe Israel to be an apartheid state but do not consider the caste system in India and suppression in some countries of certain ethnic groups a form of apartheid. What is being perpetrated in Israel against Palestinians is absolutely abhorrent as are similar actions elsewhere as in Sudan. 	2025-12-04 14:30:19	No I do not	Political motivation	Thank you for sharing the information on the proposed “Apartheid Bill.” After reviewing it, I cannot support the Bill for several key reasons. Firstly, the Bill’s definitions are broad and vague, which risks undermining constitutional certainty and could allow for political or selective prosecutions. South Africa’s criminal laws must be precise, fair, and consistent with our democratic principles. Secondly, the Bill attempts to give South African courts sweeping extraterritorial powers that are unrealistic and practically unenforceable. This weakens the credibility of our justice system. Thirdly, criminalising people for their political beliefs or international affiliations threatens freedom of expression and association, and risks deepening divisions within our diverse society. Lastly, apartheid is already recognised as a crime under existing legislation, making this Bill largely redundant at a time when Parliament’s focus should remain on urgent domestic priorities. For these reasons, I cannot support the Bill.	Charles			retired

Om Suid Afrikaners as individue te intimideer indien hul nie saamstem met die nuwe Bill nie, is ook n misdaad. Waar is ons vryheid van spraak as individue? As n individue dra ek nie die land op my skouers nie, dit is lands- en wereld hoofde se pligte wat oor kwessies moet besluit en om my as individu verantwoordelik te hou , is om my te benadeel en tereg te laat staan vir wat ek nie saam mee stem nie. Ek is nie in Israel of Gasa self nie, maar sien dat beide lande geweldige verliese lei. Ek sien dit soortgelyk soos die Covid v 2020 as jy nie gefeksineer word nie en nie saam stem nie, word jy toegang geweier, word jy dalk afgedank, moet aan sekere reels voldoen tot jou persoonlike nadeel, ens. En nou eers sien ons die onreg en verliese, oneerlikheid ens. So ek het geen vertroue in landshoofde. My persoonlike opinie-dis n aanslag op Die Christen geloof, in Suid Afrika. 	2025-12-04 16:38:34	No I do not	Political motivation	My opposition is first rooted in biblical principle. Genesis 12:3 states: “I will bless those who bless you, and I will curse those who curse you.” Standing with Israel is therefore not only a moral but a spiritual imperative. Psalm 122:6 further instructs us to “pray for the peace of Jerusalem: they shall prosper that love thee. ” underscoring the importance of aligning policy with divine guidance. Politically and legally, the Bill is deeply concerning. It targets Israel and its supporters despite South Africa’s previous failed attempt at the ICC, demonstrating a persistent ideological agenda over practical law or justice. It grants vague extraterritorial powers, labels foreign nations as “Apartheid States,” and risks compelling legal action against visiting dignitaries, jeopardizing critical diplomatic and economic relationships. Equally troubling are the domestic implications. The Bill, alongside proposals to restrict firearms, centralize state power, and enforce property expropriation, threatens to undermine civil liberties — including free speech, political assembly, and property rights. History provides cautionary examples of governments that, under ideological zeal, progressively curtailed these freedoms, with devastating consequences for society and stability. Observing these trends, it is clear that the Bill is not just symbolic: it is part of a broader pattern that citizens should scrutinize carefully. Socially, the majority of South Africans do not support this trajectory. Public discourse — particularly online — reveals deep opposition to measures that are perceived as ideologically driven, divisive, and hostile to fundamental freedoms. Veterans and citizens alike view these developments with alarm, recognizing the long-term risks to national cohesion and security. I cannot support legislation that weaponizes justice for ideological ends, undermines civil liberties, and disregards both divine guidance and the expressed will of the people. 	2025-12-04 15:51:07	No I do not	Political motivation	This proposed Bill is substantially incorrect. It 's promulgation is one sided and it is provocative. "APARTHEID" is long dead in South AFRICA. It is time that, after 30 years of A N C rule, this matter of APARTHEID is dead and buried. Except that the MINORITY GROUPS in South Africa, are subject to this abusive real practice that is promulgated by the likes of the "NEW PARTIES" with 1 or 2 representatives in our Parliament, who like the proverbial "the cart before the horse" and "the tail swinging the cow." ISRAEL is the scapegoat and all Islamists want to "swing" the Parliament to advocate their own small ideology. Why do the not use "HAMAS" as an example of "APARTHEID IDEOLOGY ." We are proudly SOUTH AFRICAN. We do not want the "suspect" ideology of ISLAMIST to dictate to us right here at home. Let us be sensible and realistic in our National Identity a "South Africans." A SMALL MINORITY in South Africa, have tunnel vision and can see no further than their noses to see what a catastrophic result it will be if we follow their own agendas. Let those who advocate this NEW LAW be aware of, and in real terms, request HAMAS and its allies, to stop the fight against a small country, namely ISRAEL. Stop the APARTHEID against them as the "ACCUSED" perpetrators of "GENOCIDE" and see what HAMAS is doing to their own people in Israel. This is a matter of the "pot calling the kettle black." 	2025-12-04 15:51:01	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not support the “Apartheid Bill” as proposed by Al Jama-ah. My reasons are as follows: Constitutional Concerns – The Bill is broadly and vaguely drafted, which could make it open to abuse and challenge in courts. It risks creating legal uncertainty for South African citizens and residents. Duplication of Existing Law – Apartheid is already recognised as a crime against humanity under South Africa’s Rome Statute Implementation Act (2002). There is no need to create a parallel legal framework. Practical Enforceability – The Bill proposes extraterritorial jurisdiction, which would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, to enforce fairly and consistently against individuals outside South Africa. Politically Targeted – The Bill explicitly targets Israel and its supporters. Legislation should be neutral and general in scope, not designed to pursue a specific foreign policy agenda or to criminalise citizens’ international opinions. Resource Allocation – Parliament and the judiciary should focus on laws that address pressing domestic issues, rather than creating complex international legal mechanisms with little chance of practical effect. Risk of International Backlash – By enacting such a law, South Africa risks straining diplomatic relations unnecessarily, which could have economic and political consequences. Freedom of Opinion and Association – Criminalising individuals for supporting a foreign country risks infringing on constitutional rights to freedom of expression, thought, and association. For these reasons, I cannot support this Bill. While I fully support justice and human rights, this Bill is poorly drafted, impractical, and politically motivated rather than a constructive legal measure.	Gerda	Gauteng		self-employed

Because the youth are taught to brake down instead of to take what was given to them and BETTER it. Why is unemployed black people looking for jobs at white owned companies? Why is hungry, homeless black people seeking help from the white community, not black communities? Why don't the black leaders in this country refusing to see this and do something about it? Calling the whites racists are really an option to feed the hungry, build schools with fully served toilet blocks? The blatant leftist lie that Israel is an apartheid state is beyond ludicrous. Compared to its barbaric enemies, Israel is a blazing beacon of civilisation and progress. The Israelis made the desert bloom and their country is a brilliant source of scientific achievement. There is equality between men and women, democracy, religious tolerance and freedom of speech and association. Their Muslim enemies are backward, religiously fanatic and intolerant and have repellent customs such as child marriages, female genital mutilation and honour killings of young women. 	2025-12-04 16:58:29	No I do not	Political motivation	Certain parties partner with forreign countries based upon allied financial support ect. This is a political association and has nothing to do with human rights and justice! It is not based on proofed facts and is onesided perspective which can not be seen as justice. From an Israel perpective you could say that the appartheid offenders is Palestinia who uses woman and children as shields to fight war. This is also a religious association. So once again one side wants to take away the freedom of the otherside and call it appartheid. I think the people pushing for this bill is the appartheids enforcers and should be held accountable for using our justice system for their own gain and political drive! 	2025-12-05 06:54:11	No I do not	Political motivation	The SA government didn't care abou UN agreements when they let the 'domestic' Russian ships dock in a military base, so why pretend to care about international agreements now? Those agreements are made by an individual and not by democratic voting, so it doesn't represent the SA people at all in the first place. Apartheid applies to a specific sequence of events and circumstances in SA during a specific time. Its in the very etymology of the word and it should nor be applied as a propaganda tool for other countries as it simply does not apply. If government was worried about the 'morals' of the people, they should not have removed the right to worship at schools and then sit back and watch teenage pregnancies and violence incidents at schools explode exponentially. Israel's fighting a religious extremist organisation that hides behind civilians and not discriminating against an entire race(s) ,as was the case in our own apartheid, as evidenced by the muslims or those of palestinian heritage happily living amongst the jews in Israel. This is merely a ploy by a religious extremist party to forcefully oppress the people by forcing them to comply with their own religious views which in turn is as unconstitutional as it gets. The bill is fundamentally flawed from its very motivation for being as well as its formulation and potential execution and enforcement. There are already laws in place to cover this situation that the bill is trying to hijack for its own nefarious purposes, so we don't need it. SA government should rather focus on their own lack of morals, discrimination, political faux pas and corruption, rather than wanting to be seen internationally as acting pious and morally superior. We are a predominantly Christian country. Muslim extremist views and laws have no place here.	Erin

	2025-12-05 04:52:47	No I do not	Political motivation	I am of the opinion that this proposed bill is a political ploy to try and gain visibility for a party that in the larger group of politics is entirely irrelevant. This bill does not seek to bring parity to human relationships but rather seeks to try and control, through enforcement, a certain person/parties political convictions. It is not based on moral principles but on a political agenda and should be totally rejected by anyone who wishes to retain the basjc principles of free speech and of free social assembly and/or free association according to decent human moral values and principles. This bill is in essence hiding behind the pretense of morality but is in reality demonising anyone who does not agree with this individuals idea of what he believes in. It is questionable that this proposal has any merit whatsover except to create division.	Keith	Western Cape		retired

I don't see this being of any real effect beyond SA's boarders. I also find this as a UN support 'excuse' to be a very disingenuous mask of convenience, in that the SA government deliberately went against the international laws when it did not arrest foreign dignitaries on SA soil as it should have, and on the other hand refused entry to such nobel beings like the Dalai Lama, to suit this governments own political agendas and not the good of the international communities nor the SA country. 	2025-12-04 18:59:54	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly oppose the Apartheid Bill. Apartheid is already criminalised under South African law through the ICC Act, so this Bill is unnecessary and duplicative. Its vague and outdated definitions create huge risks for abuse, allowing almost any political dispute to be reframed as “apartheid.” The Bill’s extraterritorial “long-arm” jurisdiction is especially dangerous — it turns South Africa into a platform for foreign political prosecutions, damaging our diplomatic relations and scaring off investors and international partners. It also threatens the independence of the NPA and courts by introducing politically driven committees and processes. This Bill offers no benefit to ordinary South Africans and distracts from urgent national priorities like crime, jobs, energy and service delivery. It is poorly drafted, constitutionally vulnerable, and harmful to South Africa’s interests. Please withdraw it.	Simon

	2025-12-05 09:01:01	No I do not	Political motivation	This Apartheid Bill is absolutely ludicrous. Yes, it is politically motivated, and it definitely does weaponise the Law of South Africa against its own citizens. This is just a play for attention, a very belated show of support for the equally ludicrous ICJ case that SA brought at The Hague, which has no foundation in fact, simply because there is no apartheid in Israel, and never has been. Many Black South Africans have visited Israel and openly stated that apartheid does not exist in Israel, that they could go where they wished, do what they wanted, without any kind of restriction. So this whole action is simply designed to target and expose South Africans who support Israel, as they are fully entitled to do even in contradiction to the government, as provided by the protection of the South African constitution. There are many countries with human rights abuses that mirror anparth across the world. This has only become an issue with the Gaza conflict. We remain close allies with China who commit genocide against their ethnic minorities all the time. We will not be applying this rule to them because we need their money. However, we can afford to be antisemitic because we don't need Israel. It is a short cited and small minded bill. If they insist on bringing this law, I will insist that we applied to China and all other countries doing similar behaviour. Open this can of worms at your peril. These countries include that are not limited to: Sudan, Russia, Myanmar (Burma), Democratic Republic of the Congo (DRC), Ethiopia, Syria, India (Specifically in the region of Manipur), Azerbaijan (In relation to Armenians in Nagorno-Karabakh) and it could be argued that we should also include Finland and Sweden for their treatment of the Sami people. Do you wish to stop all trade with these countries? Do you really think you have the political clout on any stage to have any influence over these countries? 	2025-12-05 12:41:05	No I do not	Political motivation	The Bill is constitutionally vague, and a waste of parliamentary time and resources intended solely to antagonise Israel and legally persecute certain citizens. South Africa has so many problems to contend with, including crime. Let’s fix what’s on our doorstep first! Apartheid is a South African concept and cannot be implemented anywhere else. Apartheid was specifically designed for the South African context, and cannot be replicated anywhere else in the world. Elsewhere it might be called something else like segregation or separate development. This proposed law is not applicable and should not be considered at all. 	2025-12-05 12:35:57	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not support the "Apartheid Bill" as proposed by Al Jama-ah. Duplication of Existing Law is already recognised as a crime against humanity under South Africa's Rome Statute Implementation Act (2002). There is no need to create a parallel legal framework. APARTHEID Is long dead in South Africa because the ANC have ruled for 30 years, so APARTHEID is dead and buried. Weaponising laws in support of a political agenda is against human rights in and of itself. We need to reconcile for our beautiful country to move forward and not be looking backwards. We do not want Sharia Law in South Africa or for South Africa to become a terrorist state. This is why Israel is fighting to protect herself from the radical Islamic terrorists. It is completely out of line with freedom of association, freedom to do business and freedom to associate with whom one pleases. What has happened to our vaunted constitution? It seems that it is not worth the paper it is written on. It is also vindictive in the extreme. I object strongly to this. It is the thin edge of the wedge. 	2025-12-05 12:10:26	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not support this Bill. My concern is that, in practice, it will be applied in a highly politicised way and may be used to target Zionist individuals and organisations, fuelling antisemitic sentiment rather than promoting universal human rights. Creating a new instrument that can be selectively enforced risks deepening division and hostility instead of advancing justice.	Kay-leigh	Gauteng		student

	2025-12-05 12:08:51	No I do not	Political motivation	To Whom It May Concern, I submit my public comment in strong opposition to the proposed “Apartheid Bill” introduced by Al Jama-ah. While I fully support South Africa’s constitutional commitment to human rights, non-discrimination, and accountability for crimes against humanity, this Bill is unnecessary, politically motivated, and potentially harmful to the integrity of South Africa’s legal system. 1. The Bill is redundant in law South Africa has already domesticated the crime of apartheid through: the Implementation of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court Act (2002), and existing constitutional and human-rights protections. The proposed Bill does not introduce new protections; instead, it duplicates existing legislation and creates legal confusion. Redundant legislation undermines legal certainty and weakens the coherence of our justice system. 2. The Bill is politically targeted rather than principled It is clear from public statements by the sponsoring party that this Bill’s primary intention is to target international conflicts—particularly the Israel–Palestine situation—rather than to address domestic or universal human-rights concerns. South African law should be applied evenly, consistently, and without foreign-policy bias. Crafting criminal legislation to address one specific geopolitical conflict is inappropriate and risks politicising our criminal justice system. 3. Extraterritorial application poses serious constitutional and diplomatic risks The Bill seeks to give South African courts the power to prosecute individuals— including dual citizens—for alleged acts committed entirely outside South Africa. For the reasons outlined above, I submit that the proposed “Apartheid Bill” is unnecessary, poorly conceived, and potentially harmful to South Africa’s legal, diplomatic, and social stability. I urge Parliament to reject this Bill.	Winston	Western Cape		unemployed individual

There are 3 countries that practise the worst form of Apartheid specifically against women. With this bill anyone that supports Iran, Saudi Arabia and especially Afghanistan must be charged and tried! To put it in perspective I doubt any South African women with any common sense would put foot in any of those countries but can visit and travel freely in Israel no matter what their religion is. This seems to be a thinly veiled attempt at anti semitism and further polarizing our society. Islamic countries also limit freedom of expression, freedom of speech, freedom of association and freedom of religion for everyone. Finally our corrupt and incompetent government which finds time to victimize Israel is responsible for more deaths per year in our very own country than have been killed in Gaza. 	2025-12-05 11:08:50	No I do not	Political motivation	Any bill that solely targets Israel is hypocritical from a human rights perspective as it ignores other countries that commit human rights violations. For example: China (Uyghurs and other Turkic Muslims): The Chinese government has been accused of committing crimes against humanity and potential genocide against Uyghurs and other Muslim minority groups, primarily in the Xinjiang region. Abuses reported by sources like Human Rights Watch and Amnesty International include mass arbitrary detention in "re-education" camps, forced labor, pervasive surveillance, forced sterilizations and abortions, and the systematic destruction of cultural and religious sites. The government frames these actions as efforts to combat "terrorism" and promote "Sinicization". Myanmar (Rohingya): The Rohingya people, a Muslim minority primarily from Rakhine State, have faced decades of systematic discrimination and persecution, including being denied citizenship under the 1982 Citizenship Law. In 2017, a brutal military crackdown, described by the UN and others as a "textbook example of ethnic cleansing" and potential genocide, forced more than 700,000 Rohingya to flee to Bangladesh. Those who remain in Myanmar continue to face severe restrictions on movement, access to healthcare, and other basic rights. In Saudi Arabia, the strict application of Wahhabi Islam and the banning of public displays of non-Muslim religious symbols have led to claims of "religious apartheid" by some observers. Unless all countries are held accountable, the actions against Israel are more about Antisemitism than a true concern for human rights.	Jonathan			Non-profit

The ANC Pro-Palestine, anti-Israel stance is a matter of fact, and thisproposal would simply gie the ANC and their friends the legal recource to legalise their vendetta. Furthermore the bill achieves no more than Rome Statute (2002) and this redundancy highlights that its purpose is purely a case of the ANC playing at politics again and trying desperately to assert their relevance. 	2025-12-05 10:24:39	No I do not	Political motivation	The intended additions to the bill regarding "complicity", a term not yet defined, are particularly repugnant. If this bill were to become law it would potentially criminalize anyone who holds a different view from the drafters - and thus the government. This is the essence of tyranny and would be a violation of the constitution. The explanation provided by the proposers makes it clear that the intention is to "go after" anyone at all that, in their view, supports Israel (at this time). Israel is a sovereign state - supporting Israel and its right to exist does not necessarily constitute endorsement of everything its government might do at any one time. Similarly, one can support South Africa without endorsing the ANC and its actions, nor those of Al Jamah-ah. There are additional practical, constitutional and foreign affairs implications that other commentators have raised. SA has adequate legislation to pursue, if it were to choose to do so, matters of this nature. The current proposal is poorly considered and serves no real purpose - apart, perhaps ,from virtue signalling and forming part of a concerted campaign driven by an extremist organisation. 	2025-12-05 09:36:51	No I do not	Political motivation	I hereby submit my objection to the Private Member's "Apartheid Bill" introduced by Al Jama-ah. This Bill is unnecessary, divisive, and dangerous for South Africa. It attempts to criminalise political opinion, international affiliations, and even charitable or humanitarian activity under the vague label of "supporting apartheid." The proposed law is so broad and unclear that it could easily be abused against ordinary South Africans. The Bill openly states its intention to target individuals who support Israel. By the same logic, one could argue that supporting Palestine—or any movement within it—amounts to supporting terrorism by way of supporting Hamas, a group internationally recognised as a terrorist organisation. South Africans cannot and should not be criminalised for political views on foreign conflicts, regardless of which side they support. This Bill will do nothing to improve the lives of South Africans. Our country faces urgent crises: unemployment, poverty, collapsing infrastructure, a failing healthcare system, and worsening crime. Parliament's time and resources should be spent fixing South African problems, not policing foreign political disputes or turning our courts into battlegrounds for international ideology. The Apartheid Bill threatens freedom of speech, freedom of association, and constitutional protections. It risks placing South Africans in legal jeopardy based on foreign conflicts they have no direct involvement in. For these reasons, I strongly object to the Bill and call for it to be scrapped in its entirety. South Africa must prioritise South African issues first.	Angelique	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-05 09:07:08	No I do not	Political motivation	“Israel is an apartheid state and those South Africans who support it, are therefore complicit and must face the full might of the law. If you support Israel then you are automatically supporting Apartheid and will be criminally charged”. This is a statement made by a Muslim that weaponises both human rights and South African law into a tool for anti-semitic witchhunting. We don't need to encourage an extension of the conflict in the middle east onto the streets of South Africa. The point of South African involvement in the Israel/Palestine situation is intended to help bring about peace and proper humanitarian behaviour. The political intention of this law is the opposite of that - it aims to bring the violence and conflict right onto our own soil. Let's keep our domestic police and courts for the crime we're already struggling with, not incentivise understandably frustrated people to start legally attacking each other instead of working together in harmony or getting on with life. Human Rights is always and in every case intended to increase peace and harmony and must never be weaponised in this way.	Je'anna	Gauteng		Non-profit
	2025-12-05 09:07:05	No I do not	Political motivation	The Government cannot be trusted, there is an insidious motive behind this, on face value it would appear that it is to attack and prosecute South Africans fighting for Israel. I am certain that this is not the case this bill is a wolf in sheep's clothing. I believe the actual plan will be to use this bill to silence any dissent in this country as I am seeing in the UK people being arrested for praying in their head near an abortion clinic. I see the way Islamic rape gangs have been protected by the government and police in the UK. Expect this bill to target all non muslims and anyone who speaks out against the government, they are going to say criticism of the government from non a black individual will be a racist act. 	2025-12-05 17:22:45	No I do not	Political motivation	It is well known that far from being an 'apartheid state', Israel is the best-functioning democracies in the Middle East. So the foundation of this proposed bill is an outright lie. The phrase that describes anyone perceived to be in "complicity, attempt, or incitement of" one of the five main acts covered in the Convention is wide open for abuse. "Complicity" can be read to include everything from killing a Palestinian to any indication that someone cares about the people of Israel. If I say that October 7 was an atrocity that can never be justified could make me guilty of the crime of apartheid. The inclusion of "mental harm" in one of the five main acts can similarly be abused, according to the Convention. Anyone claiming that they have been caused mental suffering because of something someone said in support of Israel could land the person who said it in jail. If accepted as a law in South Africa, every Jewish person, every Rabbi, anyone who attends a synagogue, would be in even worse danger than they are now. It would be one of the most shameful things that South Africa has ever done if this bill succeeds in Parliament. All it will do is introduce apartheid in South Africa, with Jews, and anyone who supports them, the victims.	Maggie			business owner

Freedom of association is imbedded in the human spirit. History has shown that multiculturalism can only exist on the basis of mutual respect and tolerance. No person should be held accountable for the decisions of their forefathers and the need for separateness. To my opinion abortion of babies should be considered a crime against humanity rather than the idee of separate development of ethnic groups. 	2025-12-05 15:45:40	No I do not	Political motivation	This law fosters hate and targets a group of people based on a religious basis. It does not take into account many complex factors, such as restitution eg BEE to redress prior wrongs. It is also clearly targeted at Israel and Jews - which being brought forward by a Muslim based party might further fan flames of anti-semitone. As Jews were prohibited from purchasing land in the ottoman ruled Palestine by law since 1858- an act similar to apartheid in SA not allowing non-white citizens to purchase land, it is not surprising that land records show only 6.6% of the total land being owned by Jews. Importantly, only 45% of the land mass having an owner and even then, there is much commentary regarding how the land registry was manipulated by ottoman aristocracy. While the current netenyahu government actions are abhorrent , these acts do not lead to a fair and just political solution based on the history of clear and consistent political and racial subjugation of Jews in the region. Jews, who were the original settlers in the region. Finally, to claim ethnic difference between Jews and Palestinians is absurd. All would have been residents at the same time and some would have converted to Islam and some remained Jewish as the region was occupied and invaded. DNA tests have shown the same dns structure and while some returning Jews may have had European influence, it does not mean they are native to the land. For example - if a Sotho man exiled during apartheid and married an English woman - and his child married a French spouse- yet their children maintained a Sotho heritage including key customs and wished to return to SA - would we say they have no right to be here? Woukd they be colonisers and settlers ?	Nebo	Western Cape
	2025-12-05 15:42:10	No I do not	Political motivation	One can note which political parties support this Bill and considering the rights of all people across the globe, freedom of association is threatened. People supporting Palestine have the right to do so as do people have the right to support Israel or any other country so long as it does not put South Africa at Risk. The danger is that the Bill will be weaponised to target specific groups of people (particularly in SA) to prevent them from speaking freely about the problems in SA. so that the same 100 high level political leaders can continue to steal from the SA people through various methods of Corruption. ANC government has made it clear that they support communistic countries such as Iran, Russia and China with the obvious goal of converting South Africa. No Bill should be written in support of only a few political parties in South Africa. Any Bill should include all parties no matter what race or creed. There are already far too many race-based laws forcing Whites, in particular, and , to a smaller extent, Indian, Coloured and Asian groups to a point of poverty. It is unacceptable that any minority groups in South Africa be targeted in this era because of the decisions and acts of two generations in their ancestry. People living in Germany now are not targeted because of their past generations having committed genocide of Jewish people. Every time we are informed about a new Bill, it is never written in the interest of ALL South Africans!!! That alone is APARTHEID intention. The people are tired of the double standards and agendas of the ANC and pro-communistic political parties. There is no integrity involved in writing such Bills, just as there isn't for other planned Bills e.g. disarm all members of the public so they cannot defend themselves. 	2025-12-05 15:12:28	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa as a country has already expressed its status by taking Israel to the ICJ, a case which I understand is still ongoing. Now a small Muslim political party in Parliament wants to create a law within SA, clearly to target those persons, mostly the SA Jewish community, who may be pro Israel. Being pro Israel does not make one a person supporting Apartheid. We still have freedom of speech in SA; the despicable " Kill the Boer" has been deemed ok, so why should a pro Israel person be criminally charged. It suggests to me this proposal has a racist tone to it. Whilst the war in Gaza is terrible, it had a cause and it does not make Israel an Apartheid state, since they have many Arab, Druze & Christian citizens and an Arab party in their Parliament. We have far more important issues needing attention, Crime such as the Farm Murders & Gang activities in addition to Fraud and Corruption. Why have they not focused on those issues which impact ALL South Africans. !	David			retired

	2025-12-05 14:48:54	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa was an apartheid state. For any country to be labelled as such it has to promote the interests of a minority group at the expense of other groups in cruel and violent ways as the Nationalist government did. Israel is not doing this. There are Arabs living in Israel with access to services like other citizens. There are no doubt Israelis who don't socialise with the Arab citizens or the Arabs with them, but there is no attempt on the part of the Knesset to deprive Arab citizens of any of their rights. To call Israel an 'apartheid state' is therefore a misnomer and smacks strongly of a vicious desire to squash any support from anyone who doesn't support the terrorist organisation who is responsible for launching an unprovoked attack on :Israel. While Israel 's response is indeed controversial, the fact remains that no country which is attacked can be expected to sit back and do nothing to repel the attacker. Indeed no single person if attacked, is going to stand quietly and allow the attacker to beat her / him black and blue and then go quietly on their way. I trust that sanity will prevail and this suggestion will be dustbinned and as it should be. There are serious problems deserving of attention and solving them will make our country a happier and more prosperous place - for everyone. I think I speak for all of us when I say we expect our parliamentarians to focus on that.	Rosemary	Western Cape		retired

I therefore strongly disagree that by supporting Israel, one is supporting apartheid. I do think that our SA government is trying to use this updated draft Apartheid bill to further its own political agenda to side with palestine and be anti-semetic. 	2025-12-05 14:05:57	No I do not	Political motivation	I object to the “Apartheid Bill” introduced by the Al Jama-ah party on the basis that it is constitutionally unsound, legally unnecessary, and risks being used for political rather than public-interest purposes. South Africa has already moved beyond its apartheid history through a strong constitutional framework. The Constitution of the Republic of South Africa — particularly Section 9 — fully protects every person against discrimination, segregation, and apartheid-like practices. Further, existing laws such as the Promotion of Equality and Prevention of Unfair Discrimination Act, the Employment Equity Act, and the enforcement mechanisms of the South African Human Rights Commission already provide robust remedies for any violation related to racism or inequality. The proposed bill adds nothing meaningful to this framework. The bill is also vague and overbroad. It relies on subjective and undefined language, creating uncertainty and risking arbitrary enforcement. This violates the constitutional principle of legality, which requires all laws to be clear, predictable, and incapable of abuse. Legislation must strengthen the rule of law, not undermine it. Furthermore, the bill appears to be politically motivated and aimed at applying the label of “apartheid” to foreign states. South Africa cannot legislate the internal affairs of other sovereign nations, nor can it unilaterally redefine international legal concepts. Domestic law is not a tool for conducting foreign policy or imposing ideological interpretations on global matters. Attempting to do so degrades Parliament’s legislative purpose and risks diverting attention from the real needs of South Africans. Using apartheid — a uniquely painful part of our national history — as a political instrument against other countries is inappropriate and diminishes the seriousness of the term. South Africa should not weaponise its past for partisan agendas, nor should it allow Parliament to become a vehicle for geopolitical s	Reinhardt	Western Cape		employed individual

There is no use for solidifying a political stance into a law, when the political circumstances may well change very rapidly. Therefore, this bill is a waste of taxpayers ' money and of the time of parliamentarians, who have much more urgent internal affairs matters to pay attention to, that are much more important to South African citizens. Just one example is the enormous problem of corruption in government. In the light of this bill being completely unnecessary, it can reasonably be viewed as a distraction tactic of certain parties wanting to draw away attention from internal political failures of governance. 	2025-12-06 08:50:56	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the proposed “Apartheid Bill” introduced by Al Jama-ah. While South Africa has a proud history of standing for human rights and justice, this Bill goes far beyond those principles. It seeks to create a vague, overly broad, and politically targeted new crime that will be difficult, if not impossible, to enforce. It risks turning our justice system into a tool for foreign policy battles rather than strengthening accountability at home. The Bill’s extraterritorial reach, its political framing, and the stated intention to criminalise South Africans solely for expressing support for a foreign state raise serious concerns about freedom of expression, constitutional certainty, and the proper limits of criminal law. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime under existing legislation aligned with international law; creating an additional, politically motivated statute is unnecessary and opens the door to legal and social abuse. I call on Parliament to reject this Bill and to focus instead on legislation that promotes unity, protects the rights of all citizens, and strengthens South Africa’s constitutional democracy—without weaponising our laws for partisan or geopolitical purposes. The person steering this is himself from a specific religion and supports a terrorist group steering jihadist agendas. This “bill” is echoing the Nazi laws that were passed and it is utterly absurd to even entertain such unlawful, unethical and inhumane acts, never mind the bill itself. The people behind this bill need to be arrested for deliberately inciting violence and wanting to harm others based on race and religious identity.	Melissa	Gauteng

	2025-12-05 20:43:28	No I do not	Political motivation	Key Problems with the Bill • It duplicates existing law • Under existing law, apartheid is already a crime against humanity — via the Rome Statute Act, 2002. • A standalone “Apartheid Bill” is unnecessary, because the criminalisation of apartheid already exists. • One public submission against the Bill states plainly: “the bill duplicates … which already criminalises apartheid … making a standalone law unnecessary.” It is vague, has overly broad definitions & risk of abuse • Concerns about ambiguity: terms like “crime of Apartheid”, “Apartheid policies”, and “Apartheid state” in the draft Bill are considered vague. This means the law could be applied subjectively — even to comparatively minor discriminatory or political acts. • That vagueness may open the door to misuse: critics warn it could be used to stifle free speech, dissent or political opposition under the guise of “apartheid crimes.” It is Practically unenforceable and resource-intensive • The Bill grants extraterritorial jurisdiction: South African courts would be able to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens or persons present in SA) for alleged apartheid acts committed anywhere in the world. • Critics question whether such prosecutions are feasible: the logistics of evidence gathering, jurisdictional complexity, and diplomatic ramifications make real enforcement unlikely. • Some say this could divert limited legal and prosecutorial resources away from pressing local challenges — without delivering tangible benefits to South Africans. Given the nature of the party that put forward this bill and its virulent anti-Israel attitudes, and the fact that its spokesman has said that its target first and foremost will be Israel, it strikes me as nothing but witch-hunting which could alienate South African Jews and will not be applied or even considered in the case of any other country. It is not possible to provide a single count, as the attacks occur continuously in various forms. Key aspects of Hamas's attacks include: Major Conflicts: Israel and Hamas have fought several major, large-scale conflicts and military operations in the Gaza Strip since Hamas took control in 2007. These occurred most notably in 2008-2009, 2012, 2014, 2021, and the current war that started in October 2023. Rocket Attacks: Hamas and other militant groups have launched thousands of rockets and mortar shells toward Israel over the years. By August 2014, almost 20,000 rockets had hit southern Israel since the early 2000s. In just the first few hours of the October 7, 2023 attack, at least 2,200 rockets were fired. Individual Terrorist Attacks: Throughout its history, Hamas has been responsible for numerous individual terrorist incidents, including suicide bombings on buses and hotels (such as the 2002 Netanya hotel bombing that killed 30 people), shootings, and kidnappings of Israeli soldiers. The October 7 Attack: The most significant and deadly attack occurred on October 7, 2023, when Hamas militants launched a coordinated land, sea, and air assault, killing approximately 1,200 people, primarily civilians, and taking more than 240 hostages. Hamas has consistently refused to recognize Israel's right to exist and has used violent resistance as a core part of its strategy, leading to these repeated hostilities. How is protecting your country and people against Terror attacks a racist act? If any country comes in South Africa and start terrorizing our South African citizens would we as south Africans or any other country for that matter not try and stop these attacks from happening even by force? this is not a race issue it's a terror issue. 	2025-12-07 09:59:45	No I do not	Political motivation	It is a clear case of case of radical Muslim party, Al Jamah-ah, trying to influence minorities in South Africa & trying to weaponise their hatred towards Israel, by attempting to use political influencing of cadre/naive political parties in South Africa. Should Al Jamal-ah succeed in their weaponising of this "Bill" it will only isolate SA even further from with a worsening non-aligned foreign policy (e.g., Israel, Russia), which is recently improving with; 1) with a very acceptable GNU 2025 budget, which has resulted in a strengthened Rand against all international currencies 2) Government support to push for the release/ return of nearly 20 000 Ukrainian kidnapped/abducted children by Russia. 2) South Africa’s withdrawal of the 90-day visa exemption for the 153 Palestinians which illegally entered SA last month. This policy should not be partially or politically applied - it should apply to ALL illegals. Zimbabwe hosted & supported uMkhonto weSizwe & the ANC during the apartheid struggle and yet Zimbabweans (illegal migrants) are now persecuted in SA. Al Jamah-ah is very silent on this issues & only cares about Islamic issues. This is not a party focused on what is best for SA & its people. It is a very minority party trying to force their political & radical agenda the majority. And if allowed to succeed in weaponising an "Apartheid " Bill , they will be encouraged to enforce more of their policies - will they eventually push to introduce Sharia law into SA? This in its whole entity takes away the freedom of speech and belief which is the centre point of democracy, therefore moving towards a dictatorship. Our government is using this platform as a political playground to gain back favour from the people, through using their emotional past to achieve their agenda of staying in power. South Africa has more pressing matters within our own country that need to be addressed, wasting money, time and effort on a international issue only further strengthening the point that the ANC does not have South Africa’s best interest at heart and therefore should not be the ruling party. The effect of this is to prevent Christians from vising the holy land and birthplace of jesus or doing any works in that land as well as to prevent jews and persons of all faiths doing so. 	2025-12-07 08:29:04	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly oppose the Bill in its current form for three compelling reasons: Firstly, it is plainly unconstitutional Granting South African courts universal jurisdiction to prosecute alleged “apartheid” acts committed abroad—especially with the stated focus on Israel—grossly overreaches. It will inevitably criminalise protected political speech, religious conviction, and charitable activity. Such vague, extraterritorial criminalisation violates sections 9, 15, 16, 33 and 36 of the Constitution and will be struck down by the Constitutional Court, wasting time and public funds. Secondly, it imposes a minority ideological position on the Christian majority Over 80 % of South Africans are Christian; fewer than 2 % are Muslim. Many Christians regard support for Israel as a sincere religious duty rooted in Scripture. By criminalising “aiding” alleged apartheid, the Bill (tabled by the Al Jama-ah party) effectively forces the theological and political view of a tiny minority onto the overwhelming majority. This is the very opposite of the religious freedom guaranteed in section 15. Thirdly, it opens the door to UK-style persecution of Christians In Britain, “buffer-zone” laws and vague public-order legislation have already resulted in Christians being arrested, prosecuted, and even jailed for silent prayer in public. This Bill contains the same dangerous vagueness. Once “complicity in apartheid” becomes a crime here, peaceful Christian advocacy, missions funding, and even prayer for Israel can be prosecuted. South Africa must not copy Britain’s assault on basic freedoms. In short: the Bill is unconstitutional, religiously coercive, and sets a chilling precedent for persecuting the Christian majority. It must be withdrawn or radically rewritten to remove extraterritorial reach and any threat to freedom of religion, conscience, and expression.	Dries	Gauteng		self-employed

	2025-12-07 14:45:06	No I do not	Political motivation	Since October the 7th 2023, the ANC and it's allies have sought to delegitimise the right of Israel to defend itself and save it's kidnapped citizens from a murderous, savage attack on its civilian citizens. Children, babies, women, and the elderly were savagely murdered, raped and tortured and their bodies disrespected and over 200 citizens were taken hostage, by a Palestinian state that had autonomy and was not in a state of occupation. In fact, the citizens of Gaza entered daily into Israel for work. The resistance that Hamas claimed they were enacting was a resistance, of what exactly- the right of a sovereign nation, Israel, to exist. This tiny nation of 10 million people on a piece of land the size of New Jersey has had to defend themselves from the bullying, murderous Arab nations that have called continuously for its elimination. The war that ensued in Gaza continued because Hamas wanted it to. Because Hamas couldn't care less about its citizens , using them as human shields and exploiting them to score propaganda points. Releasing the hostages would have ended the war. None of these facts have ever been acknowledged by the ANC and its allies, instead they have trotted out the lies of these terrorists who were labelled as terrorists by the intienat Islamic Judicial Council in May 2023, before the attack on Israel. Labelled by this court as terrorists because of the unspeakable human rights abuses of their own Gazan citizens. Now the Al Jamah seeks to enact a law to prevent people, who know the truth and who understand that Israel is the true victim here, bullied and harrassed by an idealogical and religious hatred., from assisting Israel. This is completely unacceptable. There should be no limit on South African citizens to prevent them from assisting Israel. This smacks of Nazi Germany and their evil anti Semitic laws that led to the murder of 6 million Jews. Interestingly they had the full support of the Grand Mufti of Palestine then too. 	2025-12-07 14:28:26	No I do not	Political motivation	DEFINITELY DO NOT support this attempt to weaponise the FALSE global narrative of Israel being the bad actor. No genocide has been committed by Israel, despite attempts by left wing elements in our GNU, likely funded by Iran, to prove such, & anyway no such decision has been reached by ICJ. Hamas, & by extension Iran, are the ones committed to genocide of the Jews & ALL nonbelievers in Islam (as written in their religious texts). Hence, particularly after the horrendous attack on Oct 7th, it is Iran that should be taken to ICJ for their stated commitment to death (otherwise slavery by them) of all non Muslims. This is just another attempt by left wing portion of gvt (especially Muslim> in particular Al-Jamah), to add to the global false narrative swallowed by gullible useful idiots worldwide, to ignorantly aid in promoting a global caliphate & by extension brutal Sharia law. This Islamisation of the West must be fought against AT ALL COSTS !! Otherwise South Africa will reap the same whirlwind as UK & Western Europe.	Nick	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-07 13:10:42	No I do not	Political motivation	This is an insult to the SA Constitution and the hard-won freedoms and high ideals it represents. Effectively, such a bill, if effected as law, would criminalise ordinary people simply for their religious affiliations or religious convictions, or indeed their private, political convictions, which all are entitled to have, provided we do not harm each other. It is, in principle and potentially in practice, a thought-crime law, criminalising sentiment and unconstitutionally preventing citizens from freely choosing their own language, philosophy, culture and lifeways. It is transparently a bill, or would-be law, whose chief aim is repression of the people, and is the very antithesis of justice and the tolerant freedoms we fought for and dearly cherish in South Africa and in democracies everywhere. It is transparent politicking, which is to say it is government working against and not for the People who put the government in its place, working for its own ends. Government and law in a democracy such as ours exist because of the people, to serve South Africans and provide a framework for greater prosperity for all. As such, it is patently a tyrannical bill, and antithetical to democracy, individual freedom, and flourishing. It is plainly ideologically-motivated and brought upon us in sheer bad faith by bad actors. Tyranny is to be opposed at every level, and it will be.	Zach

	2025-12-07 12:36:41	No I do not	Political motivation	1. Our laws should not be allowed to prosecute an individual based on different opinions; that is a path to Authoritarianism. 2. Propaganda can easily sway and can falsely convince people of a perceived "right and wrong" 3. Weaponising our country's history to achieve political goals is gross 4. This seems 100% politically and religiously motivated 5. Most situations are in a moral grey zone; this tries to cut it as black and white, good and bad - this is not how ethics works or should, and those proposing it need to get educated on morals and ethics 6. People in glass houses should not throw stones - our own political parties and country are divided, with radicals and extremists finding their way into positions of power, which can result in abuse of this system and, more importantly, screams we are not in a position to be making "moral" judgements. 7. Massive waste of resources and time Basically, this seems like another step towards controlling the people and the narrative while restricting freedoms. It is a unique situation of conflicting way of life and national security. If someone has committed a war crime or crime against humanity let it be held as an international trial. You can't punish people for holding ideologies. It is true that Islam wants all of Israel under Islamic rule. That is not democracy. Our constituion upholds democracy. Why are we involving ourselves in this matter, and why am I even being called to sign a petition? This is not a kangaroo court. This is a matter for an international tribunal. You cannot criminalise dual citizens on their support or beliefs, whether they ate pro Israel or pro Palestine . You can only bring criminal acts to justice. 	2025-12-08 10:10:27	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the proposed Apartheid Bill because it is drafted so broadly that it threatens constitutional rights, social stability and the safety of minority communities. The Bill imports politicized definitions of “apartheid” from international instruments and applies them in a way that could criminalize lawful expression, association, belief, and cross-border cultural, religious, academic or humanitarian relationships. It creates extraterritorial jurisdiction and ideological exposure risk that could be used to target individuals or organizations based on identity or political viewpoint rather than actual criminal conduct. Instead of protecting human rights, the Bill enables ideological profiling, lawfare harassment, and intimidation of communities — especially those with cultural, religious or educational links to Israel. It undermines constitutional protections around freedom of expression, freedom of religion, freedom of association, and equality before the law. The Bill introduces uncertainty that will damage social cohesion, international relations, academic cooperation and business partnerships. For these reasons, the Bill risks weaponization, discrimination and misuse, and should not be supported in its current form.	Jesse			business owner

	2025-12-08 09:47:37	No I do not	Political motivation	Good day, I fully object to this law. The ANC government and related parties do not fully understand the situation in Israel. There were a number of high diplomats who recently went to Israel and who came back with the realization that there is no apartheid in Israel. Apartheid means a party is completely excluded from society. How is it then that the Israeli defence force has Palestinian members in high positions? How is it that the Israeli government has Palestinian individuals in its ranks? How is it that Palestinians and Jews in Israel can go for coffee at the same coffee shop and have dinner at the same restaurant? Those who want to push this through need to go to Israel to see for themselves what the situation is. The only separation is the Orthodox Jews who mix with no one else. Israel has the right to a homeland. Any individuals who commit violent acts or other acts that undermine that right are the true criminals. You cannot live next to someone who wants you dead. That is common sense. However, all those who love the nation of Israel and who are loyal to it are welcome within its borders. I wonder if the ANC or the officials pushing this law are getting money from Iran again. The ANC nearly wasn't able to put itself on the ballot paper in the last national elections. Then, all of a sudden the case was delivered to the ICJ and then the ANC was on the ballot paper. Coincidence? No way! The more South Africa turns its back on Israel - God's chosen people through whom the Messiah (Jesus Christ) was born, the more things go wrong here in South Africa! First droughts and then too much rain. Now bad hail storms leaving what looked like mini glaciers and ice shelves in PTA and the Free State. 	2025-12-08 08:08:35	No I do not	Political motivation	Let us not" beat around the bush". We are all aware what discriminatory legislation did to minority groups in our country since 1994. Employment equity, and BEE as well as BBBEE . It has enriched the rich and normal citizens gained nothing by this. I agree 100% with what is written commend by another participant. In my view - Immediately when government cannot get something right it, a new law is promulgated and is enforced by them. This is only the ANC as a terrorist organization showing support and sympathy with another terrorist organizations like HAMAS , ISIS , Hezbollah who also committed crimes against humanity and still carry on doing it. The Apartheid Bill, as framed, poses significant legal, constitutional, diplomatic, and social risks for South Africa. Even those sympathetic to Palestinian solidarity efforts have warned that this type of legislation can become a blunt political weapon, rather than a credible human-rights instrument. The Bill is openly designed to target one foreign state and its supporters. When the sponsor of the Bill states: “If you support Israel then you are automatically supporting apartheid and will be criminally charged.” …this is an admission that the Bill is being used not to prosecute genuine crimes, but to criminalise political positions, speech, associations, and foreign policy alignment. This turns criminal law into an ideological enforcement tool, which is fundamentally incompatible with rule-of-law principle	Werner	Mpumalanga		employed individual

The Bill represents a significant move to “weaponise” South Africa’s human rights laws for international justice causes. Whislt we should recognise international justice cuases, they cannot be legislated in this manner - it is prejudicial, singles out sole sectors of scoiety for abuse and double standards, and creates a framework for statutory institutionalised anti-semtism. It is unjust to be influenced by one ideology, and to jump on the bandwagon, to use our own laws - and indeed escalate and weaponise them - to fight another's ideology. RSA has its own issues which require focus. I doubt this proposed bill would be enforced fairly... both ideologies have perpetrated crimes, but I doubt two perpetrators would be treated equally. It is globally clear (see USA, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, Britain) that one ideology's agenda is being furthered relentlessly to the detriment of all other's, and now to slyly even try weaponise and politicise the existing laws of the countries in which they reside. 	2025-12-07 20:28:03	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly reject the proposed “Apartheid Bill”. I say this openly as a South African Jew. Yes, I am “biased” in that I have religious, cultural and emotional ties to Israel. Precisely because of my Jewish identity and history of Jewish persecution, I am deeply alarmed by a Bill so clearly driven by a political campaign to single out Israel, and by extension South Africans connected to it. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Implementation of the Rome Statute Act. There is no legal vacuum. Creating a new, stand-alone “Apartheid” offence, openly promoted as a weapon against Israel, turns our criminal justice system into a partisan tool rather than a neutral guardian of justice. This Bill will: • Discriminate in practice against South African Jews and others who maintain religious, family, cultural, academic or business ties with Israel, treating certain identities and views as inherently suspect. This clashes with constitutional rights to equality, dignity, religious freedom, association and free expression. • Politicise criminal law, inviting prosecutions based on ideology rather than consistently applied legal standards, damaging our courts’ credibility. • Fuel hostility and intimidation toward Jews in South Africa at a time of rising global antisemitism. • Divert scarce resources from the urgent crisis of crime and corruption inside South Africa to complex, politically charged foreign matters. If Parliament wishes to strengthen our response to international crimes, it should do so in a principled, even-handed way that applies to all countries — not via a Bill designed in practice to target one state and those associated with it. I therefore oppose this Bill as discriminatory, divisive and unnecessary. It should be withdrawn or fundamentally redrafted so that it cannot be used, in purpose or effect, to victimise South African Jews or any other community on the basis of religious, ethnic or political identity. These same parties are unwilling to aggressively oppose crime and lawlessness in South Africa, undermining the very freedom people have died for. These parties are also unwilling to aggressively confront Hamas on its terror attacks on Israel and using the Palestinian population as a shield. Before one can point a finger, if you yourself are guilty of atrocities, party member in bed with crime bosses, but no action is taken. People are dying of hunger in South Africa, but no action is taken. Everything in South Africa is broken, and the people are suffering, but these parties are unwilling to make the necessary changes. They themselves prosper, but their people are dying of hunger. It is shameful. These parties are focusing on Israel, but we, the South African people see their hypocrisy.	Martie			employed individual

	2025-12-07 19:11:44	No I do not	Political motivation	The proponents of this bill are motivated by hatred for Israel, and not by truth. The truth is : Israel is not an apartheid state. If more than 2 million Arab muslims live in Israel together with Jews, and these Arab muslims have equal voting rights and even have seats in the Knesset, then this story of apartheid in Israel is an outright lie. The proponents of this bill should better spend their time on our South African internal affairs- where there is so much to be done.	Sindy	KwaZulu-Natal		self-employed

	2025-12-07 19:11:17	No I do not	Political motivation	Anyone with half a brain can clearly see this is aimed at the state of israel by a South African mulsim parliamentarain. The bill makes no reference to other countries where apardheid a very evident (which happen to be arab countries!), so I will focus on Israel. As regards supporting Israel: 1. As a Bible-believing Christian, I cannot support this bill. The Bible clearly says pray for the peace of Jerusalem (By the way, Jerusalem is not mentioned once in the koran). 2. The Bible also states: I will bless those who bless you [Israel] and curse those who curse you. 3. The Bible also states that at the Final Judgement, God will judge according to how a nation treated israel. This bill is also unconstitutional. I have the freedom of religion and of choice. having said that, I do believe that if my choice were to harm, South Africa, then it would be a wrong choice. How is this bill in the best interest of South Africa? As regards Israel being an "apardheid state": anyone can swim at any beach, use any toilet, sit whereever they choose to on a train/bus, be part of the Knesset, vote, become doctors, lawyers, etc.... I suggest Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa stop wasting taxpayer money and actually do his job - including to suggest laws for the benefit of South Africans.	Richard			employed individual

	2025-12-08 13:10:09	No I do not	Political motivation	No Bill should be written in support of the OPINIONS of a few people or political parties in South Africa. All Bills should address the establishment/alteration of LAWS regarding the desired governmental AND social legal stance on an issue. This should reflect the CHARACTER of the people of South Africa. Government - wake up - the anti-apartheid laws are supposed to be an exception, not a template no matter what race or creed you are. Ethnic and tribal discrimination is rife in ALL of Africa. Will the RSA government try to address all of these? Will they cherry pick? Go for the low hanging fruit? Address the Rwanda vs DRC, the Sudan/Darfour and the Biafran war? Will they discriminate against Israel and choose sides or prosecute Palestine, DRC, Rwanda, Darfour and Sudan as countries, as well as their citizens, for humanitarian crimes as well? There are already far too many race-based laws in RSA, what character does the government wish to demonstrate to the world? Government, do you really want RSA to be the same sniveling, snot-nosed beggar we see all over Africa? Castigating others for things we do ourselves, like racial discrimination? Why this diatribe? Because the people of RSA have fought so that we may be free of persecution based on race colour or creed, to be free of control of one group by another group and the right to our differences without the fear of jail or fines or targeted laws. Now you want to duplicate the existing Rome Statute Act (2002) in order to TRY and address the morals of a member of parliament above those of the other members even though that member does not pronounce any condemnation of discrimination and violence against women in countries he shares religious and moral identity with. Perhaps picking certain morals and dropping uncomfortable ones is a function of one of several options like being in government, religious leadership, party leadership. His morals are not mine and I dispute this proposed bill vehemently.	Jaak	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-08 12:44:51	No I do not	Political motivation	Israel has no "apartheid" laws! It does not discriminate on the basis of a person's skin colour or heritage. Israel even accommodate those of faiths other than the Judean faith. We in South African on the other hand has many "apartheid" laws that clearly discriminate against anyone of "white skin colour" that prevent white people from conducting business in a fair manner, obtaining education and bursaries and most of all to work in the formal industry. Apparently there are 147 of these laws on the law books of South Africa. But anyone with a bit of knowledge would know that "Palestine" is not and has never been a country or state with a defined border. It does not have a head of state and a parlement or similar state governing body. It does not have any state organs! But most of all the Gaza strip is part of the territory that was given to the state of Israel by the international community after the Second World War. It does not belong to Hamas, the PA or any of the Arabs living there. They were given a thriving piece of land to live in because none of the Muslim countries want to take them in and what did they do? They turned on to the people who provided them with food, income and medical services and murdered and kidnapped people at a festival, beheaded babies and burned their bodies. and committed many other atrocities. which the current government seems to think is acceptable, but then that is how they came to power. 	2025-12-08 12:37:03	No I do not	Political motivation	I categorically reject this Bill as a blatant and cynical attempt to weaponize South Africa's legal system for narrow political theatre. This legislation has nothing to do with human rights and everything to do with singling out one country and its supporters for ideological persecution. The sponsor's own words betray the Bill's true purpose: not justice, but targeting South Africans whose views on a complex international conflict differ from the governing coalition's predetermined position. South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act. This Bill adds no meaningful legal protection—it simply creates a vague, extraterritorial tool designed to criminalize political speech and intimidate citizens who support Israel or hold nuanced views on Middle Eastern affairs. The proposal is constitutionally problematic, practically unenforceable, and a staggering misuse of Parliament's time and resources. At a moment when South Africans face crises in energy, unemployment, crime, and service delivery, our legislators are prioritizing symbolic legislation aimed at prosecuting thought crimes and virtue-signaling on the international stage. We will not support legislation that turns our courts into instruments of political witch-hunts. South Africa's hard-won constitutional democracy demands better than laws crafted to silence dissent and enforce ideological conformity. This Bill deserves to be dismissed for what it is: political grandstanding masquerading as principle.	Clyde	KwaZulu-Natal		business owner

What is proposed is worse than Apartheid. It is based on lies and ignorance. The UN is a political cabal run for political expedience of the Muslim and Marxist states. The South African government has no credibility having taken money from Iran snd then accusing Israel of genocide, all based on Hamas terrorist propaganda . Israel has a 20% Arab population who fully enjoy the rights of all citizens, so it is hardly an Apartheid state. It is not a colonial state since the Jews were there first. It is in fact the Palestinians who colonised it. This proposed bill is a disgrace, proposed by the real terrorists.	Johan			retired

The Bill is being introduced for the political interests of a Party who has a small membership and who are not representative of the South African voting public. The requirement for for the NDPP consent centralises prosecutorial discretion, opening the door to politically motivated prosecutions. this can backfire an any political power and is anti - democratic. The Bill appears primarily aimed at the Israel-Palestine issue,. Whilst this may be appropriate for DIRCO to engage on, it is not in the ordinary South African's interest to compromise Democratic principles for this reason. It also may compromise South Africa's diplomatic neutrality and economic interests. Furthermore , does Al Jamah- ah even understand what is apartheid , I dont Think so , They are just doing this because they are an Islamic Party (organization) and they just hate Israel , as it states in their Quran to fight the infidels and Kill all Jews and Christians as commanded by their prophet. Israel is the most democratic country in the middle east, even the muslims that live there will atest to that , while most of the Islamic countries there dont allow for freedom of religion and speech , hundreds of thousands of christians are killed in those countries , is that not genocide or even apartheid , while in Israel even the muslims have freedom of religion. Israel has the right to defend their country and their citizens , it is very sad to see so people dying Yes but remember not all off them that died were innocent.So YES I definitley OPPOSE the bill , if anything I think Al Jamah are the aparthied organisation. 	2025-12-09 14:14:42	No I do not	Political motivation	Apartheid was bad, there is no other way to say it, but likening what is going on between Israel, Palestine and Hammas to the what was going on in South Africa for all races in one nation under the Apartheid governance is just not right. It is using a completely different set of histories, and cultures (in the very least) to try and force a political square peg into a geo-cultural round hole. It is forcing a label on peoples and an incredibly difficult situation, and weaponizing a political agenda, and not a human right.	Michen	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-09 13:07:25	No I do not	Political motivation	So no more Jews in South Africa. By definition, all Jews have two passports, even if they do not take up their Israeli passport. This will automatically set every Jew up for constructive prosecution unless they stand up and publicly condemn Israel. They have not defined the 'punishment' they talk so liberally about. Will this lead to the reinstatement of capital punishment in South Africa? If I have a social media account that displays the Israeli flag as well as the South African flag, am I going to be prosecuted? If I have a Bible in my house, which is a definitive translation from the Hebrew, is that a crime? If I order Matzo crackers from the east of the country I now have been forced to live in because of the 'Apartheid' shown against me in South Africa, whereby I had to leave to be able to work and support my family, am I guilty of loving Matzo crackers or a supporter of Israel? In normal times, I would consider this ridiculous; now it is just downright dangerous. The bottom line here is that all the demonstrations and attacks on Jews worldwide are happening because Israel is defined as a white state. This will lead to all countries that support Israel being tarred with the Apartheid brush, namely the United States.	Elaine			retired

It infringes on my constitutional rights. A one-sided party like the ANC cannot decide on behalf of others who they are allowed to support or not. Is South Africa now becoming a Police State, where one is not allowed to voice their opinion for fear of been prosecuted. The ANC / GNU needs to solve the problems within SA before venturing out into the world to single out countries when there is theft and dishonesty on a grand scale as well as corruption and lawlessness throughout SA. Get rid of the 125 apartheid laws within and inequality in SA first then once the economy has been picked up, you have at least some moral grounds to work from. Until then, leave it all alone and bury your heads in the sand.	Gerald	Gauteng		retired

Elected officials do not get to pass laws to further their political agendas at the expense of the population who elected them in the first place, their power begins and ends with the common man on the street who's mark on a ballot sheet gave them that power and can just as easily remove it on the next ballot sheet. It is time that our elected officials start serving South Africans and stop focusing on what is happening outside our borders, the real work that they run from is right here on the faces and in the lives of the children of South Africa to whom they are beholden. History will judge you based on the prosperity or degradation of your own population not on which religion you cuddled up to for money.	Flavio			self-employed

	2025-12-09 12:46:30	No I do not	Political motivation	I respectfully object to the introduction of the proposed Bill on the following grounds: Redundancy and Legal Overlap: South Africa's existing constitutional framework and criminal law already prohibit discrimination, crimes against humanity, and systemic oppression. Introducing an additional apartheid-specific statute risks duplicating existing provisions and creating legal ambiguity. Potential for Politicisation: The Bill may be misused for political purposes by allowing broad or vague interpretations of "apartheid" in contemporary contexts. This could undermine legal certainty and be weaponised in political disputes rather than advancing justice. Unclear Implementation Impact: The Bill does not clearly demonstrate how its implementation will strengthen the current legal system or address any concrete gaps. Without clarity on enforcement mechanisms, resource implications, or measurable benefits, it risks creating administrative burdens without improving accountability. International Convention Already Ratified: South Africa is already bound by relevant international instruments addressing crimes against humanity, including apartheid. The Bill may therefore unnecessarily replicate obligations already incorporated through existing law. For these reasons, I request that Parliament refrain from advancing the Bill in its current form and instead undertake a focused assessment of whether genuine legal gaps exist before introducing new legislation. 	2025-12-09 12:28:47	No I do not	Political motivation	I am writing as a concerned South African citizen and a devoted Christian to formally express my strong opposition to any proposed legislation that would criminalize South Africans for expressing support for Israel or visiting the country. Such a law would infringe upon fundamental constitutional rights, including freedom of expression, freedom of religion, and freedom of movement, while undermining South Africa's commitment to religious tolerance and historical justice. As a Christian, my faith is deeply rooted in the Bible, where Israel holds profound spiritual significance. Jesus Christ, the central figure of Christianity, was born in Bethlehem, ministered throughout the region, performed miracles, was crucified in Jerusalem, and rose from the dead there. These events occurred on the very land that is modern-day Israel. The Holy Sites—such as the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Garden of Gethsemane, the Sea of Galilee, and the Mount of Beatitudes—are sacred pilgrimage destinations for millions of Christians worldwide, including many South Africans. Visiting these biblical sites is not a political act but a deeply personal expression of faith, allowing believers to walk in the footsteps of Jesus and strengthen their spiritual connection to the Scriptures. Criminalizing such visits would effectively accuse law-abiding Christians of committing a crime simply for practising their religion. This would discriminate against Christians and violate Section 15 of the Constitution, which guarantees freedom of religion, belief, and opinion, as well as Section 21, which protects freedom of movement and the right to leave and enter the Republic. Furthermore, "standing with Israel" in a non-political sense often means recognizing its historical and biblical importance, not endorsing any specific government policy. Because that will be unfair to group and class all Muslims as extremists, just because they are not Christians. But we still respect them for their belief and religion. Non-governmentally influenced Organizations like Open Doors fight for these Christians by providing them humanitarian aids and moral support throughout the world, without trying to change the views and beliefs of Muslims around the world. 	2025-12-09 11:42:10	No I do not	Political motivation	The support of or lack of support for Israel and Palestine should be a personal choice. Our government should not be able to dictate our stance on Israel or Palestine. As a Bible believing Christian, I go with what God says about Israel. Someone who is a Muslim, may have a different stance. This is freedom of speech..	Esse
	2025-12-09 11:40:44	No I do not	Political motivation	As far as I can recall, our constitution protects the right of citizens to hold opinions, even unpopular or controversial ones, as long as the person does not act to harm others or break the law. Criminalizing belief or opinion alone risks eroding civil liberties. If opinions become punishable, where do you draw the line? Taxpayer-funded enforcement resources could be used to police private beliefs, leading to a surveillance state of thought. Most legal systems criminalize actions (e.g., incitement to violence, hate crimes, funding terrorism) rather than beliefs. Disagreement or support for a policy is not equivalent to criminal wrongdoing unless it translates into illegal conduct. A healthy democracy tolerates a spectrum of views on foreign policy and international affairs. Penalizing supporters of a policy or country undermines democratic deliberation and the legitimacy of political opposition. Broad or blanket criminalization of ideology can be weaponized to silence minority voices or marginalized groups, exacerbating social tensions and eroding trust in institutions.	Grant

It will probably start from America and personal sanctions will be applied to all involved, including the leaders of the ANC as have been applied to Francesca Paola Albanese. Guaranteed! President Trump has already give the ANC a shot across their bows, bur this incompetent corrupt and foolish government can't read or heed the warnings. South Africa's Muslim population is a diverse minority, estimated at around 1.6 to 2 million, making up roughly 2% of the total population. South African population is 63 million. This is yet another case of the tail wagging the dog. The influence of the Islamics n South Africa is disproportionate. This relationship between the ANC and Muslims started in Moscow under the USSR where they shared offices with the PLO. The relationship with Islam has now reached its zenith with the ANC selling its soul to Iran and becoming yet another Iranian surrogate in the name of filthy lucre. Th introduction to this report sounds ominous, but Section 73(2) of South Africa's Constitution empowers members of the National Assembly (MPs) and Cabinet/Deputy Ministers to introduce Bills (laws) in the Assembly. So Imraan Ismail-Moosa, obviously not acting in the true interests of South Africa, but rather motivated by his Islamic agenda and belligerence, has seen fit to hijack this country and its laws in the most appalling and despicable way. I hope and trust he will be personally have sever sanctions imposed on him from abroad. Of course we can pick this whole proposed bill apart, starting with reality and the definition of Apartheid. We know it does not apply to Israel in the slightest, but it is a most convenient stick for Islam and Israel's enemies to try and wield. 	2025-12-09 09:07:30	No I do not	Political motivation	I strongly oppose the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. While accountability for genuine human rights violations is important, this Bill in its current form is politically vulnerable, broadly worded, and open to misuse. My concerns are: High risk of political weaponization: The Bill could be used to target or silence certain groups, individuals, or viewpoints rather than uphold justice. Ambiguity and grey areas: Vague definitions leave too much room for subjective interpretation, creating uncertainty and potential selective enforcement. Threat to civil rights: Without clearer limits and strong safeguards, this legislation risks undermining freedom of expression, association, and fair legal treatment. I request that Parliament reconsider, tighten the language, and ensure proper checks and public consultation. A law meant to prevent injustice must not become a tool for political retaliation or ideological policing.	Shirley	Western Cape		unemployed individual

We have enough troubles here at home and now we want to go meddling in the rest of the world's issues. If you don't like what Israel is doing, be an activist but this is not a position the state should take. Apart from this it will be weaponized against anyone the state sees as a threat. It does not appear that it will benefit South Africa relative to domestic relations, not international relations. 	2025-12-09 14:55:55	No I do not	Political motivation	This proposed bill is just and attempt to punish every Jewish person. There is no definition of what the proposer means by "'apartheid". In the South African case it was a racially motivated action. This is not the case in Gaza. The conflict in Israel and Gaza is between two Semitic peoples with opposing religions fighting over land. This proposal is nothing but an attempt to use the Law for political ends. We have experienced that in SA and don't need another example of it.	Johannes	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-09 14:51:34	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill will allow the vague definition of "support" to allow prosecution, or at the very least intimidation of anyone showing any interest in Israel or indeed the Jewish faith. Pro-Palestinian and/or pro-Islamic extremists will likely conflate Jewish sympathy or support with support for the state of Israel. If this law focused entirely on military action and/or specific funding of military action then I would wholeheartedly support it. However, under the current definition, I imagine the funding of Jewish or Isreali childrens charities would be construed as "support for an apartheid state" and therefore punishable. This is no more than thinly veiled anti-semitism hiding behind the well intentioned UN declarations and international law.	David	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-09 17:38:14	No I do not	Political motivation	Key Concerns 1. Diplomatic and Foreign Policy Risks - Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely interpreted as an attempt to label Israel an “apartheid state,” potentially damaging South Africa’s relations with Western allies such as the US and UK. - Diplomatic Tensions: By enabling such designations, South Africa could face pressure to arrest foreign officials, reminiscent of the ICC’s al-Bashir dispute. 2. Extraterritorial Jurisdiction - Enforcement Challenges: Prosecuting crimes committed abroad (e.g., in Gaza or the West Bank) is seen as impractical due to limits on evidence-gathering in foreign jurisdictions. - Symbolic Law: Without defendants entering South African territory, prosecutions may remain purely symbolic. 3. NDPP “Gatekeeper” Clause - The necessity for the National Director of Public Prosecutions’ consent introduces risks of political manipulation—either shielding allies or targeting opponents, depending on government interests. 4. Political Fractures within the GNU - The Bill divides the Government of National Unity: supported by the ANC, EFF, and MK, but opposed by the DA and FF+. - Pushing it through could destabilize the coalition, as the DA opposes classifying Israel as an apartheid state. 5. Symbolism vs. Substance - Critics see the Bill as a political statement rather than functional law—appealing to pro-Palestinian sentiment but unlikely to impact justice outcomes or domestic crime reduction. - It risks diverting judicial resources away from more	hennie	Gauteng		business owner

Its implementation would be largely symbolic rather than functional, creating the appearance of action without delivering any real, enforceable outcomes. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime under the Rome Statute Act. Introducing another stand-alone offence—with vague definitions and extraterritorial ambitions—risks legal uncertainty, political misuse, and serious diplomatic consequences. It is clear that the Bill is being positioned for ideological or geopolitical purposes rather than genuine domestic justice. Parliament's time and resources should be directed toward urgent national priorities—economic recovery, service delivery, crime prevention—not the creation of legislation that is constitutionally dubious, practically unenforceable, and unlikely to withstand judicial scrutiny. 	2025-12-09 21:58:12	No I do not	Political motivation	It is a very racist bill as not everybody who supports Israel supports Israel's actions entirely.While I am jewish and go to synogogue fairly often I do not support some of the things that Israel did.However when attacked the way Israel was what else were they to do? Do nothing which would allow Hamas to do more evil things.It is ok for them to attack Israel if they feel that they are not being treated well.But to do it in the way they did is pure evil at it's worst.They knew what they were doing and were provoking Israel to disipline them so they could use it as propoganda which was picked up by all the anti semites in the world who used the media ,a lot of whom were anti semites and naive or not anti semites but just naive.Or just wanted to spread propoganda to drive their own narritive.War makes a lot of money for these journalists. Israel handeld the media side badly for a long time.If Israel was evil and devious would they not countered this propoganda with hatefull rhetoric.A lot of the rest of the world attacked Israel in a hateful way.Jewish people don't hate anyone.They try to help the poor and have genuine love for all including Palistinians.However when Palistinians at a young age are to hate,really hate for being nothing other than a christian or jew.Something is wrong there and reading the Koran and saying prayers and being religious does not stop them from being evil.This applies to people of all faiths. Personaly I think the ANC is living in the past and are stubborn,not Stoic.The Jewis people prize education and look to the future. One can argue that jewish people are privaleged while the less advantaged peoples are not looked after by the advantaged peoples. However advantaged peoples position did not come easy.It took many generations of teaching children not only academic things but also how to be moral,ethical and love all people.Also how to have a work ethic and not to let other people determine your self confidence. All races in Israel have equal rights. E.g. there are Arabs who sit in the Israeli parliament, serve in the armed forces, etc. Calling Israel an "apartheid state" is only based on trying to insult the nation with as much hatred as possible. If you want to see real apartheid in action, look at the "Palestinian" areas where no Jews are allowed to live. Trying to prevent any SA citizens from supporting Israel will fail because emotional Jew hatred can't stand up to the truth.	Johan

	2025-12-09 18:17:55	No I do not	Political motivation	I oppose the proposed Apartheid Bill because it is constitutionally vague, politically targeted, and risks undermining South Africa's legal system. The Bill seeks to criminalize foreign policy opinions and international associations, which violates fundamental rights to freedom of expression, belief, and political choice protected in the Constitution. The Bill's extraterritorial reach is impractical and unenforceable and would divert scarce judicial and state resources away from urgent domestic priorities such as crime, corruption, and service delivery. It also exposes South Africans—particularly dual citizens—to potential criminalization for lawful activities abroad, creating legal uncertainty and inviting political abuse. South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime under existing legislation, making this Bill unnecessary. Rather than strengthening justice, the Bill risks weaponizing human rights law for partisan causes and damaging South Africa's international relationships. For these reasons, I respectfully oppose the introduction of this Bill.	J	Gauteng		self-employed

	2025-12-10 07:31:47	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not agree with Bill as it is political motivated. There is NO APARTHEID in Israel. This bill wants to approve the ANC allegations towards Israel. I give you a quote from the Middle East showing the wrong concept towards Israel. Read these important words of the Iraqi commentator Ibrahim Musa: The Arab states could free the Palestinians today. For eighty years, Arab governments have spoken about “liberating Palestine,” yet there are Palestinians who could have been liberated long ago with the stroke of a pen: the Palestinians living within our own Arab countries. Few realize that in several neighboring Arab states, Palestinians have been denied citizenship for decades and barred from entire professions. Yes - it may surprise you - but Palestinians in Egypt, Syria, and Lebanon have been unable to obtain citizenship for many decades. This is a deliberate policy. Perhaps it was understandable in the early years, but after eight decades, it becomes something entirely different. In Lebanon the situation is even harsher: Palestinians are forbidden from working in dozens of professions - medicine, engineering, and many more. Seventy-two professions are off-limits to Palestinians in Lebanon. What is that, if not apartheid? Apartheid imposed by Arabs on Arabs. Meanwhile, the irony could not be greater: in Israel, where activists search for “apartheid” with a magnifying glass, two million Arabs are full citizens, receive full subsidies for medical studies, and as a result many physicians are Arab. In Syria, Palestinians historically enjoyed rights similar to citizens, yet even there they were denied citizenship.	Jeannine	Western Cape		retired

The GNU is pandering to the whims of inconsequential parties in the Government who merely seek to gain political points using any means possible. This is not "government money" being spent on the matter, it is TAX PAYERS money - government officials should not forget how they are funded. This proposal does not reflect my interests in any shape or form. Apartheid is dealt with sufficiently in the Rome Statute. Current human rights abuses worldwide involve severe atrocities in ongoing conflicts (Gaza, Sudan, Ukraine, DRC), widespread state repression (China/ Hong Kong, North Korea), forced displacement (climate, conflict-driven), arbitrary detention, modern slavery, attacks on essential rights like freedom of expression and housing, and deliberate targeting of civilians, with perpetrators often facing impunity. Key areas include war crimes, crimes against humanity, erosion of civic space, and systematic violations in conflict zones like Palestine, Sudan, and Myanmar, alongside issues in China, North Korea, and democratic backsliding in places like the US and Italy. Apartheid reigns supreme in South Africa where thousands of people are homeless, hungry, with no prospects for the future and have no say in the pressing matters of surviving another day. NGOs, religious organisations after years of effort to keep institutions for the needy open are now forced to close their doors due to no financial support from the government. Apartheid comes in all shapes and sizes..... look at the lifestyle of government members.... and compare that to the majority's existence. Our government should leave the judging of other regimes to 1st world countries with no hungry and homeless people, and should mind their own business, and find solutions to SA's serious problems. The bill could also be used to persecute political opposition within our borders as is the case in many other third world countries. South Africa should focus on solving its own problems at home and leave the rest of the world to sort themselves out. There are factions in South African society who are trying to manipulate law makers to serve their own agendas which have nothing to do with what is happening on a day to day bases in South Africa and such a bill would surely be seen by many western countries as hostile. 	2025-12-10 10:42:59	No I do not	Political motivation	This proposal is directly against the SA Constituion and the laws of the United Nations. The ANC are performing crimes against humanity and don't want freedom of speech. They have ruined a great country and it is time they are held accountable. They cling to the apartheid years and continue to blame it for all their shortcomings. They are hell bent on practising apartheid themselves right now. We need a government who will move forward, unite the nation, stop racism and restore SA to the way it was before they ruined it. Stop interfering with other countries and encouraging hate. The ANC must stop the apartheid and racism they are encouraging. All people in SA should want peace and love, prosperity for all, work together as a nation and stop the hatred. 	2025-12-10 10:42:38	No I do not	Political motivation	I cannot support this Bill because, in its current form, it poses a serious threat to fundamental freedoms guaranteed under the Constitution, particularly freedom of expression, thought, and political association. Using criminal sanctions to punish individuals or entities for supporting a particular state undermines democratic principles and sets a dangerous precedent for restricting lawful political opinion. The Constitution enshrines the right of citizens to engage in international discourse, form independent opinions, and advocate for causes consistent with their conscience. Criminalizing such actions would violate these rights and could create an environment of fear and censorship, contrary to the values of a free and open society. While I firmly condemn racial injustice and support human rights globally, I cannot endorse legislation that conflates lawful political expression with criminal conduct. The protection of freedom of thought and speech must remain paramount.	Lindie	Western Cape		self-employed

Sadly, we don't hear politicians speaking out about other atrocities happening globally, but then, there is no financial gain in opposing them. Is that the reason for the deafening silence? Our constitution is meant to protect religious freedom - this bill is insidious - "apartheid acts" includes any discrimination based on religious beliefs. Before supporting this bill, ask yourself would you still support it if was aimed at your own faith? If your answer is no, then oppose it. There is a lengthy list of countries with faith-based discrimination. I live in a 3 faith family - as do many in our country. We respect each other.	sue	Western Cape		employed individual

In this context, the bill appears superficial and symbolic, especially given the unresolved issues within South Africa itself.	Ilana

	2025-12-10 10:23:30	No I do not	Political motivation	Israel has offered a Palestinian state several times, and the Palestinian leadership has rejected each major offer. The pattern is well-documented. • In 1937, the Peel Commission proposed the first two-state partition. The Zionist side accepted the idea in principle, but the Arab leadership rejected it outright. • In 1947, the UN Partition Plan offered a Jewish state and an Arab Palestinian state. The Jewish Agency accepted it. The Arab Higher Committee rejected it, and the neighbouring Arab states invaded. • After 1967, there were chances to negotiate, but the Arab League issued the “Three No’s”: no peace, no negotiations, no recognition of Israel. • In 2000, at Camp David, Israel offered a Palestinian state with most of the West Bank, Gaza, and a shared arrangement in Jerusalem. Arafat walked away and didn’t make a counteroffer. Even Clinton later said Arafat was responsible for the failure. • In 2001, at Taba, Israel improved the offer to roughly 94–97% of the West Bank and all of Gaza with land swaps. Talks ended without an agreement; the Palestinian side still didn’t accept. • In 2008, Prime Minister Olmert offered Abbas a state on about 93–94% of the West Bank, plus land swaps, Gaza, and a link between them. Abbas admitted later that he simply “did not answer.” • In 2014, the Kerry Framework tried again based on similar terms, but the Palestinian Authority rejected key parts. So the basic point stands: whenever a concrete statehood offer has been put forward, the Palestinian leadership either rejected it, walked away, or refused to give a counteroffer. This doesn’t mean every offer was perfect or that all blame lies on one side, but historically, the leadership has repeatedly turned down paths that would have created a sovereign Palestinian state. The actions of the government to date are not supported by the majority of South Africans and are simply a result of the ANC being beholden to Iran for saving its bacon before the election. The offensive language applied to Israel and Jews is Muslim-ideology-driven and are not the words of the majority of South Africans. The so-called "non-whites" of this country seem to forget that their biggest fighters in the trenches of their "struggle" were Jews who fought the system from within. Helen Suzman is not a figment of anybody's imagination - she fought for their rights. And many, many others like her. Our country has enough trouble enforcing the laws we have; will we really be able to enforce this one? I'm also concerned about that it could lead to diplomatic complications that negatively impact SA. Lastly, I'm worried that this law could be used to suppress individual freedoms. 	2025-12-10 08:37:43	No I do not	Political motivation	In the first place, apartheid being a crime against humanity was never ratified by the UN. This is an attempt to solidify this concept in SA law. Further, Israel is not an apartheid state, the Arab Muslim population of Israel proper have full rights and freedoms and are well represented in the Parliament, judiciary, and the various professions. What the SA government accuses Israel of doing in the ICJ is exactly what the ANC government itself is doing, withholding food from eg. children in the Eastern Cape; genocide, here against Afrikaner farmers; and Apartheid with their 154 race based laws. The constitution of Hamas includes the Genocide of Jews as one of their core principles, and should be annihilated. I will always support the right of Israel to defend itself to the hilt. 	2025-12-10 08:34:05	No I do not	Political motivation	We all have prejudices, of which stereotyping is just one. That is human nature. The separation of verbalising such stereotypes and physical and verbal praise or support on the one hand and harmful abuse on the other is not precise and unambiguous. Whilst Apartheid in its various forms (including that practised in the past, BEE and its various forms and the vile abuse of Palestinians by Israel including in Gaza and all the territories that Israel has invaded, and within Israel itself) is deplorable and inhumane, the stereotypes can only be suppressed by force, while moral standards are self-perpetuating. Further, to enable political appointees to decide on prosecution is clearly open to abuse in itself. Finally, the attempt to action prosecution has never, does not, and will not be without significant collateral damage. Because these are all true, our country should not enact this unless and until the vast majority of strong countries do so simultaneously.	Andreas	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-10 08:31:13	No I do not	Political motivation	The land of Israel was given to Abraham for His people the Jews and anyone who apposes what God as established will be cursed. Even if the curse is only words; even if those words are spoken by a single person, God will punish the one who curses His chosen people. The enemies of Israel never prosper. It is those who bless and praise Israel, who share in God's love for Abram and his descendants, who are the beneficiaries of blessings. I warn our South African government, to read the bible and see for yourself what God will do to those who oppose Him. This is not a political battle. it is a spiritual one. John 3v3 is clear, Unless one is born again, he will not enter the Kingdom of God. I urge our government to get on their knees and repent, follow the Lord Jesus Christ, before its too late for we will all stand before a Holy God on judgment day and give an account to Him how we lived here on earth. 	2025-12-10 13:18:02	No I do not	Political motivation	If I recall correctly, Al Jama-ah was prohibited from establishing a political party in South Africa due to their support of radical terror and terror organisations. We should not be allowing this same organisation to influence South Africans or South African politics, whether it be locally or internationally. Further, if Al Jama-ah, and the other political parties that appear to be influenced by them, considers Israel to be an apartheid state, then we must question what their definition and understanding is of apartheid. To call Israel an apartheid state is an insult to every person who fought against or who were affected by the apartheid system in South Africa because society in Israel is nothing like the harsh and unjust apartheid system that South Africans suffered under. Israeli society is fully integrated and there is no forced or implied segregation of any group or goupings. Further, South Africa and the ANC must cease to subject themselves (and by extension all South Africans) to the influence, pressure, bribery and corruption of radical terror countries who seek nothing more than to use South Africa as a pawn to further their own political agendas and ideologies. 	2025-12-10 13:03:52	No I do not	Political motivation	This is: A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA This is a spiritual attack on every Christian in SA. South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. - There is no Lord Jesus Christ without Israel To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the Land of Israel from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is the attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church of the Holy God. I personally condemn this proposed bill as it infringes on my religious freedom rights of which the Land of modern day Israel and it's people are part of it.	Alvin

Corruption is embedded in the whole structure of this regime and accountability has been avoided repeatedly. This bill is an assault on freedom of speech. It is exactly what every despotic and tyrannical regime has ever done. Disarm and muzzle the critics, or even potential critics. Isolate and intimidate. This is not the actions of a democratic government, it is the knee jerk response from an entity that fears for its survival. This behaviour and way of thinking has no place in our democracy. 	2025-12-10 12:24:24	No I do not	Political motivation	The proposed Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 raises several concerns that justify opposition. South Africa already possesses extensive constitutional and legislative frameworks prohibiting discrimination, oppression, and human-rights violations — including the Constitution, the Bill of Rights, the Equality Act, and existing criminal statutes. Introducing a new apartheid-specific criminal framework may therefore be redundant and risk duplicating offences already covered under domestic and international law. Furthermore, the Bill’s definitions and scope may create legal uncertainty. If the legislation adopts broad or ambiguous interpretations of “apartheid,” it could lead to arbitrary or politically motivated accusations, undermining due process. This may erode trust in legal institutions and expose individuals or organisations to frivolous or strategic litigation. There is also a risk that the Bill could divert limited state resources from addressing urgent socio-economic concerns. South Africa faces pressing issues such as poverty, unemployment, crime, infrastructure decline, and inequality. Adding a complex new legal instrument could burden the justice system without delivering meaningful improvement in human-rights protection. Finally, the Bill may duplicate obligations arising from international treaties to which South Africa is already a party, offering little practical benefit while increasing administrative costs. 	2025-12-10 11:25:24	No I do not	Political motivation	The proposed Apartheid Bill is fundamentally flawed on moral, legal, ethical, and historical grounds. Morally, it risks diluting the true meaning of apartheid by using South Africa's painful legacy as a political instrument rather than a tool for genuine justice. Legally, its vague and expansive definitions threaten constitutional rights, including freedom of expression, equality before the law, and fair legal process, opening the door to selective or politically driven prosecutions. Ethically, the bill risks unfairly stigmatising certain communities and viewpoints, undermining social cohesion and discouraging open democratic debate. Historically, it oversimplifies complex global conflicts and applies labels inconsistently, creating double standards rather than promoting universal human rights. South Africa can and should stand for justice, but not through a law that compromises constitutional integrity and national unity.	Sean	Gauteng		business owner

	2025-12-10 14:16:45	No I do not	Political motivation	Laws like this only have one motivation which is to punish the minorities in South Africa. They are never applied equally. We have 142 race based laws in South Africa as of 2025. These are clearly racist laws. In that they discriminate against various citizens based on skin colour. This was deemed wrong in the past (during what we call the Apartheid era) but somehow it is justified now, and given a new name when the substance of the laws is very similar to past laws. The way that laws are used in South Africa is typically NOT for the public good, they are NOT applied equally to all citizens regardless of race and they are usually used to persecute or prosecute mostly white citizens. This much is clear. The track record of the current government has been very consistent in this regard. When "Kill the Boer" is not deemed hate speech when it specifically refers to an act of violence and it is specifically aimed at a small ethnic minority in the country, you have clear evidence that the government is racist and ideologically motivated. Therefore I oppose any further legislation that refers in any way to race, or past political systems when the current political system is both racist and utterly incapable of treating all South Africans equally. A biased state such a the one in power now that enacts Apartheid laws has no business passing any further laws that refer to these things. 	2025-12-10 16:58:56	No I do not	Political motivation	I cannot support a bill that seeks to criminalise both Christians and Jews. Our Constitution guarantees freedom of religion and one of the core precepts of Christianity is that our Lord Jesus Christ was born and died a Jew. The Bible also states that God chose the land of Israel for Himself, and established His throne there. Contrary to the statement in this bill, there is no apartheid inside of Israel, where Arabs and Jews live together and Arabs are represented in the Knesset (Parliament). The constant attacks from their neighbouring countries have forced the Israelites to isolate themselves, but keeping unwanted neighbours out of your land is not apartheid.	Garth

	2025-12-10 16:29:44	No I do not	Political motivation	The Bill is in direct conflict with the South African Constitution, which guarantees freedom of expression, political choice, and freedom of conscience. While combating apartheid as a crime against humanity remains an important national and international commitment, the Bill goes far beyond that purpose and enters unconstitutional territory. 1. Violation of Freedom of Expression (Section 16) A democratic Parliament cannot endorse laws that punish citizens for opinions, beliefs, or peaceful expression. 2. Violation of Freedom of Association (Section 18) South Africans have the right to associate with any cause, movement, community, or identity, whether local or international. The Bill criminalizes association based on political disagreement, which is fundamentally incompatible with constitutional democracy. 3. Violation of Political Rights (Section 19) Political rights include the right to campaign for, support, or advocate political positions, including foreign-policy positions. Punishing people for expressing political support for Israel unlawfully restricts: The right to form political opinions, the right to express those opinions, and the right to participate freely in political discourse. 4. Conflict With Existing Law Duplicates existing law, adds offences that conflict with constitutional rights, improperly expands the definition of “apartheid” to include non-violent political expression. • Such an expansion has no grounding in international criminal law and risks legal incoherence. It represents a profound departure from South Africa’s constitutional democracy, where thought, belief, and political expression may never be criminalized. For these reasons and many more, the Apartheid Private Member’s Bill should be rejected in full.	Ervinn	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-10 16:21:41	No I do not	Political motivation	Firstly, our government is THE most racist (apartheid) country! Why would Mr Hendriks be so interested in Israel's "apartheid", when it is clear what is going on in SA is worse??? No persons in Israel is trying to flee as a refugee to other countries, when clearly our own South Africans are running away in droves! Rather pass an apartheid Bill for the UAE or some other muslim countries where Jews and Christians are not allowed to become citizens or practice their beliefs. Israel has NEVER denied ANY culture, religious belief or people of color to become citizens of Israel, and they are ALL treated the same under Israeli Laws! SA should rather look at how it is treating its own people first before pointing fingers to another country! SA should be taken to the ICJ for committing genocide rather than Israel. 85.3% of South Africans are Christian, and believe in God's Country, Israel! I don't think it would be very economical for this country if government would throw us all in jail!!! If Mr Hendriks or Al-Jamah-ah (which stands for Islamic values and Sharia Law) has a hate for Jews, they can all F/O to a muslim country for support in this Bill AND take our corrupt terrorist government with them... My besware is soos volg: Gebrek aan deursigtigheid: Die wetsontwerp word vir kommentaar geopen sonder dat die volledige teks publiek beskikbaar is. Dit is nie grondwetlik bevorderlik nie en belemmer sinvolle deelname deur die publiek, regskenners en instellings. Onseker en moontlik gevaarlike definisies: Die beskikbare “explanatory summary” is vaag en laat te veel ruimte vir interpretasie. Sonder presiese definisies van wat as ’n “apartheid-misdaad” beskou word, word die moontlikheid vir misbruik of politieke selektiwiteit ernstig verhoog. Onnodige duplisering van bestaande wetgewing: Suid-Afrika het reeds wetgewing wat internasionale misdade strafbaar maak, insluitend apartheid as misdaad teen die mensdom ingevolge die Rome Statuut. Die skep van ’n aparte wet skep regsverwarring en dra nie werklik by tot regsekerheid nie. Risiko vir politisering en selektiewe vervolging: Sonder duidelike waarborge, onafhanklike toesig en sterk definisies, kan hierdie wetsontwerp maklik gebruik word om groepe, individue of organisasies te teiken weens politieke, ideologiese of buitelandse aangeleenthede – iets wat nie in lyn is met die waardes van ons grondwetlike demokrasie nie. Ekonomiese en diplomatieke risiko’s: Deur die wet se voorgestelde ekstrateritoriale toepassing kan Suid-Afrika hom blootstel aan onvoorsiene internasionale gevolge, politieke spanning en potensiële regsgedinge wat nie in die landsbelang is nie. Aanbeveling: Ek versoek dat hierdie wetsontwerp nie in sy huidige vorm voortgesit word nie, en dat ’n behoorlike proses gevolg word wat insluit: Publikasie van die volledige wetsontwerp, ’n Gelyktydige memorandum wat regs-, ekonomiese en	Frederik	Western Cape		retired

Apartheid is dead. Don't allow a past evil that has been effectively become a closed door and now the aim is to resurrect it as a weapon. Let us get on with living the life we all want and ultimately continuing to strive at achieving the Mandela vision of a rainbow nation. This should rather be a vision for an ideal rainbow WORLD. Setting up a law of this nature is firstly unconstitutional and secondly is clearly an initial attempt at achieving their ultimate aim of taking control of the country as is happening in many of the first world countries right now. Sadly, too many of these countries are turning a politically correct blind eye and allowing this creeping infiltration to get a grip too strong to combat.	Linn			self-employed

	2025-12-10 17:52:25	No I do not	Political motivation	I find this law absolutely extremely absurd and hateful. Why not rather suggest a law that corruption and state capture is a crime against humanity? Particular against the SA population? It seems that this law is aimed at what is going on in Israel and Gaza, with the intent to wipe out Israel, as well as those who want to recognize Israel as a state, originally ordained by the Living God Almighty. So, genocide against the Jews are acceptable (as happened again on the 7th of October 2023), according to pro Palestinians, but not acceptable when they say it is against Gaza - not that that war classifies as genocide. Our country is becoming more and more controlled by Islamists, which I see as a very bad moon rising. If you see how Islamists commit real GENOCIDE elsewhere, but of which the world in general does not know anything about, because the media mostly do not report it at all. And how Muslims do not complain anything about those REAL genocides, you wonder why? May be because they do not care? However, when Israel is involved, then they shout, and protest, and march, and gather in churches, as if that is the greatest crime ever. Where is justice in this? There is no earthly justice in this. But know that God Almighty is not asleep. If our country is going to war against Israel, in which way at all, we will be the ones that suffer, because God says he who curses Israel, will be cursed. Beware! The same applies to all Christians who feel a need to visit sacred Christian sites in Israel to strengthen their faith. Would all religious visitors to Israel automatically be labelled as pro-Israel and thus face prosecution (or rather PERSECUTION)? 	2025-12-10 19:16:14	No I do not	Political motivation	There is no apartheid in Israel. That is a lie. Its primary political catalyst is the global solidarity movement with Palestine. The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. Actually it is the "Palristinians" who are the occupiers and colonizers of Biblical Judea (now Israel). .. 	2025-12-10 20:32:27	No I do not	Political motivation	NO. While South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), this new Bill goes far beyond that framework and raises serious concerns. Instead of strengthening justice, it risks overreaching, politicising the law, and damaging South Africa's constitutional credibility. The attempt to create a stand-alone, expanded definition of apartheid—paired with extraterritorial jurisdiction—appears less about legal clarity and more about weaponising South Africa's human rights laws for political objectives. By explicitly targeting conduct outside our borders, the Bill may invite diplomatic retaliation and expose South Africa to accusations of selective enforcement. Although introduced by Al Jama-ah, the Bill is being driven by a behind-the-scenes "secretariat" of eight parties, including the ANC, EFF, MK Party, PAC and GOOD. This raises red flags about ideological bloc politics overshadowing proper constitutional scrutiny, rather than genuine legislative necessity. Supporters insist the Bill fills an "impunity gap", but opponents have valid concerns: the Bill is constitutionally vague, practically unenforceable, and likely to drain parliamentary time on symbolic battles rather than issues that materially affect South Africans. Its primary function appears to be antagonising Israel rather than advancing enforceable justice. Even more troubling is Al Jama-ah leader Ganief Hendricks's admission of the Bill's true purpose: "Israel is an apartheid state and those South Africans who support it, are therefore complicit… If you support Israel then you are automatically supporting Apartheid and will be criminally charged." Such statements reveal the Bill as a blunt political instrument aimed at policing personal beliefs and foreign policy opinions through criminal law. This is a dangerous precedent that could chill free expression, undermine due process, and weaponise criminal charges against political opponents or ordinary citi	Barend	KwaZulu-Natal		unemployed individual
	2025-12-10 20:31:30	No I do not	Political motivation	I urge Parliament to reject the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. My fundamental objection is that this legislation, in its proposed application, is not a genuine measure against systemic racial discrimination, but rather a politically motivated measure that I believe risks promoting antisemitism. The term Apartheid has a specific, horrific meaning rooted in our history. When it is applied to the State of Israel, it is often done: - To delegitimize its very existence as a sovereign nation. - To hold the world's only Jewish state to a unique and impossible standard not applied to other complex territorial disputes or multi-ethnic states. The singular focus of this Bill appears to be to prosecute and condemn actions pertaining to Israel and its supporters. This selective enforcement and application of a crime as grave as Apartheid risks being perceived as discriminatory against the Jewish people. This disproportionate focus amounts to antisemitism wearing the mask of legal accountability. I believe this Bill does not serve the true purpose of the Convention, but instead leverages the moral weight of the word 'Apartheid' for a political agenda that targets one group above all others. We must not be told what we must think and say and do that conforms to what Al Jamal Party wants. Focus needs to be on bringing down the crime rate, creating jobs, expanding the economy and improving service delivery. What madness is it to think that a Bill like this will be of any benefit to this country. Ask yourselves a vital question - "Whose interests will be served by this Bill?" The answer will bring the whole issue into sharp relief. The winners as I see it would only be the Jihadists whose aim is to spread chaos and discord as they attempt to bring down Western civilization as we know it. 	2025-12-10 22:00:09	No I do not	Political motivation	I am very concerned about the ways in which the Palestinians and those who support them are going about advocating for themselves. Their ways are filled with divisiveness, hatred and violence. I think they are unhealthy for whoever joins up with them, and also unhealthy for the countries and cultures that host them. I think South Africa would be a much more joyful, healthy and justice-oriented country if it found ways to care about both Palestinians and Israelis, Muslims and Jews and Christians and other religions. Also, Israel is not an apartheid country. It has safeguarded mosques, churches and synagogues - for Muslims, Christians and Jews. Muslims and others go to school and work there. It is Islam which imposes apartheid wherever it goes - one standard for Muslims, and quite another for Jews, Christians and Hindus. So I wish with all my heart that this lie about Israel would be shown to be untrue and that such an accusation be leveled against Muslim countries, not Israel! I bless South Africa and I hope and pray that your country will recover in every possible way, from being colonized and having had apartheid imposed upon you. But I do not think treating Israel with anger, as if they were the enemy, or are the enemy, will help in S. Africa's restoration. I hope you will see the lie in this proposed legislation, and put your time, energy and money into projects that really will benefit your people and the world.	Debra S.			retired

Actions like this prove nothing at all except to very clearly show the politicians up for the weak-willed cowards they really are. 	2025-12-11 05:39:24	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill does not account for the freedom of speech we are suposed to be able to practice in a democratic country. Freedom of speech is the principle that an individual can articulate opinions and ideas without fear of government retaliation, censorship, or legal sanction. It is recognized as a fundamental human right in international law and the constitutions of many nations. This right is considered essential for a functioning democracy, fostering the pursuit of knowledge, enabling diverse ideas, and allowing individuals to challenge injustice and hold power accountable. The primary function of free speech protections is to prevent the government from suppressing or punishing people for their views. the proposed bill goes against this and i object to this bill. 	2025-12-11 05:00:38	No I do not	Political motivation	What happened in Israel and Gaza deserves honesty, not distorted accusations. It is deeply painful to hear the term “apartheid” used against Israel — especially from nations that experienced true, legislated racial segregation. Arab citizens of Israel live, work, vote, serve in government, and participate fully in society. That reality matters. Words matter. Gaza has effectively had its own self-governed territory since 2005, when Israel withdrew every citizen and soldier. The people of Gaza could have built stability and prosperity, but their leadership chose a path of violence and corruption. Hamas’s resources enrich its leaders while ordinary Gazans continue to suffer. That tragedy deserves global outrage — yet it is too often ignored. Before October 7th, thousands of Gazans worked inside Israel, supported by Israelis who genuinely wanted to help families facing hardship under Hamas’s rule. The brutality of that day — including the use of civilian work permits to gather intelligence for attacks on the very communities that offered help — shattered that trust. It must not be minimized or erased. It is possible to care about Palestinian lives and still recognize that Hamas’s actions have brought terrible suffering to both peoples. And it is possible to criticize Israeli policies without resorting to inaccurate and inflammatory comparisons that shut down dialogue rather than advance solutions. I hope the international community can approach this conflict with honesty, nuance, and moral clarity — and with a commitment to a future built on truth rather than rhetoric. My parents immigrated to Canada when I was 6 years old, as they did not want to bring up their children in a country where apartheid existed. Israel is a democratic country where all its citizen’s have equal rights. There is an Arab party in the Knesset. Hospitals are full of Arab doctors and health care workers. Having lived in South Africa under apartheid (I remember, even though I was just 6, that black people were very poor and had to live in homelands if not under the employ of whites, for example)and visited Israel many times, I can say with certainty there is no system of apartheid in Israel. This bill is politically motivated secondary to the underlying racism against Jewish people and the state of Israel. Why not address the very real gender apartheid that exists in countries like Afghanistan and Iran. There are millions of women who do not even have the right to an education. Furthermore, South Africans who "support" Israel do not have negative impacts of the rights of other local South Africans and it should therefore not be priority of our government and legislature to implement. Especially considering the sheer levels of crime throughout our own country that results in the murder of thousands per year, which the current laws are failing to stand against. Majority of our own citizens are still struggling after the impacts of South Africas apartheid 31 years ago. We need to focus on restoring the rights and safety of our own people. 	2025-12-11 07:25:23	No I do not	Political motivation	Here is a short, factual, lawful explanation of why you are opposed to the Bill: --- I am against this Bill because it is overly broad, legally vague, and risks criminalising ordinary South Africans simply for their opinions or associations. The Bill appears to conflict with constitutional rights such as freedom of expression, freedom of political choice, and freedom of conscience. It also attempts to give South African courts extraterritorial power that may be impractical and unenforceable in real-world legal terms. In addition, targeting individuals for supporting a foreign state sets a dangerous precedent and could be misused for political purposes. For these reasons, I believe the Bill is not in the best interest of South Africa's legal system or its constitutional democracy.	Soret

	2025-12-11 07:19:53	No I do not	Political motivation	The proposed Apartheid Bill offers significant political gains for its sponsoring and supporting parties—boosting their visibility, ideological positioning, and international alignment—but it risks creating a climate where ordinary South Africans who support Israel, often for deeply held religious reasons, feel pressured, scrutinised, or silenced. While framed as a moral stance against injustice, the bill's broad definitions and extraterritorial reach give the state expansive discretionary power that can be selectively applied, not to protect citizens but to strengthen political leverage. This overreach does not serve the public but instead enables government and coalition interests to shape, limit, or intimidate certain viewpoints—leaving average pro-Israel citizens vulnerable to reputational, legal, or social consequences for expressing sincerely held beliefs. The only apartheid is from the Arab communities, as seen all over the world. Their Sharia Laws seperates them from the rest of the people living in the countries. This is yet another trick from the ANC to get more money which can be pocketed for personal benefit and has NOTHING to do with Apartheid, which is their smokescreen for corruption. Jews (now called Zionists) have always been fighting against Apartheid. They were the best friends the ANC had until the ANC chose to forgot who pulled them through. This looks like the only mistake the Jews made... Trusting the ANC...	Louise

	2025-12-11 08:15:03	No I do not	Political motivation	Israel is very much a part of the Bible. If we go against Israel we go again everything that the Bible speaks about. Our Lord and Saviour Jesus was born there and we cannot just erase the history because of what happened there. We have freedom of speech and should not be dictated to buy some political and Islamic party. We have a right to our own belief and should have a say in this country. This is our country and not only the ANC or the Muslims. I fell in love with Israel when I visited because I could see all the significant places where Jesus walked and the Bible came alive for me while I was there. This is a form of manipulation and brainwashing the citizens of South Africa. Let us make up our own minds and believe what the Bible tells us about Israel. How many other countries did worse acts in history during the war. I feel we as South Africans need to start forgiving people and countries for everything that happened in the past. Maybe then our country will start flourishing, crimes will be less. There will be less corruption. The government will stop stealing from us. Old people will no longer live in poverty. Children will no longer be murdered on a daily basis. Stop being concerned by what we think, say and do about Israel. Instead, start working on the real issues in this country. Our country is bleeding. Drug abuse is the order of the day. Gender base violence is a daily occurrence and we are not safe to even walk in the streets for fear of being robbed or murder. These are the issues at hand and we worry about what South Africans say about Israel???? What has become of us. Why are we not focused on fixing our country. Or is this part of a plan to get the Muslims to take over the country and ban the bible. We have been through so much during apartheid. Please don't let history repeat itself. Allow us to think for ourselves and the freedom to believe and support other countries. Let us learn to forgive and forget and love not hate.	Theresa	Western Cape		unemployed individual

	2025-12-11 10:47:12	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not support this Bill because it introduces unnecessary duplication of laws we already have in place through the Rome Statute, while adding vague definitions and extraterritorial powers that will be extremely difficult to enforce. These provisions risk politicising our justice system and turning South Africa into a venue for foreign policy battles rather than strengthening domestic accountability. The Bill also carries serious diplomatic and economic risks. By targeting foreign states and individuals, it could strain relations with major partners and force South Africa into confrontational positions without offering any practical benefit. The reliance on the NDPP adds further concern, opening the door to political interference or selective prosecutions. Ultimately, this Bill diverts attention and resources away from South Africa's urgent challenges—crime, corruption, economic instability—and instead channels them into symbolic, politically motivated legal battles. It offers little real-world value and risks weakening both our legal system and our international standing.	Marcus	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-11 10:07:49	No I do not	Political motivation	Israel isn't practicing Apartheid, nor has passed a single Apartheid Law nor Nuremberg Law nor Jim Crow Law. We who lived under Apartheid know exactly what Apartheid is. It's cornerstone legal structure defines racial groups (arbitrarily) and then prohibits miscegenation. We also know what petty Apartheid is. It is a legal structure down to the municipal level designed to give one minority racial group supremacy and then in order of racial superiority to disenfranchise the "lower" groups. Petty Apartheid includes stupidity. A segregated hospital and school for each racial group. A different entrance for "Whites" and "Non-whites". In Israel, the Jews are the majority tribal group in Israel, by 8:2. Hospitals and clinics are excellent, some of the best in the world, and free - to everyone. Even the hospital cafeterias are free - to everyone. Arabs and Jews serve as doctors, nurses and administrators. Beaches are not segregated. Arabic is an official language and Arabs serve in every aspect of Israeli culture. Arabs are Israeli as much as Jews. There is not a single social benefit that a Jew can claim that an Arab cannot. Arabs serve in the Knesset and in the Courts, including the Supreme Court. So do women. So do Arab women. Arabs volunteer proudly in the IDF. Of course the haters will not check. Mendacious blood-lust of Jews is good enough for them. The claim that Israel is an Apartheid state is the highest libel ever concocted. The ANC has been infiltrated by liars and genociders who wish to genocide the Jews of South Africa and the world. The Durban conferences are a stain on humanity.	Barry	KwaZulu-Natal		retired

	2025-12-11 09:26:56	No I do not	Political motivation	So now we may not use our own brains to decide who we'd like to support in this world or not. If we aren't in line with the politicians who want to "discipline" another country for whatever reason they consider valid, then WE are in contravention of an apartheid law!! Bulldust! Politicians must concentrate on what's going on in our country (mass genocide which is completely ignored and swept under the mat so to speak) and leave other countries to deal with their own problems. 	2025-12-11 11:46:28	No I do not	Political motivation	My central concern is the Bill's constitutional vagueness; its broad definitions of "apartheid" and related offenses could potentially criminalise legitimate criticism of the South African government or expressions of support for Israel, thereby infringing upon constitutionally protected freedoms of expression and association. Furthermore, the Bill's inclusion of extraterritorial or universal jurisdiction, allowing South African courts to prosecute individuals for crimes committed anywhere in the world, is viewed as practically unenforceable and likely to cause severe diplomatic friction with key international partners like the US and UK. Ultimately, opponents assert that the legislation is redundant, as South Africa already criminalises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the existing Implementation of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court Act, 2002, and that parliamentary resources should instead be focused on addressing pressing domestic issues such as entrenched inequality, corruption, and crime. 	2025-12-11 12:28:23	No I do not	Political motivation	Freedom of Conscience & Religious Expression (Biblical Principle) As a Christian, you believe that God alone has authority over conscience and belief (cf. Romans 14:4). Christians also affirm the importance of freedom to speak, teach, and live out one's faith (e.g., Acts 5:29 — "We must obey God rather than human beings."). Critics of the bill are worried that: • Its broad terms could criminalise sincere religious convictions or moral teachings on controversial issues (e.g., sexuality, marriage, nationhood, Israel) simply because someone deems them "harmful." Dear South Africa If the law could punish people for expressing what they sincerely believe is biblical truth, many Christians would see this as an unjust restriction on conscience and religious speech. 2. Safeguarding Human Rights Without Overreach Christian teaching emphasizes love of neighbour (e.g., Mark 12:31) and justice (e.g., Micah 6:8). Most Christians agree that apartheid as a historical system was deeply unjust and should never be repeated. But some Christians oppose this bill because they fear it goes too far and becomes unjust in itself — by: • Having vague definitions that could classify ordinary speech or actions as apartheid. Alt News Network • Granting extraterritorial reach that could entangle South Africans (or diaspora) in legal risk for international opinions or advocacy. IOL From a Christian viewpoint, justice must be clear, proportionate, and protective of fundamental freedoms, not punitive or overly broad. 3. The Call to Speak Truth Without Fear Scripture encourages believers to speak truth in love (Ephesians 4:15) and not be silenced for righteousness (cf. Acts 4:29). If the bill risks: • Criminalising political or ethical positions (e.g., on foreign policy, nationhood, or human rights) simply because someone asserts they're unjust,	christelle	Western Cape		unemployed individual

While "Kill the Boer, Shoot the Farmer" is considered legal and general, this bill is a mockery of justice. Black people in South Africa are the only people who are protected from hate speech and insults, while white people are prone to constant degrading, such as with Pink Pig and Colonist. When black people behave in abhorrent ways to draw insult from others, they should have no access to legal aid to hide behind. This new bill is just another layer of division among the people of South Africa. Rather educate the masses on how to behave and thus eliminate provocation and insult.	Johann	Western Cape		retired

It is wise to use this Bill in cases necessary for South Africa. Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, acting under section 73(2) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1995, intends to introduce the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill,2025. (The Bill) In Parliament. Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa: Apartheid has to be solved by the country itself. The country does have its sovereignty. Apartheid exists in Libanon against the Palestinian people in Libanon, Apartheid exists in Egypt against the Palestinian people in Egypt, Apartheid exists in Syria against the Palestinian people in Syria. So, the bill will affect the Arabian world immediately. Is this what mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa is after? It would be wise to rethink before you introduce this bill. 	2025-12-11 13:02:54	No I do not	Political motivation	We already live under so much pressure in South Africa. We struggle with crime, corruption, unemployment and the daily battle to just feel safe. This bill will not unite us but pull us further apart instead of unite the citizens of South Africa, and it will create more division among communities. The government wants to use this bill as a shield to hide behind and create an even more corrupt government. This bill will take our country, South Africa BACKWARDS instead of moving us forward. This bill will be a tool to use against ordinary citizens, and is not in anyway for our protection. It is to give the government even more power to abuse their power! It must not be allowed. It must be stopped. Instead of building bridges this bill will inflame tensions and encourage a culture of blame and accusation. Our nation needs reconsolidation not new legal tools that can be used to divide us further. True justice requires fairness! True unity requires trust. True democracy requires LAWS THAT PROECTS ALL THE PEOPLE OF SOUTH AFRICA, not laws that may be used to intimidate them! The people of South Africa must unite to stop this bill in order to save what is left of a country that is already suffering . Lets choose a country where our rights are secure, our voices are heard, and our unity is stronger than our divisions. That is a South Africa we must stand for, and this is why we cannot support the introduction of this bill!	Matthys	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-11 12:53:32	No I do not	Political motivation	Israel is nie ’n apartheidstaat. Israel is die enigste soewereine staat in die wêreld en wat sy grondgebied verkry het vanaf die enigste Soewereine God van Abraham, Isak en Jakob. God die Skepper van die heelal en aan wie alles behoort. Argeologiese opgrawings bewys dat die Bybel die waarheid is en dat die Jode hierdie Godgegewe grondgebied besit reeds vir baie duisende jare. Niemand sal ooit hulle die Jode kan verwyder of vernietig nie al stel die wêreld ook duisende soortgelyke wette op deur watter organisasie ookal. Baie het al probeer om Israel te vernietig en kon dit nie regkry nie en al bou Iran ook duisende kernbomme, of enige ander land, om Israel te vernietig , sal hulle dit nie regkry nie, want God Almagtig van die Bybel in Jesus Christus sal sy volk beskerm. Ag foeitog wat kan ’n ou nietige wetskrif tog regkry. Maak oop julle oë vir hierdie waarheid en bekeer julle tot God in Jesus Christus, want daar is net een Weg en Waarheid en Lewe en dit is Jesus Christus. Niemand gaan na die Vader as net deur Hom. Sy naam Yeshua is die enigste naam in die heelal wat die Vader aan die mensdom gegee het deur wie ons gered kan word.	Philippus			retired

	2025-12-11 13:52:37	No I do not	Political motivation	This has nothing to do with my rights and beliefs as a whole in the world and goes against the fabric of freedom of speech and right of belief. Using the UN apartheid law in this context is wrong, and unless the whole UN agrees with the world, it is still the opinion of a few trying to get this past and makes no sense. Support of any country should be a fundamental right of anyone. Criminalising this will in its own right bring about a civil war here in SA and around the world. What is next that will be imposed because some do not get their way? The fact is that Hamas itself commits the highest human rights violations, and that goes unpunished by the UN, which is scandalous in itself, so who's going to make a rule on that? No, if you want to criminalise my own belief and attempt to control me by this outrageous proposal, then you are going to have a problem not only here in SA. By the way, I am not Jewish. 	2025-12-11 13:25:13	No I do not	Political motivation	Let's have some consistency. The government would likely arrest Benjamin Netanyahu and Yoav Gallant were they to arrive in South Africa. How likely would the government arrest Yahya Sinwar, Mohammed Deif, and Ismail Haniyeh? I doubt they would arrest Vladimir Putin. Instead, we have Russian naval vessels in our Naval Bases. The ICC has issued arrest warrants for all the above-mentioned individuals. Furthermore, if after 30 years of BEE, the escalation of race-based laws could violate international human rights standards if they lead to systematic exclusion. The government may then find themselves under investigation for the very crime it seeks to domesticate. Moreover, South Africa is a signatory to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (ICCPR), which prohibits racial discrimination. The UN Human Rights Committee has stated that affirmative action must be temporary and necessary to achieve equality. If race-based laws become permanent or oppressive, they could violate the ICCPR.	Philip	Western Cape		self-employed

Any sovereign country has a right to defend itself and get their hostages back. God has brought the Jews back to where they belong after the holocaust, and His word says they will not be driven away again. Their own law-abiding citizens are being killed, raped, and the country getting plundered by the corrupt, but instead of caring for their own, they are using international events to prove a point. 	2025-12-11 13:15:58	No I do not	Political motivation	Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. Critics, including the Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+), view this as “lawfare”—using the legal system to fight foreign policy battles. There are fears that this could strain South Africa’s diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). “Apartheid State” Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as “Apartheid States.” This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries from those nations, similar to the controversy surrounding the ICC and Omar al-Bashir. 	2025-12-11 14:48:39	No I do not	Political motivation	New 'Apartheid' Bill is The End of Freedom of Speech in South Africa …But the biggest threat isn't his speech — it's the new apartheid criminalization bill quietly pushed by Al Jama-ah and openly supported by the ANC, EFF, and every far-left party in Parliament. This bill will override the Constitution, crush due process, and criminalize anything the government labels as "apartheid activity" — including PR stunts, free speech, criticism of the ANC, defending minority rights, or even making YouTube videos. It is the most authoritarian law proposed in democratic South Africa.	Amanda	Western Cape		unemployed individual

	2025-12-11 14:47:49	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill must be the wet dream of the communist coalition that proposed it - it will remove all the thorns in their rotten flesh: The Constitution will be overridden, every Oranian will be jailed and left to rot and free speech abolished . . . . Someone once said: You can vote yourself into communism, but always have to shoot yourself out of it. The 'noble' cause that it is aimed at the state of Israel is fiction: What can they do to the Jewish NUCLEAR armed state????? They have the arrogant stupidity to fart against thunder! No, this bill is aimed squarely at the white citizens of South Africa who try their utmost to keep this country operating while the rest hearken back to mud huts, root beer and making babies. That said, I am sickened by the people that calls the Jews and the state of Israel "Gods chosen people". They are not even Semites as they descent from Noah's son Japhet! Do not believe what every false teacher tells you - do your own research! They see themselves as gods and the rest of us as animals that must serve them or die. Their goal is to grab the world for themselves and their Father of Lies. Go read the Talmud and the Kabbala and then decide if your quoting of Scripture to bless the false Israel is still valid! I dare you!	Fanie

	2025-12-11 14:21:58	No I do not	Political motivation	This Bill should be rejected because it is constitutionally vague, politically motivated, and dangerously overbroad. It seeks to criminalise South Africans for their political beliefs and foreign policy views, violating core constitutional rights to freedom of expression and association. By granting South African courts sweeping extraterritorial powers aimed at a single foreign conflict, the Bill weaponises our justice system, undermines the integrity of our legal framework, and threatens to isolate South Africa diplomatically and economically. Instead of strengthening human rights, it politicises them and dilutes the historical meaning of apartheid. For these reasons, the Bill is neither practical nor in the national interest and should not be enacted.	Johan			business owner

	2025-12-11 16:16:19	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill is designed to censure people who speak on behalf of Israel. It is demeaning for a parliament to accept the lies about Israel and “Palestine” without attempting to understand the history of the region. The nation of Israel did not start in 1948. There is ample archaeological evidence that the Jewish people inhabited that land for over 3000 years. The fact that the Al Aksa. mosque is built on top of the jewish temple that was destroyed in 70 A.D. is clear evidence that the Jewish people preceded the muslims in the area. They are predominantly of Egyptian and Jordanian descent, and now claim to be Palestinians. It was clearly understood internationally that reference to the land of Palestine referred to the Jewish nation’s land of Israel. It was Yasser Arafat who started claiming “Palestine” in 1967. The land was given to the children of Israel by God. It is the Arabic people who are colonising Jewish land, not vice versa. Political Islam desires to overtake the whole world and bring it under sharia law. There is a hatred of the Jews by extremist Muslims, and a desire to commit genocide by killing every single Jewish person. The Quran explicitly states that “infidels“, people who refuse to convert to Islam , especially Jews, should be killed. Israel is not committing genocide in Gaza or Lebanon or Syria. The IDF is the most moral army in the world. It warns civilians to leave an area prior to bombing it, thus losing the advantage of surprise, and sometimes losing their own personnel because of it. If they wanted to commit genocide, in retaliation for 7 October they could have carpet bombed Gaza and destroyed everything in 48 hours. Israel is not an apartheid country, in contrast to the history of South Africa. Going against the people and land of Israel is going against God. For the benefit of your own nation, this bill should be rejected. I am not Jewish. I am a born again Christian.	Maynessa	Outside SA	Australia	retired

	2025-12-11 16:16:19	No I do not	Political motivation	This bill is designed to censure people who speak on behalf of Israel. It is demeaning for a parliament to accept the lies about Israel and “Palestine” without attempting to understand the history of the region. The nation of Israel did not start in 1948. There is ample archaeological evidence that the Jewish people inhabited that land for over 3000 years. The fact that the Al Aksa. mosque is built on top of the jewish temple that was destroyed in 70 A.D. is clear evidence that the Jewish people preceded the muslims in the area. They are predominantly of Egyptian and Jordanian descent, and now claim to be Palestinians. It was clearly understood internationally that reference to the land of Palestine referred to the Jewish nation’s land of Israel. It was Yasser Arafat who started claiming “Palestine” in 1967. The land was given to the children of Israel by God. It is the Arabic people who are colonising Jewish land, not vice versa. Political Islam desires to overtake the whole world and bring it under sharia law. There is a hatred of the Jews by extremist Muslims, and a desire to commit genocide by killing every single Jewish person. The Quran explicitly states that “infidels“, people who refuse to convert to Islam , especially Jews, should be killed. Israel is not committing genocide in Gaza or Lebanon or Syria. The IDF is the most moral army in the world. It warns civilians to leave an area prior to bombing it, thus losing the advantage of surprise, and sometimes losing their own personnel because of it. If they wanted to commit genocide, in retaliation for 7 October they could have carpet bombed Gaza and destroyed everything in 48 hours. Israel is not an apartheid country, in contrast to the history of South Africa. Going against the people and land of Israel is going against God. For the benefit of your own nation, this bill should be rejected. I am not Jewish. I am a born again Christian.	Maynessa	Outside SA	Australia	retired

	2025-12-11 15:55:40	No I do not	Political motivation	This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel literally or in words or other ways. In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. The human rights abuses in many nations world-wide should be the focus of SA and the international community"s "condemnation resolutions". Israel is an example, which our nation should emulate in many areas, instead of singling her out for condemnation.	Elmarie

Hamas is a terrorist organization whose only goal is to destroy the people of Israel. The people of Israel have a right to defend themselves and live in peace without the constant threat of terrorism. The Palestinian people had a chance to create a state for themselvesand build a new future, when Israel gave them Gaza and forced their own citizens out, and the Palestinians chose to invest in terrorism and warefare instead of building a prosperous society for their people. That is on them! They are to blame. They voted for Hamas. Leave Israel and the Israeli people alone. Before you know it, terrorism will end up on your borders.	Sharon	Outside SA	USA	business owner

	2025-12-11 17:56:42	No I do not	Political motivation	The bill introduced by Al Jamah-ah appears to rely on the language of apartheid in a way that, in my view, is politically motivated rather than grounded in South Africa's historical reality. By targeting Israel —widely recognised as the only democratic state in the Middle East—the bill advances a broader ideological agenda that does not reflect the lived experience of South Africans who endured actual apartheid, nor does it contribute to addressing the ongoing effects of that system within our own society. In my assessment, the bill does not serve the interests of South Africans. Instead, it diverts parliamentary attention away from urgent domestic priorities and risks misusing a term that carries deep historical and emotional significance in our national memory. Furthermore, Al Jamah-ah's approach appears to prioritise its own religious and ideological commitments over the constitutional values of a free, democratic, and inclusive South Africa.```	Fredrick	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-11 17:32:27	No I do not	Political motivation	The “Apartheid Bill” is a Private Member’s Bill introduced by Al Jama-ah to domesticate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law. While South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), this new Bill seeks to establish it as a stand-alone crime with broader, specific definitions and extraterritorial reach. Its primary political catalyst is the global solidarity movement with Palestine. The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. 	2025-12-11 18:39:49	No I do not	Political motivation	IT IS A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is the attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. 3. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church The Church cannot be silent. 	2025-12-11 19:31:43	No I do not	Political motivation	For eighty years, Arab governments have spoken about “liberating Palestine,” yet there are Palestinians who could have been liberated long ago with the stroke of a pen: the Palestinians living within our own Arab countries. Few realize that in several neighboring Arab states, Palestinians have been denied citizenship for decades and barred from entire professions. Yes - it may surprise you - but Palestinians in Egypt, Syria, and Lebanon have been unable to obtain citizenship for many decades. This is a deliberate policy. Perhaps it was understandable in the early years, but after eight decades, it becomes something entirely different. In Lebanon the situation is even harsher: Palestinians are forbidden from working in dozens of professions - medicine, engineering, and many more. Seventy-two professions are off-limits to Palestinians in Lebanon. What is that, if not apartheid? Apartheid imposed by Arabs on fellow Arabs. What is the difference between Burj al-Barajneh and al-Baddawi and the old Bantustans? And why has Hezbollah - which has operated above the law in Lebanon for years and commands a force stronger than the Lebanese Army - never “liberated” the Palestinians living under these restrictions? Meanwhile, the irony could not be greater: in Israel, where activists search for “apartheid” with a magnifying glass, two million Arabs are full citizens, receive full subsidies for medical studies, and as a result many physicians are Arab. In Syria, Palestinians historically enjoyed rights similar to citizens, yet even there they were denied citizenship. Think about it: sixty-two years of Ba’ath Party rule - our self-declared pan-Arabists - and still they refused to grant citizenship to the Arabs in their midst. Where exactly is this “pan-Arabism”? 	2025-12-12 02:03:34	No I do not	Political motivation	Die bill is polities gedrewe agenda. Vryheid van spraak word geknielhalter. Net soos SA die reg het om hom self te beskerm het Israel het die reg om hul self te beskerm, so ook enige ander land. Instede om Israel aan te vat, moet daar eers voor enige bill wat betrekking het op ander lande uitgereik word moet SA eers hul eie huis in orde kry en hul nie met ander lande se probleme bemoei nie. Ons is in die moeilikheid nie net by ander nie,maar by ons Skepper, ons land se mense (nie almal nie)het weg gedwaal van God af, die Woord se dit duidelik as Isreal vervloek word sal die wat die vloek spreek ook vervloek word. Isreal het weg gedwaal (nie almal)van God af maar dit bly nog God se volk. Die ANC het geen reg om vir my te besluit vir wie ek mag of nie mag ondersteun of stem nie. 	2025-12-12 01:39:40	No I do not	Political motivation	I would’ve thought that a country who has suffered under real apartheid would look more fully at Israel i society and values it has. Even during this current war that was started by adversaries, Israel stats on collateral damages is significantly lower than any other country who has been in recent walls. They are the only army that allows warning in advance to citizens within the country that is under attack. Israel is also the only country in the Middle East that lets their Muslim citizens work and move freely, participate fully in the country and can be elected for parliament. Clearly South Africas lack of education on this matter is a choice that is purely a political move and I believe self Africa will be the poorer for it. 	2025-12-12 01:14:27	No I do not	Political motivation	This is not a neutral human rights initiative. It has been framed by its own sponsors as a political weapon. Al Jama-ah’s leader has said openly that Israel is an apartheid state and that South Africans who support it are complicit and must face the full might of the law. That alone makes it obvious what the intention behind this Bill is. Apartheid is already a crime under the Rome Statute Act of 2002. This Bill is not about fixing a legal gap. It is about creating a tool to target specific political views, especially those related to Israel. The wording of the Bill is vague, extremely broad, and applies outside South Africa’s borders. This means ordinary South Africans, including dual citizens, could be criminalised simply for expressing an opinion, belonging to an organisation, or having any personal or professional connection to Israel. That is a direct violation of our constitutional rights to freedom of expression, freedom of belief, freedom of association, and political participation. It also exposes a clear double standard. The South African government has taken no action at all against South Africans who publicly support Russia’s invasion of Ukraine, China’s treatment of Uyghurs or Hong Kong, Iran’s repression of its citizens, or even the Taliban in Afghanistan. If expressing support for a foreign state that has been accused of human rights abuses is supposed to be a crime, then why would this apply only to Israel? Why is there no national outrage or legal effort directed at supporters of far more oppressive governments? This inconsistency shows what is really happening. This Bill is selective censorship that uses human rights language to justify political targeting. South Africa’s apartheid history should never be turned into a political tool or used to punish people for their views. This Bill risks turning the country into a place where citizens can be prosecuted for their opinions, their connections, or even their identity. That is authoritarianism. 	2025-12-12 01:03:50	No I do not	Political motivation	Have you forgotten the 07.10.2023 brutal , cruel pogrom against 1200 innocent israeli civilians , babies, little children, their mothers, fathers, siblings, and other family members, neighbors and friends. The inhumane, horrible killing of young israeli at the Nova music festival . Have you forgotten the taking of 255 hostages to Gaza, where they were treaten like bugs, pushed in sticky dirty narrow dark tunnels practically without food and water for two years? Women and men were raped and beaten nearly every day. Over 5000 israeli civilians were injured on the 07.10.2023. Do you know that the charters of PLO/Fatah and Hamas calls for the extinction of Israel and that the palestinian school books are full of hate and incitement against jewish people and Israel. As a christian bible believer I trust in the biblical prophets. The jewish people came back to their ancestors homeland according to the bible. There was never a palestinian state called Palestine. Emperor Hadrian punished the rebellious jews in 135 D.C. and named Judea after their enemies, the Philistines. Hadrians intention was to erase the more than 1000 years of the jewish homeland. Today there is no Apartheid in Israel like what happened in South of Afrika. Many of the doctors and nurses in israeli hospitals are arabs and they work very well with israeli doctors and nurses hand in hand. Greatmufti Amin al-Husseini, then as well as his successor Arafat poisoned the relations between the arabs and the jewish people as well as Abbas. They denied the jewish biblical history. Abbas pays his indoctrinated terrorists and their families high sums for killing jews. It is called: Pay for Slay… All of this is pure Antisemitism!!!	Liliane

	2025-12-11 23:28:26	No I do not	Political motivation	This Bill is a travesty against our Constitution! 1. It is a lie to state that Israel is a coloniser of Palestine. It was YHWH who gave the land of Canaan (Palestine) to the Jews FOREVER. YHWH is the Creator of all things, including the nation of Israel: He called Abraham from Ur of the Chaldees and sent him to Canaan. God ensured Abraham's wife Sarah would conceive a son in her old age. That was a miracle. God created the nation of Israel. It is the apple of His eye, Zechariah Ch2v5. He promised Abraham and then repeated that promise of the land to Isaac and Jacob, not to Ishmael. This was because God would send Jesus Christ the Messiah through Israel to redeem ALL who place their trust in Him. This is millenia before either Mohamed or Allah existed. 2. God the Creator revealed Himself through the spoken word in Genesis chapter 2 & 3 in person, and also at Mount Sinai when He gave Moses the Ten Commandments, Exodus Ch 20. THOUSANDS heard Him speak, and fled in fear! In contrast, Mohamed first thought a demon appeared to him, not God. His wife suggested it was an angel. 3. The God of Judaism and Christianity is a God of Love, Mercy, Grace and Justice. He cannot lie and does not change. 4. Islam, which means submit, with Sharia law, is not a religion but a political Death cult since they are commanded to kill ALL who do not convert! That is Jihad. 5. All this to say that Islam via Al-Jamah now seeks to expand its power in South Africa by calling Israel an apartheid state and to criminalise those support it. Woe to South Africa under the ANC! You are taking on God and His Judgments. We are in the Last Days and Judgment is coming.	Gloria			retired
	2025-12-11 23:25:02	No I do not	Political motivation	Apartheid and it's past, although terrible, has been become a scapecote for politicians driving an agenda to create an authoritarian and over regulated state. It signals a move away from freedom of speech and move towards intollerance. The Israel issue it merely one example of what is to follow. This is despite almost 100 plus discriminary laws still in laws against whites. How is this a balanced and objective system? This is nothing more than an attempt to silence those with different views and to criminalize anything that does not follows the government script. It has got nothing to do with the Israel issue. It has a broader agenda....	Johan

	2025-12-11 23:08:07	No I do not	Political motivation	This proposed "law" is a Direct Attack on the Church - To criminalize support for Israel is to criminalize Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is an attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa - Standing against everything Democracy stands for: including - Freedom of Religion and Freedom of Speech - it has absolutely nothing to do with Apartheid or Racism. But it has all to do with HATE of one religion against another !! This law just can not be approved in South Africa - it is completely unconstitutional - and we can not allow that the hatred of one nation towards another outside of South Africa now all of a sudden dictate our laws in South Africa!! And besides all that - to try and institutionalize this law here will cause the prosecution of thousands if not millions of people - and will be completely unrealistic - and a total overload on our courts and jails. 	2025-12-12 08:09:28	No I do not	Political motivation	It is well known that Apartheid represents a dark period in our South African history from which, by reconciliation and the reconstitution of our understanding of what it means to be South Africans together, we are to seek to recover, having learned from the past and striving to put lessons learned into practice. Not only does this proposal constitute a weaponisation of the painful legacy of Apartheid for the achievement of political purposes with which many South Africans are explicitly not in agreement, in which sense it is to be understood as dishonouring such as suffered under Apartheid's oppression, it also would bring about a new and like oppression by dictating to South Africans what we ought to think and what we are permitted to say and do, wherefore, in that it accords neither with our constitutional rights, nor with the nature of humanity, it cannot be accepted in a democratic South Africa claiming that its citizens are free. Let not our democracy be undermined and let us not fall once more into oppression.	Izak	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-12 09:26:09	No I do not	Political motivation	1) It goes against religious freedom. The Christian Bible clearly supports Israel as a nation. Gods blessing on them. Those who curse Israel will be cursed, those who bless them will be blessed. It doesnt say all their acts are good nor all Jewish individuals sinful acts are ok, within the nation, but Israel as a nation is Gods nation. 2) I also support South Africa but I most certainly don't agree with many of our leaders and politicians corruption, love of money, and their lies and filthy lifestyles. They are a bad example of South Africans. They are a disgrace to our nation. Terrible ambassadors. But the bible aches us to still respect them as our leaders. I also dont agree with some of South Africas evil laws like killing pre-born babies but I still love my country. What about "South Africa" and its leading party openly supporting countries and leaders in the workd that have historically killed millions of their own people (Russia and China) in ethnic and religious clashes. Who still persecute Christians and peoples groups till today? (China) who hid leaders from criminal prosecution who bombed Christians and children indiscriminately (Sudans leader) Why not a law also against anyone who says anything positive about a group (like Hamas) , who found pleasure filming raping, killing, slaughtering burning innocent babies/women alive.? 3) The draft law encourages the very thing it supposedly is against. It encourages apartheid. It IS the epitome of apartheid! It is anti semitism. Anti Jews. The party bring the law is anti-Jew and bias in their religion and beliefs. The are radical muslims. They push their own religious agenda. 4) It goes against freedom of speech. It seeks to dictate what we say and like or don't like. Where will it stop? Its a slippery slope 5) Its ridiculous to call Israel apartheid state. 6) It weaponizes our current laws. It politically driven to attack opposition parties and individuals.	Johan			Non-profit

There are also two types of support for Israel, that which promotes it's poor behaviour and that which supports it in other aspects and this act will confuse the two, making criminals out of peace seeking people who may support Israel as a nation but not it's behaviour towards Palestinians in Gasa and the West Bank. It must also be borne in mind that not all Israelis agree with the government's actions against Palestinians. I am also a firm believer in freedom of speech, no matter how outlandish the speech may be, with the exception being direct hate speech or incitement to violence, which should always be rejected. 	2025-12-12 09:15:11	No I do not	Political motivation	Dear honorary Members of Parliament, I hope this message finds you well. Hearing about the Bill of Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid and reading more about it, has me really worried. This law clothes itself in a good intention, pretending to prevent further Apartheid suppression. In reality it is simply a tool to promote the political motivation against Israel, creating a way to persecute minority groups and the freedom of religion! Instead of helping to stop Apartheid it is going to be used to undermine tolerance, create hatred and enforce the South African population to agree with the current government position. The freedom to religion and political opinion will be undermined. I strongly object to this Bill and recommend the South African Parliament to stop this bill.	Tamara

The Bible has numerous verses promising God's intervention to defeat Israel's enemies, with prominent examples including Exodus 23:27, where God sends terror to make enemies flee; Deuteronomy 28:7, stating the Lord will cause enemies to flee seven ways; and prophetic verses in Zechariah 9-14, describing God as a shield and savior, destroying nations that attack Jerusalem. 				I hereby submit this motivation to formally oppose the proposed Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill (hereafter referred to as “the Bill”). While South Africa has a proud constitutional commitment to human rights, equality, and justice, this Bill, in its intent and potential application, raises serious constitutional, legal, and social concerns. It risks being politically driven, selectively enforced, and used to victimise minorities, including religious communities, particularly Christians, within South Africa. Politically Driven and Selective in Nature The Bill appears to be driven primarily by contemporary geopolitical and ideological objectives rather than a demonstrable gap in South African law. South Africa already criminalises apartheid as a crime against humanity through existing legislation, including the Implementation of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court Act. The introduction of a separate, expanded apartheid offence therefore creates unnecessary duplication and legal uncertainty. The timing, framing, and public messaging surrounding the Bill suggest that it is aimed at advancing a specific political narrative rather than strengthening justice. Legislation should serve all South Africans equally, not be crafted in a manner that risks targeting specific viewpoints, beliefs, or associations. 3. Risk of Victimising Minorities and Religious Communities The Bill’s broad and undefined scope creates a real risk that minorities may be disproportionately affected. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on pluralism, diversity, and freedom of belief. Christians, Jews, Muslims, and other faith communities must be free to hold theological, moral, and humanitarian views without fear of criminal sanction. There is legitimate concern that the Bill could be interpreted or applied in a manner that: Penalises individuals or organisations for religious, humani

	2025-12-12 11:17:59	No I do not	Political motivation	There is no apartheid in Israel and this bill is being used as a vehicle to disband the country. The civil liberties of Muslim residents of occupied territories is a different issue and is being hijacked to apply to the entire country. When people say “free palestine” they are antisemitic because the citizens of the country of Israel have full civil rights and are represented at all levels of society, including the government and its Supreme Court. The only purported difference between calling the country Israel and Palestine is to erase the Jewish history of the area. The Jews of South Africa were longtime supporters of anti-apartheid laws in South Africa. What a sorry way to repay that support. Please do not advance this bill.	Michelle			employed individual

	2025-12-12 11:11:12	No I do not	Political motivation	South Africa in my opinion remains an apartheid country supporting terrorism in a big way. Just take a look at the BEE laws! Amazing that the government sees only what it wants to see and totally ignores the atrocity of the 07th October invasion of Israel, invading and killing innocent people and babies while parents and children had to look on at these evil acts. They then receive money from Iran to support Hamas and go off to the ICC with their mind twisted claims! 	2025-12-12 10:44:52	No I do not	Political motivation	I do not agree with the introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. 	2025-12-12 11:48:48	No I do not	Political motivation	There is a political agenda to obscure and ignore truth regarding the reality of Jewish and Arab citizens living within Israel, where everyone has full rights of access and dignity. There is a political thrust to paint Israel as the enemy and wrong doer by twisting facts, ignoring facts, and creating false narratives to suit only certain view-points. I do not agree with everything Israel as a legal country does. But I do support Israel in terms of desiring peace for them and all their neighbours, and for them to correct their missteps and submit under God and their calling. So I pray for them and all nations to return to their Creator. How can you implement legislation which does not exist? The crime of "apartheid" was included in the Rome Statute of the ICC in 1998. In my opinion, this Bill is only intended to support the "state" of Palestine which in terms of the Montevideo Convention does not exist. According to the Montevideo Convention, a state must have a permanent population, a defined territory, a government, and capacity to enter into relation with other states. What is the implication to the freedom of speech for SA citizens regarding their views on Israel as we know the government is ani-Israel. I believe this bill serves no purpose as it is too costly and labour intensive to enforce internationally but can be a handy weapon to persecute SA citizens. Why are we interfering in the governance of other countries when we are unable to enforce the laws and safe guard the citizens of our own country? We are diverse population with roots in many different countries. It is not acceptable to implement a law which suits an extreme political viewpoint. It is out if the reach of SA's international policy to get involved on domestic politics of foreign countries on that level. Humanitarian crises loom in Myanmar, class system in India; religious persecution in Nigeria, Syria , Iran…, Sudan and Mocambique; suppression of certain tribes in China; Russia has kidnapped thousands of Ukranian children. I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. If this law is to be fair and non biased then all entities that are considered to be terrorist organisations by the UN. should be included in this law. Meaning that any individual that provides funds to any organisation that supports or provides for any of the above mentioned, should bee prosecuted. The result would be that most if not all people who provide funds to international aid organisations (who use those funds often to bride hostile groups into allowing aid to occur) should be arrested and charged similarly. The fact is that these organizations no longer have either the legitimate or force necessary to pursue their goals and are now seeking to weaponize the south African legal system to give them the legitimacy they need to persecute south africans in the name of their cause.
