	2025-12-09 19:14:30	No I do not	Weaponising laws	My vote is NO. This Bill should never see the light of day. Extraterritorial Jurisdiction (The “Long Arm”): Enforceability: Legal experts raise concerns about the practicality of South African courts prosecuting crimes committed entirely on foreign soil. Investigating a crime in a hostile foreign jurisdiction (e.g., gathering evidence in Gaza or the West Bank without Israeli cooperation) is practically impossible. Trial in Absentia: If the accused does not enter South Africa, the law may be toothless, serving only as a symbolic gesture rather than an effective legal too Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. Critics, including the Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+), view this as “lawfare”—using the legal system to fight foreign policy battles. There are fears that this could strain South Africa’s diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). “Apartheid State” Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as “Apartheid States.” This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries from those nations, similar to the controversy surrounding the ICC and Omar al-Bashir. Fracturing the GNU: The Bill is championed by a “Progressive Caucus” (including ANC, EFF, MK) but opposed by key members of the Government of National Unity (GNU), specifically the DA and FF+. Pushing this Bill through could create fissures within the coalition government, as the DA has historically voted against motions labeling Israel an apartheid state. Symbolism vs. Substance: Critics argue that the Bill is performative politics designed to rally voter bases around the Palestinian cause rather than legislation that will have a tangible impact on crime or justice in South Africa. 	2025-12-09 18:04:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the draft Apartheid Bill because it risks weaponising the law in a way that harms social unity rather than building it. Any legislation that expands the definition of apartheid in a vague or unclear manner can be misused against individuals, churches, organisations or communities who pose no threat to society. Laws should protect citizens, not create fear or restrict freedom of belief, speech or association. South Africa needs fair and balanced frameworks that promote genuine equality, justice and accountability. This Bill, in its current form, does not provide the clarity or safeguards needed to prevent misuse. I encourage a complete review of the wording, intent and practical implications to ensure that it truly serves the common good and upholds constitutional rights for all. 	2025-12-09 18:03:14	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I absolutely do not support this proposal, and am not pro-israel either, but that's beside the point. This is purely a case of political grandstanding, once again, and look at what happens every time south africa sticks it's nose in where it doesn't belong. And the south african government has NO moral leg to stand on either, with more racist laws in place than the previous apartheid government. They need to cease and desist their mud-slinging and trying to divert attention away from their own hypocrisy, having demonstrated thirty years of racial discrimination against minorities, this is clearly a case of the pot calling the kettle black by any means they can fabricate. They should be deeply ashamed of their conduct, historically, before they even consider implementing any further unconstitutional legislation. Freedom of belief and speech are enshrined in the Bill of rights, and secured against by the constitution, which is meant to keep government over-reach in check. It is no crime to have personal views and opinions, and fabricating so-called "hate speech" laws appeals only to the weak-minded who don't have any backbone. "Sticks and stones may break my bones, but names can never harm me" Since when did we enshrine the rights of the few perpetually offended people over the rights of every individual? Being able to intellectually defend your views is an obligation, and if we did not do so, we wouldn't be able to vote out the fools or even choose our own leaders, lest we offend somebody's delicate sensibilities and risk, ridiculous criminal charges for some nebulous "offence" against some feeble-minded cretin living in a "permanent victim mentality". Why is it that there's this "binary" decision anyway. I have no problem with jews, I just don't support Israel as a state. I have no problem with moslems either, but I don't support Hamas. Do either of these rational responses qualify as "hate speech" or anti-semitism? No, they don't.	Jon	Eastern Cape		retired

	2025-12-10 08:16:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Islamist movements have, in some cases, strategically used Western democratic ideals and human rights frameworks to advance agendas that critique or reject secular governance and individual freedoms. While not all groups share this, some prioritize religious principles over democratic norms and separation of church and state, creating worldview clashes with Western societies. They often exploit assumptions of universal values like freedom, as seen in the Israel-Hamas conflict, where persistent allegations claim Hamas uses civilians as human shields, raising ethical concerns about warfare tactics. The proposed "Crime of Apartheid Bill" in South Africa, introduced by the Al Jama-ah party, is framed as addressing historical injustices and aligning with international anti-apartheid conventions. However, unproven but concerning historical precedents—such as the Muslim Brotherhood in Egypt, AKP in Turkey, Hamas in Gaza, and FIS in Algeria—suggest the party's motives may not be purely righteous, potentially employing democratic tools to erode pluralism and impose ideological agendas over time. Critics warn of overreach, including stifling free speech or targeting entities like Israel under human rights pretexts. Though aimed at preventing racial oppression, the bill's implications require scrutiny to avoid escalations akin to Mozambique's Cabo Delgado insurgency, where thousands of Christians have died in acts some call genocidal. We must oppose and halt its passage to protect democracy and avert such risks.	CJA	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-10 08:14:31	No I do not	Weaponising laws	As Christians, our allegiance is first and foremost to God’s Word. The proposed Bill, which seeks to criminalize support for Israel under the guise of prosecuting “apartheid acts,” directly contradicts the biblical mandate to bless and support God’s chosen people. Scripture is clear: “I will bless those who bless you, and whoever curses you I will curse” (Genesis 12:3). Any law that forbids Christians from standing with Israel is not only unconstitutional in spirit but also spiritually unacceptable. It is our Christian duty: We are commanded to pray for the peace of Jerusalem (Psalm 122:6) and to stand with Israel, not to be silenced by political agendas. The Immorality of the Bill shows that It weaponizes law to suppress freedom of conscience and faith, punishing believers for obedience to God’s Word. Our Present reality shows that the ANC’s current racial policies are themselves divisive and oppressive, yet this Bill distracts from those injustices by targeting Christians who support Israel. For committed Christians, adherence to such legislation is impossible. It demands disobedience to God’s Word, and therefore it is immoral and unacceptable. Our faith requires us to stand firm in truth, reconciliation, and support for Israel, regardless of political pressure.	Brian	Gauteng		business owner

	2025-12-10 08:13:43	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Policing what people's views on wars is infringing on the right to freedom of choice. We in South africa still have a lot of issues socially and systemically that support some apartheid mindset, like colorism, xenophobia, racism, featurism that are not policed. So why police what we should think about wars in other countries? And from a religious perspective, this might infringe on the right to freedom of religion for those practicing Judism and Christianity as these two religions are historically founded in Israel and believe that they are the chosen nation. 	2025-12-10 08:06:10	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South African human rights laws have no business on the international stage; domestic laws govern domestic affairs, and it is wholly inappropriate to respond to international issues with domestic laws. The proposed bill aims to weaponize the human rights laws against South African people. These are the very laws designed to protect South African citizens, but this bill plans to victimise virtually anyone deemed fit, by virtue of vague definitions. All this is being done supposedly for the benefit of international parties, again who have no stake in South African affairs. Since when do South African laws protect non-citizens at the cost of citizens? Why are parliamentary resources being expended on external issues? Are there not enough victims of crime and violence in South Africa? Please spend these efforts building the internal security of South Africa first.	William

	2025-12-10 08:03:38	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Our government should take a step back & look at its people first. How does this bill positively affect our current living status? Our hard earned tax money is wasted on frivolous notions, squandered on excessive salaries & perks whilst the majority of South Africans don't have basic living conditions. The roads are a mess, robots work only 40% of the time, service deliveries are lean, we have excessive utilities bills, crime is at its highest, citizens don't report crime as they fear that they will be victimised. Our courts at every level are a nightmare. Magistrates courts are back logged for years. High courts do the barest minimum. Criminals are walking the streets or cases don't stick because of tampering & bribes. These are just a few points to consider before our politicians want to interfere in another country or TRY to hold its people accountable for another nations problems. Fix our own problems before you want to assist another nation. The best for SA is to stay out of ALL international issues until it can provide the basic necessities for its own people. Fix our over loaded judicial system before you even think about adding to its burdens. Fix our own apartheid where the minority are treated far worse than prior 1994. Stop this blatant fuelling of race wars..treat people according to who they are & not their ethnicity. Our current government has taken a broken nation & hammered it into smaller pieces. It's not too late to look inwards & fix ourselves before attempting to assist a cause that doesn't directly affect its people on a daily basis.	Bashni	Gauteng

	2025-12-10 07:53:04	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I write to formally register my objection to the Private Member's Bill introduced by the Al Jama-ah party seeking to domesticate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law as a stand-alone offence, commonly referred to in public discourse as the "Apartheid Bill." While I fully support the universal principles of human rights, justice, and accountability for crimes against humanity, I believe this Bill— in its current form— poses serious constitutional, legal, and social risks to South Africa. 1. The Bill lacks legal clarity and risks constitutional overreach The proposed definitions of "apartheid," "support," and "complicity" are vague and overly broad. By criminalising ordinary South Africans based on political opinion, association, or expression, the Bill may violate constitutional protections relating to freedom of belief, freedom of expression, and freedom of political choice. Any legislation that creates criminal liability must be precise, predictable, and consistent with the principles of legality. This Bill does not meet those standards. 2. The extraterritorial scope is impractical and unenforceable The Bill seeks to grant South African courts jurisdiction over alleged acts committed anywhere in the world by any person connected to South Africa, including dual citizens and residents. Such expansive extraterritorial application is not only difficult to enforce, but also risks diplomatic conflict, judicial overreach, and misalignment with established principles of international criminal law. 3. It politicises and weaponizes South Africa's human rights framework South Africa has historically maintained a moral and principled foreign policy stance. However, this Bill appears designed not to close an "impunity gap," but rather to target specific geopolitical disputes—particularly the Israeli–Palestinian conflict—through domestic criminal law. Legislation should never be crafted to pursue foreign-policy agendas or to criminalise citizens based on their	Hennie	Gauteng		self-employed

South Africa has more racial laws now than during apartheid and BBE still exist, which is a form on economic apartheid so …….. are we going to arrest South Africans…. Again a clearer legal definition of apartheid will need to be defined. Or is this just a manipulated form of racism to attack the freedom of certain group of people, to dehumanise them and to bow to the old slave master.	Ro	KwaZulu-Natal		unemployed individual

	2025-12-10 07:47:29	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I have been to Israel, it is a tiny democratically elected sovereign state targeted and under attack by many of its neighbors because of religious and hate reasons. The crises in the middle east and Israel cannot easily be explained as apartheid. Israel should have the right to exist and citizens of Israel should have a right to be Israeli without fear of prosecution only for defending their own sovereignty. We also have more important crisises and problems to address in South Africa, let's focus internally and fix South Africa(our own economy and discriminatory practices etc) before we try to posture internationally. 	2025-12-10 07:43:34	No I do not	Weaponising laws	As with all new bill proposals, one must try to understand the intent of the Legislator. In this instance it is crystal clear. I This Bill is clearly intended to drive individual political agendas and ideolodlgies. In the process, it will criminalize the local population who think differently. This In itself is a form of Apartheid (you will conform to our ideologies or face the wrath of the law). It is also questionable that Israel is indeed an apartheid state. My observations and consequent understanding is that there is greater ntegration of Arabs and Palestinians in Israeli society than is lead to believe. I cannot support this ideological stance of our government, who openly supports Hamas and other radical organisation's, whose human rights violations are appalling and diabolical of nature. It is an unashamed attempt to bring total control on the broad-based South African society, eradicate freedom of speech and herald in oppression and a totalitarian state.	Rory	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-10 11:09:39	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I have been to Israel more than once and did not witness apartheid. Living in South Africa, one should know what to look for so I can only conclude that the intention of the parties supporting this seems to be to manipulate and weaponise the law for their own political gain. It's thinly disguised hatred of the State of Israel and the Jewish people. They are demonstrating an embarrassing lack of understanding. If they think Israel's intention is genocide, they clearly haven't been listening to "the other side" who have openly stated that they want the entire state of Israel wiped off the face of the earth and all Jews with it, wherever they are. That's genocide! We shouldn't be using our laws to regulate or dictate peoples' political views, religious views, thoughts or feelings. This would create a life of fear and could well harm innocent people. If the intention is to criminalise anyone who has sympathy for Israel then at least half the thinking people in the country would be locked up, all of them tax payers. That would put a halt to the government coffers. Those same people would receive international support which would further damage the fiscus.	Audrey	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-10 11:01:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is state-enabled ideological profiling. It turns political disagreement into criminality. We want to live in a society where we can freely disagree with each other without that being a criminal activity. It weaponizes the justice system against an identifiable and vulnerable minority. The Apartheid Bill is a Direct Attack on Jewish South Africans, Christians, and other Israelis, regardless of political ideology. The Bill is not a human rights measure. Its definitions, reach, and enforcement structure make it clear that the real targets are Zionists, Jewish community members, Israelis, and ordinary South Africans who choose to engage with Israeli society. It criminalises identity. It criminalises belief. It criminalises association. It criminalises travel. It criminalises community activity. It criminalises Israel-related life itself. This bill will be used to persecute Jewish and Christian societies by being able to misconstrue religious, humanitarian, or other beliefs into support for apartheid. Religious beliefs cannot be regulated by law in a democratic society. Still, under this law, it will be impossible because everything will be seen as a support for apartheid, simply for its connection with Israel. Ironically, jews and Israel played a major role in ending apartheid, but now that same community is being victimized by the government they helped to come into power. Also, just making a blanket statement that Israel is an apartheid state is factually incorrect since it is the only democracy in the Middle East where everybody has voting rights, etc, thus once again proving that this bill pushes a certain narrative. At the same time, it is not based on facts. If you want to make a difference, then fight specific policies or leaders that you perceive to be acting outside of the law in Israel, but do not criminalize the man in the street based on general political issues in south africa based on what leaders in another country decide to do or not do. Apartheid is a thing of the past. Do you want to bring Apartheid back? All this is, is suppression of speech. You can try to criminalize free speech but all you will do is drive it underground. You can’t police what people think. People see through all of your lies. As the saying goes “I wasn't racist until the ANC made me racist”. Continue with your authoritarian tendencies. The world sees South Africa for what it is. We are on the wrong side of history. The whole reason for this proposed legislation by the Islamo Leftist Al Jama-ah is because of Palestine and what is happening in the UK. South Africa has enough problems. We are supposedly a Christian country. We don’t need to be part of Marxist Communist takeover of the West. This legislation will be weaponized by all to silence critics. As the quote goes "Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants; electric light the most efficient policeman," "Let the marketplace of ideas decide" Truth and better ideas will prevail when all ideas, good or bad, are freely expressed and debated in an open forum, allowing people to choose the best ones. 	2025-12-10 10:49:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	- Infringement on Democracy By criminalising support for opinions and causes, the Bill undermines the democratic principle that citizens should be free to hold and express diverse political and religious opinions without fear of prosecution. Suppression of Freedom of Speech and Opinion The explicit intent, as stated by Al Jama-ah leader Ganief Hendricks, is to criminally charge South Africans who support Israel. This equates political opinion with criminal complicity, silencing legitimate debate and dissent. Weaponisation of Media and Law The Bill seeks to use South Africa’s human rights laws as a political weapon, targeting individuals based on their affiliations or beliefs. This risks turning media and legal systems into tools of ideological enforcement rather than impartial justice. Politicisation and Removal of Choice By enforcing a singular narrative on complex international conflicts, the Bill strips citizens of the right to make independent choices about whom or what they support. It entrenches politicised ideals at the expense of pluralism and tolerance. Existing Legal Framework Already Covers Apartheid South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002). Creating a stand-alone crime with extraterritorial reach is unnecessary, constitutionally vague, and practically unenforceable.	Jaco	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-10 10:42:16	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South Africa already recognizes apartheid under the Rome Statute Act of 2002 and duplicating this framework risks confusion and selective enforcement. I therefore strongly oppose the proposed Apartheid Bill. My reasons are: Creating a duplicate law risks redundancy and confusion. The Bill could be misused for political purposes, especially against communities linked to Israel, rather than addressing apartheid in South Africa. Such an ill-advised Bill could seriously inflame tensions by appearing to single out certain communities. Section 1 of the Constitution enshrines non-racialism as a founding value. This Bill undermines that principle by introducing politicized definitions that could inflame divisions. The Bill appears to be drafted with international conflicts in mind, particularly the Israel–Palestine issue, rather than South Africa's domestic context. Using apartheid definitions to target foreign policy disputes risks weaponizing South African law for political agendas. Such politicization could further damage South Africa's reputation internationally as a reconciled, democratic state committed to unity. Introducing legislation that could be perceived as singling out certain groups undermines social cohesion. Parliament should focus on strengthening anti-discrimination measures that apply equally to all South Africans, regardless of race, religion, or political affiliation and invest in socio-economic justice measures that address inequality without introducing divisive legislation. The Apartheid Bill is unnecessary, constitutionally redundant, and socially harmful. South Africa's priority should be reconciliation and unity, not divisive legislation.	David	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-10 10:15:21	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed Bill raises serious concerns, not only for its broad and ambiguous definitions but also for the unprecedented extraterritorial powers it seeks to create. It is difficult to reconcile how such a law—capable of criminalizing South Africans for their beliefs, associations, or international affiliations—could ever be applied fairly or consistently. The notion that individuals may face criminal prosecution in South Africa for lawful political positions held abroad is not only impractical but fundamentally undermines principles of constitutional rights, legal certainty, and freedom of expression. Such an approach risks turning a complex international issue into a domestically enforced ideological test, which is both disproportionate and, frankly, absurd in a democratic society. I will always be a supporter of Israel and to tell me that I'm now a 'criminal' for supporting them, and that I'm now labelled as an 'apartheid' supporter because I stand for Israel, is to say the least, ridiculous weaponizing of a failing government, trying to strike fear in the hearts of people for what they may and may not say, prescribing who they may and may not support. This plot is Satanic at its core, manipulating the population of South Africa to say and think and have the same attitude of a Godless, Jesus hating government towards Israel. And all the time they are receiving huge incentives from Qatar for bringing in all these policies into the country. Nothing of that though is stated in the news. 	2025-12-10 10:01:25	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The bill's definition of "apartheid" is overly broad and vague, making it easy to misuse and difficult to apply fairly. It risks criminalising legitimate speech, opinion, or political expression, threatening constitutional freedoms. The extraterritorial powers it creates are excessive and could lead to unfair or politically motivated prosecutions. Enforcement could become highly political, as prosecutions depend on discretionary approval rather than clear legal standards. It opens the door to weaponisation of the law against dissenting voices, critics, or minority groups. The bill may cause diplomatic and international tensions, harming South Africa's global relationships. It diverts attention and resources from urgent domestic issues that directly impact citizens. Overall, the bill's structure poses a serious risk to civil liberties, legal certainty, and democratic accountability.	S

Yes, our country has a responsibility to stand with the international community in support of human rights internationally and to condemn the violation of such rights. But, as a citizen of a country that supports freedom of speech as a basic human right, I have a right to have my own opinion and to state that opinion with respect and in the interest of creating an understanding community. Also, with my limited knowledge, I cannot be judge of right and wrong on international matters. I therefore would prefer to not have a certain judgement pressed into my hands by a law that dictates it. Whether or not I support what is currently happening internationally is beyond the question. This law seems to dictate what I, as a citizen, may or may not believe, based on the majority-vote or consensus decision of my country. It criminalises any other opinion or belief, thus taking away my freedom of belief and freedom of speech.	Josef

	2025-12-10 09:14:59	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed apartheid bill in South Africa that seeks to criminalize Zionism is deeply concerning, as it conflates legitimate political expression and Jewish identity with unlawful conduct. Zionism, for many, is not a call for oppression but a belief in the right of the Jewish people to self-determination and security in their ancestral homeland—a right recognized under international law. Criminalizing such an ideology risks suppressing free speech, promoting antisemitism, and undermining South Africa's own constitutional commitment to pluralism and equality. Rather than fostering coexistence, the bill would polarize communities, stifle open dialogue on the Israeli–Palestinian conflict, and set a dangerous precedent of legislating thought and belief. 	2025-12-10 09:09:14	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The ANC weaponized our foreign policy by bringing this charge against Israel. Now they are hoping to weaponize the law to bring charges against the people of South Africa? For what? Having an opinion different to yours? Have we not bent over to the Islamist enough ANC? What next Sharia law? Death to all Christians? Where does this end?	Anthea

	2025-12-10 09:09:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Weaponising Laws, it is critical that the South African government understands the goals of the Muslim organizations that operate in South Africa today. Whether we support Coke or Bashews should not be a reason that a person becomes a criminal. Further to this, both Israel and the terrorist organisations (HAMAS) they are fighting against have committed war crimes; we should not be picking sides; we should be condemning both. Both sides killed children. Why is the world only looking at the minority? There is clear evidence of imposing Sharia Law on South Africans. While I support religious freedom, Sharia Law has no place in South Africa. It is a ruthless and dated ideology which I don't believe any South African Mulsim Women would appreciate in these modern times. It should remain in the Middle East, and those who wish to be governed by it should go there. Our leaders are being bamboozled, most likely due to the bribes they are getting, but I digress. One day, the ANC itself will be branded as infidels by the Islamic State, as they already are behind closed doors. Further, Islam is being weaponised by radical groups and extremists; the movement is all about imposed conversion, as can be clearly seen in the North African countries over the past 1400 years. Again, we support religious freedom in South Africa, but not the impositions and discrimination, and human rights abuses that come with dated ideologies. A Muslim reading this would see it as an attack on their faith and immediately brand me as Islamophobic, or, accurately, an infidel. I assure you that this isn't that, but rather an observation of the facts, historical evidence, and the writings and message taught directly from the Quran, and I implore all South Africans to read and research the Quran, regardless of your current faith, to better understand Islamic culture and beliefs in the context of the global perspective and its own history. What is stopping the Al Jamah-ah party from 'punishing' / executing / killing me for by Christian faith. 	2025-12-10 08:36:22	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed bill is an attempt to weaponise laws. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002. This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel in word or deed. Israel is the only democracy in the middle east which recognises all people and gives equal opportunity to all. This bill seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe that Jews have the right to their ancient homeland. Attacking Jews and those who believe they have a right to the ancestral homeland are thus guilty of racism. Nelson Madela was a Zionist and clearly started this with these words in 1993: "We insist on the right of the State of Israel to exist within secure borders, but with equal vigour support the Palestinian right to national self-determination." There are numerous ongoing cases of gross human rights abuses around the world which the South African government is silent on, yet chooses to spend exorbitant amounts of time and tax payer money on attacking Israel. This is the height of hypocrisy. This proposed bill is therefore racist and hypocritical in the extreme.	Robert	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-10 13:21:40	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Dear Sir, Madam, The US has started to limit trade with South Africa. This bill that could allow the persecution of anyone that supports Israel in public, say online via a website, or in a public protest that person is automatically branded a criminal. Apartheid has to be proved before a country is automatically guilty of it. In Israel people can vote for Muslim parties. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/2022_Israeli_legislative_election United Arab List https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/United_Arab_List Hadash–Ta'al https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Hadash%E2%80%93Ta%27al Then there's issue of a separate life: supermarkets, residential areas and it doesn't exist.... They are bringing their problems to South Africa... and we have trade relations to consider. The economy of Palestine is twice the size of the economy of Swaziland. These bills are angering the US and Israel.... This small political party will gain, but nobody else will gain. We could just gain higher tariffs and more job losses... they want to draw South Africa to fight their foreign policy battles for them... meanwhile it is the UN that decides and manages everything. These types of bills will constantly straining international trade relations and someday VISA / Mastercard could block all our business transactions, we can't buy products online because we are too close to Hamas that haven't hold an election since 2006 and the Palestinian Authority hasn't held an election since 2005. 	2025-12-10 13:01:53	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Equating Zionism and Israel to Apartheid is completing flawed, false, hateful and destructive propaganda. The Jewish state is a liberal democracy where ALL its citizens have equal rights. Israel's Declaration of Independence secures full rights to all Israeli citizens and Zionism, the belief in the Jewish people's right to self determination in their ancestral homeland, does not in any way exclude non Jews from full rights and participation in a Jewish state. This proposed bill is misusing South African law to demonise and dehumanise South Africans and non South Africans who are Zionists, Jews and supporters of Israel, in the same way as Apartheid demonised and dehumanised the majority of South Africans. This proposed bill is itself aimed at unjustly discriminating against a certain group of South African citizens and visitors. This attempt at weaponising the law (law-fare) is underpinned by a hateful discriminatory political agenda with no consideration for what is true, just, factual and in the best interest of South Africans. In the long run, we as a nation cannot move forward. We cannot grow this economy on hate and living with the past, as wrong as apartheid was, what good will this bill do for SA in the long term? We've already lost so much! God has been removed from the equation and therein lies Satan"s opportunity and he is having a royal time in his mission to destroy us through our government. 	2025-12-10 12:08:02	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Further and further we spiral into government controlled censorship disguised as a ruse to protect human rights. I oppose Israel's Apartheid actions, but I also oppose government overreach into our lives. This bill simply serves as a mechanism our government will use to censor and punish free speech, free choice, and freedom of expression. It's one step away from destroying freedom of religion as well. The bill proposes to weaponise laws against citizens because of their political and/or ideological positions, which opens another avenue to do it again and even further oppress our rights to freedom of expression with other issues. Other countries already have similar mechanisms in place whereby they police social media and arrest people for simply stating opinions, right down to being critical of government actions - which is our right to do. 5 years down the line, or sooner, there will be a new bill proposing that we cannot protest against men entering women's spaces or protest against children being fed gender ideology against parental wishes in schools - we are almost there already and this bill will introduce a new method of control based on former laws/bills that WILL be used against citizens of South Africa. At present people are being arrested for comments on social media in the UK and Australia, which are now closer to being PRISON states than democracies. Is this the road we wish to travel on? I think not. Regardless of your opinion on the Israel / Palestine issue, remember that ALL politicians will do everything they can to control you, your opinions, your lives, all while taxing the living hell out of everything they can to keep you in an perpetual invisible prison that you have allowed. This bill, and all others of similar attributes need to be discarded entirely. We choose freedom, not oppression. We who fight monsters must take care not to become monsters ourselves. 	2025-12-10 12:05:35	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support this Bill. It is biased and one-sided. A law that can criminalise people simply for supporting Israel is dangerous and deeply unfair - especially when Hamas has committed atrocities too. This Bill opens the door for weaponising the justice system against innocent people based on their beliefs. It threatens freedom of opinion, freedom of expression, and risks targeting specific communities. South Africa should not pass laws that divide citizens or punish people for their views. 	2025-12-10 12:02:03	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I support the intention to prevent racial oppression, but I am concerned that this Bill expands the definition of “apartheid” far beyond its original legal and historical meaning. Apartheid was a specific crime of racial domination, rooted in enforced separation and systematic inequality based solely on race. The current draft broadens the concept to include conflicts driven by national identity, religion, or ideology — such as those in the Middle East — where race is not the central dividing factor. Such situations involve complex territorial, political, and security dynamics, not a deliberate racial hierarchy. Reframing ideological or national conflicts as “apartheid” risks distorting the true nature of those disputes and punishing legitimate defence against violent extremism. Over-expanding serious legal labels creates mission creep: many more states and actors could be accused of apartheid without meeting the strict criteria originally intended. This weakens the credibility of international law and allows powerful political interests to weaponize criminal definitions. To honour those who suffered under real racial apartheid, the term must remain precise and protected from dilution. Legal language must be guarded carefully — because when meaning shifts, justice loses its anchor. Respectfully submitted	Max

I would support the bill if there are clear, concise definitions of what is considered "systematic opression or domination" as well as a set time period for offences. The Apartheid Bill is outdated and served a purpose against apartheid in South Africa in the twentieth century. Each country has its own constitution, which it deems fit for managing its affairs, and a blanket approach can't be used for the globe. We, as South African citizens, should focus on economic growth, crime, and infiltration of citizens from other countries, as we know the outcomes of open borders are disastrous for any country. 	2025-12-10 11:24:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Apartheid Bill is a draft private-member bill introduced by Al Jama-ah (on behalf of a group of parties) that seeks to domesticate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law. That means creating a stand-alone crime of apartheid, separate from existing laws (like under the Rome Statute framework that already treats “apartheid” as a crime against humanity). The bill would grant extraterritorial jurisdiction — i.e. South African courts could prosecute individuals for apartheid-related acts committed anywhere in the world (if the accused are SA citizens or residents or later enter SA). Supporters argue the Bill is needed to “close an impunity gap” and align SA with its international commitments. Main Problems & Why It Could Be Dangerous 1. Definitions Are Vague and Over-broad → Risk of Arbitrary Enforcement According to one recent analysis, the Bill “broadens the definition” of what counts as “apartheid” beyond classic systemic oppressive policies — potentially covering ideological positions, foreign-policy alignment, or political commentary. That means ordinary speech, criticism, protest, or political dissent — especially around foreign-policy issues (e.g. the Middle East, global solidarity, accusations of apartheid abroad) — could be caught. This raises strong concerns that the Bill could criminalize free speech under the guise of “apartheid activity.” Because the triggers for prosecution are so broad and subjective (what counts as “supporting apartheid acts” or making “political comments” is unclear), there's a serious danger of selective enforcement — where authorities could use the Bill to suppress critics, minority voices, dissent, or unpopular opinions. 2. 	2025-12-10 15:01:44	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Opposing the “Apartheid Bill” To whom it may concern, I am writing to express my concern regarding the proposed “Apartheid Bill” introduced by Al Jama-ah. While I understand the intention to uphold human rights internationally, I believe the Bill as drafted raises serious legal and constitutional concerns: Vague and Overbroad Definitions: The Bill’s definitions of “supporting, committing, or aiding apartheid acts” are not sufficiently precise, creating uncertainty for ordinary citizens about what conduct may be criminalised. Extraterritorial Reach: Allowing South African courts to prosecute actions committed abroad by South African citizens or dual citizens sets a dangerous precedent and risks conflict with other nations’ laws. Freedom of Expression: The Bill could inadvertently criminalise political opinions, commentary, or advocacy. In a democracy, citizens must be able to express views—even controversial ones—without fear of prosecution. Practical Enforceability: Enforcement of this Bill would be highly challenging, potentially wasting limited judicial resources and placing unnecessary burdens on the legal system. Potential for Discrimination: By explicitly focusing on a specific foreign context, the Bill risks being perceived as selectively targeting particular groups or affiliations, which may conflict with constitutional principles of equality and fairness. For these reasons, I respectfully urge Parliament to reconsider or amend the Bill to ensure it aligns with constitutional protections, clearly defines prohibited conduct, and preserves freedom of expression and due process. 	2025-12-10 14:52:11	No I do not	Weaponising laws	While I acknowledge the importance of human rights and accountability, I oppose this Bill because: 1. It risks creating vague and overly broad definitions that may criminalise ordinary South Africans based on personal beliefs, humanitarian positions, or political views. 2. The Bill appears politically targeted, potentially weaponising our justice system instead of strengthening it. 3. South Africa already has existing legislation, such as the Rome Statute Act, to address crimes against humanity without introducing laws that could be misused or inconsistently applied. 4. The Bill may divide communities, escalate tensions, and distract from urgent socio-economic challenges facing South Africans today. 5. It could also place South Africa in complex diplomatic and legal conflicts, with little clarity on enforcement or practicality. For these reasons, I respectfully oppose the Bill in its current form. The Muslims oppose Christianity on everything and South Africa being a country with religious tolerance ,if allowed to follow this path of Islam, and its one sided laws will soon become an Islamic state . Look at Japan , Muslims were allowed into the country and now they want to stop the sale of pork,not realising that Japan is their host .here the visitors want to control the host country just like everywhere else . This is South Africa and there will not be any Islamic based ideology seeded in this country. If the Muslims want to create laws there countries that have Islamic laws already in place . Go there . 	2025-12-10 14:32:10	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed Bill is in contravention with the constitution and has the flavour of 'CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY', as were the previous several racist and oppressive Bills, that were pushed through in the past two years, by this, now established, criminally corrupt dictatorial Marxist government… and these horrendous changes require consultation with the people via a referendum… Bear in mind, more than 70% of South Africa's population 'DID NOT SUPPORT' the ANC in the 2024 election. The ANC did not achieve the required percentage of votes considered to be an overall majority, and is now acting out it true dictatorial agenda in a manner of a 'coup da tat'. Everything that the ANC criminal syndicate is doing is punishable by law, and is considered by the majority of the public to be traitorous and treasonous; and, will be challenged in every court available. What this bill entails is racist, and demonstrates the very 'APARTHEID PRACTICES' THAT OUR NATION VOTED FOR TO REMOVE AT THE REFERENDUM, AND AT THE POLLS, IN THE 1900s. The Bill is constitutionally exasperatingly vague, practically unenforceable, and a waste of parliamentary resources, and is intended solely to antagonise Israel. You are trying to enforce it so that you can eliminate freedom of speech and prevent those that fight for the human rights of South African minorities especially Boere and whites from having a voice ! In so doing you are hoping through this bill to criminalize concerned action groups that call you out for the rightful betraying bastards that you are! This is about silencing voices of concern an unwillingness to take action on the points of order and to weaponize the law against anyone that stands up to your bully tactics and forces you to suffer repercussions for your terrible governance and policing! 	2025-12-10 13:42:35	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill introduced by a islamic/Muslim affiliated party has absolutely nothing to do with Isreal being an apartheid state, which they are not and everything to do with the Islamic invasion world wide. It's simply another tool in their box to be used to further their Islamic caliphate agenda. If passed, this bill will in future be used against SA citizens who stand against Islam for any reason to arrest, prosecute and jail those of us whom the government will attempt to silence. The UN is a demagogue organization of unelected woke political elite to whom the ANC cosy up on behalf of terrorist organizations such as the AL Jamah-ah party, Hamas and their sponsors Qatar and Syria. We already have the most advanced constitution in the world in which free speech, freedom of choice and the right to individual autonomy is enshrined. The majority of SAfns are Christians and do not support Islam but acknowledge their right to practice their way of life without imposing their beliefs on the rest of society. 	2025-12-10 16:50:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. Critics, including the Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+), view this as "lawfare"—using the legal system to fight foreign policy battles. There are fears that this could strain South Africa's diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). "Apartheid State" Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as "Apartheid States." This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries from those nations, similar to the controversy surrounding the ICC and Omar al-Bashir. It is performative politics designed to rally voter bases around the Palestinian cause rather than legislation that will have a tangible impact on crime or justice in South Africa. The Bill will add unnecessary strain on current and potential South African diplomatic relations with key trading partners. Using the legal system to fight current political foreign policy battles is "lawfare". 	2025-12-10 16:33:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is a bill reflecting Islamic hatered against other religious groups. It is Especially targetted against Christians , as it can target any christian preacher who read and preach out of the Bible. This law in itself is hate speech and intended to pollarise the people of SA. I recon the political group who introduce it is in itself is atfault of hatespeech and apartheid as their intention is to devide our people, and that is a act of apartheid. I would surgest if this bill is pasted that another bill must be drafted and tabled to punish people who wheel and deal with Islamic terrorists , whose conduct and violant acts also is a crime against humanity, especially focussing on the Hamas, Ja-heed and arabic violant groups of Palestain who attact and targetting innocent Jews, christians and other peace loving innocent people in Israel. This bill is intented to weaponise the political left and it is a foolish act from goverment with the intend to strip the people of SA from their contitional rights of freedom of speech and freedom of association. 	2025-12-10 16:31:40	No I do not	Weaponising laws	There is no law on this planet that suggests Israel is an apartheid state. It's a political weaponization strategy to demonize the only democratic country in the middle east. Surely this law breaches our freedom of speech entrenched in the South African constitution. We seek concrete proof that Israel is an apartheid state. Those that seek to pursue this claim are all aligned to terrorists that are recognized as such, that seek to wipe Israel off the face of the earth. From a biblical view point it is recorded that A key Bible verse about blessing Israel is Genesis 12:3: "I will bless those who bless you, and whoever curses you I will curse". The South African government hates Israel with a passion. The inhumane, barbaric atrocities that incurred by recognized terrorists on the 7th October 2023 is who the South African government aligns with. S.A. government should be taken to task for condoning and supporting scumbags of such nature.	Mario			retired

	2025-12-10 16:31:09	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Bill is entirely too vague. What would be the definition of "aiding apartheid acts"? Would it include those who outright say that they stand with Israel? What about those who are inclined to stand with Israel, and cannot morally nor religiously be against Israel, because if they stand against Israel, they will stand against God. Not just that, these people are using South African laws to legalise the persecution of the Church, Christians, and Jews, who, because we have our origin in Israel will automatically stand with Israel. Not just that, Israel has not even been officially found to be an apartheid state, yet these anti-semites are trying to make into law a bill that legalizes the persecution of Christians and Jews, based solely on the fact that Christians and Jews' beliefs go against their political beliefs. This infringes not only Christians and Jews' right to religious freedom and practice, but also further restricts free speech, and inso allows only a certain group of people whose political affiliations are to a certain group, to say whatever they want to say, whilst policing the speech of anyone who dares to say otherwise or disagree with them. This is NOT the way to use our good laws to persecute our own citizens, simply because their beliefs are different from yours!! This is nothing other than a political war. This is an utter shame on the country that this bill is even being considered. Shame on Al-Jamah-ah. Shame on the ANC. Shame on the EFF. Shame on anyone who allows this bill to pass. 	2025-12-10 16:13:39	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill in no way advances peaceful resolution. Israel is in fact not an 'apartheid state'. While it is primarily a Jewish state, it is also home to Christians, Muslims and Druze, all equal citizens. The confusion may arise because the West Bank (Judea and Samaria) is disputed territory, and is blockaded by Israel due to terrorist activity. The Palestinians could have chosen to have their own state on quite a few occasions throughout history, yet chose instead to continue to be victims. In fact, Israel withdrew from Gaza in 2005 and instead of making this into a flourishing state, Hamas was elected and they chose instead to wage continuous war with Israel. Much of the 'aid' to Gazans was used for building a terror tunnel network instead of advancing and building constructively. Israel is and should remain a home for the Jews. Jerusalem is the spiritual capital of the world. This bill is solely motivated by Jew hatred. Given the massive and invaluable contribution that Israel has made and continues to make in tech, medical, and agricultural fields (to name but a few) in Africa and around the world, the bill would be counter-productive and wouldn't benefit anybody. It is discriminatory against a tiny minority (Jews) in South Africa who have contributed and continue to contribute massively to the South Africa and who have historically been at the forefront of every civil rights movement. The bill serves no purpose and is not constructive in any way at all. It is unconstitutional as it would mean that anyone who supported Israel could be prosecuted simply for doing that.	Romy

	2025-12-10 16:00:02	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Bill is in direct conflict with the South African Constitution, which guarantees freedom of expression, political choice, and freedom of conscience. While combating apartheid as a crime against humanity remains an important national and international commitment, the Bill goes far beyond that purpose and enters unconstitutional territory. 1. Violation of Freedom of Expression (Section 16) A democratic Parliament cannot endorse laws that punish citizens for opinions, beliefs, or peaceful expression. 2. Violation of Freedom of Association (Section 18) South Africans have the right to associate with any cause, movement, community, or identity, whether local or international. The Bill criminalizes association based on political disagreement, which is fundamentally incompatible with constitutional democracy. 3. Violation of Political Rights (Section 19) Political rights include the right to campaign for, support, or advocate political positions, including foreign-policy positions. Punishing people for expressing political support for Israel unlawfully restricts: The right to form political opinions, the right to express those opinions, and the right to participate freely in political discourse. 4. Conflict With Existing Law Duplicates existing law, adds offences that conflict with constitutional rights, improperly expands the definition of “apartheid” to include non-violent political expression. • Such an expansion has no grounding in international criminal law and risks legal incoherence. It represents a profound departure from South Africa’s constitutional democracy, where thought, belief, and political expression may never be criminalized. For these reasons and many more, the Apartheid Private Member’s Bill should be rejected in full.	Rina	Gauteng		retired

Then he decided to create Adam and Eve, they were then banned from paradise thanks to the devil and Eve, where they prospered but sinned against God. God then instructed Noah to build the Arc and flooded earth. They sinned again and over time God called Abraham to move from Haran to the chosen land, namely where Israel is, and establish His one people, who throughout history sinned, and would be punished and taken to foreign lands, but eventually God always returned them to Israel. You cannot go against God and Ban Israel. This is all secular religion based and Moslem against Christianity once again. Who started the war that is going on between Israel and Palestine?? Palestine started it on 27th October 2023, by killing those people on the Kibbutz and chopping those kids up who were having a Birthday Party, the Palestinians were looking for trouble and wanted to get sympathy from the world, and now the Christion countries are starting to sympathise with the Moslems who started this war ON PURPOSE. 	2025-12-10 17:45:28	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel literally or in words or other ways. In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. The human rights abuses in many nations world-wide should be the focus of SA and the international community"s "condemnation resolutions". 	2025-12-10 17:41:00	No I do not	Weaponising laws	It is my considered view that South Africa is facing profound governance challenges, particularly with regard to practices such as cadre deployment and the perceived neglect of critical national issues. Many citizens believe that these practices undermine institutional integrity, erode public confidence, and contribute to an environment in which criminal activity appears to be treated more leniently than the concerns of law-abiding citizens. Furthermore, there is growing concern that certain policies, including race-based economic interventions, may inadvertently create divisions rather than promote equality. From this perspective, some individuals feel that these dynamics echo forms of discrimination rather than alleviate them. It is important to emphasise that the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa—our highest law—guarantees equal protection, rights, and freedoms to all citizens, irrespective of race, sex, religion, or personal choices. Many South Africans are deeply troubled by what they perceive as attempts to introduce legislation that could weaken these constitutional protections or serve political interests rather than the public good. Any effort that appears to undermine constitutional supremacy is, in their view, wholly unacceptable. In addition, there is a sentiment that a government facing significant internal challenges—such as rising poverty, food insecurity, and service-delivery failures—should prioritise the wellbeing of its own citizens. The human rights commission cannot solve it's own internal issues and that of the country but wish to interfere with international justice cases which is absolutely unfounded, Israel is the only country that provided aid to Palistinians while the two countries are at war, Palenstine used their own people as human shields. From this standpoint, it is argued that a state that struggles to meet its domestic obligations should not involve itself in the internal affairs or sovereignty of other nations. The "apartheid activities" are very loosely defined. This can allow the ANC to label any kind of activity as "apartheid activities" and as such, it will silence a lot of dissent (i.e. anyone criticizing the ANC can now befall under this label) and put a lot of strain on governmental resources to follow through. Lastly, who knows how this will affect our relationships with countries we cannot afford to stand in enmity with (i.e. the USA). We barely have the capacity to deal with crime in our own country. This creates community uncertainty and could negatively affect: • youth movements and study programmes, • educational and cultural ties, • charitable giving, • academic partnerships, • personal or business travel to Israel. 	2025-12-10 19:17:39	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I oppose the Apartheid Bill because it threatens freedom of speech guaranteed by our Constitution. 	2025-12-10 19:17:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill seems to be an attempt by a Muslim political party to silence any discussion around the Israel/ Gaza conflict. Considering the fact that there have been multiple religious wars between Muslims and Jews, it appears that the political party that introduced this bill has ulterior motives. Our constitution protects freedom of speech and a bill like this would prevent South Africans from speaking out against any atrocities committed by Hamas or any Gazans against Israel. Keeping in mind that Hamas has already expressed intent to eradciate the Jews in Israel.There is also already a huge amount of misinformation on social media regarding this war and this bill could be used to eliminate any efforts to fight back against the misinformation. On the other hand, Jews have been expelled from Arab countries in the Middle East or killed. There are either no Jews or a very small number still living in Muslim countries. It's a farce to say that Israel is an apartheid state. It is not a colonizer nor does it seek to exterminate the people in Gaza. It is defending its citizens. It is Hamas and other extremist Muslim groups who started this war and seeks to exterminate Israel and all Jews for that icriminalize support for Israel is to criminalize being Jewish. Saying Israel is an apartheid is simply not true. You could substitute Syria or some of the other Arab countries but Israel is unusual in the region because it has protected rights for all citizens. 	2025-12-10 19:59:42	No I do not	Weaponising laws	How Could This Harm Jews? Travel Risks: If passed, South Africa could issue arrest warrants for Israeli politicians, military commanders, or even dual-citizens who served in the IDF, if they visit South Africa. "Criminalizing" Zionism: The bill's backers have explicitly stated they want to use it to prosecute those who "support Israel." This could theoretically extend to Jewish organizations or donors, though this is legally harder to enforce. Diplomatic Warfare: It is a form of "lawfare"—using the legal system to delegitimize Israel by labeling it an apartheid state in a court of law.	Avi	Outside SA	USA	business owner

	2025-12-10 19:53:35	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I am a South African citizen and I strongly oppose the proposed Bill. Our 1996 Constitution was built on the promise of diversity, inclusion, healing and freedom for every person, regardless of race, religion, political belief or origin. This Bill moves us in the opposite direction. Its definitions are dangerously broad and open to political abuse and selective prosecution. Its extraterritorial reach threatens freedom of expression and association, both here and abroad. It risks turning South Africa into a country where people can be dragged before special courts for their views, their affiliations or even their nationality. We already criminalise crimes against humanity through the Rome Statute Act. We do not need a new, vague “apartheid” law that can be weaponised against minorities, journalists, activists or anyone the government of the day dislikes. Thirty one years after democracy, South Africans want jobs, electricity, safety and unity, not new ways to punish and divide one another. Please withdraw this Bill. Let us build the inclusive Nation we fought for, not tear it down with laws that echo the very oppression we ended.	Cameron	Free State		unemployed individual

	2025-12-10 19:39:02	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Do not return South Africa to Apartheid. Under the Suppression of Communism Act of 1950 and the Internal Security Act of 1982, the white minority government “banned” individuals. These orders exiled people in their own country. They formed a core part of the Apartheid system. The bill proposed by the Al Jamah-ah party repeats those measures. It targets South Africans on the basis of religion, citizenship, and association with people abroad. It even punishes visits to family in another country. In practice, the bill imposes restrictions that exceed the laws of the Apartheid era. The struggle against Apartheid happened within living memory. If that victory means anything at all, South Africans of good conscience must reject this bill.	Andrew	Outside SA	Canada	employed individual

	2025-12-10 21:28:49	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The current situation is concerning for many, with potential implications for Christians and churches. If the Church doesn't take a stand, there could be significant consequences, including: - Pastors facing criminalization for praying for Israel - Individuals being criminalized for visiting Israel or leading tour groups there - Churches facing prosecution for hosting events that show solidarity with Israel - Believers facing charges for sharing biblical references to Israel on social media - Christian organizations facing legal consequences for supporting humanitarian efforts in Israel These possibilities highlight the importance of understanding the potential impact of current events on religious freedoms and the Church's ability to act on its beliefs. 	2025-12-10 21:27:07	No I do not	Weaponising laws	As a Christian, I stand firmly against any attempt—real or imagined—to label or legislate our support for Israel as an endorsement of apartheid, because such measures undermine both religious freedom and honest public dialogue. While believers may differ in how they view world events, no government should misuse the language of discrimination to suppress or shame sincere faith-based convictions. As Christians we are called to stand for truth, justice, and the dignity of all people, and that includes resisting any policy or narrative that unfairly targets their biblical support for Israel or seeks to equate their faith stance with oppression. The earliest evidence of its usage in English attests that it is used as a noun by Muslims as a pejorative term for a person who does not follow Islam – a use that is both considered offensive and intended to offend. In the earliest individual instance we have found in written English (from 1577) the author, Richard Willes, explains ‘Caffer’ as meaning ‘mysbeleeeuer’ (= ‘misbeliever’) and many other instances give similar glosses, such as ‘infidel’ or ‘idolater’. With religious disagreement being at the core of this use, it has not remained restricted to a single geographical area, instead being used in many different parts of the world with Muslim communities. During the 450 or so years that the word has been used in this way it has spread across numerous different regions, including those which are now the countries Egypt, India, and Afghanistan (to which I’ll return later)...." 	2025-12-10 20:51:16	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Apartheid is immoral, and it is painful to see the term misused in ways that distort reality. In several Arab countries, Jewish communities have historically and still face discrimination, exclusion, and at times outright persecution. This includes Palestinian controlled territory within Judea and Samaria. To label the Jewish people as practitioners of apartheid—despite their long history of suffering under both Christian and Muslim oppression—is not only inaccurate but deeply unjust. Reversing historical facts and promoting fictional narratives harms genuine understanding and fuels unnecessary hostility.	Shmuel			employed individual

Africa presented its case, was that there was not evidence of Apartheid. Indeed, Israel has had a Muslim Party in Knesset for over 70 years, Arabs enjoy full citrizenship and acess to education and medical services, Muslim Arabs sit on the courts as judges. As long as personal beliefs and actions does not endanger civil society stability or break any existing criminal law, then there is nothing more needed. When Israel left Gaza in 2005, international aid was funnelled away from rebuilding and toward purchasing weapons, digging tunnels, using concrete to reinforce those tunnels rather its intended purpose. Far more Jews were slaughtered, had their properties confiscated and were deported from Arab nations after 1948, 1956, 1967 and 1973 than Arabs who have had similar actions taken against them. It is time for the people of Gaza and the West Bank to realize that they have far more to gain by attempting to work toward a two-state solution than aiming the total destruction of the only homeland the jewish people have. Jews were present in "Palestine" at least two millennia before Islam was created.	Richard	Outside SA	Canada

	2025-12-10 22:00:44	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill should be labelled the Nazi Bill. It's agenda is clear; to weaponize local laws to make it impossible for people to practice their own religion and culture, initially affecting Jewish South Africans but it will easily be applied to any other area of free speech that government does not like. This is clearly an antisemitic, hate based bill aimed at annihilating the Jewish people of South Africa. There is no apartheid in Israel. Israel is the most open democratic state in the entire middle east. The word "Apartheid" has been hand picked by Al Jama for its emotional appeal to the majority of South Africans. Other questionable parties have adopted it, no doubt as a consequence of the payment from Iran to their leaders but certainly not on good faith. Let's talk about real apartheid in most of the middle east countries where no other religion is tolerated (religious apartheid) , women are practically slaves to men (gender based apartheid). Treating women as second class in any civilized society would get you locked up. For a minute, let's question why the creators of this bill aren't putting more effort into our local problems: murders on the Cape Flats, youth unemployment at 58%, gender based violence, endemic corruption. Could there possibly be another agenda???	George	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-10 23:18:02	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law is being constructed to revive the same laws that led to the killing of 6 million Jews. The same “laws” that throughout history have prevented Jews from owning property, legitimacy as persons with human rights, and to attempt to erase the Indigenous homeland of the Jewish nation and the only Jewish state and country that allows a globally oppressed minority group representing only 0.2% of the world’s population, that allows Jews to govern themselves and not be at the perpetual mercy of Jew-hatred. The fact that not one legitimate international organization has found any of the criminal charges laid against them valid is further proof of a last bitter attempt to erase Jews from the world. 	2025-12-10 23:15:47	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law is unfortunately too vague and will allow for prosecution locally for opinions shared that can br construed as "supportive of apartheid" when they are not related to that aspect at all (e.g. perhaps raising a comment about Israel that is unrelated to their racial laws or war practices). Furthermore, it uses the people as a way to politicize internal incidents, and leads to further divides within our own nation. We already have laws that can protect against true apartheid, actions that support or promote it and segregation/discrimination. 	2025-12-10 23:03:16	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This Bill tramples on personal liberty by criminalising thought and association. This proposed bill weaponises law to police belief, edging us closer to government thought control. South Africa’s democracy must protect free voices, not punish them—this Bill risks turning justice into ideology and citizens into suspects. I do NOT support Israel's genocide, and Israel is outside the borders of South Africa. So what if someone else supports Israel, it doesn't concern us. What happens in Israel is none of our business. To equate support for Israel with apartheid is dangerously vague, silencing criticism and dissent. Instead of focusing on Israel, get South Africans into jobs and drop the racist BEEEE that prevents business to grow. The Bill is constitutionally vague, practically unenforceable, and a waste of parliamentary resources (money).	Willem	Limpopo		self-employed

While apartheid is always to be censured, it must be directed at real examples of apartheid. South Africa's recent political posturing at the ICC regarding the accusation of genocide by Israel is all of a piece with this proposed bill which will be weaponized to accuse Israel of Apartheid. This despite the 20% of Israel's population that is Arab, who enjoy every right enjoyed by all Israelis. 	2025-12-11 04:58:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	What is the real reason? This law will criminalise every historical as well as present perceived acts or verbal sayings that can be implied to support apartheid in any form. This will end up in a witch hunt against any minorities found guilty of this broad and unspecific crime that can be interpreted as the situation changes. This is a very dangerous law for all even majority individuals that says anything that can be construed as being apartheid apologists.	Nadine	Gauteng		employed individual
	2025-12-11 04:57:59	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Using law to dictate a political agenda is evil. The fight in Israel is not about race or apartheid it is a spiritual fight and has nothing to do with what is being portrayed.	Francois Juan-Pierre	Western Cape		self-employed
	2025-12-11 04:57:23	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed “Apartheid Bill” is vague and dangerous because it creates a new criminal offence with very broad and unclear definitions that could be applied to people for actions that are not obviously apartheid. South Africa already criminalises apartheid as part of international crimes under our existing laws, so adding another law with wider wording could let authorities interpret things in ways that hurt ordinary citizens rather than protect human rights. A law that does not clearly explain what conduct is illegal can be weaponised against people unfairly, especially critics or political opponents, and this does not help build unity or trust in our justice system. Secondly, the bill reaches beyond South Africa’s borders, giving our courts jurisdiction over events that happen overseas involving South African citizens or residents. This “long arm” power is hard to enforce in practice, raises serious diplomatic issues, and can put people at risk just for holding views or speaking about foreign affairs. Laws that focus more on punishing positions on world politics rather than solving real issues here at home do not make our democracy stronger or help South Africa grow economically or socially. Finally, this proposal risks dividing South Africans instead of uniting us. Many people feel it is more about targeting certain groups or countries than addressing real needs in our country like unemployment, crime, or service delivery. When a law is seen as politically motivated or open to selective enforcement, it can deepen mistrust and distract from the work we need to do together to build a fair, prosperous and peaceful society. South Africa needs laws that bring people together and address pressing domestic challenges, not laws that could be turned against citizens or exploited for political purposes. 	2025-12-11 04:22:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I am appalled by this bill. China, Cuba, Iran, Syria and multiple other countries have brutal laws. They are the worst human rights violators. But there is no plan to arrest or suppress those who support them. Israel was drawn into a war after true human rights violations were committed against people in Israel. Israelis, Arabs, Asians and Africans as well as visitors from other countries were raped, mutilated and slaughtered. Hundreds, including children and elderly, dead and alive, were dragged into Gaza and held hostage where they were starved, sexually assaulted, beaten and killed. But you dare threaten with arrest anyone who supports Israel. You are a failed government hiding behind your lies by inverting the narrative. Instead of holding Gaza and the Palestinians responsible and accountable, you are vilifying Israel.	Nina	Outside SA	United States	employed individual

	2025-12-11 04:04:40	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law is against free speech and would represent dictatorship in South Africa. People aren't surly the same and have different view points of right and wrong. I surely believe that hate speech and acts of hate is wrong, and surely believe that Israel have the right to defend it self. According to my faith as a christian I also support the viewpoints of Israel. Lots of people support the view points of the Muslim Brotherhood that actually murder people and children across the world and if that is acceptable by government it absolutely saddens me. I would always treat any one the same no matter their believe, and if I don't agree with them I do believe that is my choice as its theirs. I would never hate them although I disagree, but I would not accept their views maybe. I would pray for them to my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and would love to change their view points if they would let me, or simply walk away from them. But I would always stand for what I do believe in.	Jan	Western Cape		self-employed

The leadership of the non-Israeli Arabs have never accepted even the existence of Israel, and have resorted to murderous violence in the mistaken belief that Jews (who originated as a people in what is now Israel) are newcomers who will leave if threatened. 	2025-12-11 02:56:22	No I do not	Weaponising laws	There is NO “apartheid” in Israel. Arab and Jewish citizens (as well as Christians, Druze, Bedouin, etc) ALL have full and equal rights & opportunities within Israel. That also includes women, unlike in Muslim nations. Arabs make up approximately 20% of the Israeli population- they work side by side with Jews in all jobs, in the army, in hospitals, in technology, and in every other field. They go to the same markets, attend the same events, eat at the same restaurants, have access to the same healthcare, ride the same transportation - with no one forced to sit in back or be discriminated against. Arabs have equal access to education & everything else in Israel, including having the right to vote. They have representation in government and even hold a seat on the Supreme Court. Israel is a democracy (the ONLY one in the entire Middle East.) There is NO Arab country for which you can say the same in reverse. None. Not even close. You are holding Israel to a double standard that you do not equally apply to anyone else. Certainly not any other nation. Arab countries have ethnically cleansed the Jews from their lands while the number of Arabs in Israel has increased exponentially. Arabs living in Gaza and in Judea & Samaria (the West Bank) are governed by Hamas and the Palestinian Authority, respectively. Those two entities want the right to govern but do not want the responsibility of taking care of their own people. They use their people as human shields while syphoning aid into their own pockets. They do not hold elections & CONTINUE to wage war on the sovereign state of Israel- repeatedly vowing they will not stop until Israel is destroyed. Israel has NEVER started a war. They do, however, have every right (as ALL OTHER NATIONS do) to defend themselves. You are weaponizing the word “apartheid” to spread hate against Jews and the singular Jewish state- and, at the same time, you are sadly diminishing the REAL apartheid that people in South Africa experienced. 	2025-12-11 01:11:41	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Israel cannot be considered an apartheid state when twenty percent of its population is not jewish nd enjoys equal rights. Israel is a democratic society that is on the forefront of protecting all of us from terror and islamism. Everyone, including muslims, is entitled to their beliefs and to practice them. Just like Western countries tend to be Christian, and Middle Eastern countries Muslim, Israel is entitled to be a Jewish state. This should not be a problem as long as everyone has freedom. Unlike the muslim countries, israel allows everybody to worship as they please. Clearly, the people presenting this bill are not for freedom for all. When it has issues with Israel, it must not act as if ALL South Africans are having issues with Israel. The overwhelming majority of South Africans are sympathetic to Israel. The proposal of such a bill will be tantamount to the suppression of the Freedom of association and of religion. Christianity and Judaism are closely connected. Our Lord Jesus Christ was born a Jew from Israel. The Bible is a Jewish book from Israel. Al Jamaah is a political party whose aspirations are to ultimately turn South Africa into an Islamic State ruled by Sharia Law. This party is full of hatred towards Israel and the Jews. Their Quran advocates for killing of all infidels. By infidels they refer to everyone who refuses to convert to Islam. I therefore submit that I vehemently reject that proposal. 	2025-12-11 00:16:29	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The State of Israel predates the palestinian claim over the land of Israel by over 2000 years. The land of Israel is the G-d given home of the Jewish people born from the seed of Abraham Isaac and Jacob over which no others have any right of possession whatsoever. The palestinian peoples claim to this land is nothing but a misrepresentation of the biblical inheritence that the Jews rightfully are entitled and but for their numerous and repeated forced disposession over 3000 years by its enemies of which the palestinians being the descendants of the philistines are only one, would employ any instrument in their power to misrepresent this undeniable and universally accepted truth. The officers of administration in south africa, would support and encourage this false claim not because they actually believe it is just, but due to their belief that the British state government and The Israeli Government are both instruments of an oppressive colonialism. Not just this but their undying expression of hatred of the Jewish people and their right to this most Holy land. The south african government should remedy their own corrupt and murderous administration before condemning a democratically elected government who values the contribution of all races and cultures in Israel including Christians, Jews and Muslims to create a just and equitable society. Hamas puts their citizens in danger by using hospitals, schools, children's centers, etc. to attack Israel. If Hamas stopped attacking Israel, there would be no more war. Israel values life, whereas the terrorists what nothing more than to wipe Israel off the map. Then what??? Every terrorist group in the Middle East would continue fighting, using children as soldiers and making life even more difficult and challenging for the civilians. These Islamic extremists don't allow women's rights which actually hurt the community and the children. Israel would like to live in peace and has a right to exist. For you to pass a law that would punish anyone who supports Israel against the onslaught of antisemitism and a plethora of misinformation about Israel is criminal in itself. Please do not allow this Bill to pass. If Israel is an apartheid state, then why do they allow Arabs, Christians, Muslims, along with other religious groups? 	2025-12-11 07:46:18	No I do not	Weaponising laws	"Do not bear false witness against your neighbour." That is one of the Ten Commandments. This new idea of yours is exactly that — bearing false witness bagainst Israel. Shame on you for even thinking about it. Of course it is not your own idea. Everyone can see that. They see how you feel pushed to obey instructions from Iran. Or is it Qatar? Or both ? At the ICJ, you embarrassed yourselves and came out looking like "Useful Idiots," which is how the outside world describes the willing slaves of those evil regimes. Here is another quote from the Bible, from Proverbs 1:10-16. "My child, if sinners entice you, just say NO. If they say: 'Come with us! We will lie in wait for blood, lurk for innocents, swallow them up alive like the grave. We will find their precious wealth and fill our houses with spoil. Join us; we have a shared purse.' My child, do not go forth with them! Restrain your foot from their path, for their feet run to evil, and they hurry to shed blood." In this story, the SINNERS are the Jihadi terrorist murderers, and South Africa is a CHILD. The SHARED PURSE is the money you received right before you were sent to the ICJ to bear false witness. Where is your national self-pride and national self-esteem? DO YOU WANT THE WHOLE WORLD TO BE AMUSED AT SOUTH AFRICA FOR OBEYING THOSE BAD GUYS LIKE A LITTLE CHILD? "Yes, Baas." — Like that ?! You deserve better. And you also deserve to BE BETTER. Make yourselves proud of yourselves by siding with the good guys, not with the bad guys. Remember South Africa's apartheid and sanctions? Even in those days, people were still allowed to express support for SA. That's what free speech means. The words of your proposed law are SO HATEFUL and EXTREME that they make you look STUPID and IGNORANT. Please, remember The Struggle ! Against the apartheid Regime ! Was it all for nothing? You are making South Africa into the laughing stock of the world. This is so embarrassing. If you enact a law like this, (continued next…)	S	Gauteng		retired

In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. 	2025-12-11 07:44:23	No I do not	Weaponising laws	STOP this bill which, if passed, would criminalize everyone who might speak in favor of Israel, assist Israel, promote Israel, defend Israel or preach about Israel. The bill threatens to silence and delegitimize the many Christians and Jews in South Africa who believe in Israel's right to exist according to the Bible, - in spite of any of Israel's political errors or moral failures. The bill attempts to delegitimise the ONLY democracy in the middle East. The accusation that Israel is an apartheid state is an affront to those who suffered under apartheid in South Africa, since Israel is a multicultural society, although predominantly Jewish. Israel's existence depends on a defending itself (offensively and preemptively) against all who oppose its right to exist in and outside of its homeland.	Juanita	KwaZulu-Natal		unemployed individual

	2025-12-11 07:40:18	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose the Apartheid Bill. The most alarming aspect is its vague and sweeping criminalization of 'supporting' Israel – from a simple social media post quoting Scripture, to a pastor praying for peace in the Holy Land, or a church hosting a solidarity event. This extraterritorial overreach could prosecute South Africans worldwide for expressing biblical convictions rooted in our faith's origins. It's not anti-apartheid justice; it's a direct assault on freedom of speech (Section 16) and religion (Section 15) in our Constitution. This bill weaponizes morality to silence dissent and erode Christian identity. South Africa deserves better – reject this now!	Ivan

	2025-12-11 07:37:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Israel is the opposite of an apartheid state. Israelis of all backgrounds (20% are Arab), genders, sexual orientations, and even political affiliations are free, have equal rights and opportunities to thrive. Most do. Arabs in Israel are teachers, police, doctors, professors, lawmakers, business leaders, and much more. The places in the region where there is apartheid and ethnic cleansing are where political Islamists control with their Shariah law and peon dhimmi status for non-Muslims and just as bad for females. Like in America and Europe, political Islamists in S Africa pretend in English to be inclusive and moderate, but in Arabic, they say the truth. And unless you want S Africa to eventually become like Afghanistan, stop allowing yourselves to be deceived. When Bethlehem was under Israeli control, the Christian population thrived. Now that it is under Palestinian control, it is severely dwindling. Over 100 million women, minorities, and moderates are terrorized in these places, and Israel is the only minority state able to fight them back. Nigeria, Sudan, Somalia, Yemen, Syria, Gaza, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan...hells on earth for non-Islamists. Israel has let over 3000 calories avg per person per day into Gaza during the war, but the Islamists stole it and use it to stay in power. Israel's IDF has one of the lowest civilian/combatant casualty rates in the history of urban war, and this is when the Islamists shoot from behind the civilian martyrs they're happy to sacrifice. 	2025-12-11 07:34:29	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Firstly, the Bill is explicitly motivated by a desire to target the State of Israel. While the Israel-Palestine conflict may share superficial similarities to apartheid, it is a deeply complex, historical conflict that is fundamentally different. Crafting domestic law to target specific foreign nations under the guise of general jurisprudence undermines the objectivity of our courts. Secondly, the Bill is legally redundant. South Africa already criminalises apartheid under the Implementation of the Rome Statute Act (2002). Creating a duplicate legal regime introduces unnecessary confusion and serves no practical purpose beyond political signaling. Finally, this Bill is a misuse of state resources. South Africa is battling a crisis of domestic violent crime. Pursuing complex, extraterritorial prosecutions would divert critical capacity away from addressing murder, rape, and corruption at home. Our priority must be the safety of South African citizens, not funding symbolic international tribunals. I urge Parliament to reject this Bill.	Abraham	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-11 07:26:11	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This government has long been implementing laws that serve not the interests of the people, but the advancement of its own agenda. Time and time again, we are presented with policies that seem designed to tighten control rather than promote progress or protect the rights of ordinary citizens. Once again, our freedoms are being challenged, subtly at first, then more boldly, as though the gradual erosion of our rights will go unnoticed. If this pattern continues, we risk reaching a point where our voices are so diminished that silence becomes the norm. And in that silence, the government gains free rein to impose its will without resistance, leading us down a path where tyranny is no longer a distant possibility but a present reality. It is crucial that we remain vigilant, informed, and united in defending the liberties that define us as a people, before they are taken away piece by piece.	Karl	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-11 07:12:01	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The bill states the following (Quote):- “The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of supporting, committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. Al Jama-ah leader Ganief Hendricks has explicitly stated the Bill’s intent: “Israel is an apartheid state and those South Africans who support it, are therefore complicit and must face the full might of the law. If you support Israel then you are automatically supporting Apartheid and will be criminally charged”. The ANC & EFF are clearly guilty of committing or aiding apartheid, look at the number of Race Based laws and BEE laws we have as well as the Kill The Bore, Kill the farmer song Malema sings. Therefor our ANC Government Officials, EFF etc. should be the first to be criminally charged. I really and honestly support anti-discrimination laws and am against any form of discrimination. 	2025-12-11 07:05:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025, because in its current form it risks weaponising the law for political purposes rather than strengthening justice. South Africa already has strong constitutional and legislative protections against discrimination and crimes against humanity, including PEPUDA, the Bill of Rights, and the Rome Statute Implementation Act. Creating a separate apartheid-crime statute introduces duplication, conflicting standards, and legal uncertainty. The Bill's definitions appear overly broad and imprecise, creating the possibility of arbitrary or selective application. This risks undermining the principle of legality and equality before the law. Rather than promoting social cohesion, the Bill could inflame political divisions and be used to target individuals or groups based on ideology rather than genuine wrongdoing. No clear gap in current law has been demonstrated to justify new criminal legislation of this nature. Without evidence that existing mechanisms are insufficient, introducing a new offence may divert focus from more urgent governance priorities. Legislation implementing international conventions must be precise, impartial and constitutionally sound. This Bill does not meet those standards, and therefore I cannot support it.	Carl

	2025-12-11 06:45:18	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Proposed Statement of Objection I do not support the draft Apartheid Bill introduced by the Al Jama-ah party. My objection is based on serious concerns regarding the Bill's broad definitions, legal overreach, and the dangerous precedent it sets for limiting basic constitutional rights in South Africa. Firstly, the Bill appears to criminalise individuals based on their personal beliefs, associations, or political viewpoints relating to foreign matters. Linking support for Israel—or any international position—to automatic criminal culpability is a clear threat to freedom of thought, freedom of association, and freedom of conscience, all of which are protected under the South African Constitution. No democratic legal system should prosecute individuals for holding a particular viewpoint, especially where those views relate to complex global political issues. Secondly, the Bill's extraterritorial scope is deeply concerning. Allowing South African courts to prosecute individuals for alleged "support" or "aiding" apartheid acts anywhere in the world opens the door to excessive state power and subjective interpretation. Laws of this nature may be weaponised for political purposes, silencing dissent, targeting individuals or groups unfairly, and undermining the credibility of South Africa's justice system. Thirdly, the Bill conflicts with principles of legal certainty and due process. Its definitions appear vague and open to interpretation, creating the risk that ordinary citizens—including dual nationals—could face criminal consequences without clear evidence of wrongdoing. Legislation that carries severe penalties must be clear, objective, and applied consistently; this Bill does not meet those basic standards of fairness. Finally, South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under existing statutory and international frameworks. Creating an additional, politically targeted version of such a law appears unnecessary and potentially divisive. I	Leon	Western Cape		self-employed

	2025-12-11 06:44:08	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The extreme left trying to control people and the narrative. Lol...when will you learn you can't control what people think? You are becoming the very monster you claim to be eradicating. The irony is stunning...but you need a functional brain to see it and an open mind to observe it; both of which , unfortunately, the extreme left sorely lack. Pity that this will be tempting to stupid and unthinking masses easily lead by emotional nonsense. This is a very dangerous road forward where people's freedoms will be stamped upon and erased. The cANCer are well aware of the dangers; perhaps payouts by Iran and other muslim countries/ organisations have aided in the selling out of South Africa?	TRACY	Gauteng		business owner

	2025-12-11 08:27:37	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I hereby register my strong opposition to the proposed Apartheid Bill. In its current form, the bill risks weaponizing the law rather than strengthening justice. Although presented as a safeguard against racism, its underlying framing appears to reflect a narrow ideological position, raising concerns about impartiality and constitutional fairness. Any legislation that could restrict South Africans' constitutional rights, including freedom of belief, expression, and association, is deeply troubling. A law becomes unjust when it punishes individuals not for criminal acts, but for their convictions or religious identity. It is difficult to ignore the broader political context in which this bill emerges. There is a growing perception that it is motivated, at least in part, by hostility toward the State of Israel, which some groups view through an ideological or religious lens. As a Christian, my worldview is grounded in Scripture and the belief in the one true God — Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. The Bible identifies Israel as God's chosen people (Deuteronomy 7:6; Isaiah 41:8–9; Amos 3:2) and affirms God's promise to defend Israel against hostile nations (Zechariah 12:2–3, 9; Ezekiel 38–39). While I respect the diversity of beliefs within our nation, I must emphasize that any legislation that could be used to target Israel or the Christian community, directly or indirectly, is not only misguided but potentially dangerous. Such a path risks inflaming division and undermining South Africa's commitment to religious freedom and constitutional equality. For these reasons, I urge lawmakers to reject the bill in its current form, reconsider its intent, and ensure that no law is enacted that compromises fundamental liberties or enables ideological discrimination. 	2025-12-11 08:22:57	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The moment your right to personal choice (a God given right) affirmed in the SA constitution is infringed, we make the foundational law of SA - the Constitution - of no effect. There is religious apartheid in every single religious choice, which if this bill is approved will also infringe on that freedom of religion. In Biblical Scripture there is a clear calling from God and His Christ to believers in Him - amongst other scripture 1 Pet 2:9 says "But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people..." We should therefore be holy and live according to God's instructions which is likely not to be accepted by all. Thus, everyone has a choice, those who accept and those who don't and both parties are then apart from each other which is already a type of apartheid. This is the same for all beliefs and religions. 	2025-12-11 08:03:03	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Israel is not an Apartheid state, and has a right to defend itself. In fact, there is nowhere in Israel where non-Jews are not allowed to go, but most Arab towns are exclusively for Arabs only, where Jews and others are not allowed. So bringing in a law to criminalize support for a legitimate sovereign state like Israel, is nothing short of weaponizing the law against a minority in South Africa, to intimidate and silence them into submission.	Neil	Gauteng		self-employed
	2025-12-11 08:03:03	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Bringing in this law is very wrong. Israel is not an apartheid state. They treat everyone equally. Arabs are free to live in Israel and are even members of their parliament. Israel must be able to defend itself if they are attacked, and the attacks on Israel is ongoing. Israel treats Arabs just the same as Israelis, but has to defend itself if people on the street are car jammed or stabbed or rockets fired on Israel across their borders. Israel only acts in self defence. Bringing in this law only forces people to not stand with Israel, the only democratic country in the middle east. Essentially intimidating people into submission and silence them. This is wrong on all levels.	Marie	Gauteng		self-employed

	2025-12-11 08:02:49	No I do not	Weaponising laws	No democracy can survive when the government decides which opinions are allowed. The proposed bill is a step toward silencing ordinary South Africans, criminalising disagreement, and deepening inequality. Freedom of expression is not a privilege for the powerful — it is a constitutional right for every citizen. We cannot allow laws that punish people simply for thinking differently. If we lose our voice, we lose our freedom. I was born in the year apartheid ended. I grew up in government schools, raised my children in the same system, and yet all of us continue to face discrimination — not for what we've done, but simply for the colour of our skin. My children were born free, but they still pay the price for a past they never lived. We call South Africa a democracy, yet many of us live under what feels like a modern form of apartheid: excluded from opportunities, silenced when we speak up, and labelled the moment we express concern. Now government wants to weaponise a law that can jail people for having an opinion — right or wrong, fair or frustrated. In a true democracy, disagreement is not a crime. Holding the state accountable is not racism. And silencing citizens is not justice. Freedom of expression is a constitutional right, and once it is taken away, there is no democracy left to protect any of us	Nico	Gauteng		self-employed

	2025-12-11 08:01:40	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The "Apartheid Bill" is a Private Member's Bill introduced by Al Jama-ah to domesticate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law. While South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), this new Bill seeks to establish it as a stand-alone crime with broader, specific definitions and extraterritorial reach. Its primary political catalyst is the global solidarity movement with Palestine. The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. Israel is the homeland for the Jews as promised by God to Abraham. Our Lord Jesus Christ was born a Jew. Israel is the bedrock of our faith. Jesus Christ came to and died for the whole world to be united in His Kingdom. He came to meet all nations IN HIM, IN HIS PEACE. NOTHING WILL STOO WHAT HE PLANNED. 	2025-12-11 08:00:27	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I don't think it is right that SA GOVT. wants to pass a bill to go against our constitution that categorically states we have freedom of speech. Are they so afraid that what ordinary citizens say about apartheid is going to disrupt their power? Or are they following orders from Iran for money. It seems to me this govt only cares about lining their own pockets. I definitely don't see any improvement in the wellbeing of the majority of South Africans. A few have managed to rise to great wealth and the rest are so much poorer and jobless than they were under the previous govt. Schools, hospitals, universities, ALL have been ruined under the rule of the ANC. Eskom, SAA, coal, uranium, gold mines in grave danger of collapsing completely because no maintenance s done. Then there are our roads, railway lines also left to deteriorate while the few elite in GOVT line their own pockets. 				(Continued fron previous submission. The ideas are important.) Please, Remember The Struggle ! Against the apartheid Regime ! Was it all for nothing? You are making South Africa into the laughing stock of the world. This is so embarrassing. If you enact a law like this, YOU will be the Regime and the good South Africans will be Struggling against YOU. You would turn South Africans, this honest nation, into spying on their neighbours. They would create secret groups to bring down YOU, the government. Your HANDLERS are trying to destroy an entire country, Israel, containing 10 million people. DON'T FALL FOR THEIR EVIL TRICKS. THEY ARE USING YOU so that the world will blame YOU, while they get away with murder — many murders, actually. . Explain to them what you have learned from history and from these invited comments, that The People of SA will not tolerate such evil laws in the beautiful Rainbow Nation. Rainbow in SA does not mean homosexual, like in the rest of the world. South Africa's PROUD Rainbow Nation works like a good team with everyone together, including Jews, including whites, including Zionists who know that the country Israel has a right to exist and a big future ahead of them. Jislaaik, you guys, "LIVE AND LET LIVE"! Israel has been good friends to Africa. South Africa must show leadership, respect God, study the Bible, and show Africa how to be righteous to the Israelites, Israelis, Jews, Zionists, and also the Christians. And if that means you have to pay back the money, then pay it back. YOU CAN DO THIS, even if it is hard and expensive. You have gold and other resources, and your wonderful South African ability and spirit. And honesty, as mentioned above. Amen.

Where is the out cry on these murders. This is more reason for them to pass laws in subterfuge so that their political agendas are met. This is coming from a direction where political parties are alligned with countries to enrich themselves over and above to what they are already stealing from hard working South Africans. With the ANC and EFF on board in this Bill, how can this even be possible when they blatantly endorse the song Kill the Farmer, Kill the Boer. Get your head out of the hole it's clearly stuck in and start sorting out local issues. If you really want to be less useless, call for the implementation of a law which advocates for the death penalty for each and every corrupt politician and state servant. I'm pretty sure such a law will be worth way, way more than this waste of breath that you're advocating for. Last time I checked, SA isn't some sort of Sharia state, though you and the likes of you seem determined to turn it into such a state. Ridiculous. Maybe you should spend your time more productively by actually reading our constitution. Maybe you should also remind yourself that we are a very diverse society, both culturally and religiously. Enacting laws to silence "dissenting voices" cannot be supported as it undermines our freedom of speech protected in the South African Constitution. You cannot impose your 'morality' on another. In practical terms this is exactly what Israel, (supported by the USA) is trying to do to its neighbours. The end cannot ever justify the means. Furthermore it'll be impossible to enforce and therefore a waste of time and money which South Africa should rather spend on feeding its starving children.	Cassandra

	2025-12-11 11:16:00	No I do not	Weaponising laws	First I am placing this matter in God's hands. May He be the judge. Second I have seen footage were people and children UNDER THE AGE OF 18 are inticed to kill Israel, FARMERS, WHITES and for the fact of the matter this in itself is a VIOLATION OF THE RIGHTS OF A CHILD.....AND A WARCRIME. EVERYONE has the right to choose their own religion and language. Yet as I have seen from various mentioned parties. They do not respect this. Many centuries ago a King gave a Royal DECREE over his Kingdom that everyone should serve Daniel's God.....from India unto Ethiopia 127 provinces in fact. Yet I have reason to believe that some people didn't receive the letter. A King also sent out a decree that stated that Queen Esther and her people the Jews and Christians have the right to believe in God and that they have the right to protection. Yet I have seen that many of these names on this bill is taking ISRAEL and THOSE WHO SUPPORT ISRAEL to court for APARTHEID. They themselves break MANY LAWS AND THESE DECREES.They are JEALOUS that ISRAEL was set APART by God for God. What I also have noticed is that since the Islamist party was declined by the IEC. They are trying to get a foot in the door. There was a law in the beginning hat explicitly stated that no foreigner is allowed in Government, a bribe however changed it. Currently there are more foreigners&bribe in hese new Government officials than there is honesty.Everyone works for someone different with their own agenda. I have reason to believe that those who are benefiting the most are writing the Bill. I don't feel any peace vibrating from any party mentioned in this bill. Nor do I trust them. 1. Those who kill,persecute CHRISTIANS and Farmers publicly call for the killing of ISRAEL should be tried for warcrimes. 2. They kill and rape people&kids then accuse them of Apartheid. 3.They incite to Children under the age of 18 to kill Israel, FARMERS and Christians. THIS a VIOLATION of the Rights of child&religion. The other religions within South Africa, Buddhist, Hindu, Islam, Traditional African Religions, Sikhism, and more will not be affected by this bill and therefore enable these groups to target the other two. Every single Business entity must cease to exist in SA - how stupid is this thinking. I cannot think of a more stupid idea than this, it has to be political, but I know that it is a spiritual battle. Israel is God's chosen people whether you like it or not, whether they are good or bad is not the issue. Whether you believe anything or nothing it does not matter, South Africa will be opposing the same God that the Arab nations came from, the same God the Jewish nation came from. Dear South Africa, you do not want to be on the wrong side of God by trying to criminalize the nation God chose to be His own, what a stupid thought to think that anyone can oppose God and God's chosen people. Is that what they want to now place under what they call an Apartheid state to try and kill or jail all who have free speech and freedom of worship. 4) When the men die the men got 70 virgins when they reach their version of heaven--what do the women get? 5) The Apartheid state is now South Africa where the ANC Government have brought in 144 new Apartheid laws against white South Africans. 6) If South Africa is so bad why don't these Jihadists go live in a Muslim country and see if that will make them happy? 	2025-12-11 10:49:22	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support this draft bill. My objection is based on constitutional concerns and the potential for this legislation to infringe on the rights of cultural and religious communities, including Afrikaners. The Constitution protects the rights of all South Africans to freedom of expression, freedom of association, cultural self-determination, and religious belief. A law defining “apartheid” in vague or overly broad terms risks being misused against minority communities such as the Afrikaner cultural community, including towns like Orania and Kleinfontein, which currently operate within constitutional parameters. I am also concerned that the bill appears to be driven by a political and ideological position aligned with Al Jama-ah’s explicitly Islamic (Sharia-aligned) worldview. This raises legitimate questions about whether the legislation is religiously neutral. Christians who hold a biblical pro-Israel stance — which is a central part of many Christians’ faith — could be placed in conflict with this bill simply because their beliefs differ from those of an Islamic political party. South Africa is a constitutional democracy, not a theocracy, and legislation should never reflect or enforce the religious doctrines of any one group, whether Christian, Islamic, or otherwise. Laws must remain neutral, balanced, and fully aligned with the Constitution. For these reasons — unclear definitions, potential for political misuse, risk to Afrikaner constitutional rights, and apparent religious bias — I cannot support the draft bill in its current form. 	2025-12-11 10:40:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel literally or in words or other ways. In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. The human rights abuses in many nations world-wide should be the focus of SA and the international community"s "condemnation resolutions". 	2025-12-11 10:40:09	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This will polarize South Africa. There are millions of people in South Africa who supports Israel and there are millions who don't. If it becomes an offense to support Israel it must also become an offense to support Hamas and the Palestinian people, or Russia, China, or any other country/people. People with a certain believe should not force their believe on everyone. We have problems of our own in South Africa that we need to look at. We must stop absorbing other countries' problems. 	2025-12-11 10:40:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	If this bill is pushed through into law all SA citizens will effectively be silenced by our government. No freedom of speach. At all. Absolutely no dissent. It will allow the government to prosecute and therefore silence any person by accusing them of apartheid. I agree that it is imperative that racism be removed from society - all society but to target one group is in itself racist and an apartheid act. I could never agree to remove the right to think and believe something that is different to the majority. Should an individual decide to go to Palestine and fight the Israelies that is their right. Should an individual decide to go to China and work for their government - that is their right. If a person should agree with Palestinian, Chinese, Russian or Israeli politics that is also their right. No entity should have the authority to remove the rights that our constitution gives to every citizen in our country.	Des			unemployed individual

	2025-12-11 10:37:35	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I Zak Haasbroek , in the strongest possible terms, declare my absolute and unequivocal opposition to the intended introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 (“the Bill”), by Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, acting in accordance with section 73(2) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996 (“the Constitution”). Key Grounds for Opposition Necessity and Redundancy: The fundamental principles and spirit of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid are already enshrined in South Africa’s Constitution and domestic legislation, which is rooted in a commitment to non-racialism, equality, and human dignity. This proposed Bill appears redundant and an unnecessary duplication of existing legal and constitutional mandates. Potential for Abuse and Political Weaponisation: Introducing specific domestic legislation for the crime of Apartheid carries a significant risk of its definition being distorted, misapplied, or politically weaponised against various groups or individuals, thereby undermining the national reconciliation project and the delicate post-Apartheid consensus. Focus on Existing Domestic Mechanisms: The focus of legislative effort should be on strengthening the enforcement of existing anti-discrimination and equality legislation, such as the Promotion of Equality and Prevention of Unfair Discrimination Act (PEPUDA), rather than creating a new, potentially divisive legal instrument. This proposed Bill is deemed inappropriate and counterproductive to the goals of a united, non-racial, and democratic South Africa. I urge that this Bill be rejected outright and that legislative resources be dedicated to addressing current socio-economic challenges through existing, established legal frameworks. This bill is racialised discrimination against a particular group and religion of people. This should never be accepted and even entertained. 	2025-12-11 10:24:23	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Thank you for the opportunity to participate in this public process. I am voting NO on the proposed bill, not out of hostility toward any group, but out of concern for its potential impact on religious freedom, freedom of conscience, and open democratic expression in South Africa. Many South Africans — including Christians of various traditions — hold sincere, biblically rooted convictions regarding Israel, the Jewish people, and the right to pray, preach, or express support in ways consistent with their faith. Any law that risks criminalising theological belief, religious expression, or peaceful humanitarian support raises serious constitutional concerns. I believe South Africa can address issues of international justice without restricting religious liberty or unintentionally silencing citizens whose convictions differ from prevailing political views. My request is simply this: That Parliament carefully reconsider the wording and implications of this bill to ensure it protects the rights of all South Africans, including faith communities, to speak and worship freely without fear of prosecution. Thank you for allowing ordinary citizens to participate in shaping legislation that affects our shared future.	Malcolm	Western Cape		employed individual

If the government has a problem with the situation in Israel and Gaza, they need to deal with it on a diplomatic level. This government is failing dismally on so many fronts locally, with our own people suffering; they have no business wasting time, money or any resources on pointing fingers at other countries when they are blatantly stealing from their citizens and mismanaging this country! If a citizen naturally has a view or an affiliation with either Palestine or Israel, they should be free to do so. We have a good constitution for a reason; let's not destroy that and infringe on people's rights to push a certain political agenda. Our priority as a country should be to protect the well-being and rights of our citizens, and worry about foreign policy second!	Richard	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-11 10:06:07	No I do not	Weaponising laws	By virtue of the fact that Mr Ismail-Moosa is a Moslem and that the Al Jamah-ah party represents the Moslem community at large implies that they have a specific and personal religious/ethnic agenda which they are imposing on the rest of the South African citizens. Their attempt to prosecute individuals and contravene their right to freedom of belief and expression is in itself an apartheid act. So, what of the Jews in South Africa? Do we lock them up or confine them to a Jewish location and impose "dompas" laws on them? Do we take away their rights, exclude them from society, deny them education and jobs and physically beat them into submission? Wake up South Africa! The party focuses on perceived and selective atrocities outside of our borders when they are ignoring relevant situations within our borders like Orania, a town located in the Karoo region of the Northern Cape, which is often referred to as an exclusive state for Afrikaners. The town was founded with the goal of creating a white ethnostate for the Afrikaner minority group, the Afrikaans language, and the Afrikaner culture. Orania is generally described as "Whites-only" and is an attempt to revive apartheid, although the community denies this. Living in the town requires application, and acceptance is dependent upon being Afrikaner, demonstrating fluency in Afrikaans, a clean criminal record, and sharing the community's values and goals. The town's economy is focused on self-sufficiency and even prints its own money. Why is the party not objecting to this situation right under its noses? It is clear that the party has ulterior and sinister agendas and intends using the law of South Africa to promote their agenda and take away the rights and freedom of beliefs (political, cultural, religious, ethnic, etc) of loyal South African citizens and to take them back to the dark ages which our ancestors have fought so hard to overcome. 	2025-12-11 10:05:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African: pastor, church, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is an attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. 3. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church The Church cannot be silent. While we fight the CRL’s attempt to regulate religion, another front has opened!	Ian R

	2025-12-11 10:04:51	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The accusation against Israel has not been proved. A lot of fake news is published. First, define what apartheid was. Basically, it was thinking that one is better than another. Looking down on someone and dehumanising them. It uses laws to bolster its position. This is what this Bill wants to do towards Israel. Can I go deeper and mention the basis of all this? Israel reminds humanity that there is a faithful God, a creator to whom all must give account. It is what Ps 2 refers to. Psa 2:1 How dare the nations plan a rebellion. Their foolish plots are futile! Psa 2:2 Look at how the power brokers of the world rise up to hold their summit as the rulers scheme and confer together against Yahweh and his Anointed King, saying: Psa 2:3 “Let’s come together and break away from the Creator. Once and for all let’s cast off these controlling chains of God and his Christ!” Psa 2:4 God-Enthroned merely laughs at them; the Sovereign One mocks their madness! 	2025-12-11 09:55:45	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South Africa's proposed Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression & Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, tabled by Al Jama-ah,a Muslim-focused party,poses as neutral enforcement of the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention against racial oppression. But leader Ganief Hendricks admits it targets "apartheid Israel" & pro-Israel South Africans, weaponizing it against Jews & the Mideast's only democracy of free elections & pluralism. This pro-Palestine bias risks criminalizing speech, importing antisemitism, & undermining post-apartheid freedoms, turning moral legacy into ideological weapon. Israel defies the apartheid label: In the bustling streets of Tel Aviv, the ancient quarters of Jerusalem, or the diverse neighborhoods of Haifa, Muslims, Jews & Christians coexist freely,Arab Israelis (20%) vote, serve in Knesset, judiciary & IDF; mosques call prayer next to synagogues as Jews walk by on Shabbat; equal rights include LGBTQ+ protections & free press. Amid threats, this harmony exposes the slur as distortion, which Al Jama-ah ignores for ideological gain. The claim centers on Gaza & West Bank borders,defenses, not apartheid, built after Intifadas: First (1987–1993: ~2K deaths, 1,162 Pal, 160 Isr) & Second (2000–2005: ~4K deaths, 3K Pal, 1K Isr) via suicide bombings & rockets. Like Egypt's uncondemned, stricter Gaza blockade against militancy, these save lives,yet Al Jama-ah stays silent, revealing hypocrisy & bias. Worse, their selectivity ignores real apartsheids: Jordan's 2M+ Palestinians denied citizenship, trapped in camps; Muslim-world tyrannies like Saudi executions of dissenters, Iran's minority killings; Christian genocides in Nigeria (thousands killed by Islamists), Sudan, Pakistan, often met with global indifference. Al Jama-ah's record? Zero condemnations or bills,obsessed with Palestine alone. This partisan tool betrays anti-apartheid universality. Oppose it to restore equity & protect democracy from hate. 	2025-12-11 09:55:43	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I believe this proposed bill raises serious concerns for our democracy and for the principles of fairness and justice. Criminal law is meant to be impartial, not crafted with a specific foreign country as a target. It is inappropriate to label another country as an apartheid state when international courts have not made such a determination. South Africa should be cautious in adopting unilateral definitions that extend beyond established global rulings. History has shown us the dangers of singling out and dehumanising a particular group of people. The world has witnessed the tragic consequences of such actions, especially toward the Jewish community. We must ensure that our laws never repeat patterns of discrimination or fuel hostility toward any race, nationality, or faith group. In a democratic society, citizens must be free to form their own views and associations. This bill risks limiting personal freedoms by criminalising certain beliefs or affiliations, and may suppress the rights of South Africans to express themselves or engage internationally without fear of prosecution. For these reasons, I respectfully oppose this bill and urge lawmakers to uphold the constitutional rights and freedoms that protect all citizens.	Marli	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-11 09:27:56	No I do not	Weaponising laws	A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. 	2025-12-11 09:09:45	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I dont understand why theyare trying so hard to bring apartheid back in many different forms and trying to punish people for having a different opinion from yourself. Furthermore, this bill seems to be targeted to those that support Israel, but what if it was flipped to those that supported the Gazans or Palestinians. This is my point, it sets a precedent to weaponise the law to target individuals or groups of people who have a different opinion than you do and because of outrage now, they fail to see something worse in the future, the jailing of your political opponents. On the topic of dual citizenship my stance is simple, you cannot serve in the South African Government with a dual citizenship. As a SOUTH AFRICAN government employee your responsibility is to South Africans and a dual citizenship puts that trust into question, whether you are serving with the best interest of SouthAfricans. That being said if you are a duel citizen in the private sector it should make no difference as youwould be bound to the same rules and regulations as any other South African or foreign entity. When it comes to governent contracts out for tender any company can put in a tender. Some contracts arent a serious security concern if all the regulations are followed. But others could pose a serious security concern like our airports or parliament buildings, if it was out for tender and a local company got awarded the contract with dual or foreign citizens it can be a serious security concern if they are operating with foreign interests in mind. I'm not sure what the correct approach should be to be both safe and fair, but that is a far more serious concern that we should be talking about as it affects all South Africans and many people come to South Africa from all over the world to either just work here or call it their home. I would want a South Africa that allows them to work lawfully without prejudice, while also ensuring no malicious actors foreign or domestic disrupt SA.	Jean	Western Cape

As we have seen the president and numerous members of parliament call Afriforum, a lobby group trying to protect minority rights in South Africa. Should this law be passed then all dissenting voices can be stilled by government under the guise of this bill. This goes beyond the Palestine/Israeli conflict and has legal ramifications in South Africa as well. This bill also does not differentiate between the conflict between Hamas, a known terrorist organization, and Israel. Certainly, atrocities have been committed, by both parties. But it does not qualify as apartheid but as urban warfare. With major civilian cost.	James	Mpumalanga		student

	2025-12-11 11:50:57	No I do not	Weaponising laws	In a diverse country like South Africa, secularism should be a founding principle to ensure that no single religion is favoured, and that political competition does not devolve into sectarian mobilization. In a FREE & DEMOCRATIC country, every person should have right to profess and practice their religion, assemble, and worship without interference, subject to public order, health, and morality restrictions. The government should not allow political agendas and religion to mix. This will ensure religious disharmony. That said, the government should act against any party, particularly political and religious leaders, who attempt to promote political causes or excite disaffection between citizens under the guise of religion. The SA government should focus on uniting people, building up the country, stimulating the economy, improve quality of life for ALL.... BUT NOT bringing disharmony to the people by allowing politics and religion to mix. Focus on what is upbuilding and constructive, and not destructive. Whomever is pushing this agenda should be criminally charged as they are not promoting harmony amongst the beautiful South African people.	Ben	Gauteng		business owner

	2025-12-11 11:29:55	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Political is attempting to control the Spiritual. What God has written in the Bible is clear, and Christians and Jews stand upon God's Word, His Laws and His Promises. His authority is above the authority He grants to men. He installs the leaders and He rules through them. But there are times when men turn away from what God instructs, and leaders who do this endanger themselves and the communities they serve, of falling afoul of the Will and instruction of God. This Apartheid Bill is exactly that - men turning away from what God has instructed 1. This Apartheid Bill is a form of weaponized legislation intended to prevent Christians from obeying the written Word of God, and punishing those who do. 2. It is intended to demonise Israel under a FALSE label, namely "Apartheid State". 3. This Bill seeks to lead people into the temptation of cursing Israel, which God has said will cause the accuser to be cursed. 4. For South Africans having come out of the evils of Apartheid, and seen its dehumanising and devastating results, the naive will be tempted to support this Bill without realising its overreach, and its dire consequences to millions of true Believers who will fall afoul of the Bill, which is EVIL to its very core. 5. This Bill is birthed in the pit of Hell, and should be recognised exactly for what it is. This is Islam overriding Christianity and Judaism - something our South African Constitution does not support. 6. Finally, in the Bill's clear rejection of God's Will and Word, by rejecting or reinterpreting the Holy Bible in part or whole, there is a tacit rejection to the path to Salvation and Eternal Life, and ultimately, rejection of the True Saviour of all humanity, our LORD Jesus Christ. One further point - this Bill is being snuck in and rushed through parliament. Why the subterfuge? Why the avoidance of democratic process? I REJECT this Bill in good conscience. May it be utterly scrapped before it wreaks havoc on humanity.	Denese			retired

	2025-12-11 12:35:38	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South Africa is a predominantly a Christian State as Christian faith enjoys being in the majority. Christianity, by its deign, fights against injustice hence we support fight against genocide as exercised by Israel over Gaza citizens. Nonetheless, this bill, in its current form, is posing danger of fighting with Christian Churches in South Africa, because there's no pronunciation of our FAITH without mentioning Israel. Therefore, the Bill, though intended to fiight for a good cause, it is dangerous to our FAITH, as Christians. We condemn it in its current form.	Mluleki Donald	Eastern Cape		self-employed

It is patently obvious to sober minds that this is part of the international Muslim movement toward undermining Israel's right to exist and defend itself. There is not apartheid in Israel and Israel is still fighting an existential and also propaganda war to the right to exist. 	2025-12-11 12:28:08	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I never supported apartheid in this country, but I was too young to do anything about it. The first opportunity I had to cast a vote against it, I did so. Why are innocent people in this country being held accountable for what those in power did before? I support Israel because it is biblical, and expected of every Christian. There is so much misinformation regarding what is going on in Gaza - much of which has been refuted by reputable American news agencies. It seems that some people will believe what they want to believe, because it serves an agenda, and not because it is the truth. I stand against this proposed bill as it will infringe on my right to freely choose the religion I wish to embrace, as through my Christian faith, I openly support, and will always support Israel. I feel this bill will lead to me being victimized because of my support for Israel. This bill is a means to weaponize the judicial system, to eradicate freedom of religion and freedom of speech, and to advance the agendas of an influential group of people in this country! Apartheid is already unlawful in this country and is a punishable offense - the fact that there is a bill which seeks to expand the definitions is extremely concerning and raises so many red flags! 	2025-12-11 12:06:38	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Bill seeking to criminalise support of Israel on the basis that the state of Isreal is promoting 'apartheid' (separate/exclusionary development of cultures other than Jews) is totally false and has zero legal merit. Firstly, Arab citizens (those that claim 'Palestinian' heritage and other minorities) have equal rights to political and cultural expression in Israel; i.e. they can live and work anywhere within Israel; they can express the culture and religion; and are represented in the Israeli parliament. Secondly, Israels war against Hamas (an internationally designated terrorist militia) brutally attacked the state of Israel on the 7th October 2023 murdering, torturing, raping and maiming women, children and men. Hamas took over 200 hostages which they used to shield themselves from counter attacks from Israeli military and bargain for the relies of imprisoned terrorists jailed by Israel for attacks on Israel citizens. Under international law Israel has the fullest legal right to defend its citizens and the state from such barbaric assaults. Isreal has conducted the war against Hamas with incredibly restraints that has worked to protract the length and complexity of the war effort to defeat Hamas. Israel's military has clearly stated the extraordinary steps taken to avoid civilian deaths within Gaza. Israel's right to prevent further attacks and defeat Hamas (the Gaza government) does not constitute a crime and the ICJ has not supported the case brought by the SA government that there is merit it it's claims of genocide. The ICJ merely cautioned Israel that it documents its war process and refrains from taking actions claimed by SA towards committing genocide. To publicly or privately support the Israeli state does not constitute a crime as there is neither any evidence of the claim of 'apartheid' or genocide committed by the state of Israel. SA's case of genocide has no foundation in fact and the legal team making that case have failed.	Michael			unemployed individual

	2025-12-11 12:04:56	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is another excuse to hide the overreaching abuse of power and law, an effort to appeal to masses while sitting at the top of the ivory tower and reaping the benefits. Not only this, but it keeps the cycle of race and religious violence alive, and it brings significantly more of it to our shores where there were very little to deal with. Furthermore, it's another suppression of freedoms, freedom to think and belief, and choose who is right and wrong personally, instead of being forced by (an ever increasing form of police state reigned by racism) government on what to think and how to feel. Who is to decide who is right and who is wrong. Definitely none of our business. 	2025-12-11 12:03:00	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This Law is a direct attack on the rights and responsibilities of genuine South Africans to support any Society in need. As a student of History, I am reminded of the apathy of the world with regard to the actions of the Gestapo and the SS in Europe. Many groups, who were not Aryan, were targeted for extermination. Any person of any faith that didn't believe in the supremacy of the Reich was exterminated. This Bill represents an attack on the Laws on our wonderful land that is supportive of all communities. This Law should not even be debated. It should be struck off the list as a flagrant weaponisation of the Law. The Constitutional Court Justices should be condemning this law in their private and public capacity. South Africa stands to be condemned by the World should this law be passed. 	2025-12-11 13:00:39	No I do not	Weaponising laws	While South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), this new Bill seeks to establish it as a stand-alone crime with broader, specific definitions and extraterritorial reach. The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of supporting, committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. 	2025-12-11 12:58:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law opens the door for censorship and is a direct attack on the most basic freedom, which is one's speech. Even though I do not agree with everything that Israel is doing, I do not support the annihilation of the rights of those who seek to debate such issues openly and freely. Furthermore, public opinion is most often formed by media, which is biased and supported by organizations and even the State with their own political agendas. Without freedom of speech, these outlets can be weaponized to indoctrinate masses of people into specific ideologies.	Helena			business owner
	2025-12-11 12:57:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This goes against everything in our Constitution and the idea of a “rainbow nation.” It tries to dictate what we’re allowed to think, say, and believe. That’s not freedom – that’s control. As Christians, part of our belief is that the Jewish people are God’s chosen people. To deny us the right to say this, to cut off our communication or silence our views, is to attack a fundamental part of our faith. I have no issue with anyone practising their religion in their own churches, mosques, temples, or homes. But the moment there is a threat against my beliefs or against Christianity, that becomes a legal issue. And if I am attacked verbally or physically because of my religion, I have the right to defend myself. Freedom must apply to everyone – or it isn’t freedom at all.	Louise	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-11 12:45:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel literally or in words or other ways. In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. The human rights abuses in many nations world-wide should be the focus of SA and the international community"s "condemnation resolutions". 	2025-12-11 14:00:21	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the bill because its scope, definitions, and potential legal consequences create significant practical, diplomatic, and constitutional concerns. While I condemn apartheid as a human rights violation, this bill extends beyond addressing universally recognized atrocities and risks introducing legal, political, and operational complications that outweigh its intended benefits. 1. The bill adopts expansive and ambiguous definitions of “apartheid” that go well beyond the original intent of the 1973 Convention. Such wording risks politicisation of the term, allowing it to be applied inconsistently and inappropriately to complex geopolitical conflicts that do not meet the rigorous threshold of systematic racial domination. This undermines the credibility of international human rights law and expose the state to unfounded legal claims. 2. The bill may inadvertently weaken domestic legal certainty. It introduces new criminal liabilities that overlap with existing international crimes statutes, creating ambiguity regarding prosecutorial thresholds and judicial interpretation. Our legal system already recognizes and punishes crimes against humanity, including systematic discrimination; adding another layer risks duplication, confusion, or selective enforcement. 3. Supporting the bill will strain diplomatic relationships. By codifying a broad and politically charged definition of apartheid into domestic law, the state may be perceived as taking sides in international disputes rather than maintaining a neutral, constructive role, limiting our diplomatic flexibility, undermine foreign policy objectives, and reduce our ability to act as an impartial mediator. 4. The bill raises concerns about proportionality and enforceability. The state must avoid adopting legislation that cannot cannot be applied, as symbolic laws that carry severe criminal penalties but lack practical enforcement mechanisms can erode public confidence in the justice system. 	2025-12-11 13:36:20	No I do not	Weaponising laws	1. this Bill, in its current formulation, is vague, overbroad, and poses a significant, unjustifiable risk to fundamental rights enshrined in the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa. 2. Constitutional Violation: Freedom of Expression and Religion (Sections 16 & 15) The Bill dangerously and unjustifiably limits the rights to freedom of expression and religious freedom by incorporating the vague "complicity" clauses from the 1973 UN Convention. 3. The criminality definition is excessively broad for a serious criminal offence. It fails to distinguish between political opinion, religious faith, and material assistance to a criminal act. An ordinary South African cannot reasonably determine if an act of prayer, expression of solidarity, charitable donation, or religious pilgrimage constitutes "encouragement" or "cooperation" under this law. 4. For various faith groups (including islam), support for certain political entities or territories is an integral part of their religious belief and practice. Criminalising non-material acts (such as praying for, or visiting, a place of religious significance) based on the subjective political interpretation of the proposing party constitutes an unconstitutional interference with Section 15 (Freedom of Religion, Belief and Opinion) 5. The Objection: The language "encourage or cooperate" fails to meet the required standard of clarity for a criminal statute. It delegates undue power to the State to interpret political opinion as a criminal act, undermining the certainty required by the Principle of Legality. The Constitutional Court requires criminal offences to be defined with sufficient clarity to allow citizens to regulate their conduct accordingly. This Bill does not meet that standard. 6. The method chosen in this Bill is not justifiable. The objective can be met through the existing International Criminal Court Act and other statutes without introducing language so broad that it criminalises thought and calm expression	Nelis

	2025-12-11 14:59:49	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The “Apartheid Bill” has generated significant debate, with concerns primarily stemming from its practical enforceability, diplomatic implications, and political motivations. Here are the top concerns surrounding the Bill: 1. Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. This could strain South Africa’s diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). “Apartheid State” Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as “Apartheid States.” This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries (Omar al-Bashir ring a bell?) 2. Extraterritorial Jurisdiction (The “Long Arm”): Enforceability: Legal experts raise concerns about the practicality of South African courts prosecuting crimes committed entirely on foreign soil. Trial in Absentia: If the accused does not enter South Africa, the law may be toothless, serving only as a symbolic gesture rather than an effective legal tool. The NDPP “Gatekeeper” Clause: The Bill requires the written consent of the NDPP before any prosecution can start. The fear is a “rogue” NDPP could authorise politically motivated prosecutions. The Bill is performative politics designed to rally voter bases around the Palestinian cause rather than legislation that will have a tangible impact on crime or justice in South Africa. Establishing specialized units or allocating High Court resources to try complex international crimes will divert scarce resources away from addressing South Africa’s already soaring crime rates. 	2025-12-11 14:56:49	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The Bill is explicitly designed to allow South African courts to prosecute individuals (including dual citizens) accused of supporting, committing or aiding apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear focus on the situation in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. The Bill represents a significant move to "weaponise" South Africa's human rights laws for international justice causes. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), but this new Bill seeks to establish it as a stand-alone crime with broader, specific definitions and extraterritorial reach. This Bill will bring so much division among South Africans and will result in South Africa becoming an authoritarian state where freedom of speech & opinions will become obsolete. This leftist "progressive" bloc in Parliament wants to promote the ideals & ideology of Islam in South Africa & eradicate the Judeo-Christian values & principles on which our Republic was founded. 	2025-12-11 14:29:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is the attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. 3. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church The Church cannot be silent. 	2025-12-11 16:40:42	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Reasons the Bill May Weaponise Laws 1. Broad and Vague Definition of "Apartheid" The Bill creates a standalone crime with definitions that extend far beyond the UN Convention’s intent. This could sweep in forms of political opinion, foreign-policy positions, and non-state actions—potentially criminalising ideological stances or expressions, including in media, academia, or activism. [altnewsnetwork.co.za], [dearsoutha...rica.co.za] 2. Extraterritorial Jurisdiction ("The Long Arm") Granting courts jurisdiction over anyone present in South Africa—even if they committed prohibited actions abroad—introduces universal jurisdiction over ideological conduct. This can serve to intimidate diaspora communities or anyone critiquing foreign governments. [altnewsnetwork.co.za], [dearsoutha...rica.co.za] 3. Risk of Politically Motivated Enforcement Centralising prosecutorial power in the NDPP, who must give consent before any prosecution, creates risk that the state might enforce selectively against political adversaries or critics. [altnewsnetwork.co.za] 4. Potential Chilling Effect on Free Speech Extraterritorial reach and ambiguity in definitions could discourage individuals from expressing support or criticism regarding foreign policies—especially on contentious issues like Israel-Palestine—due to fear of legal consequences. [israelnati...alnews.com], [dailyfriend.co.za], [legal.un.org], [dearsoutha...rica.co.za] 5. Targeting of Specific Communities Critics argue the law may disproportionately affect Zionist or pro-Israel Jewish South Africans. Simply participating in normal social, educational, or charitable activities related to Israel could be framed as aiding apartheid. [israelnati...alnews.com], [dailyfriend.co.za], [dearsoutha...rica.co.za] 6. Disproportionate and Politicised Justice Legal professionals warn the law's expanded scope, extraterritoriality, and prosecutorial control could transform it into a political tool rather than a focused instrument of justice. 	2025-12-11 16:30:59	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Israel is not an apartheid state as all Citizens , Arab ,Jewish and Christians are equal under the law. Arab citizens are afforded full medical, political and educational opportunities in Israel. This law is a blatant lie,designed to intimidate dual citizens. It ignores the real apartheid that takes place in the Arab countries of Egypt, Syria and Lebanon where Palestinians are denied citizenship even though they have resided in those countries for 3 generations. They are also denied certain professional educational opportunities, such as be coming a doctor or lawyer. This law is non constitutional and attempts to deny Jews and Christians from supporting Israel, which is the only democracy in the Middle East.	Maria I	North West		self-employed

	2025-12-11 15:27:26	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The bill is comparing two completely different situations by calling Israel an apartheid state. The Palestinians as a people have been offered multiple options to become a state. However they refused. There are almost 7 million Muslims and Palestinians living inside Israel with voting rights and representation in the Israeli congress. This step is motivated by variety of political sentiments that is beyond explanation in this space. It is encoding hate crime. Terrorism. It also reinforces the terror Hamas is inflicting on the Gazan residents who are interested in peace and prosperity.	Orna	Outside SA	United States of America	business owner

They have chosen their culprit, and they want us to side with them, but I think there are more culprits than just Hamas and Israel. 	2025-12-11 18:05:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This Bill is promoted by a Muslim who hates Israel as all Muslims do. Israel has the sovereign right to protect the Covenant Land God Almighty gave them in the Exodus time led by the great prophet Moses. Most of the Land was stolen from Israel by Britain and other countries giving Gaza and the West Bank to people who fled from their own countries. The Land or any part of it was never owned by them but belongs to Israel. Israel has the right to protect their land and their people from total extermination just because they are Jews, sons of Jacob. Muslims have successfully infiltrated a great number of countries, multiplied, obtained key positions in government and are exerting their power to subdue all non Muslims to their courts and laws. Look at London for example and even our own beloved South Africa. This is part of their stratergy to take over the world and, to by their own admission, kill every Jew. Hamas started this war, using their own people as human shields especially children to gain the sympathy and support of the world, using reporters, UN and their organisations and inflating the number of Palestian deaths and number of children killed. Hamas does not care for its people, stealing humanitarian aid and using schools, hospitals and citizens to achieve their goals. They could have prevented all this by returning the hostages in the beginning. They are taking over South Africa and denying the people their human right to judge and choose for themselves. Israel has not interfered in South African affairs.	Veronica			retired

	2025-12-11 17:42:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	'Palestine' is guilty of practising apartheid instead of Israel. There are (almost) no Jews in the PA-controlled Judea & Samaria, while there are about 2 million Israeli Arabs in Israel, some of whom are judges & doctors. Before 7/10/23, 'Palestinians' were given permits to work in Israel, while the reverse is unheard of. In view of the facts above, the South African government would be viewed as obviously guilty of antisemitism & tyranny, & lose all credibility with sensible residents & foreigners alike, if not ridiculed. It should be enough for the government to act against Israel in the international arena, if it so desires to. But for the government to ban & act against individual residents for their support of a non-existent apartheid Israel, it's definitely tyrannical. Even if the apartheid accusations were true, such a law would be crossing boundaries, a red line.	Y			unemployed individual

On October 7th Israel was unlawfully attacked by Hamas and civilians from Gaza while there was a peace treaty and innocent civilians from Israel were dragged into Gaza and held hostage this was an act of war by Hamas and Gazen civilians. We all have ulterior motives even if we believe we don't . BUT —— There is ONE who SEES All and KNOWS All and he will not be taken lightly. Please rethink your decisions before you act. 	2025-12-11 18:56:53	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Bishop Thom, I stand in full agreement with your statement. As a devout Christian, I cannot remain silent while legislation is being crafted that directly threatens the freedom, identity, and biblical foundation of the Church in South Africa. No government, no political party, and no ideological agenda should ever have the power to criminalise a believer for standing with Israel — the very root of our faith, the land through which God established His covenant and from which our Messiah came. Laws should never have the authority to dictate or suppress religious belief. What is happening now echoes a tactic as old as Scripture itself. This is exactly what the Babylonians attempted when they manipulated King Nebuchadnezzar into signing an edict that targeted those who refused to bow to idols — a sly trap set for Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego (Daniel 3 & Daniel 6). They weaponised law to attack faith. They used legislation to silence conviction. They tried to criminalise devotion to the living God. And here we stand, witnessing the same strategy in our own time. Oh, how history repeats itself.	Javan	Western Cape		self-employed

	2025-12-11 18:50:40	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed “Apartheid Bill” is a deeply flawed and dangerous piece of legislative overreach that seeks to unilaterally import a obsolete 1973 UN convention, long rejected by the democratic world, in order to criminalize protected political speech and normal civic ties with Israel under the inflammatory and demonstrably false label of “apartheid.” By granting South African courts extraterritorial jurisdiction over non-citizens for vaguely defined acts of “support” committed anywhere on earth, it effectively establishes a global speech-and-association offense targeted at one country and its citizens of Jewish descent, violating basic principles of legality, free expression, and non-discrimination enshrined in South Africa’s own Constitution. Far from advancing justice or solidarity, this politically motivated bill would turn South Africa into an international enforcer of the BDS movement’s agenda, damage the country’s rule-of-law reputation, and poison relations with democratic allies while achieving precisely nothing for the cause of peace or Palestinian rights. 	2025-12-11 18:46:24	No I do not	Weaponising laws	In South Africa, the law has never been used as a weapon against nations or persons. The risk this poses is that Judism and Christianity could be criminalized and statements of religion can be intentionally misconstrued to be pro-srael, the State and not Isarael the nation or the historic Biblical Israel. The Christian Holy Book, on the face of it, is 'a form of support' for Israel, though not the present mentioned atrocities of the State of Israel, whether they are fact or fiction. The Republic of South Africa has so much outstanding domestic legal backlog to be burdened with international affairs drag-ins. The interest of the people of South Africa is not affected by matters of Israel. I propose that the Parliament should take a referendum on whether we want to be a secular or Christian State. 				A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach it has a sinister agenda.

	2025-12-11 18:18:52	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Racism, Apartheid was and remains a highly destructive political weapon at the hands of those who seek to hide their NAZI/Fascists quest for Supremacy using the proposed law. It is clear that this is a group of politicians who enjoyed what Apartheid laws did to the South African Society. It reveals that their main political purpose is to silence people as their "possibly" Apartheid Masters did from 1948 to 1994. This is no surprise for ANC to champion such law as we recall that from about 2004 the National Party, founder of Apartheid joined and became one with the ANC. It raises the suspicion that the other political parties were never happy with, and did not accept the defeat of Apartheid - hence their support for its coming back to run the country and they becoming the face of Apartheid. 	2025-12-11 18:16:28	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill introduces a massive opportunity for malicious government overreach. One of the biggest issues is the general and vague language used in the bill. If this bill is passed into law potentially anyone who criticises the South African government or shows a little support to Israel (Jews/Christians) are in the crossfire and can be imprisoned for "apartheid crimes." 	2025-12-11 18:16:22	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Apartheid was a comprehensive legal framework that restricted political rights, movement, land ownership and social participation for the majority of South Africans. While the government tried to justify these policies under the motion of "separate development," the system produced profound inequality and long lasting social and economic harm. The bill introduced by Al Jamah-ah appears to rely on the language of apartheid in a way that, in my view, is politically motivated, rather than grounded in South Africa's historical reality. By targeting Israel - widely recognised as the ONLY democratic State in the Middle East - the bill advances a broader ideological agenda that does not reflect the lived exoerience of South Africans who endured actual apartheid, nor does it contribute to addressing the ongoing effects of that system within our own society. In my assessment, the bill does not serve the interests of South Africans. Instead, it diverts Parliamentary attention away from urgent domestic priorities and risks misusing a term that carries deep historical and emotional significance in our national memory. Furthermore, Al Jamah-ah's approach appears to prioritise it's own religious and ideological commitments over the constitutional values of a free, democratic, and inclusive South Africa	Judith	Gauteng		retired

We have the right to respect other religions and opinions and the freedom to visit a country of our choice. Muslims were South Africa were not hindered to go to their holy land on pilgrimage. This law is absolutely unnecessary and is inciting controversy and violence which can erupt because of this devastating drafting of this bill. As a Christian I have a right to go to my holy land and I have a right according to the holy book to pray speak uphold and visit Israel. Anyone who then enforces such laws prohibiting that freedom that I have should be punished. Why Israel. Why not other countries who have also fought against the middle east. 	2025-12-11 19:16:57	No I do not	Weaponising laws	1. South Africa needs to focus on its own crises first. We are struggling with unemployment, collapsing services, crime and an economy under pressure. Getting involved in overseas conflicts that we can't directly fix takes attention and resources away from the problems affecting South Africans every day. 2. The Bill risks weaponising our legal system. Using criminal law to target people for their beliefs, associations or political positions is extremely dangerous. Once the law is used as a political weapon, it can be turned on anyone. That's not the kind of precedent we want to set in a constitutional democracy. 3. It threatens freedom of religion and freedom of belief. Many South Africans support Israel for religious or cultural reasons, not because they support any form of injustice. Our Constitution protects freedom of thought, belief, religion and association. A law that could criminalise people for their religious convictions goes against those protected rights. We can stand for human rights globally without undermining the rights and freedoms of our own citizens. Any law that risks punishing people for their beliefs — or weaponising our justice system — should be treated with great caution. We must pray for both sides.	Anton	Western Cape		self-employed

In het Israëlelische land waar er een democratie regering is hebben zowel de Arabieren als de Joodse inwoners dezelfde rechten op bescherming en sociale voorzieningen. Daarnaast heeft Israël sinds dat Gaza overgegeven is aan de Palestijnen altijd in Gaza geïnvesteerd door gratis aan Gaza water en elektriciteit te verstrekken en waren de Israëlische ziekenhuizen ook toegankelijk voor de mensen uit Gaza. Gaza was een proef met de bedoeling gebied uit te laten breiden voor de Palestijnen helaas heeft Israël sinds 2005 alleen maar raket aanvallen op hun burgers vanuit Gaza ontvangen. Israël streeft naar vrede met hun Palestijnse inwoners de Palestijnen willen van de rivier tot de zee joden vrij. The proposed Apartheid Bill is unnecessary and dangerous: it duplicates existing law, contains vague definitions and wide extraterritorial reach that could be used as a political weapon. It appears to intend a prosecution of Israelis (even those opposing their own government) and others, and could expose South Africans and foreigners to politicised prosecutions. The Bill would damage South Africa's international standing and relations, and divert attention and resources from urgent domestic problems like corruption, crime and poverty. 	2025-12-12 06:28:53	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is simply a bigoted particularity not meant to address apartheid and not even adhering to the actual definition of apartheid. It is meant to distort the term in a weponising manner to attack a country that in fact is the opposite of apartheid, while ignoring true oppressor countries around the world. It represents not the will of the South African people but of specific political and religious groups making it a religiously discriminatory " law" contravening the intent of true religiosity and legality. It defiles the reputation of South Africa, a country which Nelson Mandela strove to raise to high principle, lowering it to the level of criminal countries such Nazi Germany with whom the bills supporters in the Middle East have allied themselves since before World War 2 (see the book The Mufti of Jerusalem and The Nazis by Klaus Gensicke) until today. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. 	2025-12-12 06:13:00	No I do not	Weaponising laws	A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The “Apartheid Bill” Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called “Apartheid Bill”, a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to “apartheid.” This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged “act” happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is the attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. 3. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church The Church cannot be silent. 	2025-12-12 06:03:09	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Religious freedom in South Africa is a constitutionally guaranteed right, enshrined in the Bill of Rights (Section 15), ensuring everyone can hold beliefs, practice religion, and express opinions freely, with state-aided religious observances allowed if voluntary and equitable. Freedom of speech in South Africa is a robust, constitutionally protected right (Section 16), vital for its democracy post-apartheid, allowing free expression, media, art, and information flow. This proposed bill is a clear violation of the constitutional freedoms of South Africa and is a mouth piece for those who seek to destroy the democratic values of this country that we all paid dearly for. This is a anti- biblical, anti-christian, anti-Israel propaganda disguised under the Apartheid bill. This is a further way for the ANC government to further force ordinary South Africans to support their vendetta against Israel and support their disastrous case of Genocide at the ICJ. The ANC has long courted the friendship ties to organisations and countries that are anti-Israel who in fact openly call for the destruction of Israel, such as Hamas and Iran as examples. This is a bill to politically weaponize any and all support for Israel and a clear violation of the constitutional rights of every South African.	Debra			employed individual

They can live, work, and travel wherever they want, and they are provided the same government services (e.g., health insurance, free public school, subsidized university education) equally. They attend the same universities and have the same voting power and opportunities. In fact, they hold positions in all industries (e.g., law, medicine, politics) – including positions as judges and members of the Knesset. 	2025-12-12 01:41:19	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. Critics, including the Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+), view this as “lawfare”—using the legal system to fight foreign policy battles. There are fears that this could strain South Africa’s diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). “Apartheid State” Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as “Apartheid States.” This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries from those nations, similar to the controversy surrounding the ICC and Omar al-Bashir. I cannot fathom how they can be accusing Israel of genocide and apartheid towards the Palestinian people, while they themselves are destroying their own country. Israel’s objective since the horrific attack on 7 October, has been to recover the hostages taken by Hamas - and their ongoing defiant behavior of not upholding their side of agreements for settling disputes. Hamas used their own people as human shields in Gaza - and then recorded events with false narratives of Israel attacking innocent civilians. These Actions are Pure evil and utter cowardice! These radical Islamists are terrorists who have been brainwashed into believing they must hate and kill Jews and Christians. The evil comes from them, not from Israel! 	2025-12-12 01:30:58	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is a very foolish and poorly thought through bill draft. Look at Israel, Arabs, including Palestinians can be and are full Israeli citizens there, with rights to work, vote, even enter & represent Israel in the Knesset (parliament). Yet many Arab nations REFUSE to grant their own fellow Palestinian Arabs citizenship in Arab countries. Palestinians are NOT allowed to vote or work in some Arab countries. That is apartheid. Israel is NOT committing apartheid. Any step or law to propose and prosecute for a crime which hasn't been committed is pure Israel hate and anti-Semitism. And the Bible is clear "Anyone who blesses you (Israel) will be blessed, anyone who curses you will be cursed". South Africa would be wise to chose to bless Israel, not vilify it, at all times. So that the future of SA can be blessed, not cursed.	Julia

	2025-12-12 00:36:54	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025, as introduced by Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP. This legislation is a thinly veiled assault on Israel, masquerading as moral high ground, and it risks dragging South Africa into unnecessary international conflicts while undermining our own constitutional principles of fairness, proportionality, and sovereignty. Factually, the Bill seeks to criminalize "apartheid" as a standalone offense with extraterritorial jurisdiction, explicitly targeting alleged acts in Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territories. South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Implementation Act of 2002, making this redundant and wasteful. Its vague definitions invite abuse, selective enforcement, and could chill free speech or diplomatic relations. Practically, it's unenforceable—how will South African courts prosecute foreign nationals or dual citizens abroad without sparking diplomatic crises? This isn't justice; it's performative politics, antagonizing a key ally in the Middle East and ignoring the complexities of that region's conflicts. More profoundly, this Bill fosters division and hatred, contradicting the biblical mandate for unity and truth. As Genesis 12:3 declares, "I will bless those who bless you, and him who dishonors you I will curse," referring to God's covenant with Abraham and his descendants through Isaac—the foundation of the Jewish people and the nation of Israel. By weaponizing the term "apartheid" against Israel—a land promised eternally in Scripture (Genesis 17:8)—this legislation risks aligning South Africa against divine ordinance, inviting judgment rather than blessing. Romans 11 warns against arrogance toward Israel: "Do not be arrogant toward the branches... for if God did not spare the natural branches, neither will he spare you." We must reject such measures that bear lies.	Nicholas	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-11 23:41:56	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This effort to weaponise South African law to institute religious discrimination against a democratic nation in which all faiths are represented is unreasonable and irrational. This proposed Bill is based on religious animus against Israel, being the Jewish homeland, due to the author(s)' opinions and beliefs. The author seeks to erect a legal framework through which Israel and Israelis can be victimised and criminalised simply through their identity, a practice that the new South Africa sought to root out and eradicate. The author also seeks to impose personal religious beliefs on the whole of South Africa that are not shared by the overwhelming majority of South Africans. This proposed Bill seeks a return to practices of the early 20th century, where Jews were persecuted throughout Europe and the Middle East. This Bill will alienate the Jewish community of South Africa, a community that contributed so much to ending the previous regime. This Bill will also inflate religious tensions in South Africa, as a majority of South Africans hold beliefs based in Christianity and many of whom consider a trip to the "Holy Land" as a pilgrimage of sorts. This Bill will also further erode the already troubled relationship between South Africa and Israel, which will have economic, cultural and religious impacts on South Africa and its people. Israel is a water-scarce country and has made significant breakthroughs in agriculture that would be of great benefit to the South African people. Israel has also set world standards in medicine, technology and water desalination, all of which would be denied to South Africans. Israel is not an Apartheid State, and has Parliament members, leading judges, major business leaders and participants in all walks of life who are Arabic. To claim that Israel is an Apartheid State because it rejects the narrative that the entire region should be an Arabic ethno-state denies history and archaeology going back 3000 years. The fact of the 2025 state of affairs, under the ANC Government: 90% of our Leadership, from the President of South Africa (misuse of power in the Phala Phala scandal, to the Ministers of whom 90% are implicated by corruption, misappropriation of state funds and resources. This intentional, unauthorised, and illegal use of public money and assets by leadership and government officials in the public service, for personal gain or non-approved purposes, has destroyed the legitimacy of the ANC Government. Fruitless expenditure and theft of state funds are a serious breach of the fiduciary duty owed to the public. Despite the "16 Days of Activism for No Violence Against Women and Children" Campaign, Gender-Based Violence and Femicide (GBVF) is rife in South Africa, to the extent that the GBVF has been declared a national disaster. Our community is toxic and on a path of self-destruction. The ANC is paralysed by greed and the party is spiraling out of control. 	2025-12-11 22:55:43	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the draft Apartheid Bill in its current form. My main concern is that the bill's broad and undefined scope could make it vulnerable to political misuse, potentially leading to selective or retaliatory enforcement. Any legislation dealing with serious international crimes must be drafted with precise definitions, clear limits, and strong safeguards to prevent it from being used as a tool against individuals or organisations based purely on their beliefs, associations, or legitimate expressions of opinion. I believe South Africa needs laws that uphold justice, protect human rights, and strengthen the rule of law. Not laws that risk creating uncertainty, suppressing free expression, or deepening social divisions. I therefore request that the bill be revised to include clear protections against overreach and to ensure it cannot be weaponised for political or ideological purposes.	Joshua	Gauteng		student

				Here is a strong, clear, and respectful submission you can paste directly into DearSA: --- Submission: I Do NOT Support the Apartheid Bill I do not support the proposed Apartheid Bill. My objection is based on constitutional, ethical, and practical concerns. While I believe strongly in justice, human rights, and accountability, this Bill goes far beyond its stated intention and risks becoming a politically weaponised tool that infringes on fundamental freedoms guaranteed in South Africa. 1. Serious Constitutional Concerns The Bill contains broad and vague definitions that can easily be misinterpreted or misapplied. Such ambiguity threatens the rights to: freedom of religion, freedom of expression, freedom of association, and freedom of conscience. South Africans should never be placed in a position where lawful belief, prayer, or moral support becomes criminalised because of unclear legislation. 2. Risk of Politicising and Weaponising the Law This Bill appears driven by political agendas rather than by a clear legal necessity. Creating a stand-alone “apartheid” crime with extraterritorial reach opens the door for selective enforcement, political targeting, and misuse of state power. Legislation should never be crafted to antagonise specific groups, nations, faith communities, or individuals. 3. Impact on Freedom of Religion and Faith-Based Communities Many South Africans hold sincere religious convictions connected to Israel, Scripture, or biblical history. This Bill creates the real possibility that: prayer, faith expression, humanitarian support, or travel could be interpreted as criminal “support.” No democratic society should criminalise religious conviction or peaceful expression of belief. 4. Duplicates Existing Legislation South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity through existing law (Rome Statute Act of 2002). This Bill adds unnecessary duplication and complexity without offering meaningful new legal value.

	2025-12-11 22:26:54	No I do not	Weaponising laws	A DIRECT ATTACK ON THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST IN SOUTH AFRICA The "Apartheid Bill" Driven by Al Jama-ah Is a Threat to Every Christian, Pastor, Leader and Believer South Africa is facing one of the most dangerous legislative attacks on religious freedom in our democratic history. The political party Al Jama-ah, an explicitly Islamic party represented in Parliament, is pushing the so-called "Apartheid Bill", a proposed law that poses a direct threat to Christians, churches, pastors, and anyone who stands with Israel. This is not simply a political matter, it is a spiritual matter, a biblical matter, and a matter of Christian survival. 1. What This Bill Actually Seeks to Do If passed, the bill will criminalise any South African, including pastors, churches, Christian organisations, intercessors, and individual believers, who support Israel in ANY form. The bill enables South African courts to prosecute anyone accused of: - supporting Israel - assisting Israel - promoting Israel - defending Israel - even speaking in favour of Israel … by classifying such support as an act connected to "apartheid." This includes citizens, dual citizens, organisations, churches, and individuals, even if the alleged "act" happened outside South Africa. 2. Why Christians Must Be Alarmed This bill does more than target foreign policy, it targets the Church directly. - There is no Christianity without Israel. - There is no Bible without Israel. - There is no Messiah without Israel. - There is no salvation story without Israel. To criminalise support for Israel is to criminalise Christian belief, because the foundation of our faith is rooted in Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the Covenants, the Prophets, the Apostles, and the land from which our Lord Jesus Christ came. This is not merely political overreach, this is the attempted erasure of Christian identity in South Africa. 3. This Is a Direct Attack on the Church The Church cannot be silent. Enacting this bill would risk criminalising ordinary, harmless conduct—such as expressing support for a foreign country or political party online. Our criminal courts are already overburdened; adding offences of this nature would further strain a system that the Constitutional Court has repeatedly cautioned must remain focused on genuine threats to public order and justice. Past judgments have emphasised proportionality and the need to avoid unnecessary criminalisation of speech, yet this bill moves in the opposite direction.	Gert	KwaZulu-Natal		business owner

	2025-12-11 21:27:55	No I do not	Weaponising laws	It is a futile existence, when one religious body is given the right to segregate others. It is our right to our religious standing. And no-one should be given preference. The simple use of a derogatory term, Being used to sanction any idealistic view, is wrong. The word that has become synonymous in South Africa, for any individual ideals,"Apartheid" is a misconception and should be set aside. As it actually means group areas act. So no Muslim has a right to use it to satisfy their belief to degrade or segregate another's belief. This is contrary to our constitutional right to practice and have our religious rights upheld. And our freedom to choose who we will support and why. This is not negotiable. It is in contravention of right to freedom of speech, tradition, religion and belief. 	2025-12-11 21:00:11	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Freedom of speech, freedom of beliefs, freedom of religion is some of the many reasons we love our country. There are Jews living in our country, how can we say we support freedom of speech if we try to silence their association with Israel and there ancestry? Christians also feel closly associated to Israel, as our Saviour Jesus Christ the Messiah was a Jew. Trying to silence any support for Israel from South Africans feels like an attack on Christianity and Judaism. We have freedom of speech and religion in South Africa, and for that we are so grateful! 	2025-12-12 07:43:01	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I completely oppose this bill. It is far too vague, andcould be used to prosecute completely innocent people, including Israelis, who have been falsely accused of genocide. Israel has been fighting a just war, has delivered aid to its enemies, and has shown restraint & mercy many times, by warning which buildings they'd hit, by releasing prisoners in excess of a 1-1 exchange, by warning residents to flee, and by engaging in ceasefires. Israel does not deserve censure, let alone those who associate with her. I warn you, if you attempt to fight against Israel, you will only find yourselves fighting against God. 	2025-12-12 07:42:43	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill is a clear example of over reach. The laws already allow for punishment for certain type of illegal behaviour. The definition is so broad for this... That if I sneezed near someone and they get a fright or interpret it as aggressive; well then sorry for me, I am now being prosecuted. The constitution trumps all laws, this would seek to trump the constitution. That is a very danherous thing. I am fully against this.	Gareth	Gauteng		employed individual
	2025-12-12 07:42:33	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the proposed apartheid bill in South Africa because I believe it risks weaponising the law against innocent people instead of promoting justice and accountability. Legislation should serve to protect human rights and social cohesion, not become a tool for political or ideological targeting. Furthermore, the bill has the potential to inflame antisemitism by creating an environment in which certain communities may be unfairly singled out or vilified. South Africa's legal framework should uphold equality, safeguard minority rights, and foster genuine social unity—values this bill, in its current form, does not advance. 	2025-12-12 07:39:01	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I hereby submit my comment regarding the proposed Apartheid Bill. I strongly oppose this Bill and do not support it passing in its current form. While the intention of addressing racial discrimination is important and supported, this Bill introduces several long-term risks that outweigh its potential benefits. My concerns are as follows: 1. The Bill may unintentionally deepen racial divisions rather than address them. By framing South African society through strict racial categories, the Bill risks reinforcing the very divisions it seeks to eliminate. Effective anti-discrimination laws should promote unity, equality, and social cohesion—not create additional layers of racial classification. 2. Existing legislation already addresses racism and discrimination. South Africa has comprehensive legal tools, including the Constitution, the Equality Act, and criminal law provisions, that already empower the state to act against discrimination and hate speech. Instead of duplicating frameworks, government attention should be directed toward enforcing current laws more consistently and strengthening institutions. 3. The Bill may create broad and subjective definitions that could be abused. Certain definitions in the Bill are vague, which could lead to overly broad interpretation or misuse. Laws that restrict behaviour or speech need clear, objective standards to avoid unfair prosecutions, selective enforcement, or political misuse. 4. It may limit open debate and violate constitutional freedoms. Protecting citizens from discrimination is essential, but the Bill as drafted risks infringing on constitutional rights such as freedom of expression, academic freedom, and open political discussion. Any new law must balance protection with constitutional liberties. 5. South Africa needs solutions that address socioeconomic inequality, not only racial categorisation. The core challenges facing South Africans—poverty, unemployment, failing infrastructure, and poor quality edu	Mario	Gauteng		employed individual

We have a constitution in place that should protect all in South Africa. No evil actions now can fix the past hurts from apartheid , only an extreme minority of the South African population ever chose apartheid. If they are even still around? I am almost 40, had nothing to do with Apartheid and never in my life met anyone who supported it! Why does the influence of Apartheid still haunts people? And drives them to revenge..? It reflects low EQ in ability to overcome through the proposed decision-making and would not be in the best interest of our country for anyone really. If there is fair ruling in our country where government care truly , Freedom of speech and Freedom of choice should not even be considered to be hampered in South Africa, as a human right , and constitutionally our rights should be protected. 				Formal Submission: Opposition to the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 To: The Secretary of Parliament From: [Your Name / Organisation Name] Date: [Insert Date] Subject: Opposition to the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 (“the Bill”) 1. Position I/we strongly oppose the proposed Bill in its current form. While its stated aim — to align South African law with international conventions — may appear principled, the Bill is overly broad, dangerously vague, and practically unenforceable. If enacted as drafted, it risks criminalising lawful conduct, politicising the justice system, and undermining constitutional freedoms. 2. Core Objections Overreach and Vagueness: The Bill fails to clearly define key terms such as “racial domination” or “systematic oppression.” This opens the door to subjective interpretation and political misuse. Impossible Enforcement: Extraterritorial jurisdiction and undefined investigative mechanisms make the Bill impractical to implement and nearly impossible to enforce. Threat to Constitutional Rights: Its wide scope risks infringing on freedom of expression, association, and political activity, violating the very democratic principles South Africa stands for. Absence of Safeguards: No clear procedural or legal checks exist to prevent selective or retaliatory prosecutions. 3. Conclusion This Bill, in its current form, poses a serious threat to legal certainty, democratic discourse, and the rule of law. I/we urge Parliament to reject the Bill entirely or, at minimum, send it back for complete redrafting with clear definitions, safeguards, and constitutional review.

Do you see developed countries focusing time and attention to this meaningless, frivolous time wasting proposal. SA was the only country that stood up and owned apartheid for what it was worth. America, Australia and the eastern bloc countries also have Draconian apartheid but you don't see any action being taken by the global community. There is a natural order of separation amongst the different cultures. Whilst I don't condone apartheid, under it people at least had education, housing and job security albeit with vast disparities, but they had dignity and pride. Communities have the right to associate with whoever they choose too, based on similar and like-minded attitudes. Let the natural course of life dictate rather than trying to force your ideology on everyone. This bill will only create further negativity and resentment amongst the various communities. That means that once the current regime is no longer in place, everybody who supported the current discrimination will also be prosecuted. It is an attempt to live in the past and prevent South Africa from moving forward. It is aimed at trying to hide the inabilities of the people currently in control and blaming it on events 40 years in the past. If this member is so concerned about the past, why dont they pass bills to prosecute people who took part in the concentration camps and genocide that took place then? Or the discrimination from the English against Afrikaners, by the way, which they've put in the past and built a prosperous country. We need to move forward, not live in the past. 	2025-12-12 08:05:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I wish to raise serious concerns about the new “Crime of Apartheid Bill,” and why it appears to be an overreaching, authoritarian expansion of South Africa’s legal framework: The Bill extends the definition far beyond the UN’s 1973 Convention, covering not only systemic state oppression but also virtually any political or ideological stance. This vagueness risks criminalizing protest, foreign-policy critique, or even academic debate. It grants South African courts power to prosecute citizens—or anyone present in the country—for alleged apartheid offenses committed anywhere in the world. This “long-arm” approach is arguably unconstitutional, unworkable in practice, and almost guaranteed to intimidate our diaspora and critics. The requirement that the National Director of Public Prosecutions (NDPP) must approve any case gives the executive undue control over enforcement. This creates fertile ground for selective or politically motivated prosecutions. Civil society submissions to the “Dear South Africa” portal repeatedly flagged fears that this Bill is a “weaponization of law,” aimed at silencing dissent, criminalizing diplomacy, or mismanaging legislative priorities. Critics argue that the Bill is constitutionally vague, logistically unenforceable, and will stretch scarce judicial resources—potentially detracting from real priorities like corruption, crime, and social development. In summary, while advancing international human rights obligations is commendable, this Bill appears to do so at the cost of domestic constitutional balance, judicial independence, and civic freedoms. It centralises power, risks prosecution for vaguely defined offenses, and attempts to police opinions and foreign policy positions—narrowly targeting critics and even South African citizens abroad. I urge open debate, clarification of definitions, and safeguards to preserve freedom of speech and judicial independence before supporting any version of this legislation. It criminalises: Praying for Israel and Jerusalem preaching from 75 % of our Bible visiting the land where Jesus walked posting Scripture about God’s covenants with Israel Criminalising private Christian belief and biblical conviction is a direct violation of Sections 9, 15, 16, and 18 of our Constitution. It abuses our sacred anti-apartheid history to punish believers who stand with the Jewish people and the only democracy in the Middle East. This is not human rights legislation — it is religious persecution dressed in political clothing. Parliament must reject this bill completely and immediately. Our Constitution protects freedom of religion and expression for all South Africans. If this bill undermines those rights, then we should oppose it on constitutional grounds, not by turning it into a battle between religious communities. If any proposed bill threatens those constitutional protections, then we should oppose it on that basis: because it is unconstitutional, because it restricts freedom, and because no government has the authority to dictate a person’s conscience or theological convictions. 	2025-12-12 07:52:25	No I do not	Weaponising laws	frankly: this law is a form of oppression: *this law is politically motivated to shut opposing views. i.e, a good chunk of south africans don't agree with the idea israel is an apartheid state, while another does. each with their own reasoning. that itself is a big give away, for a country that knows what apartheid is, to be this divided on it. why must one hand have the law as a weapon against the other? thats weaponisation of the law. To avoid prosecution, a dissenting view must not be expressed, thus the dissenter's right of expression, for example, is taken away. oppression and suppression right there. 2, this law benefits and addresses nothing as far as local burdens: crime, corruption, unemployment, service delivery issues, load shedding (of which i am in one as i sit to write this) etc, it is for the benefit of out of country peoples, against south africans, and yet south africans will be paying through taxation and what not for the legal process, and enforcement of a law that shuts or jails or, fines them. make it make sense. 3, while we don't see the full text of this bill publicly yet, the language used to point to it is broad and dangerous. could these be supporting/aiding?: *voicing support for israel * matching with their flag in support * lighting a candle to remember the murdered hostages, and citizens of theirs * donating to a charity there * traveling to israel * hosting Israeli visitors *buying their products i could go on, but whether directly or indirectly, the "perpetrator" is pouring money, or vocal support. simply put, politicians must focus on serving the people of their country. something some of them have not been doing well. isn't it time to fix our country by addressing it's issues? 	2025-12-12 07:50:46	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law seems like an attempt to bring South Africa closer to a dictatorship. Yes, what is happening in Israel is awful and the war should stop, I agree with that. However, this law feels like it will spark witch hunts and create situations like the Salem Witch trials or the Red Scare from the 1960s in the United States of America. We will likely see people being falsely accused by those who do not like them or have a vendetta against them. My concern is also, why now only suggest this law? There have been hundreds of massacres and wars across the globe, but this is only being suggested now. Where was this sort of thinking when the Russia vs. Ukraine war started? This feels like an ulterior motive law, because it can be used to remove people from power quickly, by accusing them of supporting Israel.	Abigail	Free State		student

	2025-12-12 09:45:16	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose the proposed Apartheid Bill on the grounds that it is legally unsound, dangerously vague, politically weaponisable, and ultimately harmful to South Africa's democratic stability. While the intention to prevent racial oppression is noble and unquestionably aligned with our constitutional values, this bill fails the basic test of clarity, necessity, and proportionality. South Africa already criminalises apartheid under the Rome Statute Act, which provides a clear, internationally recognised legal framework. Creating a second, far broader and loosely drafted version of the crime is redundant at best and deeply destabilising at worst. The bill is drafted in vague and overly broad terms The definitions in the proposed legislation risk criminalising political opinion, foreign policy disagreements, or associations rather than concrete acts of systemic racial domination. Legislation that can be interpreted so loosely is legislation that can be abused. Laws of this magnitude demand precision—not ambiguity. It opens the door for political misuse By allowing the state to label individuals, organisations, or even foreign affiliations as "apartheid," the bill creates a legal environment where political opponents could be targeted under criminal law. South Africa has fought too hard for freedom to create mechanisms that can be turned into tools of intimidation or political score-settling.	Alex	Mpumalanga		employed individual

	2025-12-12 09:36:46	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed law aims to target South Africans who support countries where a form of apartheid is practiced. It appears that Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa seeks to apply this law in a way that could penalize Jewish South Africans for maintaining ties with Israel. If this approach is truly about addressing injustice, will it also apply to Muslims traveling to Mecca in Saudi Arabia, where women face severe restrictions and systemic inequality? Will similar measures be taken against South Africans who support the Taliban-led government in Afghanistan, despite its record of human rights violations committed under the banner of religion? And what about South Africans who support Iraq in any way, where Sharia law has been used to justify violence against women who resist segregation? Dear Mr. Ismail-Moosa, those of us who live in glass houses should be cautious about throwing stones.	Jaco	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-12 09:31:59	No I do not	Weaponising laws	There are several reasons this type of legislation should be opposed: (1) we already recognise the status of apartheid as a crime (2) once we interfere in the affairs of other countries we cease to be a democracy and become imperialist in our nature interfering in international affairs when we can't even get local problems like crime, infrastructure and the economy sorted (3) we have a strained tax base and yet we want to waste financial resources on overseas prosecutions (4) these types of wide and vague pieces of legislation hold the potential to become the breeding ground for political persecution (5) hand in hand with the last point is the constitutionally guaranteed freedoms of speech and association will be rendered pointless (6) we should be focussing our efforts and resources on decent education and developing our economy to uplift all South Africans (7) it will severely impair our international relations with trade partners to the detriment yet again of South Africans (8) the only possible lasting resolution to the Palestinian – Israeli conflict is one brokered by Palestinians and Israelis: for South Africa to think it can intervene and resolve this long standing conflict is disingenuous, hypocritical and pretentious. Fix South African problems so we can live and thrive in the present, not continue to struggle more and more 30 years into a so-called democracy.	Matthew

	2025-12-12 09:13:52	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose this bill. Apartheid is already recognised and prosecutable under South African law through the Rome Statute Act. This bill duplicates existing legislation while dangerously expanding jurisdiction to acts committed outside South Africa, which is legally unsound and practically unenforceable. Its vague definitions invite political misuse, threaten free expression, and risk turning the justice system into a tool for ideological enforcement rather than genuine accountability. At a time when South Africa faces severe crime, corruption, and economic collapse, this bill diverts attention and resources away from real, urgent problems. 	2025-12-12 09:12:27	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not support the proposed Apartheid Bill. While its stated objective is to strengthen South Africa's commitment to international justice, the Bill is constitutionally vague and risks creating far-reaching criminal liabilities without the necessary clarity or safeguards. By introducing broad and open-ended definitions, as well as extraterritorial jurisdiction that is practically unenforceable, the Bill may undermine the rule of law rather than advance it. South Africa already recognises apartheid as a crime against humanity under existing legislation, including the Rome Statute Act. Creating an additional, stand-alone offence with sweeping provisions appears unnecessary and opens the door to selective or politically motivated application. Instead of strengthening accountability it could inadvertently "weaponise" the legal framework and expose the country to legal and diplomatic complications. For these reasons I cannot support this Bill.	Darinka

	2025-12-12 09:01:34	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I am entirely against the "Apartheid" bill that is being proposed in Parliament. I am not advocating for Apartheid to be legal in any way, or for apartheid to come back at all. I am against the laws that were part of the APARTHEID history of South Africa. However; In my view this bill is anti-semitism that are dressed up in "Apartheid" wording in order to somehow garner support from anyone that has been previously disadvantaged in this country. It seeks to bypass the debate about Israel and Palestine and making support for the opposing view to their own to be silenced and to criminalise support for Israel and other causes in opposition to the government's view. This is a gross violation of freedom of speech and freedom of association that is enshrined in our Constitution. It is also in direct opposition to freedom of religion AND the view of the majority of people in this country that holds Christian beliefs in a God that is Jewish and that comes from Israel. The current ANC government officials are taking Israel to the International court making unsubstantiated claims of "APARTHEID" and other things against Israel that is not at all aligned with the facts. This is not stopping them though, and now through this Bill they are trying to criminalise anyone's opposing view, and anyone giving facts and not supporting their ideology which is based on false beliefs and a false religion. That is the ultimate deception. Stop this Farce now. The world is already looking at our country as a banana republic with incompetent international relations ministers and officials making a clownery of human rights issues and living in a fictitious world entirely made up in their head. You cannot criminalise religious views, or even cultures and age old debates about Israel and Palestine based on your own false beliefs that you got from Tik Tok and Islamic Whatsapp groups. 	2025-12-12 08:49:57	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill is a direct attack from the devil himself. He knows his days are limited and will use any method or persons to attack Christianity. It's an attack on our beliefs, an attack on our freedom of choice. Other believes have freedom, why only Christianity? Because it's the only true living believe through Jesus our Lord and Saviour and a big threat for the other believes. Jesus is alive and that's a big threat. This bill comes to take away our constitutional right to practice our believe freely. Our freedom to practice our Christianity believes will be compromised . This bill is ungodly and will undermines our right to choose. We must pray for them to see what they are busy doing and that Jesus show Himself to them.	Elizabeth	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-12 08:33:32	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I respectfully oppose the introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. While the objectives of combating discrimination and promoting human rights are universally supported, the proposed Bill risks creating significant legal and social ambiguity within South Africa’s existing constitutional and legislative framework. South Africa already possesses robust mechanisms to address discrimination, hate crimes, and human rights violations through the Constitution, the Equality Act, and the Criminal Procedure framework. Introducing additional legislation with broad and potentially overlapping definitions may lead to unintended consequences, including legal uncertainty, politicisation of complex social issues, and strain on judicial capacity. Any new legislation should strengthen social cohesion, promote clarity, and operate within the boundaries of established constitutional principles. For these reasons, I oppose this Bill. I am also a proud supporter of Israel, and oppose SAs anti-Israel stance. I am concerned that they will use this bill against Israel.	Melonie	Eastern Cape		business owner

	2025-12-12 10:29:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Jy kan hierdie comment gebruik. Copy dit as jou motivering I do not agree with the introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. The majority of this nation is and was always Christian. By even just considering this act, government is showing it's weak leadership, not in any way considering the people of South Africa, but rather to appease their masters. 	2025-12-12 10:23:00	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This draconian bill is designed to prevent freedom of speech and hence voicing of any opposition to the government and its policies. It lends itself to discriminatory practises, hence its broad nature, and is unconstitutional. This all under the guise of being an anti-discriminatory piece of legislation. It is ironic that it is called anti-apartheid legislation, when it is very much the same as the terrible old apartheid laws, inhibiting and criminalising free speech. Laws such as these also allow corruption to continue unfettered (and we already have a few such as EWC). As seen in the past here and in other countries, enacting these types of legislation are often steps towards dictatorships (eventually removing all personal freedoms). It can also criminalise the acts of ordinary, honest citizens just voicing their support for Israel. Although ostensibly tabled to prevent support of apartheid acts anywhere in the world (with an anti-Semitic focus on Israel) I feel there is a broader agenda at play, as outlined above. While al Jama-ah proposed the bill their close alignment with the ANC does raise suspicion that this is part of a final desperate attempt of the ANC and its allies to consolidate and hold onto power. Along with the current 148 race based laws, EWC etc. this law will further alienate western allies, with the resultant devastating impact on South Africa and its economy and people. It must be opposed through all legal channels and at all costs.	Cliff	Gauteng		retired

	2025-12-12 10:09:20	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The law is aimed at maliciously dictating perspectives across an entire country. This is a violation of human rights, an imposition on freedom and a belligerent attempt at forcing support for the Palestinians. This is not likely to gain more support for Palestine, either. At best, it might scare some people into silence. Not change their perspectives, but steal away their liberty to express their true thoughts. However, there's a name for rulership that is obtained and governed on the basis of fear -- terrorism. How does Palestine wish to win over sympathies while simultaneously imposing on the freedoms of people that aren't even currently in Palestinian territories? Hamas is a governing body that will stretch as far and wide as it can possibly reach to hurt and harm people both under its own government and abroad. If anything, the mere suggestion of this draft affirms that both Palestinians and the world at large will be better off without Hamas. I don't know how to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. It's not that I claim I know all the answers. This is a deeply complex issue. Human lives are affected and have been lost on both sides. This is a problem that is more grave than authorities just bickering and arguing. Real people are affected by this each day. The human cost of this conflict is incredibly saddening. However, no human cost for any conflict will ever see me gladly extending my support to a terrorist organisation that attempts to extend its reign of terror beyond its own borders. Hamas is the Taliban of Palestine. They represent evil in its highest form. They are not a force for freedom and will continue supressing freedom and shedding innocent blood even if Palestine were to obtain freedom from Israel. Afghanistan is completely independent of Israel, and yet it is not a free country.	Eliza	Gauteng

	2025-12-12 10:00:31	No I do not	Weaponising laws	It violates the constitutional protection of free speech and free association. The Bill significantly broadens the definition of "apartheid" beyond the original UN Convention, capturing a range of ideological, foreign-policy, and political speech. It has sweeping and vague definitions which risk undermining constitutional guarantees of freedom of expression and the legal certainty principle. By extending criminal enforcement to any conduct abroad by South African citizens or residents, the Bill creates unprecedented extraterritorial powers, which infringe on individual freedom and democratic expression. Contrary views on related topics may be penalized based on arbitrarily broad standards. Given the political party bringing the Bill and taking into account its Manifesto which is against Zionism, it clearly has an agenda which has a material impact on Jewish citizens of South Africa and any organisation that supports, interacts or comments on the topic of Zionism and "Apartheid". It enables the weaponization of criminal law for political ends. Ultimately, it undermines civil liberties and democratic safeguards.	Greg	Gauteng		employed individual

	2025-12-12 09:52:26	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South Africa already criminalises apartheid-type conduct through the Constitution itself, which outlaws discrimination, ensures equality before the law, and binds all legislation to the Bill of Rights. Attempting to import the 1973 UN Convention wholesale risks creating vague, open-ended offences that violate the foundational constitutional principles of legality, clarity, and separation of powers. We cannot pass laws that give prosecutors unchecked discretion, criminalise conduct with uncertain definitions, or allow extraterritorial prosecutions without strict safeguards — all of which contradict the Constitution's demand that criminal offences be clear, precise, and narrowly tailored. In short: the Constitution already provides stronger, more enforceable protections against apartheid than this Bill does. Any law that undermines constitutional certainty and the rule of law is not a step forward — it's a step backwards. This proposed Bill is in direct violation of the constitution of this country. Listen im a Muslim and im telling as somebody who has been to the middle east, this is going to fair very VERY badly for our hard fought for liberation. This is how it started in Iran in 1979. Where morality is dictated by blood-lust for Jews from Muslims in high powered office positions. This is bloody insane and goes counter to our constitution. Our country has become infested with radicalised Muslim extremist parties who espouse fundamentalism views. This is the prosecution of thought crime and goes 180° against our human rights and liberties. I do not condone apartheid but I also do not agree with jailing somebody who has a different opinion. This country is now being run by mullahs and its scaring, even me that is a Muslim. Heed my warning, this nonsense is our Islamo-fascism starts all over the world. 	2025-12-12 11:22:30	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Weaponising laws against your own people who have already suffered under the true Apartheid tenure would be adding a tremendous burden to an already suffering nation. Blessing comes from God (The G-d of Israel), in government, in education, freedom of speech and an honorable livelihood, earning a living ethically, with integrity, supporting well-being, and causing no harm. Serving the God of Israel, in truth, honoring freedom of speech and religion is what makes nations great. Not control, regulation, intimidation, communism and secularism. This government's authority, given by God, under the ANC's leadership, is being abused, used as a weapon. Firstly against Israel itself in false claims and libels, now used as a weapon to intimidate upstanding SA citizens. Alienation from Israel, is Alienation from the God of Israel. If an amendment clearly undermines entrenched rights (like equality or freedom of religion), it could be challenged and struck down by the Constitutional Court. This means you are protected from arbitrary removal of rights simply because a Bill is passed — South Africa's constitutional system has multiple safeguards: Public participation in the amendment process, Super-majority voting requirements, Provincial involvement, Judicial review by the Constitutional Court. They do not care what the population want. All they care about is suppressing and oppressing all entities who do not agree with their evil ideology. In my opinion, the only answer for South Africa, is getting rid of the ANC with their ideologs, and voting into power an entity who support Judeo Christian values, and believes in self determination based on culture. Groups such as Zulu people , Xhosa people, Boer people and many more, must be allowed to rule and manage themselves under "supervision" of a government who place the county's people first. Implementing laws such as the apartheid bill gives the ANC juristictive power to prosecute innocent people with a personal opinion and should be resisted by all means. 	2025-12-12 11:05:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose the proposed Private Member's Bill ("Apartheid Bill") for the following logical and legal reasons: 1. ⚖️ Legal Redundancy and Vagueness Redundant Crime: Apartheid is already criminalized in South African law as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002). This Bill is unnecessary and creates confusing legal overlap. Vague Definitions: The Bill's explicit intent to prosecute individuals for "supporting" apartheid acts is dangerously vague. This threatens fundamental constitutional rights, including freedom of expression and political association, by criminalizing political viewpoints. 2. ? Unenforceable Extraterritorial Jurisdiction Diplomatic Overreach: The attempt to prosecute foreign individuals for acts committed in sovereign states (e.g., Israel) represents a massive overreach that will harm diplomatic relations and invite complex international conflicts. Practical Impossibility: South African courts have no practical means, resources, or jurisdiction to investigate, secure evidence, or compel the attendance of defendants for actions committed on the other side of the globe. The law will be toothless and purely symbolic. 3. ? Misuse of State Resources Political Weapon: The Bill is openly designed as a political weapon targeting a specific foreign state, diverting the judiciary and National Prosecuting Authority from addressing South Africa's urgent domestic crime crisis (murder, rape, and corruption). Resource Drain: It wastes immense parliamentary, judicial, and financial resources on a matter that cannot be effectively enforced. The Bill is constitutionally questionable, practically unworkable, and purely intended to antagonize. It must be rejected.	Matthew	KwaZulu-Natal		self-employed

	2025-12-12 11:02:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	RSA is a Christian country. Believe it or not, like it or not, believe it or not. The cast majority of citizens in RSA are Christians. Muslim minorities all over the world are possessed with the idea of domination. They don't want to meld into that society but want to turn it into a part of their country. Christianity has its roots in Judaism and the church can never divorce itself from Israel. That is tantamountbto denying our faith. This is a diabolical piece of legislation that must be resisted in the strongest terms possible. Muslims are a minority in RSA but they get into spheres for influence to radicalise their religion. Everything is a smokescreen for domination and, sadly, the govt is complicit with them because of their ties with Iran and other middle eastern countries. Shame on the ANC and this Muslim band. 	2025-12-12 10:54:47	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I strongly oppose this Bill as it undermines South Africa's constitutional principles, serves a narrow political agenda, and risks turning our laws into weapons against international allies rather than tools for genuine justice. First, it violates the Constitution's commitment to non-racialism and equality (Section 9). The Bill's vague and expansive definition of "apartheid" could be retroactively applied to historical events or foreign policies, creating legal uncertainty and potential abuse. We already criminalize apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002) and Implementation of the Rome Statute Act (2002)—this is redundant and opens doors to frivolous prosecutions that waste judicial resources. Second, it's clearly weaponised for political gain, timed to exploit global tensions over Israel-Palestine. Al Jama-ah's intent is transparent: to target one specific nation extraterritorially, ignoring similar issues elsewhere. SA courts have no jurisdiction over foreign acts without consent, making enforcement impossible and exposing us to reciprocal lawsuits or diplomatic isolation. This isn't redress—it's grandstanding that damages our trade (e.g., with the U.S./EU, our key surplus partners) and neutral foreign policy. Finally, as a rainbow nation, we should focus on domestic healing, not importing foreign conflicts. This Bill divides rather than unites, echoing the very tribalism apartheid created. Reject it to protect our democracy.	Dirk	Limpopo		employed individual

	2025-12-12 10:41:18	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not agree with the introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. 	2025-12-12 12:09:14	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill grossly infringes on fundamental constitutional rights, including freedom of expression, freedom of opinion, freedom of speech, and freedom of belief. There is no universal agreement on the classification that Israel is an apartheid state. It is unacceptable to vilify those of us who do not hold that opinion.We all have the constitutional right to form and hold our own opinions, and many of us do not believe that Israel is an apartheid state. Disagreement on an unsettled global issue does not justify treating people as if their views are illegitimate, immoral or trying to illegalize them. This kind of hostility toward differing opinions is unjustified and deeply concerning. This bill is unconstitutional, and it sets a dangerous precedent by allowing laws to be used as political weapons. Such an approach is deeply concerning and must not be allowed to pass. 	2025-12-12 12:04:48	No I do not	Weaponising laws	am writing as a concerned South African citizen [or resident/dual citizen] to submit my strong opposition to the proposed Apartheid Bill. While I support South Africa's commitment to human rights and its accession to the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention, this bill—as outlined in the Notice of Intention—poses grave risks to our constitutional democracy. Key concerns: 1. Vagueness and Overreach: The bill's broad definitions of "abetting" or "encouraging" apartheid (per Article III of the Convention) could criminalize legitimate free speech, including criticism of the South African government, religious expressions (e.g., Christian solidarity with Israel), or support for Jewish/ Israeli causes. This directly threatens sections 15 (freedom of religion), 16 (freedom of expression), and 18 (freedom of association) of the Constitution. As noted by the SAJBD, it risks being "weaponised" without transparency. 2. Chilling Effect on Rights: Leader Ganief Hendricks' statements equating Israel support with apartheid complicity could lead to fines or imprisonment for everyday activities, like social media posts or donations, stifling dissent and targeting minorities. This extraterritorial jurisdiction for global acts is practically unenforceable and diverts resources from domestic priorities like poverty and crime. 3. Redundancy: Apartheid is already prosecutable as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), making this a duplicative and politically motivated measure that antagonizes international relations without closing any real "impunity gap." I urge you to withdraw or substantially revise the bill to include safeguards for free speech and narrow its scope. South Africa's moral authority stems from upholding universal rights for all—not selective enforcement.	Eloise	Gauteng		unemployed individual
	2025-12-12 12:04:45	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The proposed Bill is an affront to the SA people who legitimately suffered under the laws of apartheid. It is very obvious that this is nothing more than an attempt to demonise any citizen who has ties to Israel. It is antisemitic at it's core and extremely shortsighted. 	2025-12-12 11:40:03	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This draft proposal is clearly a political play against Israel in particular. If the parties who back this bill are genuinely so concerned about persecution of one race or religion then why are they not as focused on the Christians in Nigeria who are persecuted, the Rohingya in Myanmar, the Jews who who have been hounded out of nearly every Muslim country in the middle east? If the definition of apartheid is applied, then what the Jewish peoples have experienced across the middle east at the hands of Muslim governments can also be defined as apartheid if not ethnic cleansing. Our political leaders need to focus on the huge social injustices in South Africa and more importantly of the safety and prosperity of all South Africans. If what has been shared on the private news networks is true then it is clear that Iran has indeed being paying the ANC and any other political party who is prepared to be bought, to sing the tune of the Iranian government. If an amendment clearly undermines entrenched rights (like equality or freedom of religion), it could be challenged and struck down by the Constitutional Court. This means you are protected from arbitrary removal of rights simply because a Bill is passed — South Africa's constitutional system has multiple safeguards: Public participation in the amendment process, Super-majority voting requirements, Provincial involvement, Judicial review by the Constitutional Court. 	2025-12-12 11:33:37	No I do not	Weaponising laws	When discuss, write or comment on Israel and the political situation the country finds itself in, nobody ever considers God and the fact that this ongoing situation has been prophesied in theBible - old and new Testaments- long ago. God promised to reinstate the nation of Israel again and to gather his people out of all countries and bring them back into their own land. God reestablished Israel in 1948 and a steady stream of Jews are returning to Israel since then all the time. Does anybody ever acknowledge the miracle of the state of Israel today and the fact that the prophesy became true? The fact is, that this land, the land of Israel was promised to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, whom God gave the name Israel, and given to the 12 Israel tribes, when Joshua crossed the river Jordan, with borders clearly defined in the scriptures. The original size of the country included land to the east of the river. Even though not many Jewish people occupied Israel over almost 2000 years, it was never relinquished voluntarily. Only one nation in the history of the world ever received land from the Lord and that nation is Israel, the nation that God calls “my people “. The world must remember that God is watching over Israel and even if Israel’s staunch supporters like the USA had to turn their backs on the Jewish people, this nation will never be alone or abandoned by God. Just watch and see! What is it, that this tiny piece of land, that laid desolate for so long, grabs the attention of the world in such a manner?	Rudi			retired

	2025-12-12 11:31:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	One must ask what is the motive and purpose. The proposed Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 (commonly referred to as the "Apartheid Bill") aims to incorporate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African domestic law, making the crime of apartheid a distinct, stand-alone offense with extraterritorial jurisdiction. The purposes and objectives of the bill are outlined as follows: To operationalise South Africa's accession to the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention and provide the legal framework for its enforcement in local courts. To enable South African courts to prosecute individuals accused of committing or supporting apartheid acts globally, including within South Africa. To primarily target the situation in the Occupied Palestinian Territories, with proponents stating the bill's intention to enable legal action against those involved in apartheid practices against Palestinians. To establish apartheid as a distinct crime, separate from existing laws, potentially creating a lower threshold for prosecution focused on "institutionalised regimes of systematic oppression". To address ongoing systemic racial inequities and the legacy of apartheid within South Africa. Context of the Bill. Introduced as a private member's bill by the Al Jama-ah party, the bill is supported by parties including the ANC, EFF, and MK Party. However, the bill is controversial and opposed by parties like the DA, who see it as "lawfare" and a potential risk to South Africa's foreign policy and freedom of speech. Bottom line a segment of South African are consumed with HATE no different to HAMAS and Fanatics world wide.	Lionel	Outside SA	United Kingdom	employed individual

I wonder how those who suffered through it would feel about this mockery of what they endured; by comparing it to what is happening in Israel? Anyone studying the facts of South African history and current events in the Middle East knows that there is no comparison. How can you be allowed to take a term like 'apartheid' and strip it of all meaning? Who are you?	Carolyn			retired

	2025-12-12 12:48:55	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Weaponising laws against your own people who have already suffered under the true Apartheid tenure would be adding a tremendous burden to an already suffering nation. Blessing comes from God (The G-d of Israel), in government, in education, freedom of speech and an honorable livelihood, earning a living ethically, with integrity, supporting well-being, and causing no harm. Serving the God of Israel, in truth, honoring freedom of speech and religion is what makes nations great. Not control, regulation, intimidation, communism and secularism. This government's authority, given by God, under the ANC's leadership, is being abused, used as a weapon. Firstly against Israel itself in false claims and libels, now used as a weapon to intimidate upstanding SA citizens. Alienation from Israel, is Alienation from the God of Israel. We need to uphold the values of the Western World or usher in an ultimate agenda of an Islamic Caliphate. The Islamic Caliphate is implemented either by law or by violence.	Candice	Gauteng

This “Apartheid Bill,” that is a Private Member’s Bill, introduced by Al Jama-ah, seeks to incorporate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law. This new Bill would criminalize individuals whom authorities suspect of having any connection to Israel and its alleged - yet entirely unfounded - “apartheid” against Palestinians. South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002). Your total aim, and that of Al Jama-ah, is to establish it as a stand-alone offense with broader, more expansive definitions and extraterritorial jurisdiction. This is purely a one-sided politically driven motive. The main political driver, for you and Al Jama-ah, is the global “solidarity with the Palestine movement". "The Bill" is explicitly crafted to enable South African courts to prosecute individuals - including dual citizens - accused of committing or supporting alleged apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear and unmistakable focus on Israel and the territories under dispute. This is an attempt at State capture and the capture of the South African Legislature and Courts. In my capacity as a proud South African I oppose this proposed "The Bill". I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. 	2025-12-12 13:51:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I must express strong concern regarding the proposed legislation, often referred to as the “new apartheid bill.” Any law that appears to divide South Africans along racial, economic, or social lines—rather than promote equality—stands in direct conflict with the spirit and purpose of our Constitution. South Africa’s legal and moral framework is built on non-racialism, dignity, equality, and freedom. Legislation that risks recreating discrimination, regardless of the form it takes or the justification presented, threatens these foundational principles. Our history has taught us the severe consequences of policies that separate and disadvantage groups of people, and it is essential that we never return to systems that enable exclusion or unequal treatment. A democratic government should prioritise legislation that uplifts all citizens, strengthens social cohesion, and promotes fairness without creating new forms of division. Any bill that undermines unity or embeds inequality cannot be supported and should be reconsidered in favour of solutions that address South Africa’s challenges without compromising constitutional rights. 	2025-12-12 13:36:47	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I hereby submit my strong objection to the proposed Bill on the following grounds: 1. Legal Redundancy: South Africa already has a robust legal framework for prosecuting international crimes, including apartheid, under the Implementation of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court Act 27 of 2002. Creating a parallel piece of legislation is unnecessary and clutters the statute book. 2. Legal Uncertainty: The definitions of apartheid in the 1973 Convention (which this Bill seeks to domesticate) differ from those in the Rome Statute. Enacting this Bill will create conflicting definitions within South African law, leading to legal uncertainty and potential constitutional challenges. 3. Misplaced Priorities: The South African criminal justice system is currently overburdened and under-resourced in dealing with domestic crime. Prioritizing resources for a new universal jurisdiction mechanism for extraterritorial crimes is functionally impractical and not in the national interest. I urge Parliament to reject this Bill. 	2025-12-12 13:25:28	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Enforceability: Legal experts raise concerns about the practicality of South African courts prosecuting crimes committed entirely on foreign soil. Investigating a crime in a hostile foreign jurisdiction (e.g., gathering evidence in Gaza or the West Bank without Israeli cooperation) is practically impossible. Trial in Absentia: If the accused does not enter South Africa, the law may be toothless, serving only as a symbolic gesture rather than an effective legal tool. The NDPP “Gatekeeper” Clause: The Bill requires the written consent of the National Director of Public Prosecutions (NDPP) before any prosecution can start. Concern: Supporters fear this could lead to political interference where the state blocks prosecutions to avoid diplomatic embarrassment. Conversely, opponents fear a “rogue” NDPP could authorise politically motivated prosecutions. Fracturing the GNU: The Bill is championed by a “Progressive Caucus” (including ANC, EFF, MK) but opposed by key members of the Government of National Unity (GNU), specifically the DA and FF+. 	2025-12-12 13:22:59	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Every citizen has the constitutionally protected right to freedom of speech and may support or oppose whichever country or movement they wish. This bill aims to restrict freedom of speech and to force a specific political and religious agenda onto South African citizens. This effort should rather be focused on bettering life for South African citizens instead of wasting time, money and other resources on trying to punish people for their beliefs. This bill will do nothing to stop any conflict in the middle east and is purely a political show and a method of controlling citizens of South Africa. South Africa has fought hard for the last 30+ years to become a community free from discrimination and segregation. This bill seems to spit in the face of all people who worked to achieve this by weaponising "Apartheid".	Ruan

	2025-12-12 13:12:08	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Targeting Israel: The Bill is widely understood to be a strategic move to target the State of Israel and its officials. Critics, including the Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+), view this as "lawfare"—using the legal system to fight foreign policy battles. There are fears that this could strain South Africa's diplomatic relations with key trading partners who are allies of Israel (e.g., the US and UK). "Apartheid State" Designation: By formally domesticating the crime of Apartheid as a stand-alone offense, the Bill creates a legal framework to label specific foreign nations as "Apartheid States." This could force the South African government into diplomatic corners, obliging them to arrest visiting dignitaries from those nations, similar to the controversy surrounding the ICC and Omar al-Bashir. Extraterritorial Jurisdiction (The "Long Arm"): Enforceability: Legal experts raise concerns about the practicality of South African courts prosecuting crimes committed entirely on foreign soil. Investigating a crime in a hostile foreign jurisdiction (e.g., gathering evidence in Gaza or the West Bank without Israeli cooperation) is practically impossible. Trial in Absentia: If the accused does not enter South Africa, the law may be toothless, serving only as a symbolic gesture rather than an effective legal tool. The NDPP "Gatekeeper" Clause: The Bill requires the written consent of the National Director of Public Prosecutions (NDPP) before any prosecution can start. Concern: Supporters fear this could lead to political interference where the state blocks prosecutions to avoid diplomatic embarrassment. Conversely, opponents fear a "rogue" NDPP could authorise politically motivated prosecutions. Support Opposition & Challenges Coalition: ANC, EFF, MK, Al Jama-ah, PAC, GOOD. Political Opposition: The Democratic Alliance (DA) and Freedom Front Plus (FF+) have historically opposed describing Israel as an "apartheid state" and have voted against similar	Leon			employed individual

	2025-12-12 14:43:04	No I do not	Weaponising laws	South Africa appears to be moving toward an extreme position with a new bill that would criminalize individuals whom authorities suspect of having any connection to Israel and its alleged - yet entirely unfounded - “apartheid” against Palestinians. Mr. Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, acting under section 73(2) of the Constitution of the Republic of South Africa, 1996, intends to introduce the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025 (“the Bill”) in Parliament. This “Apartheid Bill,” a Private Member’s Bill introduced by Al Jama-ah, seeks to incorporate the 1973 UN Apartheid Convention into South African law. Although South Africa already recognizes apartheid as a crime against humanity under the Rome Statute Act (2002), this new Bill aims to establish it as a stand-alone offense with broader, more expansive definitions and extraterritorial jurisdiction. Its main political driver is the global “solidarity with Palestine” movement. The Bill is explicitly crafted to enable South African courts to prosecute individuals - including dual citizens - accused of committing or supporting alleged apartheid acts anywhere in the world, with a clear and unmistakable focus on Israel	Sylvia

	2025-12-12 14:13:41	No I do not	Weaponising laws	The bill specifically targets individuals and organizations supporting Israel, potentially criminalizing various forms of engagement and violating constitutional protections against singling out groups for adverse treatment. The bill could limit freedom of speech by penalizing activities labelled as "apartheid activities," even if they involve "defending minority rights" or "PR stunts". An attempt to exploit South Africa's apartheid history to target the Jewish community. This law could force a "political policing" of an individual's opinions and foreign ties, potentially persecuting religious groups that hold theological or personal convictions involving support for Israel. Christian concerns surrounding this bill are primarily related to potential implications for freedom of speech and association, especially concerning South African Christians who support the state of Israel, as the party who proposed this bill is Muslim. This will open the door wide to Islam which we have seen is not a religion that seeks peace. Could damage South Africa's relationships with key trading partners and allies of Israel, potentially leading to sanctions or reduced tourism and investment. Potential diplomatic issues if South Africa were required to arrest visiting officials from countries designated as "apartheid states" under this law. I question the practicality and legality of the bill's extraterritorial jurisdiction, which would allow South African courts to prosecute individuals for crimes committed anywhere in the world. Investigative resources on complex international cases could detract from addressing domestic crime. raises concerns about potential political interference when the National Director of Public Prosecutions are required to consent to prosecutions. We have criminals, mafias, syndicates, thieves, traffickers, illegal persons, unlawful persons, unpunished crimes, political influence, police malfunction, state deterioration, resources abuse and wastage. I believe a law of this nature skillfully turns the attention of the public in the wrong direction, whilst the above continues. There are enough laws to punish crime, there's none to implement it. We don't need a law like this to become bloodthirsty bloodhounds anew. Deal with current problems urgently for the days are coming when you will be removed from your position of power which you think is permanent.	Jerome

	2025-12-12 16:03:16	No I do not	Weaponising laws	We can't win against the jewish lobby group which is the most financially powerful in the world. Jew's are the richest in the world. Jew's run the world, simply because they control the global financial flows system. They own and control most of the world's global banks, including those inside the US. Jew's control the US finacial system. They are gripping the US by it's ball's. Also the US is nothing without the trillion's of jewish money. This is why the US can't separate itself from Israel. Jewish capital is gripping the US by it's ball's. So US has no choice but to tow the line of the Jewish Lobby. For a small country like SA going toe to toe with the Jewish Lobby group is suicide. Most of us agree that, there is genocide there, but right now SA needs to focus it's resources and mind in the economic development of SA. A country can have political freedom like SA but remain poor. Poverty means being irrelevant & non influential on the global stage. SA needs to focus internally on it's economic development priorities, which will lead to our economic freedom and to us being a wealthy country. Only at that stage will we be in a position in global powerful events. True power to a country, only comes once economic financial success has been achieved. The US since from 1945 has built it's economy and became a global political superpower since then, which dictated global events, because of the economic power it achieved. Economic power gave the US it's military power, because it had financial resources to build the world's biggest well resourced army. SA must stop poking the big sleeping bear(the US), which has a jewish financial leash around it's neck. Jewish capital fattened this bear (the US) and they control it. SA has started to provoke the sleeping bear and this is not to our economic interests. Other countries will not come to our assistance once the bear wakes up & goes on a rampage in SA. 				No, I do not support the draft Apartheid Bill as published by the Al Jamah-ah party. My concern is not about choosing sides in a foreign conflict, but about the principle and purpose of our laws in South Africa. I believe the Bill weaponises law, and here is why: 1. It targets a specific foreign country rather than addressing issues within South Africa. Our legislation should protect and serve South Africans. Not a law aimed at Israel while we face critical challenges such as unemployment, crime, load shedding, and corruption feels misaligned with the country's urgent priorities. 2. It frames a complex international conflict in a one-sided way. The Israel–Palestine situation has resulted in suffering for both Israelis and Palestinians, including women and children on both sides. Singling out one country as the sole perpetrator oversimplifies a deeply complicated conflict and risks turning South African law into a political tool rather than an instrument of justice. 3. It encourages division inside our own country. South Africa is diverse, with citizens who hold different views. A law that favours one side of a foreign conflict can create unnecessary tension and polarization here at home, where unity and stability are already fragile. 4. It shifts our focus away from national priorities. South Africans need leadership and legislation that address local crises. Becoming overly involved in foreign disputes especially through emotionally charged or reactive lawmaking distracts from improving the lives of our own people. 5. It opens the door to selective justice and political bias. If we create laws based on selective sympathy or political preference toward one nation over another, we risk creating a precedent where international conflicts are used for domestic political gain. That is not a healthy direction for our legal system. In summary: I reject the Bill because it uses South African law to take sides in a foreign conflict, applies

	2025-12-12 16:59:49	No I do not	Weaponising laws	I do not agree with the introduction of the Implementation of the International Convention on the Suppression and Punishment of the Crime of Apartheid Bill, 2025. I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. 	2025-12-12 16:29:30	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This current political party who wants this bill to be implemented is making itself guilty of not wanting to recognise other people's rights, viewpoints, freedoms the same as they accuse past political parties of. They cant't point a finger as they make themselves are guilty. All sorts of things can cause barriers between families, people, nations not just political differences. People buy with their money to live on "islands" of their own & choose to mix with who they want to mix. This is one example. I see in many other nations & their histories examples of social segregation. Even in normal everyday life with families & people around you. Not just in South Africa. The idea of apartheid was originally not meant for evil, but a solution for different types of people in South Africa to develop their own regions to enable them to rule over themselves in their own constituencies or regions. Look at all the examples as part of South African history - Zululand, Transkei, Lesotho, Swaziland, Ciskei, Botswana, etc. Rule over themselves. A lot of money, help, resources were given to these regions to develop themselves. Hundreds of Hospitals, schools, religious buildings, universities, infrastructures, all sorts of developments, etc. took place. Social life & structures existed before " apartheid era" that caused people to live in separate areas. Throughout world's history people with money can buy properties where only the rich can live & so it is part of global life that certain peolpe live & mix only with certain people. Look at the social class systems that exist globally where "apartheid" is not on their books . One class of people don't mix with other class, etc. Look at the social caste system in India & other countries. They still exist up to today. Then they must be classified as "apartheid" as well. Bill = hypocrisy You must be mature enough to also try & understand other sides of the coins & not just your own side. Their are often deeper complexities.	Margaretha

I object to the premise and intent of this Bill, and I question by what mandate Mr Imraan Ismail-Moosa, MP, assumes the authority to decide or speak on my behalf as a South African citizen. South Africa is a constitutional democracy founded on individual rights, accountability, and the rule of law. Re-introducing legislation framed around apartheid, decades after its legal dismantling, risks deepening division rather than fostering unity, reconciliation, and forward-looking governance. I am concerned that this Bill may be politically motivated, selectively framed, and disconnected from the lived realities and priorities of many South Africans today — including economic stability, service delivery, crime, healthcare, and education. I therefore formally submit that I do not support this Bill and request that Parliament carefully consider whether this proposed legislation truly serves the interests of all South Africans, rather than advancing ideological or political agendas. 	2025-12-12 18:12:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	As the leader of the Weenen Pastoral Fraternal, I am compelled to express our collective concern and disappointment regarding the Al Jama-ah party's proposed bill, which we believe undermines Christian values and principles. We acknowledge the importance of respecting diverse perspectives and promoting peaceful coexistence. However, we cannot ignore the potential harm this bill may cause to our community and the broader society. As Christians, we believe in the inherent dignity and worth of every human being, and we are committed to upholding the principles of justice, compassion, and love. We urge our leaders to prioritize the well-being and safety of all citizens, regardless of their faith or background. We also wish to emphasize that the right to freedom of expression and association is fundamental, and this includes the right to support Israel or any other nation or people seeking justice and peace. We believe that Al Jama-ah party should not interfere with anybody's right to support Israel against any unfair victimization by any power. In the same spirit, we Christians should oppose anyone or power that unfairly victimizes another power or anyone else. We believe that justice and compassion should be applied equally to all, and that no one should be above the law or immune to criticism. We stand in solidarity with our fellow Christians and all individuals who share our concerns. We will continue to pray, advocate, and work towards promoting understanding, tolerance, and justice in our community. We call upon our government to engage in open and inclusive dialogue, ensuring that the rights and concerns of all citizens are respected and addressed. May we, as people of faith, be a beacon of hope and a voice for the voiceless, promoting a society that values love, justice, and peace for all.	Muzuyathuthuka Peace	KwaZulu-Natal		retired

It's an absolute abuse of power, weaponising laws that will inevitably drag this country into a war that has nothing to do with us. This stems out of bribes, spite and hatred. If you want to help or fight a different country then fly to that country, get your citizenship and stay there. We're not interested in being involved in this load of crap. The honest, peace loving people of this country is GATVOL for politicians putting their noses where they don't belong and dragging the rest of us into the situation - we're the ones who sit with the consequences. These laws are also unconstitutional - it's a gateway to a police state / dictatorship; will be abused and expanded upon if passed and run this country further into the ground. 	2025-12-12 17:24:36	No I do not	Weaponising laws	My opposition to this law is that the proposed law violates rights to freedom of speech, freedom expression and freedom of choice of Faith and freedom of association. No political party should be able to encroach upon the practicing of Faith, religion or personal conviction. For the government to accept and adopt the proposed bill, would not only violate the constitution of South Africa, it would violate the common trust between communities and thus pave the way for the adoption of Sharia Law in South Africa. The concepts and the basis of Sharia Law are counter cultural to South Africa as a whole and any push by any Islamic organization to further sour relationships with the Jewish people and Israel will have disastrous effects upon the Republic of South Africa. I further ask that MP Imraan Ismail-Moosa be investigated for links to terrorism and that he be asked to step down. I also beseech that the Al Jamah-ah party be struck off the voting role and recognized as a terrorist organization that seeks to destabilize the Republic of South Africa from within and that they are fully investigated and audited and if found to have links to terrorism that the citizenship of its members be revoked and that their party members are sent into exile outside of the Republic of South Africa	Piet			unemployed individual

Although the bill claims to be anti racist , by targeting a particular race it is profoundly racist and absurdly so against one of the very few democratic nations in the region . The fact that Jewish people have been targeted and persecuted as a race for thousands of years should if anything give this people particular protection. 	2025-12-12 17:11:06	No I do not	Weaponising laws	On Al Jamah's and those that support his bill own version and modus operandi, they are instigating apartheid, by trying to separate those who support Israel and imprisoning them from people who are anti Israel and thus they will be given privilege. There is thus an unequal balance, which is a breach of the constitution and human rights. Israel is not an apartheid state, it is a nation that has and keeps defending itself against terrorist. Those who propose this bill are using it as an excuse to attack Israel and therefore they must be investigated to ensure that they have no ties with Iran or any other country that operates terrorists organizations or anti Israel propoganda. It is concerning that anti Israel nations who have attacked Israel, have so much of intrest in South Africa. Al Jama's bill is a direct attack and assault on Christianity, which supports and loves Israel as it is viewed as the holy land and it is also an attack on freedom of speech and the right of freedom of expression. This bill cannot clasify Israel as an apartheid state, as that is merely an opinion. This bill will solely serve as a facist agenda, propoganda and an attempt to brainwash and to introdoctinate. It is unlawful, unconstitutional, socialistic, dictating and very dangerous as they want to regulate South African citizens in a democratic republic.	Marius	Gauteng		unemployed individual

	2025-12-12 18:56:04	No I do not	Weaponising laws	1. The Bill Violates Core Constitutional Rights The language of the Bill criminalises legitimate religious, cultural, familial, and political ties to Israel. It infringes on freedoms of expression, association, religion, and movement—all of which are explicitly protected under the Constitution. South Africans cannot be punished for their political views or identity. 2. The Bill Disproportionately Targets the Jewish Community By framing Zionism as criminal, the Bill turns a core aspect of Jewish identity into grounds for suspicion and legal exposure. Whether intentional or not, the practical effect is discriminatory and deeply antisemitic. No minority community should be placed under state-backed ideological scrutiny. 3. The Bill Creates Dangerous Extraterritorial Powers The Bill allows prosecution of South Africans for lawful actions taken abroad—studying, working, volunteering, or visiting family in Israel. This type of extraterritorial criminalisation is incompatible with a democratic legal system and invites political abuse. 4. The Bill Undermines South Africa's Diplomatic and Economic Interests The legislation exposes Israelis and Jewish visitors to legal harassment and politicised complaints, jeopardising trade, tourism, investment, academic partnerships, and international cooperation. 5. The Bill Will Be Weaponised for Harassment and Lawfare Even without prosecutions, the Bill empowers activist groups to file vexatious complaints, intimidate Jewish institutions, pressure schools and youth movements, and target individuals for their beliefs. The process itself becomes punishment. 6. The Bill Fuels Social Division and Antisemitism By singling out a minority community's connection to its heritage, the Bill legitimises hostility, emboldens extremists, and threatens social cohesion. South Africa should never repeat the mistakes of its past by enabling identity-based persecution. Conclusion The Apartheid Bill does not advance human rights. Some families are still struggling to get into terms with how their loved ones were murdered and need answers and perpetrators must pay for their sins. I am still suffering with PhD, still managed by white unlearned managers who treat me like a maid. My salary is only adjusted by R410 for submission of my PhD. The blood of our ancestors are bleeding through our hearts. There must be consequences for our struggle. We still suffer unfair bank discrimination where we pay more interest than whites. I paid up my car with Nedbank, and I was told I need to pay more installment if I want my papers. Moreover, the consultant was clear with her reasons that I am not the only one. That day alone, there were 4 black women she had to explain the same thing. I refused, it was 2022, until this day I haven't received my car documents. Hence, I stand against this Bill. If an amendment clearly undermines entrenched rights (like equality or freedom of religion), it could be challenged and struck down by the Constitutional Court. This means you are protected from arbitrary removal of rights simply because a Bill is passed — South Africa’s constitutional system has multiple safeguards: Public participation in the amendment process, Super-majority voting requirements, Provincial involvement, Judicial review by the Constitutional Court. 	2025-12-12 20:28:46	No I do not	Weaponising laws	We live in a country that speaks Freedom But underneath there's Oppression. We have the right as citizens of SA to choose whom we want to support without being dictated by government. If we truly done with aoertheid we need to look at how it affect our country. Government should be looking and finding ways to solve the problem in our own country instead of focusing on issues that do not concern them much. ISRAEL has the RIGHT to fight any country that poses as a threat to their community and nation. We are coming from our own fights and we have soooo many broken families that we are still finding ways to heal. We see what is going on with Government. Our GOD will fight for His inheritance. HELP will come where you list expect. WOE to you SA officials that sleep in the same bed as terrerorist, they will come against you, destroy your beloved country and your children and families. Touch ISRAEL you are touching GOD on his apple of the eye and He will fight back for us all in the end. I believe freedom is for all not for certain individuals or parties. Leave to support whomever we wish to just as you do with Palestine.	Vuyiseka	Western Cape		employed individual

	2025-12-12 20:23:15	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This draft bill is nonsensical. Apartheid was a specific South African policy. The situation between Israel and the Palestinians is totally different . The Palestinians instigated the aggression against Israel in October 2023 and did not expect Israel to react the way it did. To make a person's opinion towards Israel punishable by law is ridiculous. It is totally against freedom of opinion that is a right of every person. And the next open question is: who is going to enforce this law? The legal system in this country is already seriously undermined by the destruction of capacity to enforce laws, the weakening of the NPA, which cannot even prosecute the people found guilty by the Zondo commission. How an Apartheid Bill is going to get enforced is anybody's guess. Are you going to arrest everybody coming off a flight from Tel Aviv landing at OR Tambo? No, this draft Bill should be voted down in Parliament, if we do not want to become the laughing stock of the world.	Nellie	Western Cape		retired

	2025-12-12 20:18:41	No I do not	Weaponising laws	With all due respect, this draft bill is nonsensical. Apartheid was a specific South African policy, in the same way as Segregation was the term used in America for similar policies. The situation between Israel and the Palestinians is totally different and should get another name. The Palestinians instigated the aggression against Israel in October 2023 and did not expect Israel to react the way it did. To make a person's opinion towards Israel punishable by law is ridiculous. It is totally against freedom of opinion that is a right of every person. And the next open question is: who is going to enforce this law? 	2025-12-13 06:35:58	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill basically will ultimately lead to criminalisation of any Judaio-Christian principles that do not align with a religion that in many countries, ultimately practices far worse atrocities against those who do not align with its beliefs and dogmas, with wholesale slaughter of Christians, Jews and often other minority groups, while the world remains silent. This law if passsd, will be yet another tool to criminalise any religion that does not ultimately align with Islam. Our S African constitution allows freedom of religion. This law if passed would deny such freedom, and could lead to the banning of Christian literature, the Christian Bible, the Jewish Torah and other scriptures not to mention the denying of freedom of speech within those religions not aligning with Islam, (Anything that is seen by a probably biased group of people , that refers to Israel or the Jewish people, in a positive light) . But they themselves (Those pushing for the introduction of this law) are also guaranteed the right and freedom to practice their religion by the S African Constitution . This in turn would just create another different form of Apartheid, and a tool to silence those who do not agree with their religious viewpoint, and a means to advance their own religious agenda. 	2025-12-13 06:09:08	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This is political over reach that is encroaching on the constitution and the right of an individual to be affiliated to any religious beliefs or organisation. It is deliberately set up to ensure that only Christians are targeted, silenced, and dealt with as it is irrevocable that their beliefs are rooted in Israel and people emanating from there. So looking at this bill you want to silence all mention of Israel, both in the public and private space, inside and outside borders all in the name of criminalising the mention, support and respect for Israel. Is this the best possible way of doing things? The bill in its form is blatantly anti Christian, seeking to destroy, persecute, erase, and silence the Christian faith as we know it today. This attack on the history and the vestiges of the Christian faith should not be allowed to see the light of day, for an attempt to weaponise legislation in this manner is downright dangerous, malicious and irresponsible. The passing of this bill opposes the mandate of the constitution to protect and preserve the people of this nation. 	2025-12-13 06:04:32	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This proposed bill is an attempt to criminalise and prosecute those who defend and fight for Israel literally or in words or other ways. In effect it seeks to criminalise Zionists, those who believe in the rights of the Jews to their ancient homeland. In actual fact, those who seek to attack Zionists are the actual racists! To accuse Israel of being guilty of practicing apartheid is duplicity of the highest level. Israel's laws endorse the protection of all who live in the State of Israel. The human rights abuses in many nations world-wide should be the focus of SA and the international community"s "condemnation resolutions". Israel is an example, which our nation should emulate in many areas, instead of singling her out for condemnation.	Dominic	KwaZulu-Natal

	2025-12-12 22:04:07	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This law is meant to silence Christian belief in the hope of pushing Islam. The very roots of Christianity stems from Israel during the time of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and even the prophets. Therefore, to not speak about Israel as a pastor, minister, prophet is just impossible! Just like all Muslims have the right to stand up for their beliefs so do Christians. Instead of trying to silence Christians who pursue righteousness, peace, and joy, with the hidden motive/agenda of trying to further Islam, how about raising our voices against the brutal murders that take place everyday in our communities, the victims of rape and abuse, gangsterism, possessions of illegal firearms, drug addiction and alcohol abuse that is killing and destroying our youth by the second, unemployment that is throughthe roof, poverty, education and list goes on. 	2025-12-13 12:29:12	No I do not	Weaponising laws	This bill is premised on false infprmation and on false pretenses. The accusation of Israel is an apartheid state is false. Therefore the enacting of this proposed bill has no credibility and the harm this bill will result in is entirely unknown. Any ill that potentially jeopardizes our democratic rights is to be carefully scrutinized. South Africa has a constitution that is very concentrated on preserving our citizens' rights. Dont allow this party to make a mockery of the constitution by feeding it false premises in order to turn the country in on itself and dismember what has taken us 30years to build and nurture. 	2025-12-13 12:21:57	No I do not	Weaponising laws	Before passing legislation about apartheid, first find out what the true objective actually is. The intended target of this legislation, which on the surface appears perfectly laudable, is obviously Israel. However, a modicum of research into Israeli society would show you that there is no apartheid in Israel. This campaign of ignorant disinformation plays directly into the hands of the Islamist jihadi terrorists who are Hamas and Hezbollah. Do you want Al Shabab in South Africa?
